Heat Wave Ends, No Return Visit Likely This Year Should Be All for 1959 Weatherman's Forecast

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A cold front was moving eastward across Ontario today and temperatures were steadily dropping.

Within an hour late this morning the temperature in North Bay plunged to 55 from 78. Toronto went from 80 to 70 and Hamilton from 79 to 73, Niagara Falls, Ont., was 73 and dropping.

Windsor was 61 at 11 a.m. EDT today and the temperature there was expected to hold steady until tonight. The Ottawa area was still warm—68 degrees—but the cold front was due there late this afternoon.

The end of Ontario's stifling heat wave was welcomed by citizens who have sizzled and sweated for days.

Refreshing cool winds which swept down from the northwest during the night were the cause for relief.

For those who baked in furnace-like temperatures in Toronto, the weatherman had these soothing words: "That should be all we see, but tomorrow's weather for this year."

The hot spell touched all kinds of records. It was an oppressive 93 in Toronto Wednesday, a record for the date, and 80 in Kenora and Windsor 90. The hottest spot in Ontario was in the Eastern Ontario village of Stirling 14 miles northwest of Belleville. It hit 96 degrees.

OTHERS LUCKY

Other parts of Canada were lucky. Vancouver had a 63, Edmonton 65, Saskatoon 67, Winnipeg 56, Fredericton 80, Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., 70. Montreal, however, was hit with an 86.

Moosonee, in Northern Ontario, was in for an amazing drop in temperature. It was 90 there Wednesday. It was forecast for today, with a frosty 30 tonight.

Some folks, the brewers and the cream manufacturers, were happy.

Brewers' Warehousing Company said retail sales in July amounted to 4,000,000 gallons and early September figures were not available but a spokesman said the decline in demand has been constant since July.

Ice cream manufacturers reported July and August were records. Sales in Toronto to Monday of Canada were sent home to cool off.

Chubby, just west of Oshawa, on Ontario Supreme Court business, was adjourned because of the heat.

SURPLUS FOR FRANCE

PARIS (Reuters) — France had an export surplus of 14,000,000,000 francs ($28,000,000) in August as exports exceeded imports by about 10 per cent, the finance ministry said today. The import-export ratio was the highest percentage ever.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Ontario's record - breaking heat wave is at an end. Much cooler air moved in this morning and was expected to cover the province by afternoon. Thundershowers occurred along the leading edge of the cold air as it displaced the moist tropical air lying in its path. Temperatures will drop abruptly to the comfortable 70s in Southern Ontario and to the chilly 50s in the northern communities. Temperatures tonight are forecast to drop to near 50 in Southern Ontario and to 30 in more northerly regions.

Montreal Man Fatally Shot, Others Wounded

MONTREAL (CP)—Police reported a 31-year-old youth was killed in a night club early today in one of five separate shooting incidents in the city. One man was arrested and another was wounded.

Norman Primo'te, 21, a waiter, was the fatality. He was struck under the chin by a shot fired by one of three men in a downtown Windsor Street club.

Witnesses told police the three men joined Primote at a table, a gunshot sounded and the trio bounded for the door. Club employees held unsuccessfully to stop them.

There was no indication whether any of the shootings were related.

At 4 a.m., Maurice Bouchard, 31, was struck in the legs and abdomen by three shots on suburban St. Dominique Street.

He was taken to hospital in critical condition.

Det.-Lt. Roland Perron said Bouchard told him: "I don't know who shot me or how many there were. But I'll take care of them myself when I get out."

Ottawa Father Found Guilty Of Killing Tot

OTTAWA (CP) — Royal Beaudin, charged with murder in the beating death of his four-year-old daughter, Suzanne, was convicted of manslaughter Wednesday by an all-male jury.

Sentence will be imposed next Wednesday.

Beaudin, 24, an unemployed lumber grader, was convicted on the reduced charge after a 90-minute deliberation. His daughter, one of five Beaudin children, died March 30 and two pathologists testified at the end-day trial in Ontario Supreme Court that she ohad suffered a heavy beating before death.

Death was attributed to loss of blood from a ruptured liver, with multiple injuries on her face, arms, stomach, chest and back. One doctor said he believed the death injury could have been caused by a heavy blow or such heavy objects as a broomstick as would have resulted from one kick or blow.

Neighbor Robert Ducharme also testified that Beaudin came into his home March 30 exclaiming, "Bob, I've killed my daughter Suzanne." Back in the Beaudin home, Ducharme said, he found Suzanne lying on the floor clad only in a T-shirt. He had called Mrs. Beaudin who was absent baby-sitting and the father had vanished.

The girl was dead on arrival at hospital.

Alan Jarvis, Art Director at Ottawa, Resigns

At Loggerheads With Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Alan Jarvis has resigned as director of the National Gallery for a job that will key him in a position to encourage art appreciation in Canada.

He was elected chairman of the Society for Art Publications Wednesday, only minutes after word of his resignation leaked out.

An announcement by the society said the meeting said a national campaign headed by Mr. Jarvis will open Oct. 1 to encourage membership and co-ordinate and finance new and existing efforts in the field of art publications and reproductions. It said there is a growing demand to them.

Citizenship Minister Fairclough confirmed the letter had been received and accepted the resignation of Mr. Arvis, whose outspoken and determined ways had on occasion brought him to loggerheads with the government.

PURCHASES VETOED

He is reported to have offered his resignation in the spring of 1958 after the cabinet vetoed gallery plans to purchase two paintings for $40,000.

Mr. Jarvis said Wednesday that the gallery has been unable to be relieved of administrative burdens" in order to concentrate on expansion in the field of Canadian art where I feel there is useful work to be done."

Mrs. Fairclough's statement said that during his tenure in office the gallery has grown in activity and prestige and your name will be associated with that growth."

The handsome Greenford - born director, 50, leaves as the gallery is moving from cramped quarters in the Victory Memorial Museum to the new seven-storey Lorne Building in downtown Ottawa. The gallery was closed Tuesday and the move is to be completed by Oct. 1.

The resignation is effective Sept. 30, nine months before his five-year contract expires.

SPARKED ADVANCES

In taking over the stepped-up the gallery's extension program, initiated by predecessor Dr. H. O. McCurry, he launched an intensive series of speaking engagements and a publicity campaign that drew attention on the gallery's collections.

Purchases for gallery staff to and the annual budget to $100,000, Mr. Jarvis received extensive praise of gallery art across the country and spoke frequently, often packed with art and public gatherings.

His art interest, the Society for Art Publications, a non-profit group, publishes Canadian Art and is to be headquarters. It is understood the publication will be expanded and other publications started.

Mr. Jarvis may take a cut in pay. He is said to be about $12,500 a year at the gallery.

Mrs. Fairclough moved with his mother to Toronto at the age of three after his father, an optometrist, died.

Russia and Western Powers To Defend Arms Talk Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The big Western powers and the Soviet Union sought today to head off a blast of criticism in the United Nations against their plan for a new 10-power disarmament body.

Representatives of the Big Four lined up as the first speakers before the UN's full-membership disarmament commission in a general debate that will last through the new plan.

Informed quarters said they would answer criticism made privately by some small countries. They also were reported ready to offer a non-controversial resolution taking note of the Big Four action without specially endorsing it.

stalled arms talks early next year in Geneva by a group made up of five Western and five Communist countries. Members of the group are the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy on the Western side and Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria on the other.

One of the main criticisms here was the absence of any UN role. The Big Four merely stated that the new body would report to the UN disarmament commission and that the final responsibility remained with the United Nations.

Several countries also expressed concern over the fact that Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America were not represented on the commit-

Merchants Assoc. Argues Trading Stamps Are Unlawful

OTTAWA (CP) — The Retail Merchants Association brought its campaign against trading stamps to Ottawa Wednesday.

At a 1½-hour meeting with Justice Minister Fulton, representatives of 30,000 independent retailers argued that trading stamps are illegal and should be prosecuted.

The delegation contended that sections 322 and 393 of the Criminal Code "clearly prohibit" the operation of trading stamp companies in Canada.

"They have been an 'uncontrolled outbreak" of stamp dealing among some of the big retail chains in Ontario, with every sizable purchase there is useful work to be done."

Mrs. Fairclough's statement said that during his tenure in office the gallery has grown in activity and prestige and your name will be associated with that growth."

The handsome Greenford - born director, 50, leaves as the gallery is moving from cramped quarters in the Victory Memorial Museum to the new seven-storey Lorne Building in downtown Ottawa. The gallery was closed Tuesday and the move is to be completed by Oct. 1.

Great Gather to Pay Last Respects to Premier Duplessis

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) —The great of the land gathered here today to pay their last respects to Premier Maurice Duplessis.

The funeral will be the biggest Trois-Rivieres has ever seen. The provincial government, alone, has reserved 800 of the 1,200 seats in the Trois-Rivieres cathedral.

Many stores here were closed until 1 p.m.

The courthouse where the premier's body lay in state from 2 p.m. Tuesday until the funeral was packed with an estimated $100,000 worth of flowers. A recreation hall nearby also was filled to overflowing.

The funeral procession was to move off from the courthouse at 10:30 a.m. EDT and follow a roundabout 20 - minute route through principal streets before arriving at the cathedral. Memorial services were to begin at 11 a.m.

Officials estimated that only about five per cent of the expected crowd would get inside the church.

Following the services the cortege will wind through the streets for half a mile to St. Charles cemetery.

There a simple cross records the name and deaths of his parents.

The funeral service was conducted by Bishop Georges Leon Pelletier of Trois-Rivieres, with Archbishop Maurice Roy of Archbishop of Montreal and Msgr. Maurice Roy of Quebec and Roman Catholic Primate of All Canada, in attendance.

Government representatives at the funeral were led by Paul Sauve, who he is expected to be named premier shortly. All cabinet ministers and all members of the legislature will attend.

Also expected were a number of provincial cabinet ministers and premiers Leslie Frost of Ontario and Duff Roblin of Manitoba.

Business and industrial leaders from many parts of Canada were present.

Communist Troops Attack Three Army Posts in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—North Viet Nam Communist troops have attacked Laos and attacked three army posts in Phong Saly province, the army said today. Government troops suffered losses but the number was not announced.

A communique said the three posts clustered 20 miles inside the Laos border directly west of Dien Bien Phu, where the French Army made its last bloody stand during the Indochina war in 1954.

The attacks in the far northwest province began Wednesday night but the news was not received at Vientiane army headquarters until today, a spokesman said. Communications difficulties have plagued government troops since the beginning of the fighting.

Harassing action by Red guerrillas also was reported in two provinces which had been quiet for several weeks.

Transport Minister Gives Blessing To Pedestrian Crosswalk Program

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government today gave its endorsement to Metropolitan Toronto's pedestrian crosswalk program and offered to help in extending it to other municipalities.

Transport Minister Yaremko said Metro's traffic record since the program began "is ample evidence of its value."

"Its effectiveness in saving lives should be adopted by all other municipalities having a pedestrian casualty program."

Mr. Yaremko made his offer to assist other communities with the crosswalk system during session of the transport department's road safety workshop here.

He cited figures quoted Wednesday in a speech to the 700 delegates by Chairman Fred J. Gardiner, who credited the crosswalks with reducing pedestrian fatalities by 42 per cent since last year.

The crosswalk consists of two heavy white lines traversing the street, marked on either side by large crosses and by a lighted sign overhead. Pedestrians have the right-of-way in the crosswalk.

The government will give technical and educational assistance to communities which follow metro's example in setting up the crosswalks. It will also supply material to publicize local programs, Mr. Yaremko said.

A-Power Plant Will Be Built Near Kingcardine

Reactor to Produce 268,000 Horsepower

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's first large nuclear power reactor will be built on the shore of Lake Huron, nine miles north of Kincardine in Bruce County, James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, made the announcement Wednesday.

Possible sites had been studied in the Blind River, Manitoulin Island, Owen Sound and Parry Sound areas.

The 2,300-acre, site chosen is mostly farmland and the surrounding area lightly populated so that the danger index is much lower than other sites inspected by engineers, Mr. Duncan said.

The reactor will cost $40,000,000 to build and will produce 268,000 horsepower, he said.

All that is required is final approval by the Atomic Energy Control Board and Atomic Energy of Canada Limited will build and operate it. The site and the unit size has been cleared by Ontario Hydro.

BUILDING PROTOTYPE

A small prototype nuclear station now is under construction at Rolphton by Ontario Hydro and Canadian General Electric Company Limited.

The Kincardine site was chosen, he said, because there is "water for cooling purposes available in large quantities, the foundation material is suitable and, highway and rail transportation is nearby."

The plant will use 300,000 gallons of water a minute for cooling purposes. The water will not come in contact with radioactive materials and will be returned to the lake in pure condition.

Design work on the station is under way but actual 'construction is not likely to begin before 1961, Mr. Duncan said. The plant is scheduled to begin operation in the late 1964 era.

It was expected the project will employ a peak work force of 1,200 men for the building stage.

A maintenance and operating force of about 300 will be required by Ontario Hydro to take over the plant when it is ready for operation.

The site is close to Highway 21, the Canadian National and Port Elgin are served by the CNR. Major Hydro transmission facilities are only 30 miles away at Hanover.

The plant will be known as CANDU (Canadian deuterium uranium).

After an experimental phase of operation, Ontario Hydro will buy the plant at a price which will fit into the economic rate structure of the composite power plant sources at that time.

Nehru Bitterly Accuses Reds Of Arrogance

Policy Grows Rigid, Chou Reverses Stand

NEW DELHI (AP) — A bitter exchange of notes between India and Communist China was laid before Parliament today and Prime Minister Nehru said Premier Chou En-lai's latest letter adds to the gravity of the border crisis.

"Step by step their policy has become more rigid," Nehru said. Each side accuses the other of aggression and each demanded that the other withdraw its forces from frontier areas whose ownership is in dispute. India offered one concession — to make the Longju area a temporary no-man's-land pending negotiations. But both sides renewed their claims to Longju, the isolated Himalayan frontier agency post which Chinese troops seized two weeks ago in a savage fight with Indian frontier guards. The Chinese warned India against trying to retake it.

CHOU REJECTS

The seriousness of the situation is highlighted by Chou's letter, made public in Peking Monday, and tabled in the Indian Parliament. Chou rejected India's protests against what he called aggression in the Longju area.

The Chinese leader, while offering friendly negotiations to settle the border dispute, also charged the Indians of aggression and demanded a withdrawal of Indian troops he said were trespassing on Chinese soil.

"It sometimes seems as if China is acting like some 19th century nation in their pride and arrogance, ignoring the rest of the world," Nehru said.

The Indian leader, who has based his foreign policy on nonalignment in East-West quarrels, appeared deeply disturbed by Chou's letter.

PEKING CHARGE

Referring to a Peking charge that India inherited imperialistic policies from Britain, which granted India independence in 1947, Nehru said: "There appears to be a failure in China to recognize the revolution in India."

He addressed the upper house after a special two-hour debate on the border issue in the Indian-Chinese relations.

Nehru said there has been a change in outward rigidity in what China has been saying to India about the border. He pointed out Chou formerly indicated he accepted the McMahon Line which Britain as India's northeast boundary with Tibet.

"I got the impression from Chou's letter that this line now is being denied or ignored. It is also a matter of deep regret."

Nehru said Communist China apparently was not responding to early India, but dismissed as silly any notion the Chinese can push India aside.

"They value India's friendship only at a very low extent in the final analysis," he said. We value theirs and will continue to value it."

Referring to the Tibetan revolt against Chinese Communist rule, Nehru said: "Communist China's troops just spring. Nehru probably knew the movements "have angered and soured the mind of China."

He said Peking may have been

To Play 'O Canada' for First Time After Governor-General Installed

OTTAWA (CP) — Two departures from tradition, each further underlining Canada's independence within the historic framework of Commonwealth, will mark P. Vanier's installation next Tuesday as Canada's 19th governor-general.

A detailed program, issued today, showed that for the first time the national hymn O Canada will be played at the end of the official ceremony to be held in the Senate chamber. Officials said they find no record that it has been played at previous installations.

In addition, Gen. Vanier's first proclamation as the Queen's Canadian representative will make no mention of "instructions" received by him from the Queen. The proclamation as in the past will call attention to the fact he has taken office and will command the government to assume its office.

More than 1,000 persons have been invited to the installation scheduled to start at 11 a.m. EDT. It will be televised nationally. However, because Parliament is not in session, it is not expected that it will attend the hour-long ceremony.

Before the governor - general's first proclamation will be signed in front of the assembly, Gen. Vanier's new personal seal may not be ready for the ceremony, in which case he will use a temporary seal of two concentric circles and his initials.

PEKING (Reuters) — Communist China's newspapers told their readers today for the first time about recent frontier clashes between Indian and Chinese troops and what they described as "a new anti-China wave in India."

All newspapers broke their silence on this subject by splashing across two-thirds of their front pages the full text of the letter sent on Monday by Premier Chou En-lai to India's Prime Minister Nehru.

They also printed reports about the border dispute on inside pages.

Chou's letter accused Indian troops of invading and occupying Chinese territory and demanded their withdrawal together with "administrative personnel," but expressed willingness to settle the two countries' differences over the frontier line through "friendly negotiations."

Alongside the letter the Communist Party newspaper People's Daily reported a wave of "comparatively serious attacks and slanders against China" in India following Nehru's statement to Parliament in Delhi on the exchange of "incursions" into Indian territory.

Service Stations Being Brought Up to Date

Modernization of gasoline service stations is resulting in considerable of this type construction in the city this year as major oil companies replace outmoded structures with up-to-date versions.

Earlier in the year the British American Oil Company replaced their service station at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Streets with a new structure conforming to the company's particular form of architecture, while currently two other stations are being rebuilt on Dundas Street.

One of these is another British American station at the corner of Dundas and Ann Streets, while directly across Dundas Street adjoining the swimming pool property a new Texaco station is going up. Both of these structures are replacing units, which were torn down.

Still another service station to go up is a Shell Oil structure at the northeast corner of Cannifton Road and College Street. It is not expected this will go ahead until next year.

Despite the building program the number of service stations in the city will remain limited to the present 35. Any future additions will be made by the replacements of present ones, or construction of stations for which permits have been taken out prior to council decision to limit the number.

Council Votes To Extend Highway 62

Belleville city council Tuesday night endorsed the action of Hastings county council in requesting the Ontario Department of Highways to take over the Madoc-Foxboro county road as a continuation of Highway 62.

During the past decade there have been repeated efforts on the part of the county body to have the highway department assume the county road, but this year Chamber of Commerce in both Madoc and Belleville have joined forces in the request. It is felt that citizens in the north section of the county travel in Peterborough to do their shopping rather than come to Belleville over the county road.

In the past the province has declined to take over the road, but two short sections of the road, one extending from Madoc to south of Moira Lake, and the other a by-pass at Halloway, have been re-built at the expense of the province.

Although it was anticipated by the county that additional money might be made available for the continuation of the re-building program, W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings-West, told county council two weeks ago that "not a penny would be dead" before the road was completed at the current rate.

WHY YOU SHOULD TAKE VITAMINS

Individual taste preferences, often resulting in improper selection of food, plus methods of processing and cooking tend to reduce the vitamin ber and quantity of vitamins to the point where our daily food diet may be harmfully short of one or more of them. Vitamins are needed for the normal functioning of the body; they aid in growth, they help to maintain the appetite and to build resistance against infection. Sufficient vitamins help to produce a sensation of feeling of "well being". But remember this! You don't have to be ill to need additional vitamins.

Teen-Age Dance Programs Start

Teen-age dancing programs under the auspices of the Belleville Recreation Committee start the fall term Friday, Sept. 11, at Prince Charles School, said the Recreation Centre.

Similar dances have been held every fall for the winter months during the past several years. The growing interest in teen-age dancing necessitated breaking the age groups, with the older ones dancing at the recreation centre and the younger ones at the schools.

Dances held in the schools will be directed toward the children of public school age, while the program at the Recreation Centre will be for the teen-agers at the high school level.

The following week another school will be added for the dancers on the East Hill at Queen Elizabeth School, as well as continuing the Saturday afternoon dance party from the Recreation Centre.

With the exception of supervisor James Kerlegon, all leaders in charge this year are new. Mrs. Poste will be in charge of Queen Elizabeth School, Mrs. Mrs. Robson at Prince Charles School and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hamilton at the Recreation Centre. Al Hall will continue with the Saturday afternoon dance.

Hot, Dry Spell Starts to Cut Milk Production

The prolonged hot, dry spell is beginning to take its toll in milk production, a survey of local cheese factories and dairies revealed today.

City dairies reported the same thing with no prediction that meant only that suppliers were now shipping all the milk they could, while many they had been on quota and were shipping their surplus to the cheese factory.

Albert College Classes Filled To Capacity

With school accommodation completely filled for the next year, classes at Albert College got underway this week with a registration of 305 students.

Mr. Taylor Franklin noted that former students returning for another year at Albert, artsand-science course on Tuesday, while new students registered on Wednesday.

"We just couldn't accommodate any more students," he said, "we were filled to capacity last year on our registration couldn't be higher."

This morning residents of the West Hill district, and particularly those living in the Albert College area, were treated to the sound of early morning bi-jinks as the College freshmen were put through their initiation.

At the crack of dawn residents were treated to a fitful sleep as the young students noisily went on their way.

Water Pumpage For September Day Sets Record

An all-time high record for water pumpage for September was established at the city filtration plant yesterday when temperatures soared to 90 degrees.

A total of 6,540,000 gallons of water was pumped through the mains yesterday, the previous high for September being one day back in 1953 when the galonnage was five and a half million. It was the first time in 1959 that the all-time high temperature for September was surpassed, a blistering 93 degrees. The temperature of the bay water on Wednesday was 70 degrees.

But yesterday's pumpage of 6,540,000 gallons far exceeded that for any previous September day, and the high trend has been the topic of discussion at the waterworks all this month as more than 16 millions of gallons daily was the prevaw trade.

The all-time high for water pumped for any one day was set one day last June when 6,930,000 gallons were forced into the mains.

This was caused by an extreme dry spell in June and an excessive use of lawn services as residents strove to keep their lawns looking green.

New Sub Station Will Be Built On Edgehill Road

To provide hydro facilities for the rapidly expanding residential area in the east end of the city, the Belleville Public Utilities Commission will shortly construct a new sub station on Edgehill Road in the north end of the Parrot sub-division.

City council at its meeting Tuesday evening authorized acquisition of the site for the station and today Mr. O. H. Scott, Utilities manager, stated construction would be started "just as soon as we can get at it."

But the installation will not be a large or expensive construction. Instead the building housing the switching equipment will be a cottage-roofed type structure which will conform with the appearance of other residences in the area, while the transformer equipment will be hidden behind extended walls.

The Utilities already have the transformer equipment for the building to house the switching controls is expected to cost about $15,000. Opposition about the entire installation will be landscaped to conform with the area. The total cost of the installation is expected to run about $30,000.

Rained, Snowed 158 Out of 365 Days Last Year

It either rained or snowed in Belleville on 158 odd-or 285 days last year.

This is noted in the agricultural statistics for Ontario for 1958, published by the Farm Economics Branch of the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Total precipitation for Belleville last year, including rain and snow, was 39.30 inches, while the long term average annual precipitation is 31.17 inches.

The breakdown of precipitation figures for this area showed that 31.23 inches of rain was received and 80.8 inches of snow. It rained on 123 days and snowed on 60 days out of the year. Normal rainfall, 34.86 and the normal snowfall 81.9 inches.

Schools Close Early For Duck Hunt

Ninety degree temperatures resulted in most schools being let out early Wednesday.

Two of the thirty-odd schools, Quinte Secondary and Moira Secondary, were let out at 2 p.m. Belleville Collegiate Institute ended its day at 2:45.

Early dismissal of public schools in this area was the order of the day in the city. The early dismissal was granted by the city's pulls being allowed to go home half an hour early.

Land Judging Contest Held Near Stirling

A land judging competition took place last week at the farm of Frank Jeffs, Stirling. This was something new in the agricultural education field for juniors; thirty-five from the district competed.

Instruction was given during the forenoon. Following lunch in the Stirling Community Hall the group proceeded to Mr. Jeffs' farm. Six fields were chosen and of soil had to be considered on four different farm locations. An explanation of the crops which the best adapted was also required.

The Moira River Conservation Authority awarded two lovely silver trophies to the high boy and high senior. This course is the first which deals with the fundamentals of inspection of buildings and property to determine the amount of fire hazard and to recommend the measures which a potential fire hazard may be avoided. It was held for some 31 students. Most of these students came from municipal fire departments on a basis of number came from fire insurance companies and the Ontario Hydro organization. There were several from the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office and from the Civil Defence College as well.

CNE Attendance Down 57,000 From Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Phillips went on the air Wednesday night with a plea for citizens to attend the Canadian National Exhibition during the balance of the week and help overcome the big decrease in this year's attendance.

With three days of the 16-day exhibition left, attendance is 57,000 behind 1958. The drop is blamed on hot weather, bad publicity and public disinterest.

In another effort to boost sagging revenues, CNE directors announced children 13 and under will be admitted free for the exhibition's remaining three days.

AIR SHOW PREVIEW

Today, Transport Day, Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, vice-president of A.V. Roe Canada Limited will address the directors' luncheon and exhibition visitors will get a preview of the CNE's spectacular aerial display, scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Farmers' and Livestock Day Wednesday, only 112,500 people visited the exhibition, two events which included a parade of $1,000,000 worth of champion livestock that only gathered 134,500.

Ann Spaull, 23, of Warren, 72 miles east of Sudbury, was picked as the dairy queen for 1959.

HANNAH HEARD

Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, told the directors' luncheon that only partnership with governments can farmers regulate themselves and produce only the amount the market can absorb.

Farm ca, he said, farmers prefer self-help and a fair exchange on the market place to programs involving government assistance or subsidies.

Progress Good In Connecting East End Sewers

Belleville's Department of Public works have been quite busy over the past month. Sewer connection work has been increasing in the Cannifton area and the Parrott subdivisions and progress has been quite satisfactory.

The ditching program around the city has been delayed however, by the additional breakdowns in the older equipment being used. Next week hired equipment will be used in order to speed up ditching operations in the east and west end sections of the city. Restoring of culverts and general cleanup of many streets already ditched has been progressing very satisfactorily however.

The traffic sign crew has completed the signs and crosswalks painting on streets for the school season opening. This work was done in cooperation with the Safety Division of the City Police Department.

Weed control work has been continuing but due to lack of sufficient funds the department has set $1,000 from the budget for the most phenomenal weed growth which has occurred this year. The new spray machine, recently acquired by the department, has proved quite satisfactory, however.

Weed patching work has been progressing nicely with major repairs being done along Front Street and on the West Bridge Street hill in the early hours of the morning to avoid traffic congestion.

BEAT THE HEAT?—Above are a couple of suggestions to keep cool. At the ten a couple of local people engage in a bit of water-skiing at Roblin Lake. The combination of the breeze and the spray of water are almost guaranteed to cool one off.

In the lower picture a few members of the Quinte Home Builders' Association may be seen preparing for a boat ride on Roblin Lake. The occasion was a social gathering of the association's members to study the effects of open air conditioning and cooking yesterday afternoon.

Permits Issued Beginning to Pay Dividends

TRENTON — The permits which were instituted by the Department of Public Works near the first of June are starting to prove their value. These permits were made necessary in order that the Town could keep track of the streets when digging up and as a method of fixing responsibility in case of damage to any of the utilities. The holder of these permits is responsible for the proper filling of the excavation and the damage to any utility which may be damaged as a result.

The first permit was granted to the Trenton Parks Board to install a water line across Quinte Street. While this line was being installed a storm sewer caved in and at the present time the Parks Board are being held liable for the costs of the repair.

TO RESURFACE ROAD

A portion of Dundas Street West will be resurfaced in the near future to repair damage done to the road done by the Lakeland Natural Gas Company. This report was released following a visit by a member of a construction firm to this area to estimate the cost of the work.

The area to be resurfaced is comparatively small between the Odeon Theatre and Lakelaw's store. It is expected that the cost for this will be less than $2,000.

Flowers Not Only Thing Burned Up

TRENTON — The grass in Trenton parks was not the only thing that burned up from the great Tuesday evening fire when Parks Board members and the gardener "cooled off" with three minutes on the steps of the Municipal Building waiting for two things, someone with a key to provide access to the town office and a fourth member of the board to provide a quorum so that business could officially be transacted.

Rather than disturb the "keeper of the keys" the members adjourned to Ireland's Drug Store where discussions could be held in air conditioned comfort. All discussions and decisions of the evening are subject to the approval of the missing members.

Hot dry weather has caused considerable burning of flowers and grass in the parks in the past few weeks. The most noticeable are a few small patches of brown in the otherwise green lawns of Fraser Park.

Installation of a sprinkler system this spring provided ample moisture in most areas but investigation shows that for the most part the dry areas are caused by plants and bushes blocking water spray. On Mr. Rivers' recommendation it was decided to raise a few of the sprinkler heads further above the ground in an attempt to overcome this.

Also under discussion at this time in connection with the sprinkler system was a bill from Albert Defosse Construction Limited for digging a trench across Quinte Street at the library grounds for installation of a water line. The board was also informed that they will have to pay the cost of repairing the sewer which was found to be in a state of deterioration, when the cut was made.

Series of Articles on Motor Trip to Russia Starts Saturday

Russia and the Russians are very much in the news especially in view of Mr. Khrushchev's approaching visit to the United States. Reversing the visit, although on a much more modest scale, a young Canadian has just completed a motor tour to Moscow and Leningrad by way of Czechoslovakia and Poland.

He is Raymond Canon, a name familiar to readers of

The Ontario Intelligencer by reasons of articles published in recent years of visits to Europe. Mr. Canon is a linguist and speaks Russian which enabled him to get more personal interviews with "the man on the street" than would have been the case otherwise. Be sure to follow this timely series which begins in Saturday's edition, and which is exclusive to The Ontario Intelligencer.

NEHRU BITTERLY

Another note charged Indian aircraft with six violations of the Communist Chinese borders since July.

The exchange was made public late after Soviet Russia Wednesday called on India and Red China to smooth over their dispute because it was creating complications for Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

APPEALS TO UN

The exiled Dalai Lama of Tibet, a refugee in India, added meanwhile to the complications by spurning Prime Minister Nehru's advice and appealing directly to the United Nations for "immediate intervention" in his Himalayan country seized by Red Chinese Communists nine years ago.

Nehru, in granting refuge to the Buddhist god-king during an uprising against the Communists last spring, had advised him that going to the UN would not help the Tibetan people. He also made plain that he expected the Dalai Lama to avoid political activities that would hurt Indian relations with Red China while he is on Indian soil.

The UN postponed action on the Tibetan question in 1950 to give both sides time to try for a peaceful settlement.

The Heart of Successful Living

The other day we received a copy of The Voyageur, the yearbook of Pickering College, a private school founded by the Society of Friends in Newmarket. We were particularly impressed by the editors remarks concerning the school's life. We quote, in part, this editorial:—

"However, it seems that one of the lessons we have learned this year is that at times team work was not evident. It is hoped that those students . . . who are returning saw the lack of team work and can try to find a solution where we have failed at times this year. We should at all times be conscious of the fact that here at Pickering we are living as a 'Family.' This may sound like a grossly over-used cliche, but whether it is or not the fact remains it is true. If we want to enjoy our stay at Pickering then we have to get out and make it better.

By this we do not mean that you should sacrifice your individuality but rather you can use your individuality to give a lead and apply it to life at school in order to make it a better place. There were many people who had constructive criticisms but for some reason unknown to us did not want to bring them forward. Instead these criticisms crept along—like rats in the slums of a city. This allowed the criticism to become warped and consequently the school suffered.

"Finally we saw that the best way to make our life better was for all of us to pitch in, and do something constructive. Thus, we have left evidence that as your life is only what you make it, your school is only what you make it. Pickering can give you a lot but you have to get out and help in return.

"The lesson that we have learned this year is best expressed by the words: 'No man is an island entire of himself.'"

The foregoing is a fine expression of something which all of us would do well to understand. If we substitute the words "community" or "country" or "world" for the word "school" as used in "Pickering" in the above context there is something which every person might find of great value in guiding his own individual actions.

The above quotation should serve to illustrate that the future of our country is not going to be in the hands of the youth who more consistently make the front pages of our newspapers through reason of their failing to comprehend any social objective in life. The crux of the matter, is what a youth learns from those with whom he is in contact during his formative years. This means that his family, his friends, his teachers, his community, all have a definite effect upon him and his eventual attitude towards life.

We feel that the person who wrote the above piece certainly has benefitted from a true sense of "education." We only hope that the majority of our youth will find the heart of successful living during their formative years, and build their community better than it was built for them. We also hope that their parents, teachers, and community will provide the basis of the heart of successful living for the youth to find.

"No man is an island entire of himself."

Unfortunate Choice of Name

In London, two young members of the League of Empire Loyalists have been fined for creating a disturbance at London airport when President Eisenhower arrived to confer with Prime Minister Macmillan. The League of Empire Loyalists considers that the British Empire is being sold down the river by Macmillan today to the U.S. It takes all kinds of people to make a world, but around these parts there will be many who will wonder what sorry chance led these right-wing crackpots to select a name which could easily be confused with another group of Empire Loyalists, the United Front of unblemished record.

"Executives Start Crest Training" — headline in the Vancouver Sun. It is to be hoped that this chest training does not result in a big bust, since the chest in question is the community one.

WARMING THE BOTTLE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

There are bugle calls to duty,
There are orders loud and clear
That just start the blood to tingling
When they fall upon the ear.
And at times commands are shouted
Domineeringly, he'll vow,
But he's up and on his way
When at night he hears her say:
"He is crying for his dinner!
Go and warm his bottle now."

He's been dead to all around him,
He's been wrapped in slumber deep
When the booming of a cannon
Wouldn't interrupt his sleep.
He may be in blank oblivion,
But he's on the job somehow,
When he whispers soft and low:
"It is time for you to go.
He is crying for his dinner
And he wants his bottle now."

Now he's got it to a science,
Doesn't need to be awake
And with all his senses active
That long kitchen trip to make.
He is halfway down the stairway
Long before his gentle frau
Finishes her night appeal:
"He is ready for his meal.
He is yelling for his dinner;
Go and warm his bottle now."

Franco Spain Record Black

New York Times

The favorable notices that Franco Spain has been receiving in and from the United States in recent weeks should not go without a corrective. Powerful lobbies have generally transcended what George Kennan once called "legalistic-moralistic" principles. Nevertheless, when the United States "embraces" a dictator it should be done with open eyes as well as open arms.

There was a reminder of this elementary principle in a news item published on Wednesday taken from The Times of London that newspaper's correspondent had gone to Burgos, Spain, and written a moving and shocking story about the treatment of political prisoners. Letters and documents to the Archbishop of Tarragona, Cardinal Pedro Segura y Saenz, and to the Archbishop of Valencia, Cardinal Nicolau Barres, the former group concerned the Spanish Government "for permitting the use of torture." The latter sent documents to the Archbishop of Tarragona, Cardinal Segura, stating detail how the strikers they defended last December were maltreated in order so as to get them to confess."

This evidence is horrible. One could go back to 1938 and each earlier year for similar stories. The Franco Government, nevertheless, blandly insists that there is no torture now in present day Spain. If that is the case, why does it not allow foreign correspondents to visit a prison like that of Burgos so that they can see for themselves?

There have been recent protests in Europe about arrests and lack of freedom in Franco Spain — by the British Labor Party, the International Conference on Science and Freedom, the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions and university students in Belgium, for instance.

The practical reasons for our own friendship with the Franco regime are presumably being accepted by many Americans, but even those who accept ought to remember an old adage: "He who has been a long spoon that shall eat with the devil."

Combination Is Dynamite

Milwaukee Sunday Journal

You can't beat Russian ingenuity. Radio Moscow reports that the Russian housewife now has a new labor saving device, a combination potato peeler and cocktail-mixer.

This sounds like the biggest thing since the combination button hook and back scratcher, or the combination shoe horn and toothbrush.

But it could break up the Russian home. There will be many a merry wife, her potatoes peeled and ready, relaxing over a container of vodka martinis and forgetting to get the rest of the meal. There's bound to be brandy and benedictine and Scotch and rye and bourbon in the cabbage, potatoes au vodka.

There will be alcoholism in the Kremlin as well as the Kremlin won't stand for any ism except communism. And nothing, we'll bet, will Comrade Husband. He'll wait his meal on time and properly prepared. He'll get slick pretty quick of having his kitchen turned into a martini bar-room. And anyway, what does he want with cocktails?

Straight vodka was good enough for the revolution and it's good enough for him.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOVE AND FRIENDSHIP

One of the finest writers into essay form was Alexander Smith, the English essayist and poet. He once made a statement that the only immortality he wished for himself was to be occasionally quoted," and so I quote him.

Said Alexander Smith: "Love and Friendship are the discoverers of ourselves in others, and our delight in the recognition, which is the basis of books, we only know that, the parallel of which we have in ourselves. Everything I have many times stated that we are mostly "other" made, that we influence others and then they "turn the tables" on us and intermix our ideas, reflections, and life philosophy. People who scatter themselves keep borrowing from the ages, to our own good and that of our friends and loved ones.

Through love and friendship we formulate a relationship that keeps enriching our entire being. What is there that can be made to substitute for love, and what would any of us do without friendship? We need them; they need us. Only through friendliness can there ever be permanent peace in this troubled world.

Henry Drummond once wrote a book that long ago became famous. It declared love to be the greatest thing in the world, as it undoubtedly is. Its influence gathers hope and assurance with each passing year.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 10th, 1939

A storm approaching cyclonic proportions swept out of the northwest early today, ripping through a swath approximated at eight miles wide through the southern part of the country and leaving in its wake a trail of damage estimated at hundreds of dollars. "A black cloud, cone-shaped with a belt of fire at its apex" was the description of the storm given by a resident of the fourth concession of Thurlow who was driving when the storm struck. The storm struck with severe force at Stirling sweeping in a southwesterly direction across Latta, Roslin, Foxboro and the third and fourth concessions of Thurlow. It swept through the Mohawk Reserve and continued on its devastating way points further east. Lasting approximately fifteen minutes the terrific wind accompanied by rain, hail and lightning laid waste a large area of the country.

He named the settlement Humboldt to honor Baron Frederick Heinrich Alexander von Humboldt a German naturalist, traveler and statesman, who died in 1859. Local historians cannot find a reason for adopting this name, which has been conferred on 23 additional towns, rivers, a mountain range and a gulf stream.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

Comedians, 1859 Style

Saturday Review

"The rise length in rut epoh o dog's tale has never yet bin discovered, but it is somewhere bak of his ears provided ya git the dog's measured."

That sort of writing went over big in this country 100 years ago. American wit and humor depended for a big share on such tricks in writing: Crude phonetic misspelling and the use of the wrong words and fortune brought fame and fortune to writers and often carried them onto the lecture platform. But what would you think of such humor now?

The quotation is from the writings of Henry Wheeler Shaw who in 1860 made a real hit with Josh Billings. Josh was not the first of these whimsical characters, though he has come more solidly down through the years.

A little earlier was the reign of Benjamin Penhallow Shillaber, a printer's apprentice in Portsmouth, N.H. Shillaber in 1847 created the character he called "Mrs. Partington." Shillaber's style was the same as that of the wrong word rather than upon crazy spelling. Mrs. Partington was a widow who kept a boarding house far in advance of her grammar and her choice of words. Her partner husband off to church, "where the gospel is dispensed with."

First Cornea Graft in 1835

BBC London Letter

Corneal grafting, to preserve or restore sight, is generally looked upon as a very modern operation; but the fact is that successful corneal graft was performed more than 120 years ago by an Irishman, S. L. Bigger. Speaking in a series of talks called "Medicine Makers" broadcast by the BBC, Professor George H. Scott, head of the department of ophthalmology at Edinburgh University, explained how Bigger, while a prisoner of a wandering tribe of Arabs, operated on a dying child suffering from a corneal wound, by transplanting the cornea from another gazelle which had recently died. Ten days later his pet could see for the cornea remained clear.

"Forty years were to elapse," Professor Scott said, "before the next important step in corneal operation was to be recognized by Dieffenbach, that it might be possible to be successful the donor material must be taken from an animal of the same species as the human cornea can be used for man. During the interval the technique of corneal grafting has reached nearer and nearer to perfect results. Surgeons now have instruments of great precision which were not available to our fathers."

Professor Scott went on to speak of modern developments for the removal of cataract. Removal of a cataract—a cloudiness from within the eye had first been described by Daviel, eye surgeon to the King of France, he said, but in his operation the cataract had had to be left to mature before it could be removed, by which time the patient was almost blind. Today the method in use today enables the operation to be performed as soon as the patient is unable to carry out his normal occupation.

In Britain, cataract operations for more than forty per cent of blindness in those over seventy years, and in a world containing an increasing number of elderly people, the need for improvement in the operation. Great changes in the pre-operative management make old age itself no bar to the operation.

The operation for removal of cataract although the most difficult of all eye operations to perform, has now reached the stage that, in the hands of a competent surgeon, ninety per cent of operations are completely successful.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

CHARACTER AN ACHIEVEMENT

A sense of guilt is a necessary corrective for every normal person to have, provided, of course, that the sense is not so pronounced as to keep the person entertaining it into hopeless melancholy. We are all sinners. Excepting for certain physical characteristics, this is the one thing we have many be said to have in common. Yet because they are sinners all people do not have a sense of guilt. Millions, probably, go along day by day without feeling in the least that there is anything the matter with them or with the way they live. "Point out something I do that everybody else does not do," they say. "Show me where I am in the least inferior to my neighbors in the way I live my life. I'm as good as the next fellow, and perhaps better."

Such a morbid fixation of moral guilt is very bad for one's body, but more than this it gives no difference to one's failings is equally as bad, if not worse. We are all sinners. The important thing we do not have and exercise the capacity for self-criticism. The tendency of every life is downward, unless by conscious, continuous, and often heroic effort we keep trying to pull our lives up.

Character has to be achieved, and it is never achieved except by those persons who realize that they do not have it naturally. We repeat that character is not a gift but an achievement.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PEOPLE MAY BE ALLERGIC TO HAIR DYE

A gentleman writes:

"For several years I have been using a tint to cover gray hair. I have been using several brands and my hairdresser is presently using . . . . .

"I read an article stating that the use of hair dyes can be dangerous. Could you tell me the facts? Information from these? Could their use even cause blindness or in some way affect the eyes? — G. R."

It surprises me to the roots of my gray hair that the gentleman, a member of a highly-regarded profession, should find it necessary to resort to such artificialty.

But then, I don't know the circumstances. Perhaps he feels that he is very young (there's no indication in the letter, so I'm just being facetious) and shies away from youth as disastrous.

However, it isn't my business to tell him what color his hair ought to be. He asked me a medical question, and I'll answer it.

The danger of hair dyes and tints does not involve infection. Rather the danger is allergy — that is, an occasional person may be hypersensitive to something in the dye.

Cornea is not the fault of the manufacturer. After all, some people are allergic even to milk or to the fur of a domestic cat. Oddity enough, even ambidextrames.

Now, as to the effects of allergy, can set up an allergic reaction in some people. That's why I so often mention allergies. Somebody somewhere will prove to be allergic to almost anything you can mention. It's a symbol of the utter and baffling complexity of the human body.

So let's get back to the subject. Hair dyes in general are perhaps more likely to cause allergies than some of the more delicate chemicals with which we come in contact, despite the enormous use of cosmetics by manufacturers to choose materials which will only bother the fewest possible people.

If one happens to be allergic to dye or hair tint, there may be an irritation of the scalp, ears, even eyelids. But irritation is not infection.

The accompanying irritation or allergy might, however, lead to scratching, and broken skin, and hence provide an opening to the skin that would be an invitation to bacterial infection, if germs happen to be present.

Thus the danger of infection is about the same as if you asked, "Can a scratch cause infection?" No,—it can't. But it opens the door.

As to the eyes, allergic reaction can cause crusting as well as irritation of the lids, but blindness is not a probability.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In menopause how long is there possibility of getting pregnant? Menses have ceased? — Mrs. M. P."

Some authorities agree that pregnancy after the age of 47 is very rare, but others regard it as unusual.

Trying: there is no record, in the U.S. at least of pregnancy after the age of 52. The average age of menopause is 47 although some menstruate a bit earlier, others later. In any event, pregnancy is extremely unlikely — and that's the answer to your question — when a year or more has passed since the last period.

Note to I.A.O.: The salve you mention is only one of several which will ease this annoyance of hemorrhoids temporarily. The best cure in the fact that it does not correct the underlying cause. Hence, the trouble tends to become worse, so that finally it becomes so bad that you do what you should have done sooner — you get 'em corrected by your doctor!

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation". For a copy write me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Prairie Dogs For Wisents

New York Herald Tribune

We have never given much thought to the wisent situation luckily for New York a few people in Europe have. The first was the Duke of Pless, who wrote a postcard to the Bronx Zoo in 1927 offering to sell two wisents — they are European bison, as surely everybody knows — from his herd in Silesia. The zoo took him up on it, but by 1931 both animals had died, and it was not until forty-two years later — in fact, this year — that another pair was placed there. These were sent by the government of Poland as a dam zoo, who asked for eighteen prairie dogs in exchange.

What's weird is that horse trades and ballplayer trades, but not zoo trades and animals. Numerically the edge goes to Amsterdam, which gives up two animals and gets back three, but in any other term it's a "steal" for New York. There are about 200 pure-blooded wisents around nowadays, all of them in European preserves or zoos, though in the nineteenth century they roamed widely in the forests of Poland and Russia and were protected by the Czars. But the wars and revolutions of the twentieth century have almost erased them.

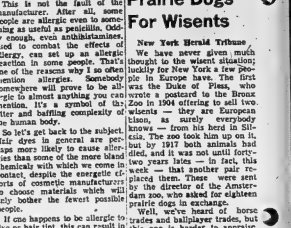
Prairie dogs, in the other hand, are still common enough in the American West so that we can spare eighteen—assuming, of course, that we miss them. But their number is also dwindling fast. Maybe they will have a fresh start in Holland. And maybe—who knows?— the Duke will have the pleasure of announcing a baby wisent one of these years. That's the way the trade is, as they say in baseball, will help both teams.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A Belgian market gardener of my acquaintance has two great passions, one for every sort of bounds, the other for green heels, so that all he has to do is gouge a hole with his boot and whatever he touches there flourishes like magic. In fact, he has a green nose, green eyes, green brains for whatever he touches, thinks of, looks at, tastes, will be blessed with growth and vigor and beauty.

But he is a very untidy man, and he has a hopeless housekeeper. Their small cottage fronted upon their twenty acres of market garden looks like a hovel. It is unpainted and dowdy. Implements are stacked around it, crates and baskets and boxes lie tumbled about.



Just inside their gate, they had a rough counter on which, all the season of the year, the treasures of their garden and orchard, like of which you couldn't find for a hundred miles, were displayed for sale, and the public sailed past under the impression that anybody living in such squalor could hardly have very desirable produce for sale. How wrong they were!

This summer, a neighbor who had a market garden further down along slow up the road a quarter mile, which can't grow enough to stock its row tiny tittles worth looking at, offered the market gardener acreage on which to erect his wayside stand.

The Belgian's sales are not merely doubled this fall: they are quadrupled. One thing the supermarkets have demonstrated to us. Even the finest produce has to be prettily presented.

SCOTT'S CRAB BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

"HE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR—" 'h the greatest of ease "Wolfgang," -some German wire-haired pointer, takes off in a sensational jumping dive. The dog attains a height of from six to ten feet before plunging into the water.

German Wire-Haired Pointer Is High Diver Extraordinary

WELLINGTON — County Constable Earl Marvin tossed a small stick into the air from the dock at the rear of his property here. It struck the water and floated gently about twelve feet out.

"Get it," he said in a voice scarcely above a whisper. A brown and white flash hurtled through the air, described a perfect arc and divided almost perfectly along side the stick.

A minute later the beautiful German wire - haired pointer laid the stick at Constable Marvin's feet.

He repeated the performance several times. Each time the intelligent 18-months-old dog leaped high in the air reaching some six feet before plunging into the water.

"Wolfgang" is part of the dog's registered name, but he answers to "Wolf" readily.

He is a member of a rare but very intelligent breed. It is doubtful if there is another German wire-haired pointer in Canada and very few in the United States, Marvin says.

"Wolf's" coloring is unique but beautiful. The body color is a soft brown with an overlay of silver. The silver predominates on the chest and forms a light streak down the face. The brown forms a saddle over the shoulders.

Constable Marvin acquired "Wolf" from an American visitor to this village some six weeks ago. The dog readily adapted itself to its new master and environment and has been the object of attention of a number of dog authorities.

The dog is alert, gentle and keenly intelligent. It learns with a minimum of training, and true to its breed is a natural pointer.

It has excellent retrieving qualities, as its (sensational leaping dives into water indicates.

"A few days ago," Marvin told this reporter, "I taught Wolf to 'sit'. Let's see what he does."

He called the dog and in a low voice said "Sit". Marvin and his visitor walked to the house and remained there fully ten minutes. They returned to the dock.

"Wolf" had not moved an inch.

Later the county constable went to a farm on the outskirst of this village where pigeons were proving a nuisance. "Wolf" brought into play his excellent pointing and retrieving qualities. As fast as Marvin shot the birds, the dog quickly brought them to his feet.

"Wolf's" more or less sensational "diving" ability is a source of wonder to dog authorities who have seen him perform.

An ordinary dog merely jumps into the water with a loud splash but "Wolf" takes off like a helicopter. He leaps straight into the air and appears to spot his target before plunging into the dive.

Fire Department Demonstrates Aid for Injured

DESERONTO — Wednesday night of last week, the Deseronto Firemen were hosts to the Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association. There were over 50 in attendance.

The local department demonstrated some rescue work for the other departments; one of the well known methods of bringing an injured person from a burning building as well as some not so frequently used. Methods of bringing persons down a ladder from an upper- floor by means of rope and ladder were also demonstrated. The demonstration climaxed with a demonstration of artificial respiration.

After the instructional period the firemen retired to the room over the fire hall where the business was conducted. Chief John Aquine of the Batawa department, as president of the Association, had charge of the meeting and assisting him was Chief G. Vance of Belleville, co-ordinator. Also present was H. Mallory of the Fire Marshal's office.

Several discussions pertaining to fire department work were introduced as a result of the report of the attempted rescue by Chief Walker, of Marmora, who tried to rescue two men from a gas-filled well without proper equipment.

The meeting unanimously passed a motion to forward a letter to every town in the group to equip their men with proper rescue equipment. Apparently, Chief Walker went down the well and was also rendered unconscious by the gas. Fortunately he was brought up in time. Also discussed was the resolution regarding motor vehicles having right of way when hearing an approaching siren.

Following the business session the Deseronto department served lunch and a social hour was spent.

It was decided that the trophies won at the field day in Batawa would be officially presented at the next meeting.

Fire Destroys Home at Marysville

DESERONTO — Saturday night a fire alarm about 11:30 took the firemen to Marysville where the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doreen was destroyed by fire. When the firemen arrived the one room building was blazing fiercely and no definite word could be obtained that the occupants were out. The firemen searched the premises and established that no one was within the structure.

The fire was too far advanced to save anything so the fire was then allowed to burn while the firemen stood by to prevent the spread of flames to buildings close by.

Mr. and Mrs. Doreen lost all their personal belongings and furniture in the fire. The building was owned by William McAuley of Marysville.

TV, Radio and Papers More Friend Than Foe Conclusion

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Women's Press Club today elects a new national executive and begins its five - day triennial convention here.

The 100 delegates are to end business sessions with an authentic lumberman's dinner at neighboring Aylmer, Que.

Friday they move on to the Laurentians and an open-house session in Montreal.

Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament for the CBC and Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, were among dinner guests Wednesday.

Earlier, delegates had tea at the French Embassy here with French ambassador Francis Lacoste and Mrs. Lacoste as hosts.

PANEL AGREES

An afternoon panel discussion on the competition of radio and television ended in general agreement that the two media, along with newspapers, were generally more friend than foe.

Under moderator June Dennis of Toronto, a CBC commentator, panel members agreed that radio and television in many ways complement each other.

The strongest argument in favor of one medium came from Ottawa freelance broadcaster Mrs. Jean Morrison, who said "television has won the day and is commanding the time and attention of Canadians."

Her husband, CBC audience research director Neil Morrison, said Canadians still are buying more radio sets than TV sets. The daytime radio listening level also was about the same as 10 years ago.

Television also is developing a new form of journalism, he said, citing a agreement from reporter Tim Creery, Ottawa correspondent for the Montreal Star.

Mr. Creery said TV has promoted reporters to get behind the scenes to find out what is going on—apart from what viewers can be shown on screens.

Wedding

CASEY — CHARTRAND

Tall white standards of pasel-tin'ed gladioli, asters, roses, and chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Belleville, on Saturday August 15 at 1.00 o'clock for the marriage of Jane Marie Chartrand of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Chartrand, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, to Bruce Vincent Casey, of Belleville, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Stewart Casey. The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of Belleville, former pastor of St. Andrew's, Stirling, officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the guest organist, Mr. W. F. Voodale, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Phil Bennett as he sang, "Ave Maria," before the ceremony, and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by the uncle of the bridegroom, Mr. Jack Casey, of Belleville, the bride was lovely in her white satin brocaded bridal gown, featuring a fitted bodice with long, pointed sleeves and gathered skirt flowing into a chapel train. She wore a princess type headdress and gathered veil with shoulder-length veil edged with sequins and bugle beads, and carried a horseshoe-shaped bouquet of Sweetheart roses and sprigged with white carnations.

The bride was attended by Miss Jean Chartrand, sister of honor, and Miss Sandy Nolan, as flower girl, both of Belleville. The maid of honor was gowned in pink shrimp nylon and white chiffon with shrimp hat and gloves, gold slippers, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and white 'mums. The little flower girl, wore a white chiffon nylon dress with pink sash, pink hat, and white gloves and shoes, and carried a basket gay of pink roses and white 'mums.

Mr. John Casey, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman; while Messrs. George Casey, also of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and Bill Chartrand, of Sault Ste. Marie, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, where fifty guests were received by the bride's mother, who was attired in cream lace over silk, with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in blue crepe with white accessories, and corsage of red rosebuds.

The bridal table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake flanked by tall white white candles in silver candelabra, topped with a tiny cluster of white roses, and misted about the base with white tulle and rosebuds.

For travelling to the northern New York State, the bride donned a baby-blue nylon ensemble with white hat, shoes and gloves and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey are residing in Belleville.

Guests attended from Sault Ste. Marie; Toronto; Detroit, Michigan; North Bay, and Pierson.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the recipient of a kitchen shower held at the home of Mrs. Harry Cole, with Miss Jean Nolan as hostess, and Mrs. Cole as co-hostess; and at a linen shower by the staff of the General Hospital in Sault Ste. Marie.

Small Fry Fashions

By ALICE ALDEN

Although the little girls of today will grow up in a space age they'll be wearing a demure Victorian air this season. Celeste does a fall fashion in a lustred red and black woven cotton plaid dress set off by long sleeves—something new in a dress for a little girl. A centre panel creates a straight line from collar to hem, beyond which the skirt is pulled over a nylon tulle underskirt. The pique collar and cuffs are trimmed with washable black nylon ribbon. It's fine couture, junior grade!

Women Hear Diefenbaker at Convention

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — It was Radio and Television Day at the Canadian Women's Press Club triennial convention today with a panel discussion on the compatability of the two media heading the agenda.

The 100 delegates from across Canada heard Prime Minister Diefenbaker review the international situation Tuesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker said nothing of a final nature can be expected to be achieved from the coming Eisenhower - Khrushchev meetings.

But he said the meetings will help "the cause of peace in the large sphere of world peace."

"Nothing can equal sitting down together . . . to ascertain each other's viewpoint," he said.

In Europe, he said, Canada will not consent to any arrangement being made whereby any tribunal of nations will determine the policies of NATO.

Canada's women represent 51 per cent of the country's voters, said Mr. Diefenbaker, "but it strikes me as strange that more women have not found their way into the Parliament and legislatures of our country."

He said there is a particular opportunity for women in the international field. But Canadian women are not applying for foreign service positions "in keeping with the opportunity."

Delegates Tuesday heard a panel discussion on journalism in which the question of television ruled off the record to give panel members leeway in discussion.

Claudette Colbert Delights Show Fans With Chuckle

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (CP)—The Claudette Colbert chuckle delights show fans but it just baffles the winsome star.

"I swear I don't know when I'm doing it," she insists.

Like her bobbed curls and chic curves, the joyously infectious chortle is a permanent part of the Colbert identity. But unlike the locks and the lines, it is uncontrolled.

"I guess I've always had the chuckle," Claudette says.

"I'm an optimist, a pollyanna, and I just can't help it. All I know is that I love to laugh.

"Laughter and gaiety are the most important things in human relationship. When I meet someone heavy and solemn, I just shy away."

She isn't, however, dedicated to frivolity. When it comes to acting, "I've always been adamant on going back and forth between comedy and drama.

"If one is fortunate enough to be able to do both types, one most certainly should."

Besides, adds Claudette, there is more to comedy than bubbling froth. Consider The Marriage-Go-Round, the 1958 play Claudette and Boyer resume Sept. 14 at Broadway's Plymouth following a summer vacation.

"This is the first time that marriage and sex have been discussed in an almost farcical way, but at the same time very seriously," the actress says.

MEN LIKE IT

The play, a solid sellout for months, centres on an urbane couple faced with a femme fatale.

"Why is it," remarks Miss Colbert, "that an errant husband is a subject of laughter, but not adultering wife?"

She has several other observations on the theme.

"If a wife is intelligent, she can forgive some looking around — it's not looking too far and too long.

"One thing I've noticed — the play gets across better at night when half the audience is male.

"The matinees are mostly women, and they laugh — but the whole of nature will determine the politics of NATO.

"They are themselves—and at the same time they are the female point of view." This, she else.

Simply Striking

By VERA WINSTON

Dramatic, yet essentially simple, is this dance dress that owes so much to its adroit use of white with black. The dress is of white chiffon and the banding at the high, round neckline, at the bow-tied waist and the hem band is black satin. The frock buttons in back. It can be worn over a black slip but is more effective and youthful over white.

tone implies, is salutary marital progress.

Miss Colbert would like someday to perform The Marriage-Go-Round in Paris. It is her birthplace but she has never appeared on stage in the City of Light.

"I think the French would get the play just as much as American audiences, even though the Gallic attitude is supposed to be so very different.

"Frenchmen's is undoubtedly as don't like their husbands having mistresses any more than anyone

Betty Ingram Wins Ladies' Golf Crown

Five years ago Betty Ingram picked up her first golf club, drove a ball into the open spaces and decided she liked the game.

Yesterday at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, Miss Betty J. Ingram was crowned champion of the club's ladies golf division.

Her name will be inscribed on the championship trophy for the first time. It will be presented to her on Trophy Night September 27th.

Mrs. Ingram defeated Doris McLean for the title, carding an 89 as against Mrs. McLean's 96. The new champion, along with last year's titlist, Mrs. Ena Corke, are the only two ladies of the club to break "90".

She eliminated Agnes Benn in the first round, and playing excellent "around the 90's" golf defeated Ena Corke and Anne Acton to reach the finals.

Mrs. Ingram was the runner-up in last year's ladies tournament, bowing to Mrs. Corke in the finals.

Four lady golfers will represent the Club at the Summit Club, Aurora, four-ball better ball ladies tournament being played tomorrow. Theses include Anne Acton, Ena Corke, Doris McLean and Monica MacDonald.

Eight ladies have entered the Port Hope Golf Club ladies' field day tournament scheduled for Saturday.

Garden Supper For Press Club

by Mary Moore

My sisthusiasm for Press Club members increases after every meeting. This one was a garden supper at my sisters' with eighteen attending. As usual I was the food convener.

I like the assignment but it has its problems. Most of the girls are on salt-imposed reducing diets. One is salt-free. All of them appreciate novelties.

I had Danish caviar, Greenland shrimp, Armenian cheese called Kararat (made in Canada at Ste. Marie de Beauce, Quebec, by Salim Karsh, sister of the famous photographer brothers, Yousef and Malak Karsh).

But here is the menu: Fruit punch, caviar canapes and shrimp canapes on melba toast, tried chicken legs, summer succotash casseroles, platter of cottage cheese with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers in sour cream dressing, chilled fruit bowl, homemade shortbread, honeymelon, made hermits, summer fruit, rum buns, sliced Armenian cheese, coffee.

It is the quantity recipes that will interest you for it is so hard to judge the amount to buy for large numbers, without ruining sheet or having leftovers. I bought 20 chicken legs and 20 chicken thighs which cost about $8.00.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Cheese Souffle with Tomato or Mushroom Sauce; Potato Pancakes; Spinach with Lemon; Canteloupe Halves filled with Lemon Sherbet; Brazil Jumbles (see Wed.); Tea.

FRIED CHICKEN LEGS FOR 20:

Mix together in a heavy brown paper bag 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons each paprika, salt and celery seed. Mix well. Shake the chicken legs and thighs — 20 of each — in the flour mixture. Have ready a big frying pan with 1-4 pound hot melted butter in it. Brown all of the pieces on both sides and as they are done transfer to large roasting pan, adding more butter to pan if necessary. When all are done add 1 cup table cream to roasting pan and bake uncovered at 200 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours — turning the pieces once during this period. These are good hot, warm or cold. We encouraged the girls to eat theirs in their fingers and it was fun. We provided 2 large party paper napkins for everyone so their pretty summer frocks would not suffer.

The casseroles of Summer Succotash were easy.

SUMMER SUCCOTASH: . . .

(For 20). One 2-pound bag frozen limas, 3 cans kernel corn drained (or the equivalent in fresh corn cut from cob), 1-3 cup table cream, 1-4 cup butter, salt, pepper. Cook the frozen limas in 2 cups boiling water at boiling point for 2 minutes. Drain. Add the drained corn (uncooked if raw is used) and remaining ingredients. Turn into 2 casseroles. Cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until bubbly and browned.

CHILLED FRUIT BOWL:

This was made by my sister, served from the old dependable silver soup tureen and was a hit. She added 8 sucaryl tablets to the juice from one 28-ounce can pears and 3 cups hot water. To this hot syrup she added the canned pears cut into quarters lengthwise, 1 pound halved freestone red plums, about 8 sliced peaches, 2 pounds green seedless grapes (1 canteloupe cut into balls, a sprinkling of choice blueberries, and chilled it overnight. It was beautiful and welcome.

WHO TAKES CHARGE OF MAKING AND SERVING DRINKS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We've just moved into our new home, and are planning to begin to give small, simple dinners. I will be hostess, cook, waitress . . . and I like it! I've worked out several quite good (I think!) menus that I can accomplish quite easily, but I'm not so sure about the serving of the drinks before the dinner.

(1) Who takes charge of the drinks, my husband or I?

(2) Is it enough to provide one kind of cocktail, martinis, for example?

(3) I know that you make a great point of advising that hosts always provide a non-alcoholic alternative. Should this be done if the hosts are fairly sure that all the guests will drink cocktails? — B. N.

(1) Your husband's job as host to take charge of the drinks, not only of just making them and serving them on the occasion itself, but, most importantly, checking beforehand the supplies on hand and the supplies to be bought. It's an excellent idea for him to be responsible for that, so he can check against, to do . . . a standard list of necessities also — club soda, ginger ale, and whatever. And the supply of ice cubes to be noted.

(2) Yes, it is enough to provide one kind of cocktail (martinis, the most usual); but also, customarily today, a choice of scotch or bourbon for an on-the-rocks or a tall drink.

(3) Yes, except in all circumstances provide that non-alcoholic alternative . . . you never can tell.

HOW TO MARK THE BRIDE'S LUGGAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bridegroom-to-be and I are planning to have each other three pieces of matching luggage (different sizes, of course). These are to be our wedding present to each other. And since they will be bought before the wedding, what initials should I order for the marking of my luggage?

— A. H.

Your luggage should be marked with your married initials: for example, A.H.B. . . . the initial of your first name (A), the initial of your maiden surname (H), and the initial of your bridegroom's surname (B, let's say).

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Chester F. — It wouldn't be practical to move.

Yvonne F. — He's really thinking about his parents.

Chester F. — My wife and I have been married four years and have a young baby. I have a good job with plenty of security and an attractive future.

The problem is that I was recently offered a job that is better but quite far from where we are now located. The job pays quite a bit more but offers no security. Another consideration is the fact that my parents, who are ill and elderly, would be heart-broken if we moved now. They dote on our little daughter.

My wife is very eager to make this move because she thinks she would like the other location better, but I have been told that the climate is very bad for several months a year. All in all, I don't think it would be practical to move.

Yvonne F. — Chester is just looking for excuses and at last he knows it. Any job or any place under the sun has some drawbacks. Although the new job doesn't offer security, it would raise his standing in his work. If the new company didn't want to keep him permanently he would not have trouble getting a job elsewhere.

Chester really doesn't want to move because of his parents. This is ridiculous. They have lived their lives and now we must live ours.

My own mother is ill and elderly and she lives quite far from us. She is alone but she makes no demands on us. I haven't seen her in a year. Chester is letting his sentiment get the better of him. His parents are the clinging type.

The Council: Yvonne appears to have intimidated Chester to the point where he feels he has no right to have feelings or sentiments involving his parents. He is forced to use rationalizations. The phrase "they have lived their lives and we must live ours" has been a bit overworked by the young generation. Few young couples are oppressed by elderly parents to the point where their own lives are hopelessly ruined. Moreover, consideration for elderly parents has a definite place in any complete life.

In this case, Chester appears to have many good reasons for remaining where he is. He speaks of his parents' feeling for him and his child, but not of his for them. Undoubtedly he has feeling for them—and it would pain him to leave his parents alone at this time. He doesn't dare express this, even to himself.

From her own account, Yvonne lacks filial sentiment. We perceive that she also lacks feeling for her husband since she is so indifferent to his emotions.

We cannot possibly make the decision for Chester and Yvonne as to which course is proper. We suggest that Yvonne take stock of herself and her future. If she is determined to rule emotion out of her life, she has condemned herself, her husband and her children to a barren, cold, narrow existence.

Yvonne needs to wake up and live emotionally. When she learns to consider the happiness of others, she will begin to know the meaning of living her own life.

Council Moves To Collect Unpaid Taxes

DESERONTO — The first regular meeting of the town council for the Fall session saw the councillors unanimously decide to take action against all those in arrears of taxes for the past two years. On motion of Reeve Alford, chairman of the finance committee, council instructed the clerk-treasurer and tax collector, to distrain for arrears for the years of 1957 and 1958 and to hire a bailiff for this purpose. The outstanding taxes for these two years amounts to over $16,000 and there is some $33,000 still to be collected for 1959. A list of those properties in arrears for three years has been prepared for tax sale. It was revealed that the decision of the council would affect some 35 to 40 taxpayers.

Other business of the meeting was more or less routine but the backlog of correspondence took considerable time to deal with. A request from C. Metcalfe to purchase a piece of property adjacent to his cold storage plant was referred to the property committee. Apparently the town did not know they owned this piece of property until a survey was made by Metcalfe Foods. The town had been under the impression that the land was owned by the railway.

A tender for the repair of the cement slabs and repointing the bricks on the front of the town hall was referred to the property committee for further report. The tender was from R. Dawson to the amount of $672.

GIVEN POWER TO ACT

Some discussion took place as the result of some correspondence from the Drave Co. about the lower end of Mill St. This matter had been awaiting action by the company for well over a year. Council turned the matter over to the finance committee who will have the power to take action to bring the matter to a conclusion.

An application from Mrs. Mary O'Keefe to have the water extended to her property at the western end of the town was forwarded to the Public Utilities.

The report of the Water Resources Commission on the result of their recent survey was read. They recommend drilling in the area in question and as a result the council are to meet with the Utilities.

A request from the medical officer of health for funds to attend the annual Health Conference in Toronto on September 27 to 30 was turned down. Council felt that because of the shortage of town funds they could take no action on the request.

The resignation of councillor McAllister was not accepted but he was granted a leave of absence for the balance of the year. Councillor McAllister has moved to Napanee.

The Highway Dept. are to be asked to erect a 30-mile zone sign at the eastern entrance of the town and the county is asked to place one on the bayshore road at the western end of town.

A letter from Campbell and Smith of Kingston giving a price of $1,000 for numbering the houses was referred to a special meeting for discussion.

No action was taken on the request that permission be made verbally to have permission to erect a sign advertising his business at the western entrance of the town. It is suggested a suitable place for the sign would be on the top of the knoll west of K. Frazer and Sons business.

Made in Newfoundland's Capital

Rope, Twine and Fishing-lines

In St. John's Newfoundland one of Canada's oldest cordage companies has supplied the needs of Atlantic fishermen for three-quarters of a century. For hundreds of years fishermen have relied on nature's natural fibres for their nets and ropes. Today, synthetic materials like nylon are being combined with age-old fibres to give the fisherman a more reliable product.

Moving along the famous 1 mile ropewalk on a trolley, Bill Walsh makes two ropes from six separate strands.

Weighing over a pound for each of its 360 feet, this roll of rope will be used as a mooring line. Huge hawsers or thread-like herring nets are all in a day's work at this unique Newfoundland rope factory.

Bill Macdonald is still busy as a nailer after spending 55 of his 63 years here producing articles like this cod-jigging line. Many old skills and a rich heritage accompanied Newfoundland's entry into Confederation on April 1, 1949.

'RCMP' Is Hollywood-Scale Production and Will Be New All-Canadian TV Serial

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OLD CHELSEA, Que. (CP)—Canadian viewers this fall will be introduced to a new all-Canadian television serial.

"RCMP" is a Hollywood-scale production. Corporal Jacques Garnier, the hero, should rate with Paladin and Wyatt Earp among followers of the small screen.

It is the story of modern-day operations of the famed red coats in the fictional Northern Saskatchewan town of Shamawatta. Most of the filming, however, is being done in this western Quebec area, 14 miles north of Ottawa.

TO START OCT. 28

The first of 39 half-hour episodes flashes on to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's English network Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 8 p.m. The French-network series, with French language dubbed in, begins Jan. 1.

The CBC, making its first venture into the major serial drama field since "Radisson," holds a 20-per-cent interest in the new series. It purchased Canada rights.

The British Broadcasting Corporation also put up 20 per cent of the cost and bought United Kingdom rights.

The 60-per-cent balance of stock is held by Crawley - McConnell Limited, specially set up for the purpose. Together the three participants called on Crawley Films of Ottawa to produce the series.

COSTLY EXPECTED

The CBC, which lost almost $500,000 on the serial "Radisson," stands to make money. It also learned the corporation already has a sponsor. Although the charge to the sponsor will cover the full cost of purchasing Canadian rights, the less likely will be more than made up for by profits on sales elsewhere.

Crawley - McConnell says chances of selling the series in an American network are good, in which case the production would be on story. Otherwise it will be syndicated in the United States and profits would not be so good.

The Australian Broadcasting Company has purchased rights and sales are being negotiated with French and Swedish TV organizations. Inquiries also have been received from Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany and South America.

The CBC emphasizes that this is not another "Radisson," the all - CBC 1957 series generally criticized and often ridiculed by reviewers.

COSTLY EFFORT

The 52-film account of the adventures of pioneer Canadian explorer Pierre Radisson — shot separately 26 each in English and French—cost $1,040,000, or about $20,000 a film. Only $150,000 has been recovered in U.S. and U.K. sales.

"RCMP" has all the gloss and pace of a top U.S. production. Total cost of the series will be $1,365,000, or $35,000 a film.

On location, a child's wagon is used to cart cameras from place to place, and bamboo fishing rods serve as microphone extensions. But effort and expense are not spared where they count.

All parties say they are confident they have a success on their hands. At the same time, the CBC regards its participation as helping develop a Canadian film industry.

Executive Greame Fraser of Crawley Films said in an interview: "We imported the best talent to get filming started. Our fellows learned a lot from them. We'll have a core of talent on which to build."

Bernard Girard, originator of TV's "Medic" and former director of "You Are There," was producer for the first 13 instalments. The man who replaced him, Academy Award winner Harry Horner of Hollywood, is the only import still in the 50-man specialist crew except for one member of the cast.

Corporal Gagnier is played by award-winning Quebec actor Gilles Pelletier. John Perkins, a native of Boston and star of Radio-way shows, plays Constable Ryan Scott. Canadian actor-singer Don Francks rounds out the three-man RCMP detachment as Constable Bill Mitchell.

At the start of filming, Ed Fowlin, the Englishman who staged the plunge of a train from a bridge in Bridge on the River Kwai, was section props man.

Crawley Films has bought several equipment and has set up a building; house sets on a 60-acre plot in this peaceful Gatineau Hills community.

The slow-moving town of Ashton, Que., 19 miles west, represented Shamawatta for movie street scenes, and a new Detail Office, the Ashton Hall, Que., Ottawa's fire station, will be seen as the hangout of a dope peddler.

R. Rivett-Carnac was special consultant before he was called out of retirement in March to become head of the real-life RCMP.

Mr. Fraser said that if there is sufficient demand, the series may be extended another 13 episodes.

THE WORLD IS THEIR STAGE — The camera crew of Crawley Films of Ottawa has a tough time getting the right angle to shoot a scene for the television series "RCMP." Here they use a cool stream in the Gatineau Hills near Ottawa for a stage. Last winter they filmed episodes in 30-below weather. The first of 39 half-hour shows begins Wednesday, Oct. 28, on the CBC's English network. French network series starts Jan. 1. Experienced United States producers are combining with Canadian talent to turn out the $1,365,000 series. (CP photo)

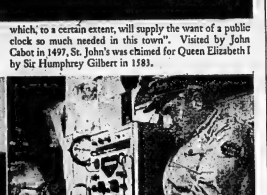
Signals St.John's Citizens



Historic Noon-day Gun

The sound of the noon-day gun on Newfoundland's historic Signal Hill overlooking the harbour of St. John's has been a tradition since 1842. In that year a local newspaper stated, "A gun will be fired at noon every day . . . which, to a certain extent, will supply the want of a public clock so much needed in this town". Visited by John Cabot in 1497, St. John's was chimed for Queen Elizabeth by Sir Humphrey Gilbert in 1583.

On Signal Hill, a National Historic Park since 1958, Pat Brophy loads the 6 pound anti-tank gun. On this hill over 400 years ago, Jacques Cartier looked out over the Atlantic Ocean from North America's most easterly landfall.

In Cabot Tower on Signal Hill where Marconi received the first trans-Atlantic wireless message in 1901, the radio operator awaits the 12 o'clock time signal. Once again a sound old as Buckley's Gost will echo across St. John's harbour.

Hydro Prepared To Buy Outright Strips for Lines

WOODSTOCK (CP) — An offer by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission to buy outright the right-of-way strip for hydro power lines and power will be considered on a local level by the federation of agriculture in six Western Ontario counties.

About 50 federation representatives from Brant, Huron, Middlesex, Lambton, Perth and Oxford met with Hydro representatives here Tuesday night.

At an Aug. 5 meeting the federation was asked to present a brief asking for a 30-year lease clause in Hydro's new scale of prices for easement rights.

The federation also asked that right-of-way be settled on the basis of land values involved.

Harry Hustler, Toronto, director of property for the commission, said consideration had been given to the brief but "we cannot, in our opinion, increase the quchedule of prices for easements."

COUNTER-OFFER

He said hydro instead is prepared to purchase outright a strip of land about 120 feet wide, taking into consideration the future value of the land, and pay taxes on it.

Farmers will be given the right to farm the strip without restrictions. Any crop damage caused by maintenance work on the line will be paid for by the commission. Rights of way will be provided across the strip, and written assurance will be given the farmer that his right of way will not be blocked as long as the land is being used for agricultural purposes.

Mr. Hustler said he was speaking specifically about lines running from London to Sarnia and from London to Mount Hope. However, he said, if the plan is approved by the farmers it will likely become policy in all settled parts of Ontario.

"This plan means to the farmers a payment of approximately 50 per cent more than under the other proposal," he said.

BIGGEST WHALES

The much-hunted blue whale, largest of whale species, can grow more than 100 feet long and weigh up to 150 tons.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Mr. and Mrs. George Dyson returned on Thursday last, after enjoying a motor trip to Quebec City, Quebec and other centres of interest in that province.

Mrs. D. Calvert and children spent last week in Toronto, Ontario.

Mrs. Mary Bye, of Kesbey, Sask., a native of Thomasburg, has left for her home after visiting for some time with her son, Mr. H. K. Morton, Mrs. Morton and family.

During her visit, she was the guest of several other relatives and friends in Tweed and Thomasburg districts.

Mrs. Ed. Thompson is spending a couple of weeks at her sister's, Mrs. Charles Mills, of Harlowe, Ontario.

Several women from the community are employed at the canning factory at Foxboro, at present.

Divine services were resumed on August 30, at 2.30 p.m., in the United Church after the minister's vacation.

No service was held in Christ Church as the Rector, the Rev. O. Woodward, has taken up his duties at his new parish near North Bay.

At present, no replacement has been made.

River Valley W.I. Holds Successful Visitors' Day

STIRLING — Approximately 75, including 25 members of River Valley Women's Institute, 43 visitors from Wooler, Seymour East and Chapman's Tweed Institutes, and several girls of the community, gathered at River Valley School house for the September meeting last Thursday.

Baskets of gladioli and 'mums were used for decorations.

Mrs. Roy Tucker and Mrs. Ernest Carr welcomed the guests as they arrived. The program was arranged by Mrs. J. R. Donohoe and Mrs. Reg. Coombes.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Roy Tucker. Pianist was Mrs. Ralph Ulman. The president extended greetings to the visitors and proceeded with the regular meeting.

GAVE FULL REPORT

Mrs. George Hessman gave a full report of the finances, business, and correspondence, which included several "thank you" notes. A girls' club will be sponsored this autumn on the theme "Meet in the Mews" with Mrs. Kenneth Myers and Mrs. Ross Bush as leaders. It was decided to order 50 more souvenir spoons.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Jack Bush and her group for their efforts in house-cleaning the kitchen cupboards. This group will also cater the auction sale at the former Gifford home.

Mrs. Roy Bush gave a brief outline of what had appeared in the country-wide summer issue of "The Countrywoman" magazine. The Triennial Conference was held in Edinburgh, Scotland, based on the theme "Looking Ahead, Reading to a Better World Through Understanding."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen spoke briefly regarding the friendship link between River Valley W.I. and Abbots' Leigh W.I. in England. Clippings, programs, and Christmas gifts are exchanged. In 1954 Abbots' Leigh W.I. sent a lovely leather bound Visitors' Book as their gift. A record of all visitors has been kept by the link secretary. At this meeting all 75 in attendance were asked to sign the book.

In the public relations department the ladies were reminded that Miss Jayne Gee broadcasts for the Belleville area each Tuesday at 1 p.m.

The roll call, "If I were a shut-in, how would I like to be remembered?" brought forth suggestions of books, flowers, and visits from friends.

Mrs. Ernest Carr presided over the program. Mrs. Stanley Webb, Chapman's Tweed, gave two humorous readings, "Reducing," and "How Do I Know That I Am Alive?" Mrs. John MacCallum, Wooler, sang with Mrs. A. G. Austin as accompanist. Mrs. G. Craighead, Seymour east, read a humorous selection, "I'm All For It."

Mrs. R. Utman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Maurice Bell, Stirling, who, with her husband and sons, recently enjoyed a motor trip to Newfoundland.

Mrs. Bell said it was both an experience and an adventure. She outlined the need of having good camping equipment, maps, camp guides as published by the Department of Travel and Publicity, and gave a list of necessities.

The need to pack articles in a small amount of space was stressed.

She said the boys have pen pals which they have met on their various motor trips.

Mrs. Bell pictured Quebec with houses with long verandahs, and rocking chairs, the beautiful scenery along the Gaspe Peninsula. She said in New Brunswick all ferries and camp sites are free. In Nova Scotia the road posts are painted brown and yellow. In Cape Breton Island they visited the Museum of Alexander Graham Bell.

A total of 150 cars were put on the boat and eventually they reached Newfoundland, the 10th province to be joined into the oldest settled provinces in Canada, dating from the days of John Cabot.

Mrs. Bell pointed out on a map the exact place where the Atlantic Charter was framed and where the noted Fishing Banks are located. She gave a picture of the pulp and paper mill on Belle Island, which is the largest in the world, and described the pulp as being beautiful, one of all the odd names in that province which read like a story book.

They travelled home via Gander Airport and the Trans Canada Highway, and the scenery along the way was beautiful, she stated. She also outlined several incidents which happened during their trip and did they ever all happy to be back home in Stirling.

MADE PRESENTATION

Mrs. Roy Bush thanked the speaker for sharing her holiday with the group, and said Mrs. Bell's address was both educational and interesting. On behalf of R.V.W.I. Mrs. Bush made the presentation of a small gift which Mrs. Bell graciously received.

Miss Denise Keilty, Chapman's, Tweed, sang "All Through the Night." Mrs. E. Morrow, Wooler, read an article entitled "These Modern Days." Mrs. E. C. Pollock, Seymour east, contributed a piano selection.

Mrs. E. Carr expressed thanks to all who had made the afternoon a success. Mrs. E. Morrow, Mrs. Wooler, Mrs. Thomas Keilty, Chapman's, and Mrs. Kenneth Hagerman, Seymour east, thanked their various groups.

Light refreshments were served to the visitors, to close a successful Visitors Day, in the new school kitchen under the convenership of Mrs. Gerald Brooks and her group. The tables were covered with white cloths and centred with low bowls of asters and other flowers. Dining tea services and the new cups and saucers were used.

Khrushchev Wants to Know How Long It Will Be Before He Can Step on Eagle's Tail

Nikita Khrushchev has made clear he is anxious to get a first hand look at the United States. In this last of a series backgrounding Khrushchev's visit, Associated Press chief of the disturbed opinion the Kremlin boss has of the American way of life.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Nikita Khrushchev wants to get a close look at the American eagle. Perhaps he wants to know how long it will be before — to mix his metaphors — he can step on the eagle's tail.

The Soviet premier made this ambition plain long after he had said, about two years ago, to him his way into an invitation to visit the United States. Communism's star traveling salesman wants an idea of just what the resistance might be to his line in a hemisphere which has been a mystery to him all his life.

To Khrushchev, American talk of "containment" is pure nonsense. Publicly and frequently he has ridiculed Western democracy as a fake.

"Freedom is only for monopoly capitalists," he declared on one occasion. "The workers are plundered. The capitalists clear their pockets like thieves. Western press and radio serve only the monopolists. They call themselves free world, but we wouldn't be tempted back if they offered it to us on a platter."

DISTORTED PICTURE

Khrushchev's words indicate he has a difference between the American capitalism of today and that which he found on his visits of the United States, despite all that must have been changes, it seems to be much like the picture many say insulated the Soviet citizen has: A smartly wholly dominated by Wall Street, where workers merely live in fear of police state machinery.

He even purports to sympathize with the American people as distinguished from what he calls the ruling circles. Magnanimously he has conceded that Americans are "good people."

Khrushchev has had no experience with Americans on their home grounds. He has had some with the British and has received some good best. That was in 1956, in the second year of the celebrated Big Four era of Soviet peace and his costume shadow, former premier Nikolai Bulganin, visited the 13-day cruiser on an intriguer against the Communist party.

That trip, Khrushchev seemed bewildered, particularly by the questioning of members of the House of Commons. He was outfoxed by such suave British politicians who enraged him so much he accused them of pigishness. And he found little solace among the British workers.

"Never shake your fist at a Russian," Bulganin told mystified crowd which had made fleering gestures.

Even the British political leaders, he thundered: "You may be one of them but don't put me on the score."

Hurt, Khrushchev wondered why the British audience laughed when he remarked: "As the old proverb says, you can't please all the people all the time in a day."

Apparently Khrushchev has not encountered spots beneath his tough hide, and can be insulted by ridicule, which can be himself is a fast man with a gratuitous insult.

Canadian, U.S. Leaders Open Informal Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—When differences exist between Prime Minister G. Mort Bell said, the best starting point toward removing them is to sit down and talk them out.

As a businessman and newspaper owner, Mr. Bell was well aware of differences between Canada and the United States which he felt could use some discussion.

It should take place amid pleasant surroundings and in an atmosphere of informality. And he had facilities for both.

Mr. Bell, president of F. P. Publications Limited, a group of seven Canadian newspapers extending from Victoria to Ottawa, and a leading figure in Alberta's oil industry, has a private, log-cabin-style lodge on Twin Islets, 100 miles north of Vancouver in the Strait of Georgia, and a yacht with which to get there.

PUBLISHER TAKES HAND

Last December he passed his ideas along to Dana Wilgress, director of F. P. Publications and publisher of the Victoria Times. He asked Mr. Keate to organize an international conference on Canadian-U.S. relations.

Something along the lines of the Pugwash, N.S., conference staged for several years by Cyrus Eaton, Mr. Bell thought.

Today, Mr. Bell and Mr. Keate, with 16 other persons representing the newspaper field, business, labor, education and government, were to leave for Twin Isles and a three-day conference on relations between the two countries. The guest list is impressive — from Lester B. Pearson, Liberal opposition leader in the House of Commons, to Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Stock Exchange in New York.

CROSS-SECTION

Mr. Keate issued invitations designed to bring a balance from the two countries and a good cross-section of opinion.

The guests include Frank Hall of Montreal, a noted Canadian trade unionist, and Elmer Brown, president of the International Typographical Union; Indiana-polis.

Charles P. Armstrong, president of the University of Nevada; Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta; Senator Sitton, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press Victor Author and Walter Hutchison; Basil L. Walters, editor of Chicago Daily News; Jack White of Toronto, president of Imperial Oil Limited, and Carl Goldenberg, executive representative of Gulf Oil, New York.

The program calls for panel discussions and papers on Canada-U.S. relations, the economic energy between the two countries, labor problems and communication.

WHOLE ISLAND TO MOVE

TOKYO (AP)—The entire population of a tiny Japanese island is planning to emigrate to new homes 1,200 miles away in Brazil. They are the 60 inhabitants of Aogashima Island in the southernmost island of Kyushu. The Brazilian government has granted authorization for the immigration.

National Forest Fire Research Meeting Opens

WASKESIU, Sask. (CP) — The third national forest fire research conference opened today with a look at the progress made on studies of intriguing questions raised at its first two annual meetings.

Can lightning be changed? Can forests be fireproofed? Can public response to fire prevention campaigns be bettered?

These and other questions brought up at a 1957 conference in Charlo, N.B., and the 1958 meeting at Dorset, Ont., will be reviewed with reports from committees assigned to study them.

J. F. Rivard, chief forester of the Canadian International Paper Company, will read the reports.

Later, the preliminary program will be discussed. Fire research will be outlined by Lowell Besley of Montreal, an official of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada. There will be a question discussion.

PROTECTION STUDIES

National research council studies will be reported by T. E. Mac-Key of the forests department of lands and forests.

More than 100 delegates representing provincial, federal, state and industrial forestry organizations are attending the week-long conference at this resort 60 miles north of Prince Albert in Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan's forestry officials announced Wednesday that their methods of coping with fires in the province's 150,000 square miles of woodlands.

Cree Indians trained as forest fire fighters displayed their skills. Smokejumpers made a parachute drop despite a 15-mile-an-hour wind off Lake Waskesiu.

Alberta's forestry service introduced helicopters and winged planes in dense forest.

Eisenhower Will Tell of Plans to Meet Nikita

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower tonight may attempt to dispel what appears to be a growing sense of jitters in some of the United States over prospects of receiving Premier Khrushchev next month, it was learned this week.

In a national television and radio broadcast scheduled for 7:30 p.m. EDT the president will report to the nation on his Asian jaunt and give reasons for inviting the Soviet leader on the 13-day cross-country U.S. tour. The Khrushchev entourage arrives Sept. 15 and will leave Sept. 28.

Eisenhower has received widespread support for his decision to invite the "melt a little of the ice" in the cold war, he also has been sharply critical of the criticism persists, though he has emphasized the Soviet and North Atlantic allies colleagues overseas see eye to eye on the invitation, examine this critical facilities of Moscow.

In no mood to welcome Khrushchev, the president has made it clear long and unflattering drive to clean up its hostile and close up the Soviet boss steps down from his TU-114 jetliner.

Churchgoers looked for special prayers as a demonstration against Soviet persecution. Former Polish freedom fighter arrived in the capital on a whistle stop hunger tour to show his protest against the visit. A Wisconsin farm took out full-page newspaper advertisements, saying the Khrushchev tour was "a slap in the face" to those countries under the Soviet yoke. The firm urged Khrushchev's boost in the West: "We will bury you."

Recover Body

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The battered body of a man was recovered from the Niagara River Wednesday night by the tourist boat Maid of the Mist. Niagara Falls police said the man was in his early 30s, weighed about 200 pounds and was approximately six feet tall. He had been in the water about three days.

BUSY DAY FOR PORT

Paralyzing Epidemic Said Levelling off in Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More new polio cases were reported in Eastern Canada Wednesday but Montreal health officials said the paralyzing epidemic appears to be levelling off.

Dr. Alfred Prendr, Montreal's city health director, said the number of cases this week should indicate whether or not the epidemic will run to late September." Many cases have been hardest hit of any centre, with 38 deaths.

Seven new cases were reported in Newfoundland Wednesday, putting the province's number to toll at 8, with six deaths. An RCAF plane was due there today with aid from lungs from Montreal. The aircraft had taken other respirators to Montreal. They had been stored in Alberta warehouses since 1953 when Alberta was swept by a polio epidemic.

A Cornwall man was admitted to hospital in Ottawa with polio Wednesday bringing to 73 the number of persons stricken with the disease in the Ottawa area. He was the 12th Cornwall victim.

The Lakehead reported its first case this year when a Port Arthur baby was admitted to hospital.

Three persons suspected of having poliomyelitis were admitted to hospital in London, Ont., Wednesday, bringing the total of cases reported in the city in that area to 13.

Prince Edward Island reported its first case, a young man who had not been vaccinated.

Dr. Ernest Gendron, Deputy Health Minister, said Wednesday that supplies of Salk vaccine are adequate in Ontario.

He said Connaught Laboratories, manufacturers of the anti-polio serum, have rushed supplies and "there is no longer any rationing to branch laboratories and doctors."

Before Jan. 1, 55 cases of polio have been reported in Ontario this year, 6 were previous. Four persons have died from the disease.

MODERN SUNDIAL — This new sundial, one of seven imaginative sculptures on the grounds of a newly-opened shopping plaza centre in Winnipeg, keeps Central Standard Time accurate to the minute. It is designed by London-born Jim Willer who contributed two other works to the group. (CP Photo).

Bold Adventure in Modern Art Seen at Shopping Centre

WINNIPEG (CP)—One of Winnipeg's boldest adventures in modern art is to be found not in a hushed gallery, but on the grounds of a newly-opened shopping centre in the city's west end.

A series of seven sculptures featuring clean lines and uncluttered design were commissioned by businessmen to grace their ambitious commercial venture.

The shopper's first contact with art comes from a white sundial at the front of the centre. It consists of a 12-foot concrete ring set on its side, through which a 20-foot concrete shaft.

This is the work of London-born artist and designer Jim Willer. He also is a spare-time astronomer, which might account for his sundial being accurate to the minute in Central Standard Time.

Mr. Willer contributed two other works, both well screened. One is an abstract of two cocks crowing into the rising sun; the other is an owl in flight from a crescent moon.

The materials used are experimental: concrete stocks strung on stainless steel shafts. They were effective and stand out boldly despite the neon signs and posters of nearby stores.

Other works are a pool with acrobatic figures, a mock wall of geometric design, a fish-shaped sculpture of a group of birds in a tree, and a bronze figure of a woman reclining.

These pieces, the works of other artists, are only part of the setting. When the centre is completed they will blend in a formal pattern with shrubbery, flowers, benches—and the long, neat sweep of the bulldozer.

Future of Highly-Trained RCAF Fliers Still Uncertain

OTTAWA (CP) — How much longer can the RCAF CF-100 jet interceptor be used in Canadian air defence?

When it is finally grounded, what will become of the highly trained aircrews? Will they get an American interceptor as a replacement or will air defence be left to two 20-missile Bomarc bases in Central Canada?

The RCAF today doesn't pretend to know the answers as it peers with some dread into its clouded future. And if the government knew the answers it, which is doubtful at this time, it isn't saying.

There are nine CF-100 squadrons in Canada — at Bagotville, Que., St. Hubert, Que., Ottawa and North Bay, and Comox, Chilliwack, B.C.

RCAF officers say privately the CF-100 is fast becoming obsolete.

HOPE FOR NEW PLANE

The air force still hopes that the government will build a new interceptor for its air defence command and not try to rely entirely on two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases at North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que.

But the current attitude of the government is that the Soviet manned bomber threat to North America will be mainly long - range missiles and not bombers and there is no force it would be wasteful to make heavy expenditures for new interceptors.

The RCAF as a whole still wants manned fighters, inconceivable that the government would decline to have Canadian air space patrolled or even this job entirely to the U.S. Air Force.

If Canada gave up the policies of its own air space it would automatically give up some sovereignty, apart from the weakening of the air defence system.

THREE COMMITMENTS

In this year's government white paper on defence, the administration said the policy of Canada is to provide forces for defence against an attack on North America, for collective defence in NATO and for the United Nations.

Officials say the government has met the latter two commitments by air continuing to provide soldiers for the UN Emergency Force in Egypt and by buying a new supersonic plane, the American Starfighter, for the RCAF division in Europe.

But, they add, the ordering of the Starfighter by Ottawa is only a partial answer to the first commitment.

Only time will tell whether the government will agree with its defence chief for a new interceptor for Canadian air defence.

Until it ascertains this, the RCAF is keeping its fliggers crossed, hoping it can stay in the air for a long time yet.

Order Slaughter Of 102 Sheep

CALGARY (CP) — The federal department of agriculture has ordered the slaughter of a flock of 102 purebred sheepdogs and Rocky folk sheep as a precaution against scrapie, a disease of sheep that it was learned Wednesday.

At the same time a flock of 200 suffolks was placed under quarantine. Tests are still being made to determine whether they have been stricken by the rare disease which strikes at the brain and spinal cords of sheep and goats.

The condemned flock is owned by Tom Hudson of Kathryn, 30 miles east of here. Those quarantined belong to Harmer Mann, 10 miles south of Calgary.

Mr. Hudson said he received the department's order after a veterinarian department veterinarian spotted the disease in one of his sheep entered in the Saskatoon exhibition.

An appraisal board has been set up to decide on compensation for the destroyed flock. The money will be paid by the federal government.

Mr. Hudson's stables are cleaned and disinfected, he may go back into the sheep business in 29 days.

COAL-BASE HIGHWAY

FRANKFORT (AP) — Kentucky Wednesday laid the first strip of highway using a coal-base mixture. The project—it is experimental—could create a greatly expanded market for the coal mining industry and bring a short, cheaper and better roads.

Traffic Safety Experts Favor Breath Tests

TORONTO (CP) — Four of five traffic safety experts came out in favor of breath-analysis tests for alcohol impairment at a road safety workshop here Wednesday.

But a fifth, D. H. Scott, assistant crown attorney for Welland county, said he have no right to ask drivers to take such tests.

"I would have no right to ask fliers give evidence in impaired driving cases," he said. "It is better than evidence from a machine."

Chief James Mackey of Metropolitan Toronto police countered that there was too much concern about the rights of motorists and not enough about lives.

PERSECUTION IN FAVOR

The audience of 500 applauded when E. R. Pepper, assistant director of public prosecutions, spoke in favor of the test.

Mr. Pepper said the test did not involve any loss of civil rights. The right to drive is a privilege and a driver should be prepared to engage in any test to prove he is not abusing that privilege.

Magistrate Gerald Storie of Ottawa, Canada lawyer Barry Shapiro and Sgt. W. Wotherspoon of the North Bay department also voiced approval of the breath test.

POLL BEING REDUCED

Transport Minister Yarosmeha told the conference his plan of reducing accidents on Ontario highways by 10 per cent a year is being achieved despite an increased number of cars.

There are now 3,112 fatalities for 1959 to date, a reduction of 6 per cent from 1958. Figures for the first half of 1959 show a further reduction of 2.6 per cent, he said.

Racial Segregation Defended On CBC Show, Members Give Participant Rough Time

TORONTO (CP) — Racial segregation was defended Wednesday night by a participant on the CBC's television panel show Live a Borrowed Life.

George Rolland, a Toronto watchmaker, appeared on the show to "borrow" the life of Abraham Lincoln and went into an anti-Negro tirade when asked by panel members about Lincoln's views on segregation.

Mr. Rolland, who ran in the last Ontario provincial election under the self-styled White Canada party banner, said there was no such thing as equality between the Negro and white races.

Moderator Charles Templeton tried to interrupt but Mr. Rolland continued, apparently along the lines of a prepared speech, reciting that God didn't create all people equal.

He told the panel to look around them. People were fat and thin, black and white. If he were a Negro, he said, he would go back to the deepest, darkest part of Africa.

Panel member Anna Cameron said she wished he would.

As soon as the show ended, calls of protest began to flood into CBC switchboards.

In Winnipeg, the CBC received about 50 calls in the first hour after the show.

Bill Brown, CBC public information officer for Ontario, said about 70 calls were received in Toronto in the first hour.

"The callers said they didn't agree with Rolland's views," he said. "We certainly don't concur with his racial theories.

"Some of the callers supported Rolland's position. The panel was pretty rough with him. So was Templeton.

"There was no indication beforehand that he'd talk about this (segregation). He was supposed to talk about his music but just went off on a tangent."

Panel members were Bill Walker, Ivor Barry and Ely Yost.

On the show, participants take the life of a famous man or woman and the panel, through questioning, tries to guess who the person is. The longer they take, the more money the participant can win. Later the panel asks the participant questions on the life of the famous person. He loses money for every incorrect answer.

Mr. Rolland didn't fare too well on questions about Lincoln.

Mr. Rolland said he had written an opera called the Great Opera World War Two. Part of the opera will be played, in which Mr. Rolland was singing. He said it was great art and hoped the CBC or someone would produce it. He also said he had written a book on Hitler and a play whereby Canada could support 500,000,000 people.

Mr. Rolland was the last participant to appear on the show. The other panel members moderator said he wished he could say the appearance had been a pleasure, but it had not been so.

Chev's Corvair Enters Lists Against Falcon

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet officially joined the small - car battle today with the debut of its Corvair, first American car with the engine in the rear.

Ford unveiled its Falcon just a week ago. To come in November is Chrysler's Valiant. The Corvair will go on sale Oct. 2; the Falcon Oct. 9.

The Chevy has an air-cooled six-cylinder engine made mostly of aluminum, which Chevrolet says is what up to now always has been the trunk compartment on a Rambler car. The location is the same as in the German Volkswagen and Renault Dauphine, leaders among foreign cars.

The Corvair will be built at first only in four - door sedan models. These will weigh 2,325 pounds, will be 180 inches long, about 2½ feet shorter than the 1959 Chevrolet. four feet, three inches high and five feet, seven inches wide. The car will have a 110-horsepower, six, a two-door model will be offered early next year.

UNITIZED BODY

Like the other two new compacts, the Corvair will have what is a "unitized" body — a one-piece unit rather than a body built on a frame. American Motors' Rambler also uses this type of construction.

Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, said Wednesday in a preview that the Corvair will get 25 to 40 per cent better gasoline mileage than the standard Chevrolet six-cylinder model.

The Falcon, Ford claimed, is 60 per cent better mileage than any current production car. It should travel up to 30 miles to an American gallon of regular gas.

Ford has not yet specific miles-per-gallon claim.

WEIGHT IN REAR

Chevrolet's rear-all weight distribution of 60 per cent in the rear and 40 per cent in front, is supposed an exact reversal from front-engine cars—will give excellent traction in deep snow or ice along with light-touch steering.

Cole said Chevrolet expects to sell 300,000 Corvairs in 1960. Ford expects Corvair sales will not reduce Chevrolet sales.

Fall Is Fatal

COOKSVILLE (CP) — Eric R. Wright of Toronto was killed Wednesday and a fellow worker injured when they fell 30 feet from a steel scaffold at a plant construction site.

CMA Head Says Newspapers Live up to Responsibilities

TORONTO (CP) — Newspapers on the whole live up to their responsibilities as a vital force in Canadian life, W. H. Evans of Toronto, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today.

Canadian newspapers, he added in an address to the annual luncheon of the Business Editors' Association of Canada, have not surrendered to speculation, sensationalism and downright bad taste to anything like the extent that they have overwhelmed elsewhere in the western world have done.

"The press," he went on, continued, "do an admirable job of reporting the some depth world of aluminium and steel, of political and local affairs, and almost without exception, they do not allow the dictum of a great editor that comment is free, facts are sacred.

"If Canadians in these circumstances are ill informed, they can hardly blame their newspapers.

"Unfortunately, despite all that the press is doing to inform the people about things that matter, apathy and ignorance still abound. Even the best of entertainment features, the social items, we are told, are those of greatest interest, and recent surveys suggest that hardly more than two readers in every 10 read the whole live editorial page. Yet our newspapers continue to read editorials and serious news.

"If our newspapers are not responsible than they are and pandered to this kind of thing to a greater extent they do, then the prospect would be bleak indeed.

The true newspaper, of course, can never be content with amusing, entertaining and diverting its readers. Important though this is, indeed its basic function, which is to inform and interpret, as long as there is a view of Canadian editors I do not think we need be unduly concerned."

Mr. Evans quoted Charles H. Bland, chief librarian and president of The Canadian Press, as saying that if newspaper readers want a responsible press, they must be willing to support it. Mr. Evans added:

"This, I think, is a statement that bears repeating and deserves thought at a time when democracy as we understand it is facing its greatest ideological challenge in history."

Mr. Evans' comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Evans is president of Honeywell Controls Ltd.

Slowly But Surely English Pub Disappearing From Scene

LONDON (CP) — The English pub is changing. Slowly but surely it is losing its identity, keeping up with one of the country's oldest institutions.

Gone, or out are barn-like gin palaces with their Victorian gilt and mahogany and their pewter, and the dismal saloon bars with frosted glass windows and Stag at Bay and a plump woman with no clothes.

In their place are new, centrally - heated, air - conditioned lounges with indirect lighting, cosy bars, modern furniture and good cheese. There may even be a refrigerator.

LADIES WANT CHANGE

The new pub is a cross between a parlor, restaurant, espresso bar and a hotel restaurant. It's coming into vogue because of changing drinking habits. Mothers, wives and daughters are joining the men in the pubs. And the ladies like a pub to be clean, comfortable and bright.

The construction of new towns and big housing estates after the second World War led the government to allow licences for drinking premises to "follow the population." Result: Many new pubs have opened and the number are appearing. One of the best known is the Sherlock Holmes.

J. S. Eagles, director of a brewery, says: "The new pubs will be brighter, smaller and cosier. Many will have little bars where you can gather with your own friends. The days of furtive drinking are over."

Many pubs are being demolished. There were 103,000. Now there are 70,000. Pubs in cities, juke boxes — even coffee bars.

Today more people are interested in OUTDOOR LIVING than ever before. For many, outdoor living begins right in their own backyards. People are gearing their grounds for everything from gardening to dining and sun-basking. All with a view to putting a bit of "vacation fun" into everyday living! Result: a large responsive market for "what it takes" to give the backyard it's NEW look and NEW usefulness: patios, terraces, barbecues, outdoor furniture, outdoor lighting and a long list of accessories. People are actively looking for ideas on what to buy and WHERE to buy it. Most of them will do most of their looking in the pages of this newspaper!

Shopping for the needs and luxuries of outdoor living (like most shopping) starts in the pages of this newspaper. What better place to tell your story, if you have something to SELL to this rapidly expanding market? As always . . . to do a TOTAL selling job, use the TOTAL SELLING MEDIUM.

Major League Price Tag 's $2,500,000

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bisons, minor league baseball's most successful box office operation for the past three years, found Wednesday the price-tag for a Continental League franchise is $2,500,000.

President John C. Stiglmeier of the Buffalo club passed the word to the directors of the community-owned organization and asked for their recommendations.

The letters quoted Bill Shea, the planned third major league's prime mover, as asking for a financial statement to cover the first $1,500,000 and "an additional statement on backers who could put up another $1,000,000."

Shea also requested information on a stadium to seat at least 35,000. The Bisons expect to move into Civic Stadium next season when a remodeling program already approved by the city will be completed. Civic Stadium now seats nearly 40,000.

Fulham Whips Wolves 3-1

LONDON (Reuters) — Fulham, newly promoted to the English First Division, brought off the biggest upset of the season by defeating Wolverhampton Wanderers 3-1 Wednesday night.

The Wolves, champions for the last two years, had played 18 successive league games without a defeat, including a run of 13 to the end of last season.

Fulham was without its star England international inside-left, Johnny Haynes, but it produced the type of powerful play usually associated with its opponents.

Centre - forward John Doherty and inside - right Maurice Cook put Fulham ahead 2-0 at halftime. Alf Stokes, recently signed from Peterhead Hotspur, and filling in for Haynes at inside-left, made it 3-0 soon after the second half started.

Swim Coach Fires Back At Criticisms

TORONTO (CP) — Alex Sterner, coach of Canada's swimming team, fired back Wednesday at criticisms by Helen Stevenson Hunt of Vancouver about the way the team was run at the Pan-American Games in Chicago.

"The only discontent was by her," said Sterner, "not by the rest of the swimmers. As for training, the results proved we were right, not her."

Mrs. Hunt said Tuesday in Vancouver that there was discontent on the team and the coach would not permit swimmers to train in the manner to which they had been accustomed.

Team manager John Whitwell of Brantford termed Mrs. Hunt's accusations "baloney."

"Helen told me I was sabotaging the kids from the west," Sterner said, "but the swimmers from both East and West did better at the games than at the Canadian trials a month before — that is, everybody except Helen."

COLORFUL DUCK

The male mallard, among the most popular of game birds, has a bright green head and a purple mark on the wings.

On the Tracks

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Round Table, the world's leading all-time money winning horse, has been chosen for the third straight year to represent the United States in the $100,000 Washington D. C. International Race here Nov. 11.

The American selection board also voted to extend invitations to Mrs. Dodge, Sinner's Sword Dancer and C. W. Smith's Hillsdale, to compete against foreign entries in the eighth annual 1½ mile turf race.

Travis M. Kerr declined the two previous bids to race Round Table in the International, but acceptance is considered more likely this time because the 5-year-old is expected to be placed in stud next spring.

Round Table many times has carried 130 pounds or more in the latter stages of his career while compiling earnings of more than $1,600,000.

Creswell Joins Varsity Blues

LAKE COUCHICHING (CP)—The sun shone more brightly Wednesday on the University of Toronto Blues' football training camp here with the arrival of veteran halfback Dave Creswell.

Creswell reported to camp after deciding to take an extra year at university to get a master's degree in economics and a fifth year in intercollegiate football.

With the spine of last year's championship team—backs Tim Reid and Peter Joyce, quarterback Brian Adams and flying wing Dave Pinkham — gone, coach Dalt White had been facing the chore of manufacturing a new power unit for the Blues.

"We can use Creswell," he said, "I think he could make a Big Four club right now."

Says Partridge Hunters May Be Disappointed

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—Shotgunners who favor the wild, fast-flying Hungarian partridge as autumn targets may be in for a disappointing year and the Ontario lands and forests department is not sure why.

Reproduction does not appear to have been high in what generally is considered the best hunting range in Eastern Ontario, says biologist J. R. Dawson.

The reason is a bit of a mystery. The birds appeared to have weathered a severe winter well, during the crucial hatching season.

Mr. Dawson said the furtive hens normally show up in larger numbers as September progresses.

"As of now, however, we predict a slightly lower hun population that the moderately good crop which existed last fall," he said.

Latta Defeats Read to Force Seventh Game

Latta evened their South Hastings baseball league finals at three games apiece last night by handing Read an 8-6 setback on the losers' home diamond.

The seventh and deciding game is slated for Sunday afternoon at the Bellevills Fairgrounds. Game time is two o'clock.

Latta built an early 6-0 lead last evening but had to struggle hard in the final three frames as Read came roaring back with one run in the fifth, two in the sixth and three in the final stanza. Latta's two runs in the sixth proved to be the margin of victory.

Stan "Lefty" Reid hurled the victory for Latta, allowing eight hits, striking out a dozen Read batters and walking but three.

Don Masters started on the losers' hill with Percy Milligan taking over in the second inning. They were tagged for 14 hits. Masters fanned two, Milligan whiffed seven and passed a pair.

Cam Buskard spearheaded Latta's offensive with two doubles and as many singles. Doug Rollins and Ross Parks each had one and one while Frank Ray, Wayne Gow and Don Harris picked up a brace of singles each. Reid and Bob Sullivan also hit safely.

Kenny Brennan and Baz Hanley led Read with a double and single apiece. Doubles by Dick Walsh and Tom Caffery plus one-baggers by John Shannon and Carl McMechan rounded out the attack.

British Car Breaks Land Speed Record

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — A British racing car broke the international land speed record for 12 hours of continuous driving on the western Utah salt flats Wednesday.

The EX-219 Austin-Healy Sprite averaged 138.75 miles an hour, breaking the record of 118.3 miles an hour set on the flats by the same car—only this year it had a new engine (four cylinders, super-charged, 850 c.c.).

Tommy Wisdom of London, England, Gus Ehrman of Greenwich, Conn., and Ed Leavens of London, took turns at the wheel.

Nine other international class G records fell during the 12 hours.

The Sprite, built by British Motor Corporation, travlled 1,665 miles in the 12 hours, been a standing point.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian capital Tuesday saw something new in its centuries-old history — a protest march by about 500 donkeys. They marched in absolute silence except for an occasional braying chorus while their masters shouted full-throated slogans demanding abolition of the tax on donkeys and repeal of laws against overloading them.

June Allyson Aims to Make Show Appealing to Women

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

"I just wish I was good enough to beat par without getting mad enough to break clubs!"

NEW YORK (AP) — One new television series, at least, promises to be daringly different. June Allyson, hostess and sometime star of her own forthcoming Du Pont show, announces that it is aimed especially at women.

That is gratifying news coming at a time when the meat and potatoes of the viewing season seem largely devoted to brawn, guns, horses and patrol cars—not exactly every women's dream of a steady entertainment diet.

"We're going to give women some good hit-hour dramas—the kind that will even give them a chance to have a good cry or a good laugh," says the petite actress.

Miss Allyson's show will star such seasoned and popular women stars as Irene Dunne, Bette Davis, Ann Harding and Ginger Rogers.

"Now they are stars who look like themselves—not like every other actress in Hollywood," continues Miss Allyson, who also looks undisputably like June Allyson. "And my outfits are in good taste—wonderful beautiful, feminine, simple clothes."

It's too bad nobody can find a fall spot for Andy Williams and company who have been doing such an imaginative and delightful job all summer in the Garry Moore spot . . . Frankie Khrushchev's United States visit, starting next Wednesday, will be covered by TV and radio more thoroughly than anything since the first world series and may possibly raise bob with regular program schedules . . . Ingrid Bergman arrives in New York Saturday to start rehearsals for Henry James' "Turn of the Screw," which will be taped and presented on NBC's Starlight Tuesday, Oct. 20. It's Miss Bergman's TV debut. . . . Arthur Godfrey, recuperating from lung cancer surgery, will be host at a salute to the Eleanor Roosevelt Cancer Research Institute on NBC Sunday Oct. 25.

Recommended tonight: President Eisenhower's European report, all U.S. networks 7:30-7:45 p.m. EDT; Slaccalo, NBC 8:30 p.m.—premiere of a series about a jazz pianist who doubles as a private eye; Playhouse 90, Faulkner's Old Man, CBS 9:30 p.m.—repeat of an especially good show.

WIDE COVERAGE

In the United States, 99-per cent of families live in areas served by television.

AT THE BELLE — Two Top Stars — Susan Hayward and Jeff Chandler, bring a fiery romance to life, in Paramount's big western outdoor spectacle, only on the big theatre screen, and in color, "Thunder in the Sun", due today at the air conditioned Belle Theatre. Drama co-stars Jacques Bergerac and Blanche Yurka. Three Technicolor featurettes, precede the feature attraction.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jody Fair and Nancy Anderson have a drag race to settle an argument as to who is going to be top girl in the Zenith Car Club. This is a scene in Amerstan International's "The Ghost of Dragstrip Hollow", playing Friday and Saturday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. Also on the same program, is "The Diary of a High School Bride", featuring Anita Sands and Ronald Foster.

Jumps in Income Followed The Front-Page Headlines

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movies' two highest-paid feminine stars of the moment are the central figures of the two biggest movie scandals of the decade.

And in both cases, the big jump in income followed the front-page headlines. The stars, of course, are Lana Turner and Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Turner's first picture after her teen-aged daughter fatally stabbed the actress' underworld sweetheart, Johnny Stompanato, was Imitation of Life. For it, she was offered the best deal of her career—50 per cent of the profits. Producer Ross Hunter estimates that the actress' cut of the box - office click—Universal-International's biggest of the year—already is $2,000,000.

"And that's minimum," says Hunter. "Heaven knows how much higher it may go."

Miss Taylor, since the triangle headlines with Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds, has become the only million-dollar salary actress in the business. Marlon Brando is the only other star with that kind of price tag on his services.

It was long after the headlines that Miss Taylor's agent had received $750,000 plus 10 per cent of the gross for her appearing in Suddenly, Last Summer and Two For the See Saw.

The $1,000,000 tag—also with 10 per cent of the gross—was reported this week by producer Walter Wanger who wants her for his Cleopatra.

One studio source, asking anonymity, claims that scripts, good or bad, alone can make or break a talented performer—not headlines.

"Take the case of Ingrid Bergman. Her scandal in 1949 was a doozy but it coincided with three flops in a row—Arch of Triumph, Joan of Arc and Stromboli. Her timing was bad.

"The result was that if looked as if she were washed up despite enormous talent. Then along came Anastasia, an academy award, Indiscreet and a few others. She's on top again.

"Imitation of Life was, above all, a good movie. A tear-jerker, but a good tear-jerker. Lana's riding high.

"When Liz' trouble broke in the papers she was just out with Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, a smash that earned her an Oscar nomination. One theatre owner told me worriedly that audiences hissed Liz' first appearance on the screen.

"I asked him: 'Are your seats filled?' He replied: 'Yes, every night, it's the best business we've had all year.'

"So I told him: 'Let 'em hiss as long as they pay to do it.'"

Casey Denies Snider Yarns About Deals

NEW YORK (AP) — When did he become a front office man? asked Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, when told that Duke Snider, Los Angeles outfielder, had talked about possible trades involving the two clubs in a California radio interview.

Snider mentioned Tuesday night that Johnny Podres, headed for the Yankees in exchange for Elston Howard, catcher - outfielder - infielder. He also mentioned a possible deal that would bring Don Drysdale, another Dodger hurler to New York for Gil McDougald, infielder, and another player.

"I'm surprised that Snider is the spokesman for the Los Angeles club, I thought he was an outfielder," said Stengel. "Some of them deals might even come true," he added.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Long about this time of the year there comes a strange gleam in the eyes of such gentlemen as Guy Hardwick, Joe Legault, Jim McKenzie, Jack Fitzgerald, Bill Bateman, to mention just a few.

In the newspaper business, like any other, when you figuratively rub shoulders with a chap during the balmy spring and hot summer, not to mention the humid early months of the autumn, you more or less get to know him.

Especially a guy like Mr.Ken Hardwick, who has the uncanny faculty of being the same the year round. And so it happens that when any change takes place it is easily noticeable.

The first year (two decades ago) the change had us more or less puzzled. But with the thing occurring annually over that period of time, it is no longer a puzzle. The change origins to show itself around the first of September.

By some slip of the tip or was it the tip of the typewriter we happened to mention the word "bowling" before we had settled into the post-vacation routine. The magic of the word brought a flash of youth to the Hardwick cheek — and 5 publicity releases by the next mail from the whimsical typewriter of one James McKenzie.

The gentlemen in question are members of that august society of the kegling alleys, the year-old Quinte Classic Bowling League. This yearling of the strike lanes is directing its junior activities with promises of a lush, blast future even if it does have some different phases than three of veteran counterparts.

For instance the QCBL is unique in the fact that its teams are four-man affairs instead of the conventional five. There also no pairers. Spare will be drawn against the total and it is hoped the new system will insure that no team will have to compete at any time with less than a full complement of four bowlers.

Teams have been re-balanced for the coming semester and will bowl four games per night. Old "enemies," in some cases, will now be bowling buddies, and one league executive has stated he would not be surprised to see the eight teams finish the very last session all bunched up.

The Quinte League introduced the 3-3-3-3 scoring system to Belleville last year and since that time the system has been declared the official scoring method for the entire nation. Perhaps, as Myles McKenzie facetiously remarks, the nation will adopt the Quinte Classic's four-man system."

The Classics will tee off for the season on Friday, September 18. Classics have a new starting time of 6.45 at the Bowl-O-Drome and have eight teams. They are Stedman Stores; Bata; Moulton's Sunoco Services; George Lyon's Elaine Footwear; McDougall's Insurance; Bata; Parsons' Cleaners; Seven-Up and Murray Hunter's Sea Foods (1958 champions.)

The boys are having a pre-season get-together at the Drome tomorrow night to loosen their bowling muscles. The fun gets under way at 6.45 and all league members are invited. As an incentive, prizes will be awarded the top efforts of the evening.

Indians Sweep Twin-Header But Chicago Whips Senators; Drysdale Shakes Losing Jinx

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

You might say Cleveland Indians have been streaking along at a standstill in the American League pennant chase.

They've won six in a row, seven of their last eight and 15 of the last 20 since Aug. 18 but are right where they were when they started—4½ games behind Chicago's first-place White Sox.

The Sox, 17-7 in that same span, won their fourth in a row and reduced their magic number to 12 by beating Washington 5-1 Wednesday night as the two contenders opened their last trips through the east.

Cleveland stayed with them by sweeping a twi - night doubleheader at Baltimore, beating the Orioles 3-2 and 4-1.

Chicago has 13 games left, Cleveland 12.

TIGERS, YANKS WIN

Detroit held on to third place with a 3-1 victory at Boston on a three-hit pitching job by Jim Bunning (16-11) and Al Kaline's two-run homer. New York, half a game behind the Tigers, handed Kansas City its fifth consecutive loss, 4-0, as Art Ditmar (12-8) and Whitey Ford combined for a four-hitter.

The White Sox, outhit 7-6, made it 11 in a row over the last place Senators by breaking a 1-1 tie with four runs in the seventh, three unearned. They scored a single run without a hit, then sprung their rally on three singles—with only one getting past the infield.

They did it in the seventh on a walk, two errors, Al Smith's single to centre, Jim Rivera's single off the shin of loser Tex Clevenger and a run - scoring fly ball by Bob Shaw and Luis Aparicio's sacrifice fly.

It was little Looie who counted their first run, getting around with a walk, Nellie Fox's stolen base, an infield out and Jim Landis's fly.

Shaw (15-6) gave up seven hits while beating Washington for fourth time.

The Indians scored all of their first-game runs in the last three frames, twice coming from behind before putting it away in the ninth when George Strickland singled to centre and came all the way home with the ball pursuit Willie Tasby, Southpaw Jack Harshman (6-9), beat his ex-mates with a five-hitter — his first win since Aug. 6.

Hoak, Jerry (11-7) then beat the Birds with a five-hitter in the second game. The Indians broke up it with a single by Minnie Minoso and a two-out double by Rocky Colavito off Skinny Brown (9-8) in the sixth.

One game, or one play. Even one hit. That may be the turning point in the National League's three-way scrap for the pennant. The one game, one play or one hit may have been put away Wednesday night.

The big game went to Don Drysdale, the righthander who has lost six games in a row and was on the spot in any hopes for a flag for Los Angeles Dodgers. He broke the slump with his first victory in a month, getting it with a three - hitter that beat Philadelphia Phillies 1-0.

The big play was Wally Moon's, the single after they had been held to two hits for eight innings.

THREE BACK

That left the Braves, who have won four in a row for the first time in more than a month, and the Dodgers in a tie for second, three games behind San Francisco Giants. The Giants kept their edge by whipping Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2.

Cincinnati Redlegs beat Chicago Cubs twice, winning the opener 4-3 in 10 innings and the nightcap, held to five innings because of darkness, 7-2.

Drysdale (16-12) came through with his first complete game in seven starts. He was bagged for two triples—by Joe Koppe and Ed Bouchee—and hit three batters, but he didn't walk a man and struck out 11.

Moon's run came in the sixth. He opened with a single and made his move when Johnny Lazer, trying to bunt, popped foul. Sawatski bade a diving stab of the ball. Before he could get up, Moon was off, but Sawatski's throw to second to retire Lazer for the forced out ended the inning.

Avila's shot gave Warren Spahn his 19th victory. Ernie Broglio (6-12) had held the Braves batless from Joe Adcock's 23rd home run in the second inning until Adcock singled leadoff in the fifth. Then Johnny Logan and Del Crandall singled, loading the bases with one out.

Hank Aaron scored three runs in the fifth inning on one hit. Two scored as the Pirates missed on an attempted double play—set with Willie Mays scampering home from second as first base man Dick Stuart argued the call. Jack Sanford (13-12), who had lost three in a row, won it with Stu Miller's hitless two - inning mopup. Harvey Haddix (11 - 11) was the loser, giving up Mays' 27th homer.

Mantle Heads All-Star Team

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle will head a group of America League all-stars in a game against National League all-stars at Connie Mack Stadium here Oct. 10.

The announcement was made by Eddie Gottlieb, promoting the game along with Sid Gordon, former major league star, and Frank Forbes, a former scout. 6-3, 6-4.

The rain failed to save Vic Seixas, the 36 - year - old former Wimbledon champion from Philadelphia whose once sturdy legs and ailing tennis arm failed him in a match with Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, the national clay court champion.

Seixas won the first two sets from Bartzen but folded in the intervening heat to lose 2-6, 8-10, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1.

Brooklyn Boy Dark Horse Of Tennis

FORREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Dark horse Barbara Knapp and Neale Fraser, moved resolutely into the men's and women's finals Wednesday as a big blond boy from Brooklyn emerged as the dark horse of the national tennis championships.

Ron Holmberg, 21 - year - old Indiana University sophomore, flatbush scored a second straight upset by beating seventh-seeded Earl Buchholz Jr. of St. Louis in a carry-over match 6-3, 7-5, 8-10, 6-1, 6-3.

Earlier, Holmberg had come of competitive age by erasing former Wimbledon champion Art Savitt, also in five sets.

The second - seeded Fraser, hard-serving Australian who almost singlehandedly won back the Davis Cup for Australia, beat an intermittent downpour with a brisk 6-0, 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Bobby Hernandez of Detroit.

Olmedo, the tournament's top-seeded Peruvian, merely toyed with 18 - year - old junior David Cupper Charles McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., 6-2, 6-4.

Sam Snead's Snide Remarks Have Golf Officials Irked

"Now if this were the hole before, I'd have a par. Put me down for a 121"

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Remarks Sam Snead made about penurious payments to a defending champion and a $500 fine if he didn't defend his title in a golf tournament had the old Slammer in bad with the Professional Golfers' Association today.

Snead, here to play in the $25,000 Dallas Open, in which he won first money the last two years, was criticized by Harvey Rayzor, PGA tournament emperisor, for shooting "a complete lack of co-operation with tournament golf" which has made him a wealthy man."

Snead kept tournament officials here in suspense because he wouldn't file his entry until the last moment. He was reported earlier to be seeking appearance money.

However, when he arrived here Wednesday Snead said he had held back his entry because of a conflict with an event that was organized at the hotel which employs him in West Virginia.

He was quoted in the press as criticizing the $500 he would receive as defending champion and also saying that the fine is defending champion faced for not appearing was unjustified.

Rayzor issued a statement saying: "We don't feel that he should have any complaints about regulations if he were a true professional golfer."

The tournament players themselves make these rules. The regulation Snead referred to is for the sole purpose of protecting the integrity of professional golf. The money a man wins for winning the championship is certainly worthy of his reappearance.

"We all know that the $200 he is guaranteed is not enough to cover plane fare here and expenses to be in the tournament. But the sponsors' fund from which this is taken cannot afford any more. Yet it is the defending champion's duty to the game and to the sponsor to appear."

Bisons, Jets Are Defeated In Openers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It would almost appear as if there might have been a bit of possum-playing by Richmond and Havana during the regular International League season.

Both of these teams knocked off the favorites Wednesday night as the loop's best-of-seven semi-final series got under way. The playoffs will decide a winner to meet the American Association champ in the little world series.

Richmond used pennant-winner Buffalo's favorite weapon, the home run, to whelt the Bisons 8-4 and Havana lopped Columbus, the second-place team, 5-3.

Fritz Brickell's three run, sixth-inning homer off reliever Max Surkont propelled Richmond to its victory. Deron Johnson started the fireworks two innings earlier with a two-run homer off Buffalo starter and loser Ken Lehman. Ruben Amaro homered for Buffalo.

Righthander Zack Monroe was the winning pitching six innings with a shutout blip of Buffalo's 10 hits. Johnny James finished up.

Ray Shearer's eighth - inning homer broke a 2-2 tie in second Havana game as he off reliever Dave Jiminez, who struck out 11 Cubans in six innings. Havana nailed it down with a pair in the ninth. Joe Christopher hit a two-run homer for Columbus.

Joe Gibbon started for Columbus but didn't survive the third inning, giving two runs on four hits and four walks. Ted Wieand got the victory, scattering five hits in the eight innings he worked.

Gale Kerwin Knocked Out By Joe Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A technical knockout by world lightweight champion Joe Brown in the fourth round Wednesday night ended the hopes of Canadian welterweight champion Gale Kerwin for a climb into U.S. ring prominence.

Brown of Houston, Tex., won the non-title charity bout here in one minute and 50 seconds of the fourth after Kerwin suffered a gash over his left eye.

Referee Jack Dempsey halted the fight, called the ringside physician to examine Kerwin and awarded the win to Brown.

"This was my dream fight and I lost it," wept Kerwin. "I'm sorry it happened this way. I was coming strong and the punch didn't hurt me."

The 24 - year - old Tron Ottawa had been out of action for about a year and hoped to use Wednesday night's bout as a stepping stone.

The match gave Brown, who weighed 139½ to Kerwin's 140, his 74th victory (30th knockout) against 16 losses, nine draws and two non-contests. Kerwin now has a 28-9-1 mark.

The only knockdown came in the second round when a right to the head dropped Kerwin. He was up at six but an eight count was mandatory. He came back to win on a third - round knockout.

Brown was slightly ahead on points, however, on the cards of the three judges for the first three rounds.

In his dressing room the busy Brown, who fought for the second time in two weeks, remarked that Kerwin needed more experience.

Max Kaminsky TeePee Coach

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Max Kaminsky, former National Hockey League and American Hockey League player, has been named coach of the St. Catharines TeePees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Rudy Pilous, general manager of the TeePees, announced Wednesday that Kaminsky a native of Niagara Falls, Ont., and now a resident of Niagara Falls, N.Y., would handle the team for the 1959-60 season.

Kaminsky, 46, has a lengthy hockey background. He started in Niagara Falls with junior A and senior A teams and signed professional with the old Ottawa Senators of the NHL in the 1932-33 season.

He also played with Boston and St. Louis of the NHL, Buffalo and Pittsburgh of the AHL and for three years managed Philadelphia Rockets, also of the AHL.

Since coaching a Niagara Falls Ont., senior B team in 1955-56 season Kaminsky has been out of hockey but has retained a keen interest in the game.

He replaces former NHL star Hamm, near Toronto.

Rangers Open Training Camp

NIAGRA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— A total of 23 regulars and hopefuls took part in opening workouts Wednesday for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League as coach Phil Watson had goalies Gump Worsley and Marcel Paille in action.

Despite the 82-degree temperature outside, the ice remained in good condition until late afternoon.

Bill Sweeney, Dean Prentice and Lou Fontinato were absent due to the funeral of Roy Mason in Guelph. Missing from the afternoon grind were Andy Bathgate Eddie Shack and Harry Howell all of whom received permission to attend the funeral of their former manager during their amateur career with the Guelph's junior Biltmores.

Of the five newcomers to the Ranger fold this season, Watson gave the closest scrutiny to forward Brian Cullen, obtained from the Toronto Marlboros, and defenceman Cushenan, obtained from the Montreal Canadiens.

Cullen appears to have weathered the torrid summer in great condition and was skating exceptionally well for his first day at camp. The hunky Cushenan could be a help as Rangers suffered from a lack of rearguard depth last campaign.

Others seeking to break into the regular line-up this year are Paille, Bill Sweeney, Les Colwill and Jerry Foley from the American Hockey League, Buffalo Bisons, Ed Hoekstra from the Chicago Black Hawk chain and Ted Hampson from Vancouver.

Chuvalo Wants To Fight Yvon Durelle

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo says he is "anxious" to defend his boxing title against Yvon Durelle of Isle Ste. Anne, N.B., because it would help him to regain world ranking.

"I'm very anxious to meet Durelle or anybody that'll help me get back into the ratings," he said Wednesday. "Remember, it took only one fight for me to make it before with Alex Miteff and one for me to be bounced out (with Roy McMurtry)."

Chuvalo is in training for Monday night's 10-round bout here with Frankie Daniels of Bakersfield, Calif.

Durelle is the British Empire and Canadian light-heavyweight champion and has been reported considering moving into heavyweight ranks.

Rundown, Always Tired Food Caused Indigestion

Also Suffered From Dull Backache. Tells of Grand Relief by Taking Syntona

If you feel tired, worn-out and nerves are on edge; if stomach is giving trouble with gas, indigestion, sour acidity and heartburn and you have backache, headaches and rheumatic pains, take the advice of others who have found relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound.

Tells His Experience

Mr. Harold Roberts, 162 Maitland Street, London, Ontario kindly recommends Syntona and recently said in a letter regarding his health:

"I was sick and suffered terribly from indigestion and nervousness for a long time. I was always tired, had this dull, aching pain across my back and my nerves were all on edge. Often I couldn't get my proper sleep at night and was really downright miserable.

"About a month ago I read about Syntona and decided to try it. Since then I've been taking that medicine every day and can't begin to tell you how fine I feel. I'm not tired, my nerves are strong without all that gas, sourness and heartburn after-eating and my nerves are calmed down so that I get sound refreshing sleep at night. Syntona has relieved my dull pain in my back and I feel like a different person."

Pleasant To Take

Why not let this great herbal medicine help you as it has so many others? Syntona acts on the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood and relieves rheumatic pains, nervousness, headaches and tired, rundown conditions. It's pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

No Appeasement With Khrushchev Says Eisenhower

President Urges Visitors Be Treated With Dignity

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower has given firm assurance there will be no appeasement, no "auction block" bargaining with Premier Khrushchev during the Russian's 13-day United States tour.

In effect, he told a national radio and television audience Thursday night, if Khrushchev wants a summit conference he'll have to come up with some pretty good proposals which the Western powers can consider.

In addition, Khrushchev will have to acknowledge and respect Western rights in West Berlin so that the freedom of West Berlin-ers may be secured. His may be tough for Khrushchev to swallow, as he has virtually told the Western powers to get out of Berlin

OTHER CONDITIONS

Aside from the security of Berlin, Eisenhower said, prior to a summit meeting includes: Some clear Soviet indication, no matter how small, that serious negotiations will bring about real progress of consequence. This may test world tensions.

If all this is done, then the West is ready to negotiate practically anything, but more particularly a peaceful solution to the terms of a divided Germany and greater exchange of East and West peoples.

The choice before world leaders is momentous, Eisenhower said. It was his "profound hope" that some real progress could be made in the meetings with Khrushchev, "though no one should attempt to predict such an outcome."

The amount of progress achieved would be up to Khrushchev.

The invitation to Khrushchev and his family to visit the U.S. was designed to show him how people live in freedom and to impress on him the basic convictions "on major issues of the day, including West Berlin."

Eisenhower's broadcast appearance was designed to offset criticism of the visit and to reassure those in the U.S. who feel uneasy about the Soviet leader's presence.

He urged that the Khrushchev family be treated with "courtesy and dignity."

He offered a prayer that Khrushchev's visit "will be productive of significance of human liberty and dignity.

Harkness Throws Cold Water on U.S. Complaints

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness Thursday threw cold water on heated complaints by American farm groups against Canada's proposed new egg price support program.

The complaints, he said in an interview, were based on a complete misconception of what the program will do.

Meanwhile, official American sources here indicated that the U.S. agriculture department is not as worked up over the plan as are U.S. farm groups.

The American complaints — voiced chiefly by the farm bureau, a leading farm organization—are that the Canadian support plan might mean subsidized exports of Canadian eggs into the U.S. market.

Mr. Harkness said that view seems to be based on a fear that the program will greatly increase Canadian production.

POST DECREASE

The effect of it, as far as we can see, will be to decrease production in line with available markets."

The new Canadian program, effective Oct. 1, will replace the present scheme of government egg purchases with a plan of deficiency payments.

Instead of buying eggs to support the price, the government will let the market find its own level and then make deficiency payments if the average return to farmers over a year falls below a stipulated floor.

Mr. Harkness said this quota will be based on the production from specified flocks of about 40 to 500 hens.

"In any production over that, he said, a farmer either would have to sell on the open market for what he could get or would have whatever price the egg board may bring or else sell his egg production if the price is not profitable.

Officials here say there has been little export of Canadian eggs to the U.S.

"With the UMS, price as low as it is," one said, "it's not likely there will be much shipped in the future."

The egg support program has been an expensive one in the past. It cost $5,400,000 in the fiscal year ended March 31 in losses on resale of eggs purchased. But that didn't count losses on unsold stocks on hand totalling 5,000,000 dozen at March 31.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Sunday's Cold northerly winds drove temperatures down to the low 50s in Southern Ontario Thursday night. Frost was reported in Hanket effect resulting from cloud patches. The cool air over Ontario today will be characterized by partly cloudy skies, diminishing winds and temperatures ranging from the high 60s in Southern Ontario to the mid-30s farther north. Clear skies combined with light winds tonight will allow temperatures to take another drop, sufficient to cause some local ground frost in low-lying areas that are susceptible. Fine weather is forecast to continue today with slowly rising temperatures.

PAUL SAUVE, 52, SWORN IN AS QUEBEC PREMIER

Few Changes Are Seen in Cabinet

QUEBEC (CP) — Hon. Paul Sauve today was sworn in as premier of Quebec after choosing a 20-member cabinet, largely unchanged from that which served under the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

Maurice Bellemare, 47, Union Nationale member for Champlain, was added to the cabinet as a minister without portfolio. Mr. Bellemare has been chief party whip.

Hon. Antoine Rivard, 60, was given the attorney-general's portfolio which Mr. Duplessis had held personally during his long term of office. Mr. Rivard retained his transport department portfolio.

Premier Sauve also retained for the time being the youth and welfare portfolio which he held before Mr. Duplessis' death.

POST MAY VANISH

There were indications that the post of solicitor-general with Mr. Morris held in addition to the transport department portfolio would disappear in the new cabinet. Mr. Duplessis had revived the post in bringing Mr. Rivard into the cabinet.

Premier Sauve presented the list of cabinet ministers to Lieutenant-Governor Onesime Gagnon. Soon afterwards, he and members of the cabinet took the oath of allegiance and the oath of secrecy.

Mr. Sauve and the three Sauve children watched the ceremonies in the office of Mr. Gagnon at the legislature building.

Mr. Sauve, at 52 the senior member of the Quebec legislature in years of service, was named premier Thursday night a few hours after Mr. Duplessis' body had been placed in his native Trois-Rivieres.

Patrolman Walter Suchara, 38, was struck on the head with a chair when, he said, a 16-year-old hit him with a chair as he sought to question him. Three other officers were treated for bruises and sprains and released.

ATLANTIC CITY; N.J. (AP)— Two members of the RCMP are wandering around this resort, but they're not looking for their man.

They're looking for girls — women.

The purpose of the Mounties' visit is "to promote goodwill for Canada and the province of New Brunswick."

Their presence here is the culmination of 16 years of effort on the part of F. Radcliffe Weaver of Hamilton, the Miss Canada Pageant executive director.

Adamson, a good-looking 27-year-old bachelor, said:

Sailors Charge Communism Against Segment of Congress

OTTAWA (CP) — Fighting a rearguard action, the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor in India has thrown the charge of communism against a segment of the ruling Congress Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CCL).

The Saskatoon, thrown out of the Canadian Labor Congress executive by the Brotherhood east and west, brought up communism in a resolution which was a new move before the Canada Labor Relations Board Thursday. It skips the rest of the writ case.

It was in the Board's hands on which the 23,000 - member brotherhood seeks to supplant the 10,000-member Seafarers' Union, ing spent and smoke it off on the Pacific.

A bigger and tougher fight may loom next year on the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes where the Seafarers now control most seamen's jobs. But there the brotherhood already has licked them for land - based seaway workers.

The SIU — which originally was formed in Canada by expelling up the Communist-led Canadian Seamen's Union in a open-shooting war. The Communist issue Thursday as the brotherhood ran up a big victory in a crewsweep on a Vancouver, ship owned by British-Yukon Navigation Limited.

Seafarers' counsel Duncan K. MacTavish of Ottawa, former president of the National Liberal Federation, said the union case boils tends the brotherhood's new marine local at Vancouver has come under Communist control.

Seamen Thomas Osborne of Vancouver, an SIU member who said he is a reformed member of the Communist party, declared he had known James Cocks, provisional president of the local, as a Communist several years ago. He said Cocks had told him six months ago he still was active in the party.

The 25-year-old Cocks said he was a 1954-55 party member but had no connection with it since and had not spoken to Osborne in two years.

Norman Cunningham, another Vancouver SIU man, said William Brannigan, financial secretary of the local, had been a Communist in 1949. Brannigan was not present at the hearing.

Board chairman C. Rhodes Smith, who reserved decision on the brotherhood application, indicated the board would not place much weight on claims of communism on the part of individual union members, so long as this did not affect general union operation.

Heat Followed By Frost Threat in S. Ontario

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Southern Ontario's heat-wrapped cover of the last month has gone and in its wake comes the threat of frost tonight.

A cold front swept down from the northwest Thursday bringing an end to the stifling heat and dropped temperatures Thursday night in most southern areas of the province.

In Northern Ontario, the thermometer dipped 21 at the Pickle River, coldest spot in the province. Timmins was 31, one degree below freezing, while in Beardmore it snowed, although the temperature was only 42 degrees at the time.

Frost warnings in the low 40s were predicted for tonight for all of Ontario, in the Hilliard Burnside area north of Toronto, farmers today were preparing smudge pots to guard their crops from frost.

For the weekend sunny weather with highs of 75 is forecast for most of Southern Ontario.

Canadian Ship Saves Ohio Couple Adrift for Three Days on Lake Erie

DETROIT (AP)—A 60-year-old Ohio steel worker and his wife, "frightened but thankful," were taken ashore here Thursday night by a Canadian freighter which had rescued them after three harrowing days and nights in a open boat on Lake Erie.

Paul Laughlin of West Youngstown and his wife, Edith, both 48, were taken off the freighter D. C. Everest by a coast guard launch in the Detroit River. The Everest is owned by the Interlake Corporation of Canada, with headquarters in Toronto.

Although appearing tired and wearing clothing donated by the Canadian freighter's crew members, Mr. and Mrs. Laughlin were relaxed and none the worse for the ordeal as they stepped ashore.

"But it was a godsend that ship came along," Laughlin said here, "or I wouldn't have been here."

Laughlin, wearing a hunter's cap and a heavy jacket loaned him aboard the Everest, said he now has had enough fishing—"I'll never get that close again."

The couple said they left Conneaut, Ohio, Monday afternoon to fish in Laughlin's 16-foot outboard-powered boat.

"A little ways out we began having motor trouble," Laughlin said. "The gasoline kept breaking in the motor as fast as I could put it in. Then a downpour came and everything in my tackle box after I was out of the regular motor.

"After a while I ran out of things to use.

"I rowed and rowed and rowed, but couldn't make any headway. I rowed like every fool I rowed forward the wind would push us back five feet."

They had only some rolls to eat and lake water to drink during the ordeal. They had two nights adrift.

Laughlin said several freighters passed them but either failed to see them or didn't realize they were in distress.

Capt. George Matheson, skipper of the Everest, said his vessel also probably would not have seen the couple if it had been daylight. Lights were seen from the ship at 6 a.m.

Both of the couple was flashing s o s signals with a small flashlight," Matheson said.

DRIVER TRAINING COURSE IN ONT. SCHOOLS URGED

Education Minister Ready to Co-operate

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Road Safety Workshop was told Thursday that driver education must start during the earliest years of school attendance.

"The education program should be continued and intensified," said RCMP Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac, "so that when the higher tens - age bracket is reached, a full awareness will have been gained of the power and danger of the machine which is under the young driver's control."

James Mackey, Metropolitan Toronto police chief, another speaker at the meeting, said it is his department's policy to school in the Metro area offers a driver training program.

EXPENSE TRAINING

Driver education in the schools was endorsed by most of the 18 workshops held during the two day meeting attended by about 170 delegates.

One workshop, representing labor, brought a resolution to the effect that driver training courses as an integral part of the Ontario school curriculum.

Education Minister Dunlop has already indicated his government is in favor of driver education program as an after-school basis.

D. H. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Labor, said labor should play a greater role in safety promotion.

China's Leaders Meet To Consider Border Dispute

Silence Shrouds Study Of Quarrel With India

PEKING (Reuters)—The standing committee of Red China's parliament, the National People's Congress, assembled here today to discuss the frontier dispute with India, surrounded by a wall of official silence.

Foreign ministry officials told reporters that all they knew about the session was a brief announcement issued late Thursday night that the meeting would take place today.

Observers said there were signs that the committee began its deliberations this morning in the Great Hall of the People's Congress. (Hual Jean Tang) inside the high vermillion walls of the former imperial city which now houses the government quarter.

Scores of troops drove through the gate in the western wall of the imperial city, guarded by armed sentries, and up its dilapidated palace with a green-tiled roof which is the usual meeting place of the People's Congress.

PERMANENT BODY

The committee is a permanent body elected by congress to act on its behalf when congress is not in session. Its functions and powers include interpreting laws, adopting decrees, supervision of the work of the government and ratifying or abrogating treaties with foreign states.

The committee has 62. members, but the fact it is meeting with members also were present.

Observers thought it likely that the standing committee would meet under the usual chairman, veteran Communist Marshal Chu Teh, and probably hear a report on the frontier dispute from Premier Chou En-lai.

Observers said it was unusual for a standing committee meeting to meet meeting in advance, as first news of such a meeting usually comes when it is all over.

TOKYO (AP)—Asian Communists are talking peace through "friendly negotiations" on two fronts—the India - China border and in Laos, but are giving no indication of a readiness to make concessions.

Red China's parliamentary standing committee was called suddenly into session today to discuss the growing dispute with India along the Tibetan border.

This came after the Laotian Red rebels announced Wednesday that they were ready to negotiate "if the royal Laotian government still desires a peaceful settlement."

FACT-FINDERS GOING

A United Nations fact-finding mission is leaving New York for Laos Saturday night in answer to an appeal for help from the royal government. The rebels accused the UN of interfering in the internal affairs of Laos.

There was speculation here that the Communist peace gestures might be the urging of Moscow to create a more relaxed international atmosphere before Khrushchev's trip to the United States next Tuesday for talks with President Eisenhower.

The convening by Red China of its parliamentary standing committee underscored the grave view Peking is taking of the border troubles.

FULL-SCALE ACTION

The session is known as a "plenary session" — an enlarged session" of the standing committee.

Chinese Communist newspapers have been full of praise for Premier Chou En-lai's letter to Nehru offering to settle the dispute through friendly negotiations conducted in a well-prepared way step by step."

Chou, however, demanded that India withdraw from the territory in dispute.

Laos Fighting At Standstill

VIETIANE, Laos (AP) — Laotian fighting was reported at a complete standstill today, and the opposing armies dug in. Western observers was advanced as a possible cease-fire.

"Not a shot has been fired anywhere in Laos in the past 24 hours," an American military source said. Na-Champassak said at a military briefing session. "Maybe it's because United Nations observers are arriving soon."

Earlier this week Laotian military sources said alleged invasion forces from Communist Hanoi in North Vietnam began withdrawing as soon as the UN began sending observers to Laos.

Nehru Sees No Likelihood of War With China

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said today he does not believe India's dispute with Red China will lead to war, not even a "small one."

He said India would accept mediation or arbitration of some small territorial disputes along the northern frontier.

"But I am not speaking of bigger questions, such as large areas being claimed on Chinese maps," he told a press conference.

"The seriousness of the situation is that a part of the border but of the growth of feeling of estrangement, irritation and even shoot sides."

CHINA "MORE RIGID"

Mr. Nehru told Parliament Thursday that the latest letter from Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China added to the gravity of the border crisis because Red China's policy has become more rigid.

India and Red China have accused each other of aggression. Each has demanded that the other withdraw its military forces from border areas whose ownership is being questioned.

Nehru earlier declared that a few square miles of jungle terrain are not worth a war, but that a treaty was a different thing. He said the Macmanon line defining the border between China and India should be accepted by China.

Hastings County Ranked 4th In Cheddar Cheese Make, Far Down in List for Butter

Hastings county ranked fourth among Ontario counties in the production of cheddar cheese for the year 1958, and was far down the list in the production of creamery butter in the same period.

This is shown in the Agricultural Statistics for Ontario, a publication issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture showing a breakdown by counties of dairy and agricultural production in the province for last year.

During the 1958 period Hastings produced 4,255,816 pounds of cheddar cheese and 2,396,281 pounds of creamery butter.

In the same year neighboring county to the south, Prince Edward county, produced 198,435 pounds of creamery butter, and 2,258,682 pounds of cheddar cheese.

Total production of cheddar cheese for Central Ontario counties last year was 10,514,931, as against Eastern Ontario's combined total of 6,907,317 pounds. Total production of cheese for the province was 61,910,117.

Total Ontario production of butter last year was 59,485,459 pounds.

Bottled milk sales in the Belleville-Trenton area last year totalled 5,170,638 quarts, cream, 113,585 quarts, chocolate milk 147,000 quarts, buttermilk, 49,000 quarts, and skim milk, 444,400 quarts.

CONSERVABLE EXPORTED

The export market accounted for a considerable share of Ontario's cheese last year with 15,439,500 pounds being shipped out of the country, of which 14,939,500 went to the United Kingdom.

By contrast there was only 4,800 pounds of butter exported, while there was 17,520,400 pounds of whole milk powder, 46,488,000 pounds of skim milk powder, and 3,120,000 of evaporated milk shipped.

The fluid milk trade for bottling by dairies ranked first as the most lucrative aspect of the dairying industry, with the difference price being $4.65 per cwt. By contrast the farmer producing milk for the cheese trade was paid and received $2.49 per cwt.

The gross value of cheddar cheese produced was $18,961,000, creamery butter, $46,801,000, and fluid milk sales, $22,700,000. Total production of milk for all purposes was given as 6,005,976,666 lbs. with a total value of $186,869,000.

Out of Frying Pan Into Ice Box, Weather Man Earns More Knocks

The "weatherman" is a stimulus whichever way you look at it.

For some days now he has had this part of the country stewing in its natural juices.

And when everyone is well down on both sides what does he do?

He takes a sudden nose-dive that nearly scuttles the mercury, and sends a long-suffering public sweater-hunting, coat-searching, and wondering how much oil is in the tanks.

Over a period of roughly 16 hours the temperature plummeted some 34 degrees. At two p.m. yesterday it was an uncomfortable 90 in spots. Then a coolish breeze started to filter in from the north.

At six o'clock this morning when dawn-cracking newspaperers were dodging the sprays of the city street-watering contraptions, the thermometers read 51 degrees.

Even the sun, a sluggish oaf behind a cloud haze, which had broiled and par-boiled humanity for the past week or so, failed to temper the sudden coolness. At eight o'clock the mercury stood at 51 degrees.

Overworked fans and air conditioning apparatus in the city took well-deserved time out. Windows slammed down to keep out the strange stratosphere. Cool night breezes had washed but murky, humid interiors.

And weather reports state the "dive" will continue.

Clear skies combined with light winds tonight will allow temperatures to take another drop.

In fact it is reported that some local ground frost may be apparent in susceptible lowlying areas.

Saturday should be about normal with temperatures ranging from fifte weather are forecast.

Special recognition was made of the supervisors. Supervision is provided by CNRA members and their wives, and also by the association's ladies auxiliary.

'Athlete's Foot' Possible Cause Of Arthritis

At the 34th annual convention and post graduate seminar of the Canadian Podiatry Association held in Toronto over the past weekend, it was reported that fungus infections, such as "athlete's foot", may possibly be the causative factor of arthritis, in particular, rheumatoid arthritis. It was reported by Dr. Marvin D. Steinberg a podiatrist (foot specialist) from New York, N.Y.

Dr. Steinberg, probably the original proponent of this principle, intimated that from statistics already gathered by him and other workers, there appeared to be a direct relationship between a variety of the fungus infection and the subsequent development of rheumatoid arthritis. He stated that if continuing investigation proved this theory correct that thousands of cases (crippling arthritis) could be eventually prevented and corrected. Rheumatoid arthritis has long been considered an allergic response to a poison-ous agent or agents in the body. If these agents prove to be fungus poisons then a considerable reduction in fungus infections would indirectly cure arthritis.

MORE THAN ONE TYPE

Dr. Steinberg reported that an astonishingly high percentage of patients with rheumatoid arthritis had a history of a fungus infection such as on the feet. He further stated that evidence points to the possibility that more than one type of fungus organism may be the culprit.

He emphasized the overwhelming importance of sound foot health and cleanliness and the immediate treatment of all cases of so-called "athlete's foot" so commonly encountered and treated by podiatrists.

Dr. Steinberg shared the speaker's platform with Dr. Ben C. Mullens, podiatrist, from Binghamton, N.Y. who also spoke on many aspects of podiatric medicine, surgery and orthopedics. Sharing the hearing podium light was Dr. D. R. Wilson, F.R.C.S. Assoc. (Surg.) Univ. of Toronto, R. S. Salter, M.D., F.R.C.S. (C) Chief of Orthopedic Surgery, Hosp. for Sick Children, Toronto, Dr. F. J. Trow, F.R.C.P. (C) Prof. of Dermatology, Univ. of Toronto and Dr. G. G. Custer, podiatrist, Chicago, Ill., past pres. of Fellows Podiatric Research Society.

The lectures were held in the Toronto General Hospital and in the King Edward Hotel with tours arranged for inspection of the podiatric clinics at Toronto General, St. Joseph's and St. Michael's Hospitals in Toronto.

Representing the research and advisory committee of the Ontario Podiatry Association was a local podiatrist, Dr. R. R. Brain, of Belleville.

United Appeal Opens October 5

This year's $85,000 objective Belleville United Appeal campaign will kick off on October 5th.

This was announced last night at the regular monthly board of directors meeting held at the Ontario Hydro Building on Dundas Street East by the 1959-1960 campaign chairman G. E. Wright.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of B.U.A. president, Mrs. J. H. Forrester.

In announcing the date for the start of the 1959-1960 campaign, Mr. Garnett reported that the campaign budget committee has been laid, but there is still a good deal of organizational work to be completed.

He presented to the board a list of written suggestions for training divisional chairmen, group chairmen, captains, team and canvassers, in carrying out their respective jobs.

These helpful suggestions will be typed in sufficient quantity to provide every member of the Belleville United Appeal to receive a copy, he said.

Mr. Garnett was warmly commended by board members for the great work the organizational work he has accomplished, and the great feeling of confidence he has put into making this campaign a success.

B.U.A. treasurer John B. Henderson reported a total of $1,000 collected to date from last year's campaign, which will "get things rolling".

In closing, president Forrester told the new executive committee with the work already completed and added she felt confident the second year in this campaign to be held in the city, would reach it's $85,000 objective.

Sea Cadet Corps Officers Prepare For Year's Work

Yesterday evening the officers of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" met at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street to discuss plans for the coming season's training year. Lt. Cdr. Bruce Bullen, C.D. was elected to the chair for this year's training scheme to make things more interesting for the cadets.

A sports period will be held every week and the possibility of an inter-corps league will be considered. The main emphasis of the training program will be to advance cadets to the rating of Leading Cadet and Petty Officer. A new regular basic training course for new entries, as well as the Able Cadet classes and tests.

The first parade of the year will be held next Tuesday evening in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Armouries on Bridge Street at 7.15 p.m. Following this parade the regular parade schedule will continue for the rest of the year with the Thursday evening parades being held at the Sea Cadet barracks, at the same time, and Tuesday night parades in the armouries.

A drive for new entries is being made and it is expected that the strength of the Corps will increase from 50 cadets to 80. Local boys who are between the ages of 13 and 18 years are invited to attend the parade next Tuesday evening.

The local corps is maintained by the Navy League of Canada, Belleville Branch, a member of the Belleville United Appeal, with the Royal Canadian Navy supplying the uniforms and equipment. The "Quinte" also has a number of boats which have been donated to the corps by local citizens.

Colorful Ceremony Is Staged As Training Command Hands Station Over to Transport

TRENTON — Thursday morning the colors of Training Command were marched from the parade square at RCAF Station Trenton for the last time, following the official "handing over" ceremonies in which Transport Command took over the Trenton Station and Training Command left for Winnipeg.

Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter will be the Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command here at Trenton, taking over from Air Vice Marshal J. G. Bryans, Air Officer Commanding Training Command.

In a colorful ceremony which featured the honour guard of 100 men and the famed Training Command band, the official handing over took place. Dignitaries from both Trenton and Belleville were present to witness the closing ceremonies at RCAF Station Trenton.

Air Vice Marshal J. G. Bryans spoke to the group about the many thousands of men who had been trained here at Trenton. He said that while here the station had made many friends in the area and had helped build up good will here.

The training has been going on at this station for 24 years, Air Vice Marshal Bryans said. The ceremony symbolized the change of command here at Trenton.

Following the brief speech by Air Vice Marshal Bryans, both Air Commodore Carpenter and he, signed the papers which made the transfer of the command official.

Now one of the biggest moving jobs undertaken by the RCAF since the Second World War is under way. Dozens of trucks and moving vans operated by aircraft and personnel will be moved to its new headquarters at Winnipeg.

Transport Command will undertake the moving in owns from its present base at Lachine, Que., to Trenton.

Trenton Station has produced thousands of pilots since its inception in 1940. Since the Second World War it has been used for specialized training, ground instructors, jet pilots, transport pilots and pilots specially trained for search and rescue work.

Training Command also undertook training of aircrews from NATO countries. In seven years more than 9,000 aircrews were trained of whom more than 5,500 were from NATO countries other than Canada.

Transport Command aircraft fly more than 100,000 annually, covering about 13,000,000 air miles. Their cargo ranges from postage stamps to heavy construction machinery. About 7,000 passengers a month are airlifted.

The command's North Stars are scheduled to be replaced by the turbo-prop CC106, a Canadair development of the British Britannia. There combined with the command's two Comet jet transports and a new turbo-prop adaptation of the Convair, will enable it to maintain its role in Canada's defence plans.

Kiwanis Kids' Day at Station Being Planned

TRENTON — Plans are now well under way for the Kiwanis Kids' Day at RCAF Station, Trenton, to be held near the end of September. Chairman in charge of this day will be Jack Youngstorn of Trenton while the co-chairman will be F/L Ray Fanning.

Clubs from this area will be represented at this day and it is expected that several hundreds of children will be on hand to enjoy a tour of the Station. Figures released from this event last year indicate that over 700 youngsters took part at that time.

Welfr at the Station the children will be taken on a tour of portions of the Station and special displays will be shown for the interest of the children. Kiwanis members will act as supervisors for the day.

Special arrangements are being made to have refreshments on hand for these children throughout the day.

"Let's Talk Real Estate"

by Jerry Joyce

Financing your new home in the proper manner is most important. Probably the most important than the size of the living room or which side of the street your house faces. Government sponsored financing is controlled in a manner which is designed to protect the home purchaser, so that he is not burdened with a debt taxed beyond his capabilities. Over the years we have interviewed many prospective home purchasers and have learned that some are afraid of such. Higher installment payments than others since their ways of living differs.

Mortgage and trust companies must set up standards and regulations to meet the varying household in some cases this seems unfair, however, if your case is investigated by mortgage companies are flexible and a satisfactory repayment plan can be arrived at.

If you are planning to build or to purchase the smallest possible mortgage so you can pay it off quickly, take some time and discuss it thoroughly with your contractor, representatives, builder or banker, and you find a large loan repayable over a long period. This will finance a more permanent home for a longer family and the extra interest on the larger loan is in reality the cheaper investment.

Mortgage loans for building or refinancing, present mortgages or for home improvements can be arranged by JOYCE.

TORONTO (CP) — The active demand for top grades of slaughter steers, heifers and yearlings of last week continued through this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Good heavy bologna bulls maintained a steady rate, however, light bulls were in narrow demand and difficult to sell. Veal calf prices were $2 a hundredweight higher. Hog prices were steady and sheep and lamb prices were easier.

Cattle receipts were about 1,000 head less than last week and about 2,900 head fewer than the same week in 1958. Western cattle receipts totalled 456 head and in addition there were 380 western stocker cattle received. Received from New Brunswick were 2 2 calves and 23 calves. A mosaic tile class will be offered for the first time, conducted by Mrs. Diamond. Another new craft which will be included this year and will be combined with the metal craft will be the block printing. The ever popular children's art class will be held again, with Mrs. Cole instructing. Children will work with tempra water colors, with exception made for those with oils. Mrs. Ted Gibson will be instructing the weaving class. Mrs. Summers the metal craft, Mrs. McCutcheon leather; and Mrs. Davies the ceramic class.

One of the most popular classes this past year is the silk screening and this will be conducted by Mrs. Davies. Here students make their personal Christmas cards from the silk screening process. What Yardstick?

City Solicitor R. A. Pringle has advised the city council that the city has no legal responsibility in the payment of back wages for members of the McFarland's hockey team or for outstanding accounts owed by the team and the Arena committee.

Several members of city council have expressed the view that though there may not be a legal responsibility, there is at least a moral one.

We have considerable sympathy with this view but we think that, if this is to be accepted, it is necessary to recognize a corollary — that the City Council has another moral responsibility and that this is to obtain for the taxpayers the best deal possible in the disposal of the McFarlands' assets, if any.

We are not so certain that this responsibility would be properly discharged if the city paid the McFarlands' debts while some other organization received monies from the sale of the club's assets, such as the contract of Jean Paul Lamirande.

It may be that the city has no legal contract with Mr. Lamirande and that, therefore, it is not legally entitled to receive any money — but Mr. Pringle says that it is not legally obligated to pay out any more money, either.

It does not seem to us that the taxpayers will be getting a fair deal if two different yardsticks are used — if in handling assets decisions are reached according to what is legally right and when it comes to liabilities the determining factor is changed to what is morally right.

Happy Hunting

Where is the best place to spend a holiday?

That question will draw almost as many different answers as there are answerers. The sea shore, the mountains, the inland lakes where there are fish, the Great Lakes where the breakers roll, the city where the ball clubs play, or the bright lights sparkle—listen to the flood of advice!

But almost nobody gets down to basic facts, as far as the teenage belle looking for a beau is concerned.

Now, from an unexpected source, Overseas Service of Aims of Industry Ltd., comes help for the lonely maid. Britain is the place to spend a holiday.

Overseas Service doesn't say that. It seems to be interested in proving that British teenagers enjoy a high standard of living. But in the course of what, to a slick chick lacking a steady, must seem a discourse straight from Squaresville there comes real cool information. There are five million teenage boys in Britain — and about two million teenage girls.

We don't guarantee the accuracy of this information. But it might be worth investigating. What's more, the average British male teenager is said to have five pounds a week to spend just as he likes. That's almost $14 which, when one remembers that many of the male teenagers are mere children under 16, suggests that those in the upper age brackets should be able to spring for something more than a coke a drive-in movie.

There would appear to be room here for Canadian chicks to make a considerable alteration in the statistics which show that the average British male teenager spends a quarter of, his "uncommitted money" on practical things like footwear and clothing and only 14 per cent on drink and tobacco. In the interests of international understanding, though, we must report that only 800,000 of these five million (not guaranteed accurately teenagers go to school, so that five in six presumably get their money the hard way, by working instead of from Dad, and may for that reason be harder to separate from it.

A Praiseworthy Move

The 20th General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada is to be congratulated upon its courage in urging that Canada make provision for the admission as immigrants of refugees with handicaps and disabilities.

Rich and spacious countries like the United States and Canada are well rewarded for opening their doors to immigrants capable of serving their new homelands well. They ought to be able to afford to admit some refugees from whom they would expect no dividends. Almost certainly they would be pleasantly surprised in many cases. The aged and the sick often possess unexpected talents which require only the opportunity to blossom and bear fruit.

A PRAYER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I do not ask to be
Rich and great;
I do not ask to meet
Paths always straight;
I do not pray for days
Free from all care,
But I would live, always
Doing my share.

If rough my road must be,
Let me be strong;
Let me go willingly
Plodding along.

Heavy my burdens? Then
Let me not whine;
Let me be brave till when
Rest shall be mine.

Let me keep faith and hope
Through the dark hours;
Grant me the strength to cope
With all my powers
With whatever cares beset
So would I fare;
Glad for the joys I've met,
Doing my share.

Crackpot Law On Standing

Ottawa Citizen

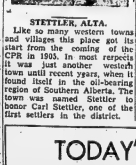
A number of crackpot laws have come to light in recent years the Ontario law about not being allowed to drink in your backyard, and now repealed was among the more recent). Now there's one saying that you can't walk on the left or the right side of the walk, but you can't stand still. If you do, you're obstructing, ipso facto, which is a lawyer's term meaning, that's torn it. It's a fine law like many more in the breach than in the observance but it's nevertheless the law. The sooner it's repealed, like the backyard drinking one, the sooner will it be protected from public mockery.

The whole business came to light in London, England, where a Mr. Louis Goldberg was standing in front of the local pub the other evening, and was told by a policeman to move along. Mr. Goldberg said he wouldn't. The policeman escorted him to the police station, and later on a magistrate told him "the law makes you have only the right to walk on the left side of the path" stand there." Mr. Goldberg appealed unsuccessfully to pay a fine of $5.60 or spend 14 days in jail.

In Toronto, questioned about the Mr. Goldberg case, the Ontario Attorney-General has said that the same situation applies here. In that is the case the Legislature ought to have a look at the law.

For it means a man can't stop and chat with a friend on the street corner. It means that women — which in fact they are, but no matter. Even five or six women shoppers, meeting on the street and completely blocking the sidewalk as they catch up on world affairs, the latest fashions, and the advancement of their friends, can block passage and nobody really cares. The traffic tide just flows around them, the public doesn't mind, why should our officials worry?

There's also the man standing on the street corner waiting for a bus. He's not doing it for the obstruction, for anywhere from five minutes to an hour. Yet simply because his wife is late, she has consideration, for anywhere from five minutes to an hour. Yet simply because his wife is late, she has considdgs him a criminal. The situation is absurd. Somewhere, legally, to and the only to make lawabiding citizens out of the people of Ontario, we urge them, legally, to stand on the sidewalks if they want to.



Spare Tire As Lifebelt

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Life-saving equipment is not always readily available at the multitude of resort areas in Ontario this summer. Safety League points out that every car contains a "device that might avert tragedy on the lake.

The spare wheel can be thrown into the water as an emergency life ring. At least five adults can keep themselves afloat holding on to a spare wheel, if the tire is correctly inflated.

Of course, the best life-saving equipment is self-confidence and recognition of one's capabilities in water. But accidents do happen and a car owner could save a life when other life-saving equipment is not handy.

SISTTLER, ALTA.

Like so many western towns and villages this place got its start from the coming of the CPR in 1905. The town respects it was just another western town until recent years, when it found itself in the oil-bearing region of Southern Alberta. The town was named Sistler to honor Carl Sistler, one of the first settlers in the district.

"Parliament had before it today a demand from Prime Minister Mackenzie King for a decision as to whether Canada, as it is now situate within the British Commonwealth, would go to war against Germany. In a speech of nearly three hours yesterday, Mr. King left no doubt of the policy of the government to enter the war alongside Great Britain, not because the government alone wanted to go to war but because it felt that such should be the policy of the Canadian people."

Mr. Woodsworth, who followed the Prime Minister, said "I listened for two or three hours as did other honorable members, to try to gain some idea of what co-operation means—and I confess that I am completely dumbfounded. There is only one point on which we have been enlightened, apparently, and that is that we are not going to have conscription — at least not at present".

Dr. Manion pledged the support of his party to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's policy of "effective co-operation at the side of Britain". Dr. Manion said that the war was for the preservation of human liberty. He charged Hitler with murder and international gangsterism. The war was not against the Germans as a people, but against the Hitler philosophy. It was a war for Christianity in all its branches.

Mr. Blackmore said "this British people must stand or fall together. I believe there is no middle way. It is for us as Canadians to do our utmost to help them stand together. This Social Credit Party has committed itself to the unqualified support of Britain and her Allies".

Square Pea Being Sought

Montreal Star

The National Canned Pea Council in the United States would like someone to develop a square pea. It is thinking primarily of the housewife's convenience, and it would seem that there would be a packing advantage too. Square peas in square tins would afford considerable saving in space.

No doubt, it will get its wish one of these days. Strange things grow from irritated seeds. The mathematician may not be able to square the circle but soldiers to doughnuts the scientist will find a way to solve the sphere.

But why go to the trouble of finding a way to square peas? Has no one on the counter ever heard the old jingle: "I eat my peas with honey. I've done it all my life. They do taste kind of funny But it keeps them on the knife"?

Spare CBC This Indignity

Ottawa Journal

Mrs. Kate Aitken, a member of the CBC board of directors, should take time to read a comment in the report of the 1939 Commons Broadcasting Committee. It was that the CBC at times appeared to suffer from a multiplicity of authority and this was one of the factors causing confusion and a wavering of morale among employees.

The report is commended to Mrs. Aitken because it is her plan to have 2,000 amateur critics give their views on CBC radio and television shows. That, to a slight extent, is all right. The CBC should be none the worse for a few more sensible critics.

The unpleasant part of the proposal is Mrs. Aitken's statement that program changes would be based on the reactions of the 2,000. The CBC spokesmen say this will not be done, but it is obvious that if the board attempts to please the critics should set progress standards then the wise CBC employee would seek to be guided by their reports.

That is a prescription for the over-governed organization!

For what the CBC has now is the board of governors, governors keeping an all-seeing eye on radio and television, the CBC board of directors appointed by the government, the periodical examinations of it also by government committees and commissions, the wise CBC large staff of experienced men at national headquarters in Ottawa and in the provinces and, finally, the continuous criticism of the public which feels that a CBC cost of $51,000 a year paid from taxes levies every citizen a share in the running of its programs.

That is in addition to all that. Mrs. Aitken suggests 2,000 amateurs who would not only criticize but be asked to pass on programs, be assured that they could influence programs.

What we have said bears repeat. It is that the CBC management, staff and board of directors to see whether it can give the broadcasting service desired at reasonable cost.

If the manager cannot do the job, it should be dismissed. In attempting to show whether it can do the job the CBC should not be harassed by interfering committee members who were not appointed as professional censors of policy.

No staff, even a staff subject to emotional tension and injured prides than the CBC's, can do satisfactory work with a sense of being at the mercy of 2,000 unidentified, uninformed critics, sitting across Canada with pencils nicely sharpened, ten on the table beside them, waiting to pounce.

Spaghetti From China

Christian Science Monitor

"Why," in effect asks a reader from Boothbay Harbor, Maine, "do we hear so little of messages that a China dog should like spaghetti? This has appeared in an editorial 1Aug. 17) about a dog in New Jersey which is fond of it. This is evidently believed to have been introduced into Maine, spaghetti also is of Chinese origin.

Sure enough, the International Encyclopedia Americana, sarcastical, the genius of which encyclopedia appears to be every, "has long been made in China." And the Columbia Encyclopedia declares that such spaghetti is believed to have been introduced into Italy during the Mongol invasions in the 13th century and to have spread to Italy."

Now if Italian researchers hope to lay a prior claim it appears that while we are on the subject Heta was first taken to China by some precursor of Marco Polo. Meanwhile we are going to the Lee Hubg's Golden Dragon Cafe for a pizza.

They have them so matter what race they are born, may be, regardless of whether they are illiterate or highly educated, whether they are rich or poor. But having said this, we must face that fact that, although all are equals as regards rights, all men are not equal as regards endowment. The Christian philosophy our Lord spoke about the talents is a case in point. Some men are capable of handling great responsibilities. Some can

AS WE GROW OLDER, THE CIRCULATION IS RETARDED

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 80 years old and troubled with (during the daytime) a swelling of my feet, ankles, and up to the knees. This swelling vanishes while I am asleep. Please discuss its cause and cure. — P. N. R."

Let's start in the beginning. The human body depends on the circulation of fluids. The solid matter (even bone) in our bodies is distributed by fluids which carry molecules or atoms of various materials to the places where we need them.

And what carries these molecules? Mainly the circulation of blood! The Mississippi River, for example, is mostly water. Yet it carries enough little particles of earth to build a huge delta at the mouth of the river in the Gulf of Mexico.

It is the same with the body. The fluid (blood) carries particles of solid matter, and they are deposited in the form of cartilage, bone, flesh, muscle, etc.

As we grow older, the circulation loses its briskness. Our hearts slow down a bit. Our blood vessels lose their veins (the "return circuit" by which the blood goes back to the lungs for purification) become various and lethargic.

Then, in addition to all that, Mrs. Aitken suggests 2,000 amateurs who would not only criticize but be asked to pass on programs, be assured that they could influence programs.

What we have said bears repeat. It is that the CBC management, staff and board of directors to see whether it can give the broadcasting service desired at reasonable cost.

If the manager cannot do the job, it should be dismissed. In attempting to show whether it can do the job the CBC should not be harassed by interfering committee members who were not appointed as professional censors of policy.

No staff, even a staff subject to emotional tension and injured prides than the CBC's, can do satisfactory work with a sense of being at the mercy of 2,000 unidentified, uninformed critics, sitting across Canada with pencils nicely sharpened, ten on the table beside them, waiting to pounce.

Mrs. Kate Aitken, a member of the CBC board of directors, should take time to read a comment in the report of the 1939 Commons Broadcasting Committee. It was that the CBC at times appeared to suffer from a multiplicity of authority and this was one of the factors causing confusion and a wavering of morale among employees.

The report is commended to Mrs. Aitken because it is her plan to have 2,000 amateur critics give their views on CBC radio and television shows. That, to a slight extent, is all right. The CBC should be none the worse for a few more sensible critics.

The unpleasant part of the proposal is Mrs. Aitken's statement that program changes would be based on the reactions of the 2,000. The CBC spokesmen say this will not be done, but it is obvious that if the board attempts to please the critics should set progress standards then the wise CBC employee would seek to be guided by their reports.

That is a prescription for the over-governed organization!

For what the CBC has now is the board of governors, governors keeping an all-seeing eye on radio and television, the CBC board of directors appointed by the government, the periodical examinations of it also by government committees and commissions, the wise CBC large staff of experienced men at national headquarters in Ottawa and in the provinces and, finally, the continuous criticism of the public which feels that a CBC cost of $51,000 a year paid from taxes levies every citizen a share in the running of its programs.

That is in addition to all that. Mrs. Aitken suggests 2,000 amateurs who would not only criticize but be asked to pass on programs, be assured that they could influence programs.

Spaghetti From China

Christian Science Monitor

"Why," in effect asks a reader from Boothbay Harbor, Maine, "do we hear so little of messages that a China dog should like spaghetti? This has appeared in an editorial 1Aug. 17) about a dog in New Jersey which is fond of it. This is evidently believed to have been introduced into Maine, spaghetti also is of Chinese origin.

Sure enough, the International Encyclopedia Americana, sarcastical, the genius of which encyclopedia appears to be every, "has long been made in China." And the Columbia Encyclopedia declares that such spaghetti is believed to have been introduced into Italy during the Mongol invasions in the 13th century and to have spread to Italy."

Now if Italian researchers hope to lay a prior claim it appears that while we are on the subject Heta was first taken to China by some precursor of Marco Polo. Meanwhile we are going to the Lee Hubg's Golden Dragon Cafe for a pizza.

All persons have certain inalienable rights. They have these rights because they are men for women). They have them so matter what race they are born, may be, regardless of whether they are illiterate or highly educated, whether they are rich or poor. We know nothing on this subject which is not revealed. We all have such rights. We must record such rights to others.

But having said this, we must face that fact that, although all are equals as regards rights, all men are not equal as regards endowment. The Christian philosophy our Lord spoke about the talents is a case in point. Some men are capable of handling great responsibilities. Some can

Driver Must Have Permit

Brockville Recorder and Times

A court case resulting from a fatal accident near here brought out in court a point of law that is little known section of the Highway Traffic Act. The driver of the tractor involved in the accident was only 15. A passenger on the tractor was also down the county road, lost his life when caught up and thrown under a wheel. The father was fined for allowing a person under fifteen years of age to drive the tractor on the highway.

What is not a great many farm youths driving tractors on and off their farms and working on the roads, is violating the Act. We have been informed that no one under the age of 18 can drive a tractor on the road. A boy under sixteen must have a special permit, but he may not apply to anyone over 16 years of age to instruct him on how to drive driven directly across a highway.

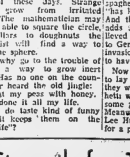
This, we believe, is in variance with the common notion of regulations when tractors are concerned. We had always believed that a farmer had special privileges when his tractor was concerned. It is likely that a great many farmers are not aware of this restriction either.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

So a naturally suspicious person like myself it sometimes appears that highways building is at provincial expense around our cities are rushed by the benefit of land speculators. For no sooner along the by-pass. So one time it's a by-pass at all, but another main street of the city it was intended to circumvent.

Travellers wishing to make time across the province find themselves in the midst of not only a lively suburban traffic, but also carts of owners of as well as private vehicles using the by-pass not to by-pass their own but to avoid the congestion of the inner city by scooting around it. Thus a provincial by-pass becomes merely a convenience for the city.



When a city becomes so crowded that its traffic becomes a problem, it should be, by reason of its crowdedness, sufficiently prosperous to pay its own bills, rather than fob off millions of its civic taxes onto the provincial treasury.

We are the provinces proud of big cities and destined to pamper them?

Maybe that's it.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Three of our boys attended this course, David Fort and Jim Pickering of St. Thomas' group and Barrie Simpson of Tabernacle. There are so many facets to Scouting that we don't ever pretend to know all about them. On inquiring we were told that this particular course is for patrol leaders and is part of the training these boys should have to become leaders. They live independently for a week and amongst other things are taught methods of cooking. The overnight hike must be interesting. Altogether it sounds like a commando course and explains that while we are very definitely against military training, creeping in, the services like to get Boy Scouts as recruits. Way back in 1915 the troops were asked if they were Boy Scouts. The fortunate few who could say "yes" were promptly promoted. The Church Lads Cadets, which we belonged to just didn't rate.

1ST ST. THOMAS'

Fifteen boys from this troop joined with 12 Scouts of the 1st Peterborough Troop, camping at Moose Lake, nine miles north of Haliburton. The camp lasted a week and they all had a very enjoyable time.

QUIN-MO-LAC CUBS

We don't think we should close this subject out without informing you that Timothy Wense was the best camper, Vernon Whalen, the most progressive Cub and the Olympic champions were James Kunkel, Lyle Peyerley and Gerard Burns. It is interesting to note that seven Cubs were awarded "House Orderly" and "Observer" badge. There were 17 "Artists," 31 "Swimmers," 33 "Athletes" and 45 "First Aid" badges won. Total, 137 badges in one week by 100 Cubs. Akela Ashley and her faithful assistants should feel very proud of this wonderful effort and the Cubs are to be congratulated too on their work. It was, as we predicted, the most successful camp ever.

LOST AND FOUND

For one week everything is orderly and nothing out of place. Then the parents arrive! Result—chaos. Cubs suddenly become boys again. Mrs. Ashley has 6 towels, 3 bathing suits, 3 shorts, 6 T-shirts and a pair of shoes waiting to be claimed. Please contact Mrs. Ashley at WO 2-3087, who will gladly return your missing articles.

Quoting the president, Mr. F. J. Lancaster, the aim of the Boy Scouts Association is to develop good citizenship among boys by forming their character; training them in habits of observation, obedience and self-reliance; inculcating loyalty and thoughtfulness for others; teaching them services useful to the public and handicrafts useful to themselves; and promoting their physical, mental and spiritual development. In short, Scouting is Scouting's greatest service. Concerned with the development of character, complementary to the influence of home, church and school.

The training of over eleven hundred boys in this community is Scoutings greatest service. On a world-wide scale Scouting is teaching boys of every race, creed and color that it is possible to live together in peace.

This is one of the organizations you assist when you give to the United Appeal.

Advisory Board Members Inspect Conservation Area

Advisory board members of the Moira River Conservation Authority met at the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area near Thomasburg Thursday afternoon to inspect the progress of work being carried on at the site.

Following a tour of inspection a short business meeting was held with discussions taking place on possible future development of the Authority's three conservation areas and preliminary talks regarding next year's budget.

The unused balance of budget intended for the conservation areas at O'Hara's Mill and at the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite, will be pooled for use in completion of the farm pond demonstration at the Vanderwater Conservation Area.

Future work planned for this area includes completion of the road to the site, building of fireplaces and provision of picnic tables.

It is expected the Vanderwater Conservation Area will be opened for public use by July of next year.

The possibility of an admission charge being made to this area in 1961 will be discussed at a full meeting of the Authority to be held on September 22. Purpose of the admission charge would be to assist in raising funds for maintenance as there is no provincial grant to cover such costs.

The advisory board recommended that no action be taken with respect to purchase of property at O'Hara's Mill which is now owned by Mrs. Fred Maines of Waterloo. A special committee was set up, however, to keep the matter in mind.

Major A League Holds Annual

Art Aikin was re-elected president of the Major "A" Bowling League at the organization's annual fall meeting held last night.

Also renamed vice-president was Graham Seeley while Bill Fraser was elected treasurer. A secretary will be named at a later date.

Cec Hardwick accepted the position of public relations officer for the eight-team loop.

Wedding

FENNEMAN — BAYS

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized in Kindley Air Force Chapel, Bermuda, on Saturday, August 31st, when Rosemary A. Bays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Robson, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Lieutenant Peter Wayne Fenneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Fenneman, of Mansfield, Ohio. The Rev. Christian Thearle, Kindley Air Force Base Chaplain officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Arthur James Lodge, was lovely in light-blue nylon net featuring a full accordion-pleated skirt with blue rash, and fitted bodice. Complementing her gown, she wore a white shoe-tune hat, gloves and shoes, and corsage of white gardenias.

The maid of honor, Miss Jean Barrett, wore a cocktail-length gown of light blue with beige hat, shoes, and corsage of white carnations.

Lieutenant Jack C. Strasser attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Four-Ways Inn, Bermuda.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Ohio University, entered the United States Air Force in 1956 as a pilot, and is now personnel officer of the 1604th Field Maintenance Squadron at Kindley. The bride is employed by the Board of Trade there.

The couple will reside at "Sea Lane," in Devonshire.

Women's Press Club Hears Miss Whitton

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Business over, delegates to the triennial convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club today embarked on relaxation.

The 160 delegates, after an overnight stay at Ste. Adele, Que., move on to an open house in Montreal Saturday.

Seven Ottawa Valley lumber and forests products industries played host to the women journalists Thursday at nearby Aylmer, Que. There a fair grounds building took on a lumber camp atmosphere, with camp cooks in mufti, a menu with pea soup and baked beans and a refreshment simply called "screech."

Charlotte Whitton, former Ottawa mayor and now a newspaper columnist and broadcaster, spun a witty, fast-barked tale of the Ottawa area's history.

Miss Whitton also tossed a barb at Toronto. She said Ottawa readily admits it can't compete with any stretch of that city's Jarvis Street, nationally known for its seamier side.

Earlier, the club elected Saskatoon member Rose Ducle, women's editor of the Western Producer, as national president.

A group of delegates also looked critically at professional standards, and generally agreed there is room to pull up professional socks.

Panel member Simma Holt, Vancouver Sun reporter, said news reporting is catpulting forward.

She tied the trouble to a tendency for too much concern with any changes, keeping reporters "in the black" and "overorganization" in mergers, chains and unions that tended to place less emphasis on news quality.

A recession that women's pages are no longer necessary because women now read the paper came from Mrs. Marjorie Oliver, Toronto public relations officer.

Dermot Morrah, editorial writer of The Times of London said, freedom of the press is actually freedom of the reader to get what he wants to read. He briefly addressed closing sessions.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible lawyers and counsellors.

Adele D. — I'm afraid to take a chance on Martin.

Martin B. — I'll make her love me.

Adele D. — I am a divorcee in my early 30's and I have two children.

For the past two years I have been overwhelmingly in love with a man about 20 years older than I am. He is very fond of me and says he would marry me if I were a little older and didn't have children. I feel that he is just afraid of the responsibility, but I wouldn't burden him with the children. My former husband sends adequate support for them.

Another man close to my own age is in love with me and loves the children. Martin says he'll make me love him if I'll just marry him. But with one unsuccessful marriage in the background I'm afraid to take a chance.

Martin B. — I too have had an unsuccessful marriage and know what hell it can be, so I wouldn't ask Adele to take a chance if I weren't sure we could make a go of it.

Ever since I have known her, Adele has been harping on this other man. The way she talks you'd think he was something special. But I have met him and I can see that he would never take the trouble to make any woman happy, even if he would marry Adele — which he won't.

During the past two years I have tried to get out with other women and forget about Adele, but it just won't work. She is on my mind all the time. She does not realize how hard I'd try to make her happy.

The Council: The third man is probably as vital to this fruitless love affair as any other element in it. If he were suddenly to disappear, we think it quite likely that Martin would suddenly find a new love interest and Adele would suddenly fall in love with him or some other unattainable man.

The fact that both Adele and Martin have had unsuccessful marriages doesn't seem to have made either of them any wiser or more eager for a successful marriage. They have committed themselves to frustration. It has become a pattern with them and they would feel uneasy without it.

Martin may argue this point on the ground that he is ready, willing and eager to marry Adele regardless of her feelings. Yet surely, he is old enough and experienced enough to know perfectly well that if he cannot win her under the romantic conditions of courtship, he is unlikely to be able to win her under the routine and stresses of married life.

The only way out of this rut for Adele and Martin is to come to terms with themselves, to recognize that they actually enjoy nursing themselves so that they can pity themselves and avoid the challenge of creating a real relationship with the possibility of it bringing fulfillment.

If Adele and Martin cannot change their patterns by themselves, they should seek professional help.

TODAY'S PRONUNCIATIONS TIP: PROGRAM

Wouldn't it be a relief if all announcers (as well as everyone else) would pronounce program correctly . . . pro-gram, just as it is spelled! (not pro-grum.)

ANNOUNCING HERESLIP ON BUSINESS TELEPHONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just begun my first position in a business office, and I find that this entails quite a good deal of telephoning. I'm confused as to how I should announce myself, because I know that generally one shouldn't announce oneself as "Miss Sleddon," for example. Will you advise me about this, please, because I feel it is most important to my position. — A. D.

A correct, direct way for you to announce yourself on the business telephone is "This is Miss Sleddon of the Day Company." (The social rule against referring to yourself as "Miss . . ." does not apply to business.) The addition of the company's name after your name is usually recommended as helpful for quick identification.

MILK, NOT CREAM, SERVED WITH TEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a tea-enthusiast and always take my tea plain. But when I have several guests to tea, I suppose there should be something offered in the so-called "cream pitcher." Must it be cream in the cream pitcher, or is it proper to serve milk in this pitcher? — Ann

Generally speaking, milk, rather than cream, is preferred with tea. It's served in the cream pitcher, it's usually referred to as "cream" . . . but actually it's milk.

Readers' Friday Column

Letter: We have found two very tasty Chinese dishes and wish to pass them along to you. Any of our friends who have tasted them have gone home with the recipe. — Mrs. B.C.L.

Answer: Thanks immensely. I think these are tops and am sure our readers will too.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK

1-2 cup butter
1-3 cup shortening
1-2 teaspoons salt
1 clove garlic, diced
2 eggs
4 tablespoons flour few grains pepper
1 lb. lean pork—1-2" cubes
1 cup water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
4 slices canned pineapple each cut into 6 pieces
3 green peppers each cut into 6 pieces
1-2 teaspoons corn starch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1-3 cup vinegar
1-3 cup sugar
Makes 6 servings.

Combine butter, shortening and 1-2 teaspoon salt in frying pan. Add garlic. Combine eggs, flour, remaining salt and pepper. Coat pork with egg mixture and fry until golden brown. Remove all but 1 tablespoon fat from pan. Add 1-3 cup water, bouillon cubes, green peppers and pineapple. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes. Blend remaining ingredients and add to frying pan. Stir constantly until juice thickens and mixture is very hot. Serve immediately with cooked rice. Note: The green peppers can be either omitted or cut down to one if not liked.

TOASTED ALMOND CHOW MEIN

6 tablespoons butter or
1 lb. raw chicken, pork, beef, cubed
1 1-2 cups diced onion
1-4 lb. mushrooms—sliced
3 cups diced celery
1-2 (12 oz.) pkg. frozen peas
1 1-2 cups water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1 16-oz. can bean sprouts, drained
1-2 cup blanched toasted almonds
3 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1-4 teaspoons sugar
Makes 6 servings.

Sauté meat in butter, but do not brown. Add onions and mushrooms and fry 5 minutes. Add celery, peas, water, bouillon cubes, salt and pepper and cook 10 minutes. Add bean sprouts and almonds. Combine water, cornstarch, soy sauce and sugar. Mix with hot mixture and cook 2 minutes until thickened.

Note: This recipe is very tasty, but my family prefers the Chow Mein without the almonds.

Sunday School Lesson

Cannot Insulate Religion

By ROY L. SMITH

Some wag once remarked that the man who is all wrapped up in himself makes a very small package, and it can be said with equal truth that the religion which leaves a man, or a nation, concerned solely with his own salvation, is a futile sort of faith.

Many years ago Frank Beard, the cartoonist, drew a picture of four people seated about a heavily laden dinner table, with father returning thanks saying,

"Lord, bless me and my wife, My son and his wife, Us Four,

And no more, Amen"

It was a bit of satire, of course, but the thing that made it so effective was the fact that in so many situations it was (and is) true.

RELIGIOUS EXCLUSIVENESS

The Book of Jonah is a powerful parable dealing with this problem of religious exclusiveness. The prophet was determined to have no truck with any movement designed to spread the good news of Jehovah among the pagans.

During the period of the exile the Jews had come to the conclusion that their misfortunes were all traceable to the fact that they had aliented the good favor of Jehovah, their God. In a determined effort to reform they had become extremely exclusive. Some of their most honored leaders had demanded that even some happy homes should be broken up, because they represented mixed marriages between Jews and Babylonians. Had they had their way, the Jews would have become a hermit nation, completely cut off from all other men.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for September 13: "God's Concern For All People"; Book of Jonah.

The book of Jonah was written by a spiritually minded Jew who believed Judaism had a message it was obligated to give to the rest of the world. He conceived it to be part of the mission of the nation to do missionary work among the pagan nations. And in an effort to convince his countryman of their duty in this respect he wrote the Book of Jonah. It was, therefore, a book about a prophet, rather than a book by a prophet, although its message is certainly a prophetical one.

PLENTY TO DO AT HOME

Someone set up an interesting picture of two monkeys, one in the act of de-fleaing the other. Underneath the photograph was the caption. "No, we don't believe in foreign missions. We have enough to do right here at home."

Underneath the ironic jest there is a profound truth. It is a fact, of course, that we have a full sized job to do "at home", but it is also a fact that we will never be able to complete the home job until we have done some work away from home.

The Christian home, for example, that undertakes to train its little ones in decency, cleanliness, and honor soon finds itself handicapped when the children get out on the school ground and come in competition with children from other homes where no such ideals prevail. This makes it necessary to organize parent-teacher's associations, and other such groups, for the purpose of lifting neighborhood standards.

It is not enough to labor for one's own. To do it well one must labor for other men's own. And the same principle applies in the field of national affairs.

CONCERN OVER TRIFLES

It is just a little surprising, the way we get all worked up over trifles, and remain indifferent to majors. Jonah could be much grouse, for the gourd vine that was destroyed by the sun, but he would not become indignant over the fate of a nation that remained in ignorance.

Ritual, dogma, and orders of worship all have their place and meaning, of course, but all too often it happens that we become more concerned over the state of the altar cloth than over the state of the sinner.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mary Thomas had her wedding ring back on her finger today, 27 years after she lost it.

Mrs. Thomas lost the ring on a farm near New Bavaria, nearly 50 miles southwest of here, where she lived for several years.

Two years ago Erford Oedy, who now lives on the farm, turned up a wedding ring while plowing.

The story of the ring eventually got to Napoleon, a dozen miles north, where Mrs. Thomas's sister-in-law, Mrs. Beatrice Thomas, lives.

Last Sunday, Mary drove to the Oedy home and picked up her ring.

Pigeon Jailed To Keep Boy, Age 10, Company

Magistrates decided the blind world make life easier for a 10-year-old boy sent to reform school for two weeks for battering down a neighbor's garden shed with an axe.

I reared Charlie myself and I love him," the boy said. As long as we're together we shan't mind the next 14 days a bit."

Reform school officials are building a special aviary as Charlie's cell." A special stock of peas was laid in for him.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The professional hockey teams are opening training camps. Clubs that operate under the pseudo "amateur" nomenclature are beginning to set their bonnes in order. Hockey is around the corner, and before anyone knows it, will be plumb into our laps.

The virus is beginning to show signs of activity in fans of this city and district. The Belleville McFarlands have been entered as a club in the newly-formed OHA senior "A" league, the only one in Eastern Canada captivity.

News outlets are beginning to be plagued with questions regarding the 1959-60 edition of the McFarlands. Jean Paul Lamirande has been sold to the Windsor Bulldogs and will act as playing coach. A news item three weeks ago sourced by Ike Hildebrand, stated the Macs had signed Kingston's Billy Colvin, were on the trail of Bon Gagnon, Roy Partridge and Moe Savard.. Marv Edwards, North Bay goalie, was said to have expressed wishes to play with Belleville.

Outside of that nothing has emanated from the McFarlands' management.

A western Ontario sports editor, one of the best of the craft who is not addicted to day-dreaming or concocting copy round that like the "Belleville Intelligencer is seeking the services of Billy Reay as boss-man." He added that Lamirande demanded a large bonus for signing and a salary far beyond the limit set by the league brass from the McFarlands. He was turned down and signed with Windsor.

We cannot vouch for the story of the Macs' management seeking the services of Billy Reay. We do not know. For we have not been informed. But we do say the McFarlands can do a whole lot worse. Reay is the coach.

And wt do know that the yarn of Lammy's almost fabulous demands is true because we got the story from Mr. H. J. McFarland a few weeks ago via telephone.

It was at that time he stated "it is my team now and I intend running it that way. No outsider, player or otherwise, is going to have anything to do with its operations. I don't mind spending $10,000 or $15,000 to make the team a success. I do not want to make any money out of it, and if there is anything left at the end of the season, the players will share it. But they will have to co-operate. I do not mind paying a decent salary to good hockey players—the golden days are over for a lot of them. If they do not want to meet my terms . . ."

While this department is honor-bound not to divulge figures, it can be stated that Lamirande's demands of McFarland were as-was stated, "fabulous," far beyond the player salary maximum set by the league.

Harvey J. McFarland is a strong sound business man and it is quite evident he intends to operate the hockey club along the same lines as his own successful construction business. He has proven to be generous, big-hearted and kind when the occasion demands. But sentiment does not mix with business and hockey.

But public relations do. And that is what the McFarlands, like any other hockey organization, need. As was mentioned, fans are beginning to get curious and ask questions. That is their inalienable right. And it is also right that whatever information is available should be given them regardless of media. After all, the fan is the bread-and-butter of any sports organization.

Unfortunately the McFarlands hockey management, its playing coach and city news outlets are more or less widely separated. The management and executive is in Picton, playing coach Ike Hildebrand resides in Peterborough and "we, radio and newspaper" are here. Liaison appears to be difficult.

As hockey training time draws near, fandom will get more impatient. It will want to know what is going on, what kind of a team will be iced, news regarding players old and otherwise and other news pertaining to the club and the game.

We respectfully suggest to Mr. McFarland that he appoint a public relations official or officials, so that fans, especially in this city and district, can be kept abreast of the times as far as the hockey team is concerned.

WHIPPER AND DON TONIGHT

Tonight East York's handsome Whipper Billy Watson will again attempt to show fandom that he is a better man than the 390-pound behemoth Don Leo Jonathan. It is not the first time this pair has tangled, and regardless of what happened before, tonight's scramble has all the appearances of a grudge battle. The Whip will need all his science and strength to conquer the huge Mormon, and tonight's tilt should be one for the books. Then there's the incomparable "Hardboiled" who will pit his cunning against the speed and agility of the Honolulu sensation Sam Steamboat. Looks like a rugged night all around for somebody.

Braves, 'Bums' Could Be National Giant-Killers

Trim Margin to Two Games As Leaders Bow to Pirates; Sox Lose, But So Does Tribe

By RED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Early Wynn has a 19-8 record this season for Chicago White Sox. Bud Daley is 15-12 for Kansas City. Herb Score is 16-11 for Baltimore. All three have winning records over Cleveland.

So what? So it's a bit ironic that the Indians, who once owned all three, now are so hard up for pitching while trying to stay alive in that American League pennant race that they're going to give infielder Granny Hamner another crack at it.

Hamner tried once before. One of the while kids who brought the National League pennant to Philadelphia in 1950, he took a shot at pitching with the Phils in 1956 because of an ailing shoulder that gave him trouble when he batted.

The experiment didn't work. He pitched just nine innings in four games over two seasons for an 0-1 record and a 4.00 earned run average.

Wilhelm, the knuckleballin-rightshander Cleveland didn't want, hung the Indians up to die again Thursday night, clipping their tattered pennant at six with a three-hitter as Baltimore beat the second-place Tribe 6-1. That left the Indians four games behind the White Sox, who were belted 8-3 by Washington but reduced their magic number to 11.

New York regained third place with a 12-1 romp over Kansas City, the A's 13th straight loss, while Detroit moved to fourth with a 7-3 defeat at Boston.

The White Sox, who had won 11 in a row from Washington, were knocked over by three [illegible] but batted in four — hitter by Camilo Pascual (15-10). Harmon Killebrew, tying Cleveland's Rocky Colavito for the league lead with his 40th, Jim Lemon and Leonie Green tied the homers, all two-run shots.

Dick Donovan (9-8) was the loser, his third straight loss to the Nats, who dropped the season series to the Sox 5-16.

Wilhelm missed a shutout over the Indians in the eighth inning on a walk, two passed balls and an infield out. Russ Nixon singled for two of Cleveland's hits and Woody Held doubled for the other.

Brooks Robinson drove in four runs for the Birds, hammering a three-run homer in the eighth off reliever Herb Score. He doubled home their first run as Things don't look good for San Francisco's Giants in the National League pennant race. Not with Milwaukee Braves riding a five-game streak after two perfect-game, come-from-behind victories and Los Angeles pitchers back in business.

The Braves and Dodgers, tied for second, trimmed (San Francisco's lead to two games Thursday as the Giants and 18-game winner Johnny Antonelli blew a 9-1 lead and lost 5-3 to Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee moved in with a four-run seventh inning that beat St. Louis 7-4. And Los Angeles kept the pace with a 5-0 job on Philadelphia as Roger Craig gave the Dodger staff two consecutive three-hit shutouts and a string of 25 scoreless innings.

Cincinnati split a pair at Chicago, winning 10-0 before the Cubs took a 7-3 decision.

Craig, 6-10 with a September who hadn't put away a complete game against the Phillies in 15 tries since 1956, faced the minimum 18 men over the last six innings while matching Don Drysdale's three-hit job of Wednesday night.

The Dodgers beat Don Cardwell (9-8) with a pair of unearned runs in the first frame on an error, walk and Norm Larker's single. Their other three came in the fifth when Maury Wills, who had four of their seven hits, and Charley Neal each tripled.

Milwaukee built a 3 - 0 lead against Larry Jackson but Cincinnati took a 4-3 lead with three runs in the seventh against Juan Pizarro and Bob Buhl. The Milwaukee Braves bounced back for their four, scoring three on Hank Aaron's double after losing starter Lindy McDaniel (14 - 12) had loaded the bases with three consecutive walks.

Don McMahon (5-2) won it with a one-hit, two-inning mopup that officially eliminated the seventh place Cubs from the race.

The Pirates caught the Giants with four runs in the seventh. An error by Danny O'Connell in the tying run and Bob Clemente then put it away with a two-run single. Vern Law (16-9) went all the way for the victory although giving up 11 hits. Three of them homers—one by Willie Kirkland and two by Orlando Cepeda, playing with a possible broken finger.

They scored three in the fourth against loser Cal McLish (17-8).

Softball, Baseball Battles Highlight Busy Weekend

Softball and baseball playdowns highlight the busy weekend sports menu with plenty of Belleville teams participating, both at home and away.

Sunday afternoon is "baseball day" with two top attractions on tap here in the city.

Lloyd's Cleaners Juniors will entertain Oshawa at the CNRA Park at 2:00 p.m. Sunday in the second game of their Ontario Baseball Association playdown series.

Oshawa took the opening game in the Motor City last weekend by a 1-0 score but coach "Cuffer" Noakes was confident this morning that his boys would even the series on their home diamond. Larry Cuffe, who had a no-hitter going into the ninth inning of that first game but ended up with a two-hit loss, will likely get the starting assignment in Sunday's "do-or-die" fixture. Don't forget that's at two o'clock Sunday at the CNRA Park.

Meanwhile up at the Fairgrounds, those arch rivals, Lakeland and Read, will be battling it out in the seventh game for the South Hastings baseball league championship.

These teams have fought through six tight games with three wins apiece and everything rides on the Sunday afternoon fixture. Both sides are confident of victory in this important tilt which gets under way at 2.00 p.m. A large crowd is expected for this one.

Three city softball clubs see action Saturday in OASA playdowns, two of them on the road.

In the lone home game, the Bobcats Juveniles open a series with Oshawa on the CNRA diamond at 3.30 Saturday evening. The locals have been out of action since outing Kingston in consecutive games two weeks ago but coach Frankie Critch has put the bustling youngsters through several workouts and feels they are ready for Oshawa. Doug Ellis will likely get the pitching job for the Bobcats.

Also on Saturday the Bobcats Intermediates travel to Peterborough to continue their playdowns.

Bob Temple's Bobcats will tackle Toronto East York at Dieppe Park at 2:00 in the second game of their Intermediate "AA" semi-final series. The Oshawa boys dropped the opener in the first game but can expect a much more determined club to face them on the Toronto field.

And last but not least, Leo Culhan's Booth TV's will trek to Willowdale for the first game of their Bantam "A" series. That is an afternoon affair, getting under way at two o'clock.

Larks Face Tigers Saturday, Sunday Argos Meet Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal's injury-riddled Alouettes face an uphill battle in the biggest question in Eastern Canada football: Can the Hamilton Tiger-Cats be stopped?

Ah, they host to the unbeaten Tigers in Montreal for the opener of the Big Four Football League's double-action weekend Sunday the Ottawa Rough Riders visit Toronto Argonauts.

Three key players will be missing from the Montreal lineup for Hamilton's first visit of the season to Molson Stadium. End Hal Patterson, halfback Ivan Livingstone and fullback Johnny Bletcher haven't recovered from early-season injuries.

HELD 320 AT COUNTY WIN

In the clubs' first meeting Aug. 15 at Hamilton the Tigers won 32-18, allmost margin of their four wins to date. Montreal, with a 2-3 record, could move into a first-place tie with a win Saturday.

Complicating Montreal's task is the fact that their defending championship have no serious injuries.

Their coach Jim Trimble, apparently not even satisfied with Saturday's win, has lashed out at other potential star, halfback Don Maynard, released on waivers from New York Giants of the National Football League.

"It's unlikely Maynard will get into action Saturday. He injured his leg in practice session Thursday night and had to be carried off the field.

SWITZER, ALOUS

One bright spot in the Montreal camp could be impact halfback Veryl Switzer who scored three touchdowns last Saturday as Als flattened Ottawa 29-7. It was Switzer's debut with the Als and the highest one - game scoring performance in the league this season.

The game at Toronto will be the first Sunday game of the schedule and the first Sunday game ever played in the Ontario circuit.

Both Ottawa and Toronto have been disappointments in their first four games with Ottawa losing four straight and Argos salvaging a single same-point win over Ottawa.

Coaches Frank Clair of Riders and Hampy Pool of Argos have been leaning desperately for solutions to their problems at quarterback.

NOT QUITE UP OLD

Ronnie Knox of Argos, who performed brilliantly in the Toronto club's first scheduled drive last season, hasn't been clicking recently.

Veteran Frank Tripucka of Riders has had a dismal record and Coach Ron Jackson has been getting most of the quarterbacking from his second string.

A win could put Argos within easier reaching distance of the surprising Montrealers. A loss would sink them into the cellar with the Rough Riders.

Player Dies, Mates, Parents Defend Coach

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— Members of the grief-stricken in the aftermath of a teammate's tragic death, a group of University of Maryland football players came to the defense of coach Jim Tatum today.

So did the parents of the victim, Charles Horsey Jr.

Four members spoke as spokesman for the team decided to protest that local authorities gone a prolonged workout under protest Monday his frail collapse on practice field.

They volunteered the statement after Horsey's D. Webb mer, 17 - year - old player at Bethesda - Chevy Chase High, Md., said he saw Lohr kept on the field Sept. 3 after the rest had been sent or dismissed. Two other youths supported Welsh-Horsey's statement.

Lohr, 19 - year - old centre, collapsed at the end of a drill and died Sunday. Doctors said he died from the effects of heat exhaustion.

FELL FOUR TIMES

Welsh said Lohr complained, "I can't do it," after falling to the ground three or four times during one drill, yet was ordered by an assistant coach to get back.

Alan Long, 19, said he heard Lohr gibed: "Please coach, let me rest."

Frank Wilkinson, 18, said Lohr told him: "I can't do this. I don't have to do this."

Publication of Welshmer's account drew protests from guard Tom Gunderman, halfback Bob Gallagher, centre Dewayne Fletcher and tackle Kurt Schlegel.

"I can't understand why people make statements when they don't really know what happened," said Fletcher. "I was there at the same time with Sonny and didn't see or hear any coach yelling or driving anybody."

Schlegel said there was nothing unusually taxing about the practice, and described Nugent as "the fairest man I have seen as a coach."

Mrs. Lucille Lohr, mother of the victim, told Nugent in a telephone interview Monday she does not feel he was responsible for the boy's death. Maryland opens its season against West Virginia Sept. 19.

"My friends and I," wrote Mrs. Lohr, "will be at the game on the 19th cheering for you."

Bobcats Game From League Crown After 5-1 Victory Over Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bobcats built an early 5-0 lead and coasted the rest of the way on Bobby Hull's two-hit hurling to down Trenton Garretts 5-1 and take a three-games-to-two lead in their Belleville and District softball league finals at CNRA Park last night.

Chilly and damp for all weather prevailed through the contest and only a few fans attended the game, but the chubs played good ball with several sparkling fielding plays by both teams.

The sixth game is slated for Trenton next Tuesday at 8.15 p.m. unless the Bobcats have an O.A.S.A. game that night.

Hull handled the Garretts with ease although he did not appear to be bearing down. He gave up a single to Ged Maroney in the second frame and another to Roger Drake in the third, pitching no-hit ball over the last half dozen frames. He whiffed four and walked seven.

Trenton broke the shutout bid in the sixth frame. Billy Mitts drew a leadoff walk and scored on a passed ball, third on a wild pitch and raced home when Brown was fooling Alexander's ground ball to short.

Len Smith raced his close behind first base to pull a diving, rolling catch on Mitts' pop fly, throwing Drake out in the second frame, one of the night's better defensive plays.

Doug Alexander of Trenton played an outstanding game at the keystone with a backhand play in the hole, off Brown's drive, with two on in the fourth inning was his best effort. He forced the runner at third base on the play, saving at least one run.

Ged Maroney loed the rubber for Drake' crew, allowing ten hits over the route. He struck out four while walking four, all in the early part of the contest.

Walks paved the way to three Bobcat runs. Robert runs. Crawford and Brown both strolled and Bert Faulkner doubled to right field to score Crawford. Brown scored on an error on the same play. Karl Cousins closed the Bobcat scoring with his only double back of first base plating Faulkner.

Bert Faulkner and Earl Cousins each collected a brace of doubles and a single in four trips to the plate. Denny Hayden had two infield hits while Bobby Hull, Len Smith and Alexander dropped down a perfect bunt single.

Lineups:

Trenton: Austin 3b, Drake 1b, Mitts lf, L. Wannamaker c, Brown ss, Alexander p, D. Cole cf, Defosse rf, Smith 2b, H.-Cole 2b, Maroney p, Drake lb.

Desperate Argos Seek Help, Riders Crack Down on Fans

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough-Riders have decided to crack down on fans who stampede from the end-zone seats onto the playing field, looking for loose football.

The get-tough policy, including possible arrest, was adopted Thursday at an executive meeting of the Big Shoulder, eastern representative of Canadian Football Commissioner Sydney Halter.

It follows incidents in last Saturday's game against Montreal Alouettes when six footballs, costing $20, were lost to mobs in action that delayed the game.

Club President Barry O'Brien said the end zone stands, filled mainly with youths teen - agers, will be pulled back from the playing area and a snow fence set up in front of them.

Anyone caught jumping over the snow fences will be escorted out of the park. Additional police and security guards will be on hand.

O'Brien said the club also will revert to the practice of kicking converts from the end zone into the playing area.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, desperately eyeing National Football League Eastern Division leaders Ottawa Rough Riders, have asked Commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg to allow two players from Green Bay Packers and another from Los Angeles Rams on Argos' negotiating list.

A spokesman for the Big Four football club said Argo coach Hampy Pool has learned by telephone that Steve Meilinger, tackle Al Buckingham of Green Bay and halfback - linebacker Sonny Gamer of Los Angeles will soon be placed on waivers by their NFL teams.

The Argos hope to pick them up if no other NFL team wants them and if they are not already on some other Canadian team's negotiating list.

What's the first thing to do in case of fire?

Call the Fire Department!

Many homes could be saved if this were done. Of course, you should keep a fire extinguisher handy . . . follow safety rules set up by the Fire Department.

But safety rules aren't always enough. Make sure your home is fully protected with fire insurance, too. Call us for a checkup.

NBC to Fire 5 New Series Into Orbit This Weekend

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television'f master plan this year appears to be to beat Peter Gunn to death with slavish imitations.

If the premiere of Staccato on NBS Thursday night was representative of the rest of the series, TV's mystery motto remains "nothing succeeds like copies of success."

Okay, so Staccato really is different. The big switch is that Jimmy Staccato, hero, is not only an intrepid private eye but a piano player also.

Like Peter, his peer, he's well tailored and doesn't talk much as he brings a blackmailer to justice. There's that jazz scoring, of course, and very good it is too.

Staccato is a slick professional production. John Cassavetes, a skilled and sensative actor, does not seem particularly happy in his devil-may-care, lady-killer title role. Maybe his conscience is bothering him.

The open season on TV reviewers and critics starts in earnest this weekend, with NBC flring five new series into orbit. Tonight there's the premiere of Troubleshooters, concerned with the adventures of heavy construction workers. Saturday night in rapid succession there are three more. First is Bonanza, an hour-long western in color, designed to give the opposition's Perry Mason trouble when it returns. This is followed by The Man and the Challenge, adventures of a scientist testing limits of human endurance. And after this comes Henry Fonda as The Deputy, a half-hour oat burner. Sunday evening is countdown time for NBC's big anti-Maverick misfits, Riverboat. This one, in color, might be described as a sort of wagon train with water —the Mississippi, that is.

Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra Said Greatest Male Singers

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you want to get a good argument going at your next party, casually ask opinions on who is the greatest male singer of the modern show business era.

A reporter tossed that one into the hopper at a Hollywood gathering the other night and it kept the party going into the small hours.

Many names came up but the finalists boiled to two — Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

Most agreed that if the question pertained to today only, Sinatra would win. If limited to the last 25 years, then Crosby gets the nod. That, in effect, makes it a tie.

It's true that Bing is not singing much these days, whereas Frank is singing better — and more—than ever.

6,000 SALES

The tonsils of both have earned millions, probably more for Bing than Frank—but not much more. Bing holds the record for the greatest single record sale of all time—White Christmas—now past the 10,000,000 mark. Frank is the all-time champion album seller. They are the two most imitated singers alive today. Some of Crosby's imitators have become almost as famous as he.

Dean Martin and Perry Como both started as Crosby imitators. Martin says unabashedly: Bing had his tonsils removed and I bought them."

Perry developed his own style on TV and records but in the old days he sounded more like Crosby than Bing himself. Como, by the way, is Bing's favorite male singer.

I guess maybe it's the old self - identification appeal," he quipped when a reporter reminded him that Como once imitated the Crosby style.

Of Sinatra, Bing comments: He's the type of singer who comes once in a lifetime, but why did he have to come in my lifetime?"

Bing is the first to admit that he isn't singing as well as he did in the 1930s.

But then," he adds, I'm not doing anything as well as I did in the 30s."

Or as Bob Hope once said: Bing's idea of a big night now is to switch his electric blanket from medium to warm."

Al Jolson's name came up in the debate but he was ruled out as being of another era. When Bing first started most singers were imitating Jolson, with the exceptions of Gene Austin and Rudy Vallee.

Bing's style was his own and different. And he became a star.

When Sinatra came on the scene, most singers were imitating Crosby. Frank had a different sound and he too became a star.

AT THE PARK — A scene from the hilarious comedy "Crazy Over Horses", starring Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys showing today and Saturday at the air conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program Gary Cooper stars as Captain Wyatt swamp fighter in Warner Bros. Technicolor adventure "Distant Drums". Continuous show Saturday starting at 1.10 p.m.

Notes Warn Giants' Boss 'Not to Win'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Bill Rigney, manager of the San Francisco Giants, received a typewritten note Thursday warning him not to win any more baseball games in the race for the National League pennant.

Rigney said he had received two similar notes in recent weeks.

"I didn't notify police but threw the notes into the wastebasket where they belonged," Rigney said.

The Giants, in first place two games ahead of Milwaukee and Los Angeles, lost 5-3 to Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Sweeping Inquiry Govt. Operations Being Planned

Prime Minister Declines To Comment on Report

OTTAWA (CP)— The administration is planning an inquiry into the whole field of government operations, informed sources say.

Preparations are understood to be under way to set up a royal commission to undertake an inquiry similar in that conducted into United States government operations by a commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined to confirm reports of the plans as he entered a Friday afternoon cabinet session. However, he replied to a question as to whether the reports were true by referring to widespread interest in such an inquiry and to the value of the commission's findings.

EXPECTED SAVINGS

The Hoover commission, he said, "was something that certainly brought about considerable savings and gave a lead to all government departments in the direction of economy and prevention of deterioration of effectiveness."

The prime minister refused to commit himself when asked whether a Canadian inquiry into government operations would be accompanied by a freezing of civil service salaries but said he thought reporters were correct in recalling that such action hadn't followed establishment of the Hoover commission.

The question of a pay raise for civil servants has become a hot issue in recent months, particularly in the federal election campaign in the constituency of Russell which includes large sections of the capital and includes many civil servants.

Restrictions in Russell, hitherto a Liberal stronghold, and in Stanstead-Frontenac, also a Quebec riding, will be held Oct. 5.

Opposition Leader Pearson has accused the government of stalling on the pay raise issue and suggested the administration is using an announcement of a pay boost for the eve of the byelections.

This has been denied by Finance Minister Fleming who stated the same words as the prime minister in saying that the matter "certainly will be exhaustive study."

Pressure about an inquiry into government operations met with an unfavorable reaction from Gordon Cushen president of the powerful Civil Service Federation of Canada.

"It looks like a two-year setback of many of the issues which civil servants have raised in this respect," a statement apparently based on the assumption that there would be a two-year lag before the whole field of government operations. However, there was no indication whether an inquiry would go into the field of crown corporations.

Three Lose Lives As Fire Sweeps Nursing Home

WINDSOR, N.S. (CP) — Two elderly patients and a nurse were burned to death early today when trapped in a flaming nursing home described by coroner R. D. Lindsay as a "fire trap".

The owner said the building, 15 nearby Falmouth, had no "fire escape and no sprinkler system." He said an inquest will begin later today.

Dead are, Mrs. James Monteith, 89, of Windsor, Mrs. George Currie, about 85, and Mrs. May Sullman, 49.

Two other persons were injured. Judy Parker, an 18-year-old employee in the home, suffered a broken leg when she jumped from a third-floor window. Mrs. Fred Mosher, 73, suffered severe arm and shoulder burns. She was rescued by a neighbor with a ladder.

The home was owned by Bruce Mounce. Mounce and his wife and Ralph Vaughan escaped uninjured. Vaughan was removed by firemen through an upstairs window.

Firemen said all eight persons in the building, the Avon Crest Nursing Home, had been accounted for.

Police said the three-storey frame building burned in about 15 minutes, aided by high winds and a falling water supply.

Residents Angry Over Shooting Of Four Bears

MARTEN RIVER, Ont. (CP)— Four bears that once delighted tourists with their antics are dead this community 40 miles north of North Bay won't be around when the tourists come back next year.

A few days ago they were shot by a party of hunters who found them and a garbage dump at the district dump.

The fate of the bears was described by a group of angry Marten River residents as "the so-called incident "wholesale" slaughter.

"They talk about developing a good one in those bears and someone goes and they would make good targets," said Leo Lapointe, a Marten River businessman.

The bears were first discovered early in the summer by tourists. Many of whom had never seen a bear outside a zoo.

By the end of August the bears had been photographed by hundreds of visitors to the area.

The Marten River dump is situated on the west side of Highway 11 where hunting is permitted.

Miss Canada Loses Mountie Escorts Just When She Needs Them Most

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP) — Miss Canada made the most of a difficult situation in the Miss America parade Friday night when she found herself on stage without Mounties or limes.

At first incapacitated to Miss Canada civil servants," he said.

The statement apparently was based on the assumption that there would be a two-year lag before the whole field of government operations. However, there was no indication whether an inquiry would go into the field of crown corporations.

...whose act was the first, had to go onstage without them.

She began delivering her monologue and drew thunderous applause.

But preliminaries are over and tonight thousands of people will jam Convention Hall to witness the conclusion of the event. Thousands more will see it on television.

Friday night, Miss Michigan, British-born Ann Penelope Marston of Wyandotte, won the final preliminary talent award with a display of her prowess in archery.

The swim suit competition was taken by Miss Wisconsin, Mary Alice Fox pl Sheboygan.

100th Anniversary of Press Assoc. Observed at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—The launching 100 years ago of an organization representing Ontario and Quebec publishers was marked Friday in the city of which was its birthplace.

W. J. Blackburn, publisher of the London Free Press, unveiled a plaque in observance of the centenary of The Canadian Press Association. His grandfather, Josiah Blackburn, was one of the original officers.

The plaque, situated on the outside wall of the Kingston Whig-Standard Building, bears the names of the original officers and of 13 newspapers also represented at the initial meeting.

The organization was formed for discussion of mutual problems and to enable the publishers to get to know each other. It included publishers of magazines and weekly newspapers as well as dailies.

The inaugural meeting of the CPA was held Sept. 27, 1859, during the first Confederation. All but two of its original members were newspaper owners. Only publishers attended.

The other two were published in Montreal.

Similar associations sprang up across the country following Confederation. Eventually they all absorbed the other bodies until The Canadian Press Association remained.

Five years later, in recognition of the diversified interests of its members groups, it was split into The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, The Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and The Provincial Press Association.

The association of dailies, which changed its name in 1934 to the Canadian Daily Newspapers Publishers Association, has become a clearing house for all aspects of business information in connection with daily newspaper publishing.

The plaque unveiled Friday was set up by the CDNPA and Earl Hogue, its president, presided at the ceremony.

In a letter to the founders of the CPA, Mr. Hogue, advertising director of Montreal La Presse, said: "Through their spirit and initiative, these newspaper men cast a lengthening shadow over succeeding generations and laid the cornerstone of our democratic way of life."

Speaking at a luncheon given by the Whig-Standard following the unveiling, J. Alec Edmison, chairman of the National Parole Board in Ottawa and a former assistant to the principal of Queen's University here, said: "The newspaper pioneers were today more practical men who nevertheless had visions and hopes."

The plaque bears the names of these men: W. Gleaney, Hamilton Spectator; A. G. Brown, Toronto Globe; Josiah Blackburn, London Free Press; Thomas Deugall, Berlin Telegraph; Thomas Sellar, Guelph Mercury; Thos. Sheppard, Toronto Globe; James Seymour, St. Catharines Journal; Thos. Kirby, Brockville, Dundas Banner; Thomas McIntosh, Kingston Expositor; Joseph Jacques, Milton Journal.

Also named on it are the following newspapers: Kingston British Whig; Belleville Intelligencer; Picton Times; Brockville Recorder; Cornwall Freeholder; Montreal Herald; Montreal Witness; Whitby Watchman; Barrie Advance; Cornwall Standard; Kingston Chronicle; Belleville Independent; Kingston Herald and Milton New Era.

Behind The Iron Curtain

Preparation and Start Of Motor Trip to Russia

(ARTICLE ONE)

Would you like to take a trip behind the Iron Curtain? Well, it's not as difficult these days as you might imagine— although it's not as effortless as going to Florida.

I still quite an undertaking. If you wish to travel to Russia, for example, you must first decide what you would like to see, how you want to travel, how long you want to stay and what kind of accommodation you want.

All this information is taken to a travel agency which has been approved by the Russian Embassy in Ottawa, that is, they have thoroughly dealt with trips to the U.S.S.R. But, in fact, they only act as an agent between you and the Russian travel agency. A list of your desires is sent to Intourist which works out a trip for you, and tells you how much it will cost.

If you approve it, you pay for the whole trip in advance, and then write you here, it is expensive no matter which way you travel. Then they send you have a receipt for this payment can you go to the Russian Embassy in Ottawa for a visa and if you are not in possession of a Canadian passport, usually granted you shortly before you leave. You are then set out.

TRAVELLED BY CAR

There are several ways to get there, but for me the best way by far was by car, since one can see something of the new country and meet many more people. So I picked up a new Ford Mercury in Paris and set out.

One cannot leap from Germany to Russia. It is necessary to obtain transit visas from Czechoslovakia and Poland. Both countries are close to Germany and, while, and a chance to see two of the satellite countries on the way. I also liked the idea of visiting them.

Together with a friend of mine, we decided to enter the Czech border and our trip was on.

The expression "iron curtain" is usually used to describe the barrier between West and East but at this border point the term "bamboo curtain" is more appropriate. There were several rows of fences, high, and possibly charged. The land was cleared on both sides so that it could be effectively patrolled by the soldiers standing guard. There were also lookout towers and a road check point a few hundred yards from the customs-house.

All this would serve to keep people out as well as in. Only

KHRUSHCHEV SOOTHES ANGRY ASIAN GIANTS

His Influence Seen Behind Peace Feelers

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru was heckled by opposition members in Parliament today on charges of appeasing Red China in the border dispute.

They called on the government to use "firm" diplomacy—not "pseudo Chinese Communist diplomacy"—to withdraw troops from Indian territory.

Nehru angrily accused the opposition of unrealistic "brave gestures" and rejected the suggestion to use force.

The flareup came even as Nikita S. Khrushchev appeared to be making headway in getting India and Red China to agree to meet to cool off their hot border dispute which has been raising a shadow over his impending mission to the United States.

Despite the flaring bitter charges of aggression against each other, the Soviet Union's two Asian neighbors gently tossed out peace feelers Friday morning, each proposing roughly 35,000 square miles of frontier territory.

And China's parliamentary standing committee, meeting in Peking and New Delhi have both welcomed the Moscow statement Wednesday appealing to them to resolve their border feud peacefully.

MEDIATION ROLE?

A pro-Communist Indian weekly in this morning's mail said it is that Khrushchev may offer himself as an intermediary after his talks in Moscow beginning Tuesday, with the professed purpose of easing international tensions.

The Soviet premier has announced talks with Peking Communists with Chinese Communist leaders Sept. 29 on his return home.

Prime Minister Nehru told reporters Friday that the Russian statement on the dispute issued through the news agency Tass "is not the last statement" and also a "very unusual statement for the Soviet government to sponsor." Moscow carefully refrained from taking sides.

Conservatives' Manifesto Gets Mixed Welcome

LONDON (Reuters)—The Conservative party's campaign manifesto for the Oct. 8 parliamentary election have received mixed reaction and a flood of praise from British newspapers.

The Times, independent, commenting on the Conservative election campaign of Harold Macmillan's Tories, calls the document "forward - looking, imaginative and constructive."

But The Times editorial adds that Conservative intentions "are not always clear."

Macmillan said the 5,500-word manifesto was based on realism, policy of prosperity and peace.

Highlights of the manifesto include a pledge by the minister to coordinate scientific research and a promise to "give every encouragement to deal with local areas of unemployment."

The Guardian, Liberal Manchester newspaper with a national circulation, says the manifesto made "unexciting reading," adding that the Tories "do not seem to be in keeping with the mood of the British people."

The Conservative London newspapers, The Daily Telegraph and The Daily Mail, welcomed the manifesto. The Mail calls it "a fair and expert job" and says that it looks to the future "rather than resting on the past."

The Labor party's London Daily Herald said its readers in the end will rather judge the government on its record over eight parliamentary years.

The Herald did not doubt the government's sincerity in the world peace, but doubted "the ability and the will of a tarnished Mr. Macmillan to match the aim with action."

The Beaverbrook's independent, right - wing Daily Express says that while the manifesto was acceptable on the domestic front, the Conservatives would "inevitably" be judged on "the issues of trade and empire."

Accused Again Sentenced to Die

SIMCOE (CP)—Joseph Takacs, 54, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to die for the murder of his eight-year-old stepson at a retrial here and sentenced to death by hanging.

The jury deliberated for three hours and seven minutes before bringing in the verdict. Mr. Justice S. N. Schatz passed sentence.

Mrs. Dorothy Takacs of Port Dover was found bludgeoned to death Oct. 16, in a house formerly occupied by the Takacs family in Houghton Township.

When Nikita Faces Some Back Talk It's From Red Cinderella, His Wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every once in a while Nikita Khrushchev gets a bit of back talk.

It comes from just about the only person in the Soviet Union who can get away with it—his wife.

Nina Petrovna Khrushchev, in the Soviet symbolizes the hope of many a housewife in the Soviet Union. She is the real-life counterpart of the dowdy Cinderella, emerging from the obscurity of drabness to become the lot of most Soviet wives.

Mrs. Khrushchev arrives in the United States Tuesday, she will be thrust into the center of the world's news spotlight.

Before the Khrushchevs' tour around the world likely will know more about her than it her husband. Soviet wife has been kept in the shadows, colorless style to which Communists had to accustom themselves.

Once Khrushchev emerged as premier and the undisputed head of the Soviet Union, things began to change. Each time Mrs. Khrushchev has appeared in public she looked a bit more sprightly. Apparently the former wife found herself a new hairdresser and a new dress designer.

Mrs. Khrushchev remains reserved, though the new appears regularly with her husband at Soviet function, she never is in the area reserved for the Communist elite. She is outgoing with simple charm, chatting graciously with the wives of a teacher of social sciences by profession, Mrs. Khrushchev appears well informed. She speaks English, for example, is getting better all the time. It is one of her hobbies.

Nina Petrovna was born in 1900 in the Donbas, in the heart of her early life.

Mrs. Westerner can say where she met her husband, or whether, indeed, she is the mother of the youngest of Khrushchev's five children. This is a girl of 21, and it is believed Khrushchev married Nina Petrovna about 1938 when he was vaulting into a position of real influence as a member of Stalin's politburo. She is reared the family.

Scientists Appear Confident Device To Make Journey

No Living Creature Has Ever Survived Such Journey

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists fired a rocket at the moon today and announced that a ball at the tip of a cosmic device will reach its destination early Monday in terms of Moscow time, or Sunday afternoon in North America.

The announcement electrified Russia, which is preparing an enthusiastic send-off for Premier Khrushchev, who flies to the United States today for talks and conversations with President Eisenhower.

There was no living creature in the rocket, according to first reports.

But its various parts were crammed with scientific instruments designed, among other things, to make studies of the magnetic fields of both the earth and the moon.

The announcement intimated this was the second Soviet effort to shoot an object to the moon. However, it appeared confident that the rocket will complete its journey.

INTERRUPT PROGRAMS

The announcement, for which all Moscow radio programs were interrupted, said:

"In accordance with the program of space exploration and preparations for interplanetary flights, the Soviet Union has successfully launched the second space rocket.

"The rocket has been fired to study the cosmic space en route to the moon."

The rocket, launched successfully, is on the moon 34 hours minutes after midnight Monday, Moscow time (4:05 p.m. EDT) Sunday.

It is a rocket propelled in a succession of stages.

The last stage of the rocket having exceeded the escape speed of 11,200 metres (about seven miles a second), is "turning into the moon," the announcement said.

"At 2 p.m. Moscow time on Sept. 12 (6 a.m. EDT), the Soviet rocket will be 78,500 kilometres from the earth and will be over the point situated to the north of the Sea of Crises.

"The last stage of the space rocket represents a guided rocket with a system for automatic regulation of the engine, fuel."

"It carries a container with scientific and radio-technical instruments. The container is in the form of a ball: It is hermetically sealed and has a radio. It has a system for automatic regulation of the temperature.

"Getting into orbit, the container with scientific equipment will become a sputnik stage of the rocket."

Pearson Urges Canada Play Greater Role

TWIN ISLES, B.C. (CP) — Greater participation by Canada in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and in the defence of North America was urged Friday night by Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson.

Speaking at a conference on Canadian-United States relations sponsored by Calgary publisher Max Bell, Mr. Pearson also said Canada must join North American members of NATO must take care that there is no riff with European members.

"I think it would be quite a mistake if don't pay our share of collective defence," he told 9 distinguished gathering at these remote islands 100 miles northwest of Vancouver.

"The time has come when we must take a hard look to see if we can't play a more Canadian part in a way that is just as effective as a continental part."

MISSILE SHARE COSTS

Mr. Pearson, Opposition leader in the House of Commons, made these suggestions:

1. Canada should take its share of the costs of the early warning radar system on Canadian soil even if they might be practical only five or six years.

2. Canada should not prevent American interceptor aircraft from facilities if arrangements for this use can be made which "do not unduly protect sovereign rights.

3. Canada should take a part to see that "backsliding" in support of NATO doesn't continue too far.

Tomato Growing Appears Best Paying Commercial Crop in Hastings County

Given suitable soil conditions and weather, the growing of flue cured tobacco is the most profitable type of crop which the Ontario farmer can grow.

This fact is all probability is the reason for the increasing popularity of this crop which since 1925 has jumped in farm value from just over $2,000,000 to a whopping $62,113,000 last year.

Back in 1925 tobacco acreage in Ontario was only just over 7,000 acres with farmers realizing $252 per acre. Last year there were 117,874 acres of tobacco with farm value per acre having increased to $700.

The above figures are contained in the Department of Agriculture publication "Agricultural Statistics for Ontario" which gives the volume and value of field crops grown in Ontario.

TOMATOES BEST IN AREA

But tobacco growing is not for Hastings county and although the statistics report does not give a breakdown by counties, the growing of tomatoes appears to be the best paying commercial crop in this area.

Last year there were an estimated 3,000 acres of tomatoes grown in Ontario with the just over 1,000 acres of these planted having a farm value of nearly $15,500,000. This works out at somewhere in the $300 per acre.

Other good paying commercial crops appeared to be sugar beets and corn but although the total value for these crops was high the number of acres planted was not given.

Potatoes were listed as being a good paying field crop in the Quinte area. Hastings last year produced 1,400,000 "spuds" with farmers realizing $192.40 per acre. In Prince Edward farmers were a bit more successful with 430 acres netting $201 per acre.

There are just over 34,000 acres of orchard in Ontario with apples having a farm value of $8,397,000.

The acreage of "improved farm land" in Hastings and in Prince Edward like in other parts of the province is gradually declining. In Hastings the figure given for 1956 is 253,012 acres which is down slightly from the same year 149,626. For Hastings this is a decline of over 30,000 acres since 1931, and is nearly 20,000 acres down for Prince Edward.

Cattle and sheep on Hastings county farms last year are given as 81,000 and 43,500 respectively with a value of $8,391,300, and $1,564,800.

Prince Edward county had 28,160 cattle and 16,500 swine of all types valued at $2,911,000.

Hastings had 2,200 horses and 9,200 chickens.

P. E. UP IN POULTRY

Prince Edward overshadows Hastings in poultry farming with this county in the south having 382,600 hens and chicks as compared to 284,700 in Hastings county.

The Ontario figures for cattle were given as 1,261,000 cows and heifers for yearlings for milk purposes, and 693,000 calves. Total cattle and calves were given as $450,615,000. Total swine was given as 1,700,000 with a value of $72,440,000. Total horses was 115,000 with a value of $16,100,000, and total sheep and lambs 383,000 with a value of $7,734,000.

For comparison the number of horses in Ontario back in 1925 was given as 631,000, valued at $55,138,000.

Total fields and chickens in the province last year was given as 31,165,000, with a value of $31,-435,000. A big increase from 1925 when there were but 19,902,000 hens and chickens.

Pollution Tests Report Not Yet Available

The report on pollution tests in the Moira River conducted last week by an official of the Ontario Water Resources Commission may not be given for some time, it was learned today.

The tests on pollution were made in the river between Foxboro and Corbyville following requests made by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Thousands of dead and rotting fish were said lying in the reeds and shallows. It was believed the fish were killed as result of a combination of high temperatures, low water and water pollution.

Your Car

Tire Condition Has Bearing On Gas Mileage

By EUGENE MILMOE

When low gas mileage is the complaint, the cause is most often associated with the carburetor or perhaps some part of the ignition system.

Tire troubles, e.g. abnormal wear or short tire life, are seldom considered. Yet very often there's a definite relation.

Both gas and tire budgets will be hard hit if front end misalignment or wheels unbalanced. If springs, shocks or steering wheel bearings are faulty or need lubrication.

The way you drive is another big factor. Unless you have money to burn (and care less about safety), avoid shotgun starts, sustained high speed, frequent hard braking, screaming two-wheel turns and curves. And whenever you overload the car, be prepared to pay via gas and tire expense.

L. F. writes: "My wood stove engine suddenly cut out while the car is travelling at thruway speed".

(A) The more likely causes are: dirt-clogged carburetor or jet-tire, inadequate fuel pump pressure or a faulty carburetor float.

From T.C.: "Is there a surway in the rear doors of my car so that my two children can't open them, either accidentally or deliberately, while I am driving?"

(A) Safety devices are sold by auto supply stores. You can get safety locks, for example, which replace interior door handles and vent doors being opened from the inside.

H. N. asks: "My automatic transmission seems to work all right, but it certainly gets noisy. What can be wrong?"

(A) Low transmission oil could be the reason. If not, a transmission mechanic will probably check for air leaks, clogged oil screens or pump trouble.

C. T. writes: "Just traded in my 1956 for a new model and notice that the owner's manual calls for an automatic transmission fluid changes every 10,000 miles. Could this be a typographical error? The automatic transmission cars I have owned before always specified fluid changing every 20,000 to 25,000 miles."

(A) This is no error. Changes in transmission fluids are now advised by the car maker.

Pleads Guilty To Damaging Police Station

TRENTON — David Barry, 26, of Trenton, pleaded guilty to wilful damage in Magistrate's Court Friday afternoon. Barry was charged following an incident in which he smashed plumbing and fixtures valued at $91.78 in the Trenton Police Station recently.

Giving a summary of the evidence, Constable David Camp stated that he had arrested Barry about 1.40 p.m. August 20 about four blocks from the police station. He stated that when he returned to the station there was only the secretary present and that he had immediately locked Barry in a cell.

As soon as Barry was in the Cell, Constable Camp stated, he proceeded to check the cell door. Following this he broke the pipes leading into the sink and toilet and tore the basin from the wall. Continuing with his damage he broke the toilet bowl, closet behind the toilet from the wall and used the lid of this to smash the glass in the window in the windows of the cell.

Barry's lawyer stated that officers were advised never to go into the cell block when dealing with a prisoner that took between 15 to 20 minutes to summon another officer.

Barry also was charged with car theft on the same date. After being fined by former Magistrate T. Y. Wills reduced this charge to one of joy riding, on which Barry was found guilty.

Miss Gay Barry, R.R. 1 Carrying Place, testified that the accused had been visiting her at the home of her sister, Mrs. K. C. Fode, 58 Edward St., on the night in question. She stated that she had told the accused that she had promised her mother that she would be home that evening and that she had no means of transportation. Miss Barry said that he had suggested that they take her brother-in-law's car. She stated that they had pushed the car out onto the road where the accused had started it.

The car was recovered in the driveway at the home of Miss Barry following a telephone call from the O.P.P. Belleville Detachment.

Barry was remanded for sentence for one week after which he will appear before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Magistrate's court Tuesday, September 15, for sentence.

Commence Work Of Resurfacing Several Streets

TRENTON — A start was made Friday on resurfacing several side streets in Trenton. The streets are receiving a coating of liquid asphalt and then a coating of crushed stone to prepare them for the winter months.

Municipal engineer E. C. Attersley stated that several streets receive this treatment every year and that it is expected that the work will be completed in the near future. About $5,000 was budgeted for this project and it is expected that the cost will remain within this figure.

The yard at the Trenton Memorial Hospital will also receive this treatment, as in the past. Part of the program for this work calls for a portion of the surface at the hospital to be done. This has been customary in the past and is possible in this way to have a good surface on this area without any major outlay of capital.

Streets which will receive this treatment this year are: Dundas and Kitchener; Edward Street west to Sidney; Dufferin from King to Henry; Hawley Street, Bay to Ontario; Dufferin from Bay to Henry; Cathedral from the Hospital to King; Campbell from John to Front; Coleman to Crescent; Princess Street, Byron to Sidney; Richard Street from Sidney to Jessey; James Street from McCann to Richard; McCann Street from Sidney to Jessey, and Birch Street from Byron to Kerr Crescent.

be generally in a westerly direction, I would imagine that "in" would be the better word.

LITTLE TRAFFIC

But anyway, as far as we were concerned, everything was in order. Our visas were stamped, our car and luggage inspected, our money counted, and then we set out for Prague, the capital. The road was quite good but there was little traffic except here-and-there and state-owned trucks and quite a few soldiers marching about. The land looked quite well kept, farmed much the same as here, but the houses were quite dingy compared with those we had seen before.

After about one hour's trip we passed through the city of Pilsen, famous for its beer and its large Skoda works. It was at 5.30 p.m., a time when most cities would be teeming with traffic, but to our surprise there was hardly any to be seen, we counted only about six cars underway. The city, too, was very drab and seemed to match the spirits of the people.

Another hour and one half saw us in Prague, a very beautiful city, but also rather colorless in its appearance. There was more traffic here, but still not too much to speak of. There is a certain amount of bureaucracy and inefficiency it took us about an hour before we were able to find a hotel, but it turned out to be very clean and comfortable, and not too expensive.

"CANADA" STICKER

By this time we were becoming used to being stared at by people, and having our cars closely examined every time we stopped. We made sure that there was no doubt as to our origin, and had placed the "Canada" sticker in full view on the rear bumper. Perhaps a hockey stick would have done just as well.

During our stay in Prague we tried to go shopping, but didn't succeed very well, since prices were generally too high and quality too low. Even necessities were expensive. But the most interesting thing happened when we went to buy gasoline. We had to get an octane rating suitable for our engines, and meant we had to buy the necessary coupons through TUZEX, the state foreign trade agency.

We wanted 15 litres (about three gallons), so paid the necessary money. Afterwards we were told that the coupons only came in 10 litre amounts. This meant that we had a coupon worth about six Czech crowns (14 crowns—one dollar), left over. We tried to redeem these at the cashier's desk, but we said that was impossible — we should buy something else from TUZEX. Such a small amount was insufficient for anything we wanted, and while we were standing there debating what to do with the coupon, a woman came up and offered us four times the value of the coupon in cash so long. She had completed the deal before we were quite sure what was happening, but no one, including the cashier, seemed to mind, except perhaps one other woman, who wanted the coupon too. One might consider all this an example of the black market, I suppose; and that these coupons are bought by the Czechs so that they can buy articles from this organization that normally could not be obtained in the stores.

The rest of the trip through Czechoslovakia was rather anticlimactic. People continued to stare at us and the car. We were able to make ourselves understood by speaking German or Russian, so we did not have much difficulty in restaurants and post offices. The thing that stands out in our minds, however, is the attitude of the people. It was almost as if they were afraid to talk to us for any length of time, or to have too much to do with us. The pedestrians, and there were many people walking about, all seemed to have had little good out of them — no spirit. And yet the Czechs that I know personally in Europe or in North America are quite normal in all respects.

Half of 200 Valuable Stamps Are Traced to Picton Region, Several People Share Find

Up to today postal authorities and stamp collectors had been able to account for 150 of the 200 misprinted Canada flower commemorative stamps. One sheet was sold to a Winnipeg woman, one sheet was sold to the bank of Nova Scotia in Picton, and the third sheet of 50 was held by postal authorities in Winnipeg before they were sold. The remaining 50 stamps whereabout have been unknown until now, were determined today as having been sold in Picton to a business office.

This completes the 200 sold. Seaway stamps which were originally printed on 50 sheets of 50 each. Of the fifty purchased by the Bank of Nova Scotia, one had been used for mailing purposes before R. J. Harwood noticed the mistake in the stamps. He acquired the remaining 22 from the bank for the unprinted price, possibly $1.10, and forwarded them to a friend in Toronto to dispose of for him. There he has only one stamp of his own, one of those cancelled stamps which he had retrieved from rural customers of the bank.

The second sheet sold in Picton was purchased by a business office or eventual sale to collectors.

Apparently 25 of the misprints were used before the printing error was noticed. The remaining stamps were examined by some Picton philatelists who have divided them up between them. These people have preferred to remain anonymous for the time being.

Due to the uncertainty of the actual or eventual worth of the misprints these people apparently prefer to just sit the current storm out until the market price is established. With Kalmic Bileski, a Winnipeg stamp dealer and possibly Canada's foremost authority on domestic stamps, estimating the value of each stamp at $1,000 on the basis of an offer made a Winnipeg owner, the Picton philatelists might just possibly be sitting on a $25,000 stamp mine.

Then too there are about 50 of these stamps which have been cancelled through the Picton Post Office, who knows what the value of these might be? Twenty-eight were sent to district customers of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the remaining stamps were sent out on letters to many different points in Ontario by the business office which purchased the other 50 stamps.

The Seaway stamp is printed with two colors, a blue background with red lettering. On the stamps in question the red and blue figures are placed out of register, possibly by accident between the two printing operations which put the two colors.

Postal authorities were dubious about the mistake at first. It is the first to have been made since Canadian postage stamps were first issued over 100 years ago. However the rumors which developed Thursday have now been confirmed as statements of fact.

Meanwhile those who hold the stamps in Picton await the outcome although some intend to keep their stamps for their personal collections.

Massey's Son Will Return to Business World

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—An unusual father-and-son team is going out of the vice-regal business next Tuesday, when Governor - General Massey retires.

At the same time, his 43-year-old son, Lionel, will leave the vice-acting and demanding job of secretary to the governor-general.

The younger Massey plans to return to the business world he left in 1952 to join his father at Government House.

"The Masseys are a funny family," he said in an interview, virtually hanging up a wanted sign. "They don't like not to work."

SECRET CHALLENGE

He said he has already received a couple of freely-phrased offers. He plans a holiday—his first in years—then hopes for a challenging job that will allow him to draw on his past experience.

Looking back on his 7½ years as the governor-general's executive right-hand man, he spoke some misconceptions about it.

"Few people know what it's all about," he said. "It's definitely not cocktail parties and teas and protocol and social whirl and that sort of thing."

"It's just plain hard slugging and long hours and a mass of carefully-planned details within the framework of a sometimes tight schedule."

PLANNED 60 TOURS

As secretary, Lionel Massey managed the vice-regal household and planned Mr. Massey's 60 odd tours; arranged speaking dates; took a hand in planning visits to Canada; and kept communications between Canada and Buckingham Palace flowing smoothly.

He has probably had difficult dealings with more mayors and civic officials than "Anyone else because Mr. Massey visited more than 300 cities and towns, some more than once. The governor-general's tour of the Arctic in 1958 took six months of careful planning.

PICKED MAN, NOT SON

Mr. Massey once was asked why he had selected his son as his secretary, a job that ranks with a cipher - minister's, and he got the gist of his reply:

It was nice that they had not been a success if they had not been, and Mr. Massey had known about the man's qualities and administrative a bility, he still would have picked him. In other words, he hired the man, not the son.

Meanwhile, Lionel Massey's wife, the former Lilias Ahearn of Ottawa, whom he met in wartime London where she was serving with the Red Cross, acted as Mr. Massey's official hostess, a demanding job in itself.

CNE Attendance Down as Show Nearing End

TORONTO (CP) — The 81st Canadian National Exhibition winds up today with officials hoping that a spectacular international air show will rescue it from a sharp attendance drop. Hurt by a sizzling heat wave and adverse publicity over its grandstand show, the CNE as of Friday was 342,500 below last year's total attendance of 2,490,000.

It it to catch up today the CNE will have to be a gigantic one. Current record for a single day is 325,000, set on the fourth day of the 1958 exhibition.

First day of the air show saw 200,000 visitors, both piston-engined and jet, from four stationed on a precision aerobatic display Friday that swelled CNE crowds by 100,000.

FLAMBOYANT DISPLAY

Stars of the show are the RCAF Golden Hawks, who have been performing before huge crowds of people in a four-month tour across Canada.

The program, to be repeated today, includes a display by the RCAF Sport-Caber aerobatic team, the Thunderbirds, a flypast by all services and a look at Russia's TU-104B jetliner.

At one point in Friday's show the RCAF 8 - 34 helicopter, in a manoeuvre demonstrating swooped too close to the guest enclosure and splattered the ladies with dust and Lake Ontario water.

Today, Citizens' and Cadet Day, Toronto's Mayor Phillips is the main speaker at the RCAF ceremonies. Cadets and about 900 Ontario cadets from the three services will march in two parades.

Finals of the open and closed Canadian table tennis championships will be played tonight. Defending champion for the men's open event is Daniel Vegh of Cleveland. Strong challenger is Max Marinko of Toronto, who won the title in 1957.

The Canadian horseshoe pitcher will be named tonight after the 137 members of the Canadian Horseshoe Pitching Association finish play.

In Friday's Radio and Television Day directors' luncheon address, Strong called for more television announcer, said the CBC's lack of announcers in Toronto recently Canada lacked entertainment talent.

"The CBC is badly remiss" in not giving young talent enough chance, he said. "Once you take Ed Sullivan and Shuster out of the picture, you are left with practically nothing."

Frank Shuster and Johnny Wayne are being considered as headliners for the 1960 grandstand show, CNE general manager Bram McCallum, said elsewhere Friday.

55c and $1 a pail, and 50c for comb honey.

In addition the usual assortment of home baking, needlework, craft, and fowcraft was on sale.

Will Construction of the new half million dollar Hastings county courthouse will commence immediately, it was stated today by county Warden Jack N. Brown of Bancroft.

The successful tenderer for the construction of the combined courthouse, county administration office and registry office was the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton. The contract price for the combined structure was $542,000.

"Everything is all cleared up and construction will start right away", stated Mr. Brown to the Ontario Intelligencer today. "I received word of aproval by the Ontario Municipal Board by telephone yesterday and official confirmation will be mailed and is expected to be received by the county clerk early next week".

Approval by the municipal board for the courthouse construction did not come as any surprise to Warden Brown who said that he had expected the official okay would be forthcoming. The contract for construction was subject to approval by the municipal board, had been approved by Hastings prior in the August session of council.

The city's participation in the cost of the new courthouse became a clouded issue early this week, however, with city council receiving word from the Municipal Board that approval in the city's share of the cost was being withheld pending the completion of the judicial enquiry into the city's financial affairs.

ISSUE CLEARED UP

"That's all cleared up now", Warden Brown said today. "It was something of a misunderstanding".

"The act says that the county shall provide courthouse facilities for the city doesn't have to issue debentures. Belleville will be billed each year for its share of the cost, just the same as is being done with the county gaol people's home".

The city's share in the cost of the new building would be contributed to the courthouse part only. Trenton would also pay a share of the courthouse cost, the county alone will pick up the tab for the added cost of the county administration office and registry office.

The new courthouse will be immediately to the west of the present building now occupied by the county. The building will be three storeys in height at the front and two storeys at the back with the first floor to be built partially into the grade.

Not Advised Of Changes Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister Nowlan said Friday he was not advised by the CBC Board of Directors at the time the directors changed their chairman.

"I don't know why they should have," he said in a late interview. He described it as "a matter for the internal management of the board."

Mr. Nowlan, who reports to parliament for the CBC, was commenting as a story in the Toronto Star that the public was denied information for eight weeks when CBC President Alphonse Ouimet and Vice-President Ernest Bushnell were replaced as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the CBC board.

The newspaper said that at a CBC board meeting June 24 two CBC directors, Robert L. Dunn, mayor of Montreal and Charles Lesson of Stratford, were named chairman and vice-chairman. The appointments were not announced until Aug. 17 when Mr. Nowlan issued a statement on the change.

Mr. Nowlan said Friday he did not learn about the change until he was asked.

Chou Throws Light on China's Stand

The letter of Premier Chou En-lai of China to Prime Minister Nehru of India throws considerable light on the reason for recent border incidents.

Stripped of propaganda and accusations, it would appear that China desires to place itself on record as not accepting the demarcation of its border with India established during the days of the British Raj.

There may be some practical reasons for Chinese objections in some instances — the building of a highway across territory claimed by India suggests that the easiest route to certain parts of Tibet may indeed lie across land on the Indian side of the Macmahon line.

In the main, though, this looks like another of those silly squabbles which resurgent states seem to feel they must pick with their neighbors to prove their new-born virility.

From reports citing the difficulties encountered in reinforcing Indian border troops it would appear, from this distance, that much of the disputed territory is uninhabited and perhaps even uninhabitable.

That would not prevent a western state from reacting sharply to any incursion on its territory. To date Nehru's India has followed a pattern familiar to western observers. But, though the difference between the Oriental and Occidental minds are frequently overexaggerated, India's way of thinking is not the same as that of the West and, China having stated its case, we may yet see India negotiating for a settlement. The intensely practical Nehru may decide that the few square miles of disputed territory are worth the struggle which might be necessary to retain them.

At the same time; there is considerable reason to doubt whether this first mouthful of India's territory, if it is every cleanly bitten off by the Chinese, will necessarily be followed by a feast on the rest of the carcass. It is a long and difficult route from the hills of Tibet and Assam to the fertile plains of India and it is difficult to see how a China just commencing to step into the twentieth century world can have any real stomach for such a dubious adventure.

However, the observer who takes this line of thought ought to recognize that there is little that is logical, either, about the recent border incidents.

That British Election

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has called an election in Britain for Oct. 8.

In doing so, he has decided on the autumn election because of the world situation, in which "important international negotiations lie ahead."

That the world situation was the deciding factor nobody need doubt. That does not mean, though, that we must take Prime Minister Macmillan's words precisely at their face value.

Said the Prime Minister: "It is clearly right that the people should have the opportunity of deciding as soon as practicable who are to represent them in these negotiations."

This "right" of the people to select their representatives before every international conference might be open to question; but what is more questionable, what is even more clear than this right, is that the majority of Briton's are not likely to oust Macmillan and replace him with Gaitskell at this stage in the delicate negotiations resulting from Russia's plan to withdraw from Berlin.

The international situation makes Macmillan and his Conservatives a shoo-in, barring some surprise.

If Mr. Macmillan has any uneasy nights between now and October 8, they could only be caused by the realization that one Nikata Khruschev is just the type of jockey to try some questionable tricks at the head of the stretch. It is doubtful, though, whether anything can interpose between the pair and a track to his liking, made fast by a booming economy on the home front. This, alone, should have been enough to assure him of victory. The quite obvious effort to use to the international situation as a quirt to get additional speed out of a willing horse was almost certainly unnecessary — and is not entirely without a remote possibility of danger.

Barrie, Ontario, reports the arrival, on vacation, of a Toronto mother and father, their five children and their pets, the latter being two dogs, three monkeys, a chimpanzee, a baboon, a kinkajou, a baby baby, an Afro con tortoise, three budgies and a parrot. The head of the household explains: "Animals need a holiday as much as humans." This should put to shame the thousands of careless or heartless folk who trip off gally for weeks and leave their dogs and cats to the mercy of chance-or the kindness of neighbors.—Brantford-Expositor.

This Method Tried Before

Wall St. Journal

Once upon a time statesmen put their hopes for peace in a troubled world upon the growth of personal relations among the crowned heads of Europe.

In 1520 Henry VIII of England met Francis I of France upon the famous Field of the Cloth of Gold. As the Twentieth Century knows, Kaiser Wilhelm II was the honored and feted guest of both the King of England and the Czar of all the Russias. Between-times the statesmen of Europe were busily marrying the daughters of Kings in the sons of others and scurrying emissaries about from capital to capital to spread greater understanding and closer personal ties.

Yet before the Sixteenth Century closed England and France were once more locked in their struggle for the Channel shores of Europe. And the Twentieth Century had barely begun before Wilhelm's country was at war with the country of his cousin Nicky and the country of his cousin George.

The point we suppose, is no more than a footnote from a dusty history book. Kings have indeed today important specialists and dictators attempt to manage nations and no one dreams any more of finding peace for the world in the ceremonial marriage of Princesses.

But even a footnote is worth noting as a reminder that peace among nations requires first a concord on fundamental issues. Otherwise some people may dream once more that friendly relations can be built on no more than personal meetings of great heads of state and a bright carpet of hospitality.

Check Coins By Monkeys

Montreal Star

Bank in the Far East are using monkeys to detect counterfeit coins. After months of intensive training program for two years, the monkeys are installed in the banks, and when called upon by the management, they bite the coins with unerring skill. If the coin appears marked by this, it is declared counterfeit.

To this Western mind, this may seem a good way of doing things — a simple machine would not need two years training or special quarters — but we suppose this is the traditional method, and we have no question the inscrutable ways of the Orient.

Hairdresser Loses Way

Montreal Star

We dream of a hairdresser with the young English lady who sent a heartbreaking post to the Falkland Islands under the mistaken impression that they were off the coast of Scotland. Apparently she only discovered that they were off the coast of Argentina when she was far out to sea.

While this is in the best empire building tradition — the British Islands were discovered half the places they did if they had always known where they were — the more the less it must have been a terrible shock. Argentina does rather prelude the long week-end.

Just Who Was First?

Toronto Globe and Mail

Titusville, Pennsylvania, had a good time celebrating the centenary of oil, even if the Canadians in the oil dispute like to claim to "write the world's first commercial oil well" in 1859.

That honor belongs to the Canadians, belongs to Canada, which had the first well in 1857. Good for us!

All we have to do now is convince Rousseau, which with its Encyclopedia Britannica says that Canada's commercial oil production in 1854.

"It's generally a little late but this is the first time it's missed a whole day."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

SEPTEMBER 12, 1939

In a rapid sequence of events beginning at three p.m., E.D.T. yesterday and ending at 1.10 p.m. Sunday, both the Senate and House of Commons approved the government's decision and a proclamation was issued declaring a state of war existed as from September 10th between Canada and Germany. This is the first time Canada declared war herself.

In 1914 the British proclamation was published in the Canadian Gazette, formally making the Dominion a belligerent. History was made and new precedent created as Canada entered the conflict and one week after Britain declared war. Immediately after the House met Saturday afternoon, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that adoption of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne would be considered by the government as approval of its determination to proclaim a state of war with Germany.

Since 1904, Canada's relationship to the United Kingdom has changed. Equality of status of the Dominions with the United Kingdom called for a different procedure, and so a Canadian proclamation was issued. The question of an expeditionary force has not yet arisen, and according to the Prime Minister will be decided in the light and character of hostilities and the needs of the Allies.

In 1914 a total of 33,000 men sailed from Canada in October, forerunners of a force which eventually reached 450,000 before the First Great War ended. And for that struggle Canada enlisted 619,000 soldiers for war service, the overwhelming majority of them by voluntary enlistment.

SEPTEMBER 12, 1929

Mr. C. James Lindsay, manager of the Walker dry goods store here for the past four years, has been appointed by the Brockville store of the same company.

The city council has awarded the contract for the paving of Cannifton, Dundas and Bleecker Street to College Street to Mr. John Donovan at a cost of $12,843.

Satisfactory progress is being made in the daily diagram in claim to "write the world's first commercial oil well" in 1859. That honor belongs to the Canadians, belongs to Canada, which had the first well in 1857. Good for us!

All we have to do now is convince Rousseau, which with its Encyclopedia Britannica says that Canada's commercial oil production in 1854.

Yet before the Sixteenth Century closed England and France were once more locked in their struggle for the Channel shores of Europe. And the Twentieth Century had barely begun before Wilhelm's country was at war with the country of his cousin Nicky and the country of his cousin George.

The point we suppose, is no more than a footnote from a dusty history book. Kings have indeed today important specialists and dictators attempt to manage nations and no one dreams any more of finding peace for the world in the ceremonial marriage of Princesses.

But even a footnote is worth noting as a reminder that peace among nations requires first a concord on fundamental issues. Otherwise some people may dream once more that friendly relations can be built on no more than personal meetings of great heads of state and a bright carpet of hospitality.

Poison Feed Toll Heavy

Guelph Daily Mercury

Food poisoning in Canada and the United States takes a yearly toll almost unnoticed except by medical men and research chemists still fighting the battle.

Fortunately, for the most part victims suffer only discomfort, nausea and stomach cramps. But every year a few people, usually persons encounter it in more dangerous forms.

Of the three types of toxin causing food-poisoning botulism is the most serious with a fatality rate of about 65 per cent.

Main source of this poison is in under - processed home canned foods, particularly those which are non-acid.

Symptoms take anywhere from two to 100 hours to appear.

Treatment is difficult, and its success depends upon the amount of toxin absorbed by the system and how soon it is discovered.

Little is heard of the methods to avoid food poisoning. Most persons regard it as just another of the risks involved in everyday living.

But anything that can be prevented, should not be left to take lives and harm health.

Perhaps Canadians might show the way in a campaign to educate the public of the need for care when handling food.

Famous Mart Threatened

Montreal Star

So far as London's street guides are concerned, Petticoat Lane does not exist. But Londoners and London's tourists Petticoat Lane is a very real place, even if it is Middlesex Street.

This ancient clothing market which flourishes every Sunday morning in the East End is now in danger of bowing to modern progress. There is threatening to turn this miniature open-air emporium into some kind of a supermarket.

With its cheek-by-jowl stalls displaying a medieval infinite variety, with its medicine men, its scallywags and not a few traders with a sense of artistic values, Petticoat Lane is one of London's sights.

Of late the metropolis Reeve has been undergoing vast changes from a building point of view. Historic old haunts have disappeared in favor of skyscrapers and there is the skyline that has remained unchanged and which, in its artistic values, surely there is a limit, surely that boundary should stop just short of Petticoat Lane. Else what will the pickpockets do?

Little Place Had Big Idea

Windsor Star

A place doesn't need be large to get its name on the map. All it requires is a good idea and some people with enough imagination and initiative.

Shelburne, a village up in Dufferin County, is an illustration. A few years back a couple of fiddlers were arguing whether fiddlemen or the modern variety were best. They had Rotary Club settled on the idea for a contest.

It has become an annual event, attracting people from as far away as Kentucky, Indiana, New Brunswick and Prairies. It now packs the village to its capacity each year and gets Shelburne's name in the news throughout the country. It also provides revenue for local merchants and transactors state that the rink will be ready by the time real cold weather sets in.

Not Exactly His Ticket

Wall Street Journal

There is a humorous story concerning the smitten young man who was not enjoying much success in courting the girl of his dreams. Feeling that something was lacking in his technique, he went to a bookstore to find a book helpful to amatory matters.

After embarrassedly perusing the stock, his gaze finally fell on a book called How to Hug. Thinking that this was the kind of book he needed, he hurriedly made the purchase.

Opening the package at home he was stunned to discover he'd purchased volume 8 of a well-known encyclopaedia.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF LIFE

Preachers in their sermons often speak of eternal life. Christian believers in their devotional periods read words in the Bible and ponder them. Yet it would be interesting to find out how many people really understand what the Bible teaches about eternal life.

It should be said at the very beginning that the concept of eternal life is so great that the human mind cannot entirely grasp it. Anything which has no beginning and has no end goes beyond the limits of the human mind. Yet we can concentrate on a section of it, that section which is right before our eyes, and perhaps get an idea which will help us.

We have come out of the great beyond. When life is over, under the love and power of God, we go into eternity. Time and space appear to be the setting for life. What then is eternal life? It is first of all a mysterious power which comes from God. We do not create it, we cannot get it by working for it, we can only accept it when God gives it to us.

But in this eternal life lies all the hope forward which our hearts and minds so ardently press. God's love has made the eternal life possible. We press after it. We hold out our hands to receive. God does the rest.

REFLECTIONS WHILE SHAVING

I have been looking upon this face of mine for a great many years. It is the only face I shall ever have, so I have tried to find out as much as possible about it. This face of ours is largely what we make of it when not on passive.

Whiskers have played a big part in the life of men. History has scattered their names into every activity of life. It's what is recorded behind the face of ours, however, that has brought distinction and fame to great names. I have no quarrel with any face — whiskered or razor scraped.

It is said that Lincoln changed his facial map to please an adoring little girl. New York shiks That was a characteristic act of the great man. I confess I like the face of Lincoln, bearded or no beard. The story of greatness is all in that face.

I have never adapted my face to the quick-acting safety razors. I am by the old-fashioned straight-edged type with which I started my career in early youth. I have tried them all, but for neatness and dispatch I cling to the razor of our fathers! I am no friend of the barber when it comes to mowing the only face I shall ever own. Ideas some smoothest to a face you have been used to have with a touch of kindness. It's not how quick, but how well, that I go look as a motto while shaving!

To Your Good Health

WEIGHT OF BABY AT BIRTH DOESN'T GOVERN ITS SIZE AS AN ADULT

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our F.T.A. would like to know what is considered large for the length of a new baby. How this have anything to do with the child's future size as an adult? We are anxious to hear. —R.L."

I'll give you some figures— and let you decide what is considered a "large size" for a baby.

The usual normal weight for boys at birth will vary from 6 to 9½ pounds, and the length from 19 to 21 inches.

For girls, the range is 6½ to 8½ pounds, but the length is the same as for boys.

Circumference of the head for boys is about 14 inches; for girls about 13½.

It is true, of course, that there are variations from these figures —some babies weigh as little as two pounds at birth, yet may grow healthy, normal individuals — although it takes some doing, of course.

And sometimes a baby will weigh markedly more than the upper figure.

Various things control this variation in size; however, height and weight of baby do not govern the future adult size.

A baby delivered even moderately prematurely may be more than average; a baby that is considerably premature probably will be quite small.

The physical condition as well as the nutrition of the mother may have some bearing on the baby's size.

So, you see, the length of babies may be considered a factor about, but it is a waste of time to try to calculate on that basis how tall the baby will be when grown.

Infancy, after all, is just one phase of childhood.

As a child grows older, heredity will assert itself more and will nutrition. Furthermore, there are general patterns of growth, they are not to be merely generalities. Specifically, children will vary in the time at which they have their "growing spurts." Bone structure also must be considered.

While the greatest spurt in height — and the greatest gain in weight — occurs at puberty, this too can vary. In some children puberty is early, in others it may be delayed; yet, given time, these youngsters—grow to be normal size. Normal, that is, for whatever heredity has decreed for them; and modified at times by such other factors as may assert themselves.

Thus, you see, it is futile to try to compare one child's size with that of another, unless you are able to determine all of the variable factors involved — which, of course, we cannot do.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In the warm months when children drink almost double their normal consumption of milk, is it safe or wise to mix it half-and-half with commercial dry non-fat milk?—M.M."

It is safe, but I don't see any necessity for it, unless the children are overweight and the problem is to reduce obesity.

NOTE TO W.M.: Well, suit yourself. I, too, know lots of people who have developed uncooked beef under one name or another without acquiring tapeworms, but the risk does exist. I become vehement against eating pork unless it is thoroughly cooked. I merely remark occasionally that uncooked beef might carry tapeworm. Personally, I prefer not to take the chance. So suit yourself; take the risk if you wish. But most certainly never take a chance on pork unless it is cooked thoroughly.

Do you have a problem with old people? If so, write to me in care of The Chicag ocius-Times Building, Chicago, Ill. Please fill, requesting a copy of my pamphlet, What To Do About Elderly Folk," enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Africans Backward

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Recently a British firm received a large order for textile goods from a firm in North Africa, and after the goods had been shipped it was discovered how tall the latter company ordered the value of the shipment had been made, the advantage being with the importer.

The British firm wrote explaining that future orders would have to be priced one-third higher.

The North African firm replied that they could not think of taking advantage of a mistake, and requested that a revised invoice at the full price be sent to them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is now generally admitted by biologists that you can't "stockpile" wild life. It is futile to hunting season on ruffed grouse, for instance, it was supposed until quite recently that the number of birds could be built up so that better hunting would be available in subsequent years. But years of research have proved that there is a ten year cycle of abundance in ruffed grouse, that their number increases up to the tenth year and there is a sudden collapse of the whole cycle as disease takes extremely scarce. Those that survive the collapse then build up once the race back up to the ten year abundance again.

By establishing roadblocks and inspecting the game bag of hunters, the biologists have discovered that by far the greater majority of birds shot by the sportsmen are in the young of the year, and it is now estimated that two years is the average age of ruffed grouse, not many exceeding that life span.

In relation to all aspects of wild life, the biologists are beginning to believe that it is the hunter or the fisherman who really conserves wild game. A good breeding year will fill any lake with fish, or any woods with game. What no lake that once was alive with game fish no longer produces enough to filled the insect and crustacean life essential to sustenance of the young of game fish. It is man who has altered the shape and trees are the young of fish, not necessarily the hunter or fisherman.

Cannot Insulate Religion

By ROY L. SMITH

Some wag once remarked that the man who is all wrapped up in himself makes a very small package, and it can be said with equal truth that the religion which leaves a man, or a nation, concerned solely with his own salvation, is a futile sort of faith.

Many years ago Frank Beard, the cartoonist, drew a picture of four people seated about a heavily laden dinner table, with father returning thanks saying,

"Lord, bless me and my wife, My son and his wife,

Us Four,

And no more. Amen"

It was a bit of satire, of course, but the thing that made it so effective was the fact that in so many situations it was (and is) true.

RELIGIOUS EXCLUSIVENESS

The Book of Jonah is a powerful parable dealing with this problem of religious exclusiveness. The prophet was determined to have no truck with any movement designed to spread the good news of Jehovah among the pagans.

During the period of the exile the Jews had come to the conclusion that their misfortunes were all traceable to the fact that they had alienated the good favor of Jehovah, their God. In a determined effort to reform they had become extremely exclusive. Some of their most honored leaders had demanded that even some happy homes should be broken up, because they represented mixed marriages between Jews and Babylonians. Had they had their way, the Jews would have become a hermit nation, completely cut off from all other men.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for September 13: "God's Concern For All People", Book of Jonah.

The book of Jonah was written by a spiritually minded Jew who believed Judaism had a message it was obligated to give to the rest of the world. He conceived it to be part of the mission of the nation to do missionary work among the pagan nations. And in an effort to convince his countrymen of their duty he had himself to wrote the Book of Jonah. It was, therefore, a book about a prophet, rather than a book by a prophet, although its message is certainly a prophetical one.

PLENTY TO DO AT HOME

Someone set up an interesting picture of two monkeys, one in the act of de-fleaing the other. Underneath the photograph was the caption, "No, we don't believe in foreign missions. We have enough to do right here at home."

Underneath the ironic jest there is a profound truth. It is a fact, of course, that we have a full sized job to do "at home", but it is also a fact that we will never be able to complete the home job until we have done our part away from home.

The Christian home, for example, that undertakes to train its little ones in decency, cleanliness, and honor soon finds itself handicapped when the children get out on the school ground and come in competition with children from other homes where no such ideals prevail. This makes it necessary to organize parent-teacher's associations, and other such groups, for the purpose of lifting neighborhood standards.

It is not enough to labor for one's own. To do it well one must labor for other men's own. And the same principle applies in the realm of national affairs.

CONCERN OVER TRIFLES

It is just a little surprising, the way we get all worked up over trifles, and remain indifferent to majors. Jonah could be indignant over a gourd vine that was destroyed by the sun, but he could not become indignant over the fate of a nation that remained in ignorance.

Ritual, dogma, and orders of worship all have their place and meaning, of course, but all too often it happens that we become more concerned over the state of the altar cloth than over the state of the sinner.

Marriage Fashions Changing Fast in India's Frontier Area

By SUKHNI RAVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — Marriage fashions in India's northeast frontier area—currently in the news following Red Chinese incursions—are changing fast.

Wooing parties no longer swoop down on the bride's village bearing from the straight and narrow village path and carry them away as gaudily trophies.

In fact, the liberation of tribal women is creeping and at least one clothed northeast frontier areas, through which the Dalai Lama escaped from Tibet, has progressed so far that they have become disturbingly aggressive.

Two sisters from the village of Nazira have demonstrated that the new-found spirit of equality in a dramatic way. The Phizos sisters announced through leaflet and drum-beat that they would hold "matrimonial competitions" for choosing their mates.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

Called "swayamvar," the custom was practised by royal families of Hindu India more than 3,000 years ago when the mythological Sita chose a husband for the country.

All young men interested in marrying either of the pretty sisters will be asked to gather at the Phizo home on a date to be announced. The victor in the competition will get the bride.

Already, more than 400 hopeful bachelors have responded to the invitation. The sisters expect to get other 300 acceptances.

During the week-long tests the intending grooms will have to prove their valor and worth.

Centuries back, according to the Hindu epic Ramayan, King Dasaratha's son Ram won the hand of King Janak's fabulously pretty daughter Sita by being the only competitor able to bend and break a mighty bow.

VARIETY CONTEST

In the coming contest, the Phizo suitors will be blindfolded and then asked to aim arrows at fruit targets floating on rivers and fast high. There will also be wrestling matches and endurance swimming tests in the fast-flowing, crocodile-infested mountain streams.

One of the sisters has announced that she will marry the man who excels in the tails of two baby elephants into a neat knot." Any man ready to perform this feat runs the risk of being crushed to death by the restive babies.

District authorities have informed the Phizos that while they have no objection to their choosing their husbands in any manner they like, any threat to law and order will be tolerated. Two years ago four men died in a hand-to-hand fight over a girl.

The Grace of Gratitude

By Alma Mason

SIXTH IN SERIES

When we are grateful for a favor received let us do something about it before the sun sets. It might be well to consider the old adage "The road to Hades is paved with good intentions." When we neglect to show appreciation we are afflicted with pure, unadulterated carelessness. Let us say "thank you" quickly before the dry rot of forgetting corrodes the corridors of the mind.

"I intended to let her know how much her kindness meant to me but time slipped by and now it is too late" are pitiful and sordid words.

Sad to say there is a more repugnant reason for gratitude unexpressed. It is difficult to understand the attitude of some of us. Often we seem to minimize a favor received. It was not important anyway, we argue; it caused little effort or concern; it was only our due and just reward; to have withheld it would have been to treat us in an unfair manner; it was done from a sense of duty rather than from a wish to please us; it sprang from a selfish motive because we honor sincere appreciation.

No matter what the inspiration that culminated in a kindness, let us accept the fulness of gratitude it face value. He who administered it will profit by and when heartfelt praise returns to him. If his motive was selfish, the selfishness will melt away under a sincere outpour of gratitude.

No kindness is too small to be highlighted by gratitude's wealth. It grows in value when touched up with the allurement of an appreciative heart.

The offense of doing nothing about gratitude is one of the deadliest of the seven deadly sins. It is one of the worst crimes unfolded in the scroll of wrong doing. The sin of ingratitude follows a broad highway to envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness. It stretches back to the ungodly denials of Peter and the bloody treachery of Judas.

When we prefer gratitude we needs must drain the urn where love is kept. Gratitude on the lips of man is a holy salve. It lubricates and sets in motion the grace of God and all understanding when it rests its tender head on the heart.

Perhaps the nine lepers healed by Jesus who failed to utter their thanks by God for their cure had many reasons for not returning like the healed Samaritan. How can anyone to know of their reasons? Their silence spelled ingratitude. The thoughtlessness exhibited by them was one of the many sufferings of Christ and yet how meekly He took it! The harshest thing He said about their neglect was only "Where are the nine?"

The self-centred attitude of the lepers was not exceptional. Our Lord found very little gratitude in the course of His ministry. We should have thought that out of those whom He had healed of dreadful diseases; out of all those freed from despair and brought back to life sane and sound; out of lepers and maniacs; out of paralyzed men who, through healing, knew once more the joy of movement; the deaf who heard again the vibrant sounds of life; the blind who cured by faith — turned their faces to the dawn and the glow on beloved faces; that out of all these there had been some grateful and loving souls to follow Him to the cross and receive His at the end. But we hear of none. Like the nine lepers they took the gift of God and went their way.

They took God's gift and went their way.
But one returned to kneel and pray;
"O lift my fervent, grateful heart;
His gratitude to God impart.

We trudge the road with peasant, king,
A leper band, lame, blind, dumb;
Are clothed with hopelessness and woe;
Who grief and trouble sadly know.

When mercies, blessings richly pour
Into our lives a golden store
To ease a cumbered, burdened soul;
To soothe and sanctify, make whole.

Let us return on bended knee
And send our thanks to Thee,
Our praise a glowing, living flame
To daily glorify Thy Name.

Q.A.R.C. Holds First Meeting For Season at Pr. Chas. School

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Prince Charles Public School, Belleville, the Quinte Association for Retarded Children held its first meeting since before the summer.

Some 30 people gathered to hear the opening addresses by president, Tom Stovell, and reports from committee chairmen. Guest speaker was the Rev. A. E. Toombs from the "House of Happiness," near Campbellford a home founded by Mr. Toombs and his wife for the care of retarded children.

Everyone present was eager to hear the opening address by Belleville got under way on the first day of school. Of equally more importance was the news from the brand new class opened Tuesday for retarded children in Trenton. The Association looks upon this new Trenton class as a stride forward in its efforts to provide specialist education for retarded children in the Quinte district.

Some hard work has gone into the Trenton class and many association members and their devoted friends are to be thanked. However, as Mr. Stovell, president of the Q.A.R.C. pointed out, the parents of these children in Trenton have to go a long, long way in providing this class, of "spreading the gospel," and giving and encouraging support to keep the class going. The limited funds of the Association will dwindle sadly unless more efforts are made by members of the association. Mr. Stovell pointed out that now the Association had to pay four teachers and provide transport in two areas.

APPEALS FOR HELP

Mrs. Ward, Education chairman for the Association, reported that the classes had opened smoothly in Belleville, but that the Trenton class had still a few minor difficulties to be sorted out. She made an appeal for a lift for the teacher Mrs. Gibson from Belleville to Trenton to bring her to Trenton between 8.30 and 9 in the morning. Apparently the only bus available does not let her arrive in Trenton until 9.15 a.m. Anyone who could give Mrs. Gibson a lift is asked to contact Mrs. Scott at EX 3-9098. A refrigerator is needed in the Trenton class. This is to keep milk in—only and does not need to extend to eat. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of such a refrigerator not in use is asked to contact Mrs. Margo Scott EX 2-9098.

Mrs. Ward called on more help for the Belleville classes. With two in operation at the Bird Street School, two-volunteer helpers should be in attendance every day. Each teacher should have one helper so that things can go smoothly without too much interruption in the job at hand . . . namely, the education of the children. Anyone interested in giving up a morning a week for this worthwhile job is asked to contact Mrs. Laney. Mrs. Ward also reported on the generous donation of a piano for the Trenton class from Hallowan Motors. And a large supply of desks, chairs and other classroom seating equipment at a very reasonable cost from the Ontario Hydro Electric Dept.

Mrs. Stovell pointed out that the next meeting would be on the first Tuesday of the month in future in Prince Charles Public School. He then introduced the guest speaker Rev. A. E. Toombs, who discussed the retarded children in the "House of Happiness" and his own approach to the problem of educating the retarded child. "This" he said, "was the main task at the "House of Happiness" — the teaching of ordinary domestic duties like eating correctly, using the toilet correctly, living in harmony with others . . . the many things which normal children take for granted, or which come to them naturally. He said that he and Mrs. Toombs share the same difficulties as those parents of retarded children present at the meeting. But the secret of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Christ, who told His disciples when curing a "multiple" child, "Faith can move mountains."

"This is the kind of faith needed," said Mr. Toombs, in dealing with the problems of the retarded child. He went on to say that two of the headings under which he treats the problems of the children in his charge are: the enormous influence of environment upon the child. He said that one of the teachers at the "House of Happiness" prior to taking a child into the home was that he and his wife meet the parents of the child concerned, which helped them determine in so many cases, the approach to be made to the child's problem; secondly, the extra, and "plastic" or pliable so that it could be "moulded" and thus influenced correctly. In so many cases, the child is allowed to become "rigid" in its habits and thoughts, and thus, is a more difficult task.

After answering questions from the floor, the speaker concluded his address with an invitation to anyone interested to come out to the "House of Happiness" on the Campbellford road any weekend.

Mr. Reid, from Trenton, thanked Mr. Toombs.

The usual social half-hour with refreshments followed.

This Tip Talk About Europe Mostly Myth Say Columnists

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

One of the basest canards about Europe is the widespread belief that everyone in tourist-serving industries is a conniving grafter standing around with his hand out at all times, mumbling vague facsimiles of the English he tip is satisfactory and making it plain in any of seven languages if it is not.

This is a favorite old wives' tale of travellers to the European lands, but fraught with Freudian implications because it is far more true of bellhops and cashboys on this side of the ocean.

Maybe we're different, but we are yet to be sneered at, hovered over or otherwise embarrassed by any self-martyred Italian porter or Parisian cab driver. We have, however, been advised by a waiter at Lindy's to "take care" of him now because he'll be going off duty before we finish dinner.

European-wise, we believe, generally accept tips with far more grace than their American counterparts: In restaurants and hotels the reason is that they get their just deserts from the 10 or 15 per cent service charge on the bill, and elevator boys tend efficiency to be satisfied sterns from the fact that the European tip scale, with its generous exception of Paris, is lower than the American.

The American practice of spilling 15 per cent or so between the waiter and captain in a continental restaurant, depending on how much elevator each did, does not apply on the continent where continental restaurants came from.

Here the more civilized and realistic technique of adding it on to the bill and letting the staff fight it out among themselves in the kitchen saves the guest embarrassment and, from what we have been able to discern, keeps the help happy.

Americans frequently feel obligated to tip an additional five per cent, but Europeans have wisely developed the trick of leaving, as extra, whatever loose silver comes with the change.

Basically — and this is what most Americans overlook — waiters expect no more than the 15 per cent service charge, and none who takes advantage of a naive tourist by acting otherwise is likely to be stripped of his towel and tail coat. The proof of this is that they never weight down the change with silver as American waiters do.

There are a few people in European restaurants and hotels not often thought about in America, who rate small tips — small enough not to be burdensome.

One is the wine steward, who will be quite grateful for 15 or 20 cents a person. Another is the cloakroom girl, who may shock you by coming up to you and taking your coat and later delivering it to you, instead of filing her fingernails behind the counter.

Finally there is the washroom attendant, whose function is the most obscure to us. Generally quite stern she does absolutely nothing but sit outside the washroom and collect dimes and quarters. Dropping her an average 15 cents won't break you, though you will never know what you spent it for.

Tips in some continental countries therefore are customarily tipped 10 or 20 cents, and in England there is a stipend charge for programs which means you ought to give the girl a shilling.

Another functionary that confuses many of us is the hotel concierge (or hall porter in England). Actually, he is nothing but a slightly glorified bell captain and ought to be tipped for performing the same functions as a bell captain at home — securing hotel reservations, getting your transportation, procuring theatre tickets, seeing after your laundry and such.

The difference in Europe is that you customarily tip him, at the rate of about 25 cents a service, just before you check out instead of after each service. Such practice is not uncommon in resort hotels on this side of the ocean.

The room clerk in European hotels is called a receptionist, and he is not tipped any more than a room clerk here, even though he may show you to your room personally.

Other service employees — cab drivers, porters, doormen and sleeping car attendants are tipped on the same basis as here.

The only thing to remember that in hotels where a service charge is added to your room bill, only modest additional tips are expected.

The European scale of living is well below ours and modest tips go further than you may imagine. An English shilling, for example, is worth only 14 cents and a half brown only about 3¢, but they look like our quarters and half-dollars and mean just about that much to the average Eighish working man.

"A pumpkin weighing 118 pounds and measuring five feet 10 inches around has been grown in this Suffolk town."—News fact from Bury St. Edmunds, England, 1952.

"How often do you display your produce at market in Belleville?" we inquired of a farmer, whose stall is a colorful exhibit of vegetables and fruit, with deep reds of plums, apples and the yellows of vegetables such as squash and pumpkins, the greens of cucumbers and the tawny mounds of potatoes. All merit a second glance.

"Three times a week", he answered, "and all during the market season, of course. We've been doing it my wife and I, for the past twenty-seven years. There have been changes aplenty during those years, too. It used to be that everything we brought from the farm to sell was gone by the time we were ready to go home. But not any more. Those days are over. Now often we take back home at least half if not more of what we bring."

"But why? How do you account for this change?"

"Why?" He spoke with much interest now. "I'll tell you why. Folks these days don't buy in the same quantities as we "old timers" used to do. Folks of one day used to do all their own canning of both fruit and vegetables, besides making jelly, jam and cider. But most of the people today aren't apt to buy in quantity because they live in small quarters, be it apartments or houses. No room to store anything, but just enough groceries to fill the need of the day and that's all."

"Yes, it is true. Modern living tends to be in the small sized homes."

"For us oldsters, to observe the young folks today, is like for a living another life", the farmer went on. "One of my old 'crony lee' said to me the other day: 'Why, when you and I were young and first thought of getting married and setting up housekeeping, we thought we not only had to have a good sized house to begin married life with, but it had to be completely furnished as well. But look at the way it is done today! All a young couple needs is a can opener and a fine toothpick; or they can start buying on the instalment plan.'

"Another thing that astounds us; the way the wives work beside the home. Why? Often to help their husbands buy a car, pay for a house or family needs. Maybe a mink coat for themselves.

"My thoughts stray back to our life on the farm where my wife stays home and works within it. I grant you there is always much to do on any farm but it is work shared together. My wife always claims it gives her a great sense of achievement and satisfaction whenever she goes down to the cellar (for is a big one) and looks at the rows and rows of jars of fresh canned fruit and vegetables we have grown together.

"But along with our busy hours we've time, say after an evening meal at the family table to sit around it in the roomy kitchen and discuss our troubles, fears, joys and anecdotes of the day. Time isn't quite the tyrant to us as it is in commercial areas, and accords us a tempo which allows patience, poise and dignity necessary to civilized man, for civilization can't stand to be rushed.

"As I say, I'm just comparing the life I have known with that of today; I don't think I'm blaming or judging anyone. There hope."

Poets Included In Membership Of Press Club

OTTAWA (CP) — Poets and their places in a press club came up for discussion at the Canadian Women's Press Club Wednesday.

The 160 delegates examined a proposed revised constitution for the club, incorporated last year.

Poets, constitutionally club members, are included in the new constitution, but the category has been changed to "poets" from "writers of verse." The 600-member club lists two poets as members.

National President Madeleine Levason of Montreal said the category title has been changed for clarification.

Qualifications for a poet member cover any woman who has written and received payment for at least a published poem "of a standard acceptable to the executive" within the preceding two years.

Lonely Wife — I don't believe in the double standard.

John B. — I am 20 years old pumped out of me the informa We are very much in love and very congenial, but something happened a few weeks ago to upset our plans.

Louise started questioning me about my experiences with other girls. I didn't want to tell her about this, but finally she pumped out of me the in formation that I had had a very brief affair with another girl a year ago. Then she started crying and gave me back her ring.

I am terribly upset about this and so are both our families. They don't know the reason for the break-up. I have tried to explain to Louise that things are a little different for a man. I am not a philanderer just because I had this one experience. She can trust me, but she doesn't believe it.

Louise S. — I just don't believe in a double standard — and I don't think God does either. A man is no better or worse than he but I also know something about the facts of life. It is perfectly natural for a man to accept the same sexual code women do.

I think that John's experience has made him more understanding. I know that plenty of people would be out with John and say "it's different for a man," but I have been taught that it doesn't have to be. I am determined to marry a man who sees this as I do. As far as I'm concerned there is nothing more to discuss. I love John, but it's over.

The Council: We hold no brief for the double standard, but we think Louise is all wrong in letting herself up on a level with God in determining and upholding the moral law. We don't think her religious teachings tell her to do this and we believe she ought to get straightened out on some of these matters in a private talk with her clergyman.

For the sake of her future relationship, we think Louise ought to recognize that she was wrong in pumping her fiance on this personal matter. She has set herself up as prosecutor, judge and executioner and has put a tractive rolea for a young woman who wishes to give and receive love.

In this case John would have had to be party to such questions. He might have mentioned that she is assuming the field of marriage prospects quite a bit—or committing herself to marry—and suggested that it is time to inspect for her that he will indulge her whim.

We believe that John is well rid of Louise until she gains a little maturity and poise. Then we would recommend that she judge her future young men on the basis of their speech and actions with her and others close to her. She should look for honesty, high principles, good reputation and gentlemanly behavior, by all means, but she should not go probing beyond sensible and decent limits.

The Experts Say

Department Takes Guesswork Out of Measuring Ingredients

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—There are all kinds of sandwiches, used for all kinds of occasions. The federal agriculture department's cookery section now has taken the guesswork out of measuring the ingredients.

When estimating the requirements for receptions and parties, the experts say, allow two slices of bread or three to four smaller sandwiches per person for a women's teas and showers, figure on two slices of bread, or two to three small sandwiches each.

On this reckoning, a 24-ounce loaf cut into ½-inch slices will serve 20 or 24 women, or 18 to 20 people at a mixed party.

HOW THICK?

For the heartier sandwiches used in lunch boxes and at picnics, thicker slices are recommended. A 24-ounce loaf sliced ¾ inches will serve seven or eight people. In half-inch slices, it will serve five or six.

If the crusts are removed, less butter is needed. Allow three-quarters to one teaspoon of butter per slice if the crusts are left on. If crust is removed, allow one-half to three-quarters teaspoon. And there are 32 teaspoons of butter in a pound.

Based on a 24-ounce loaf, here are suggested filling quantities:

Two-and - one-half cups moist meat, chicken or fish spread. One pound of chicken yields about one cup of meat and chicken.

Two dozen hard-boiled eggs for egg salad filling.

Two cucumbers, about 10 ounces each, sliced ¼ inch thick. One to 1½ pounds thinly-sliced meat or cheese.

Five to six ounces peanut butter, or jelly or soft cheese.

One medium head lettuce.

RIGHT ARRANGEMENT

The best sandwiches may have their appearance spoiled if they are not served properly. Tiny sandwiches for teas and receptions should be served attractively on flat trays or platters. Several kinds may be placed on the platter, of course, but it is better to group the same kind together, separating the groups with sprigs of parsley, olives or small pickles.

Fancy sandwiches such as finger, rolled, ribbon, checkerboard and mosaics should not be stacked on top of each other.

An attractive centrepiece will add to the success of the affair. Try a cabbage, cantaloup, grapefruit or manufactured holder studded with toothpicks holding hors d'oeuvres, small pickled onions, stuffed olives, ripe olives, carrot curls, small pieces of stuffed celery or of other crisp vegetables.

READER PRESENTS PROBLEM OF TODAY'S SHOWER "RACKET"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This business of showers (and I do mean "business") is getting to be a menace very difficult to meet. As so many people are saying, showers are too often a "racket" Last evening a group of my friends and I were discussing how to meet this problem of being invited to so many showers being given for girls we scarcely know. In some cases we do know the shower-hostess well or quite well, but have no wish to co-operate with her by giving a shower present to her friend.

We'd all appreciate your advice about the proper procedure in these circumstances. Should we make an effort to go to a shower just to please the hostess, or spend our hard-earned money for a gift to a girl we don't know or in whom we haven't the slightest interest? Generally we never see the "guest of honor "again

Reader

Everything you say about today's shower "racket" is unfortunately and unhappily, so very true. It's too bad that showers, which had such a charming story-book beginning, and which can be so delightful if done with taste and discrimination, are allowed in so many cases to get completely out of hand into the realm of sheer "gimmes" and "grabs."

My advice is that you be completely realistic about invitations which, for any reason, you have no interest in accepting . . . decline the invitation graciously (best by note, giving a plausible excuse), and, since you will not be going to the shower, you need not send a gift.

WHERE TO PLACE THE BREAD PLATE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I serve a salad (usually a simple one, such as a mixed-green salad or a tomato-and-onion) with the meat course, should I place the salad plate to the left of the fork or to the right of the knives? — H. T.

To the left of the forks.

QUESTION:

My problem is a canning one. Last year we did some Bartlett pears and when we used them the contents of a pear would be in the jars seemed to have turned quite brown. They were quite firm and tasted alright, but did not lost all eye appeal. I would be glad to know the reason . . . Have you any suggestions for getting the air bubbles out of the jars besides that of putting in a silver knife? . . . Mabel F.

ANSWER:

I think the pears that developed a brown spot after canning may have been blighted—but that it was not visible. Try this method, making sure your Bartlett pears are sound.

CANNED PEARS (Hot Pack):

Wash, peel, halve or quarter, remove cores from Bartlett pears. Drop in brine bath of 1 teaspoon salt to 5 cups water. Drain. Bring to boil in hot very thin syrup in proportions of 3 cups sugar to each 3 cups water and simmer tender-fleshed varieties 5 minutes. Pack hot, pouring over boiling syrup to within ½" of top. Seal. Process in hot water bath 15 minutes for both hot and cold pack. Tighten seal — never loosen it.

QUESTION:

Some time ago you had a recipe for Icicle Pickles. I neglected cutting it out of the paper. Will you please print it before too long? . . . C. J. B.

ANSWER:

ICICLE PICKLES:

(Repeated by request). Wash 1 six-quart basket of 4-inch cucumbers and cut in halves lengthwise.

BRINE:

2 cups non-iodized salt and 1 gallon boiling water. Pour over cukes in a crock. Let stand 4 days.

(Note to novices: Don't throw out this brew as spoiled, it is just fermenting.) Drain and add brine off cukes and cover with clear boiling water. Let stand 24 hours. 8th day: Drain. Dissolve 1 tablespoon powdered alum in boiling water. Pour over and let stand. 9th day: Drain. Make syrup of 3 cups cider vinegar, 5 cups sugar, and 3 tablespoons whole mixed pickling spice. Heat to boiling and pour over cukes. 8th day: Drain and reserve liquid. Heat to boiling and add 3 cups sugar and pour over the cukes. 9th day: Repeat as above again adding 3 cups sugar. 10th day: Repeat as above, adding another 3 cups sugar. 11th day: Drain. Place cukes in hot sterilized jars. Heat liquid, add 2 cups sugar and strain to remove the spices pour over the pickles in the jars. Seal. If desired leave cukes in crock, cover with wax paper and a plate and weigh down with a heavy object.

NOTE I:

A total of 16 cups sugar is used in making the syrup.

NOTE II:

Cut into desired shapes or sizes for serving. Chill in the refrigerator for crisper texture.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

What to Do at Retirement - Why Not Try These for Size?

By THOMAS COLLINS

"All of our children are grown and married. All of them have a nicer standard of living than we have because my husband absolutely refuses to spend money.

"He retires in two years and then will have sufficient income for us to live well. We have about $9,000 in savings and our own house. Yet my refrigerator is 16 years old; I have no washer or dryer; since last spring we have no cars and our furniture is a disgrace. . ."

Sometimes it's the husband, sometimes the wife, but many people around age 65 — who don't have to — grow economical to the point of stinginess. Why? Retirement should be the harvest time of life, the years to enjoy the fruits of working. You can't take the stuff with you — really you can't. And children seldom appreciate your leaving it.

Retired people, if their financial security is assured, should buy more popsicles.

Building contractors ought to pay a little more attention to new ideas in retirement housing. The Golden Years column of a few weeks ago telling some new ideas retired people might like has brought in about 400 letters of approval.

IN A ROSE PATCH

"I have found my Golden Years in a rose patch. And I would like to recommend my program to those who face a bleak retirement.

"I retired in 1956, and with my wife's encouragement sold our six-room house in the city and bought (for $2300 less) a simple four-room frame house and two acres of good land just outside the city limits. I had three angles: to grow flowers commercially if I could; to develop my baby farm into an estate; and if these failed to hold out until a subdivision developer bought me out for a fat profit.

"I tried the flowers first. By 1957 I made about $400. In 1958 I made $1900. This year I'll clear close to $2400.

"Every December my wife and I head for the sun country, and have more pleasure than anybody by reading seed catalogues until spring. . ."

This man had an executive job with a corporation. Never in his life had he had a chance to produce a product of his own or run a business of his own. He, like most people who retire, had no idea what dormant talents he might have.

"My husband and I bought our house in 1938. Through the years the neighborhood remained good, but the old neighbors faded away and young couples with noisy children and loose dogs moved in to dominate the street.

"A year and a half ago my husband retired. We had to make a decision: move or not move. We voted to remain.

"It had been about as trying as we expected — children yelling and crying from 6 A.M. to 8 P.M.; recurring small crises that are always coming to young families, and that we'd never witness in a neighborhood of retired people; and dogs that spoil the lawn and flower beds.

RICH REWARDS

"With 65 years of living we were determined to haul up stakes and move, so we have found some rich rewards in our decision to stay.

"By 65 you are inclined to shut the door and hibernate. These young families won't let us. We are the godparents on the street. We know all the sawyers. I know how to put a tuck in a big girl's dress to make it over for her little sister. My husband knows how to advise a young husband about potting lime on the lawn, and whom to complain to when the garbage isn't picked up.

"Our hinges creak a little sometimes, but our young newcomers invite us to their barbecues, depend on us, and have forced us to be about 15 years younger than we would be if we had moved away to peace and quiet. . ."

This is the passive path to the Golden Years, and not bad if you want to retire when you retire. I lean to the idea of cracking the mill to see what's inside, like the fellow with the rose patch.

Stratification for Difficult Seeds

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Did you ever wish you could grow leafy from the berries off your Christmas wreath? Stratification of the seeds is the answer. Many difficult plants may be started with this method. Washington thorn, hawthorne, viburnum, dictamus (gas plant) roses, daphne, fire thorn, cotoneaster, barberry and apple may be suitable subjects.

Stratifying is a safe way to keep tough seeds over winter in just the right condition for spring growth. Many of these seeds would rot if planted in the ground in the fall. Held over until spring the seeds become too dry, the outercoat hardens making sprouting almost impossible. Stratifying keeps them barely moist enough to slowly soften their tough covering and preserves the embryo-plant. Even with the best of conditions some seeds take two to four years to sprout.

A chancy business, you will say, but most gratifying if you can succeed.

Stratifying may save you as much as four months to one year over planting directly into the soil and seems to be the only way to get some seeds to start. It is a trick worth knowing.

You will need fine sand, some large pots or deep wooden boxes, and a deep box of ashes or sand. Gather the seed as soon as it is ripe. If it is from fruit such as hawthorn, crab apples or rose hips crush the fruit to bare the seed, but do not crush the seed.

Measure the sand to nearly fill the pot. Tip out sand and mix it thoroughly with the seed. Put back into pot and firm down covering the top with one inch of sand. Lable with waterproof lables.

Place the pots in a deep box of ashes against a north wall making sure the place is well drained and no water will collect and stand in the box. It is wise to cover the top of the pots with a thin piece of board before covering over with sand or ashes. Another way to protect them would be to cover each pot with a piece or bag of polythene plastic and tie in place before burying the pots.

PREPARE SOIL NOW

You can prepare the soil now for their spring bed. It should be a sheltered place with soil worked up fine and good drainage.

In March up out the contents of the pot and rub sand and seeds through a quarter inch screen. Sow sand and seed mixture in row in bed, rake in lightly with a hand cultivator and cover lightly with sand, a mix of compost and sand or vermiculite. Firm down lightly. Mark the rows well, they may need to be preserved for some time. Lable with waterproof lables.

Walnuts, filbert or chestnuts may be treated in this way, but do not break the shell.

When the seedlings are four inches high, which may take two to four months or even longer, transplant them to another bed, still in a sheltered area. Keep the rows of seed hand weeded and supply a gentle spray of water if drought conditions threaten. And, don't give up hope for at least two years.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Commensurate with the trend in the metropolitan centres soccer is on the upsurge in this part of the sports hinterlands, albeit down here in the sticks the "tithe" boys believe more in sticking to the rules and the game instead of staging mob scenes, bashing players and chasing referees to the showers.

While the game may never reach the peak of interest and fan enthusiasm apparent in Britain, for you might say centuries, nevertheless its popularity has increased in Canada by leaps and bounds over a few short years.

It is a major sport in Europe. During our sojourn in Czechoslovakia last March, we forayed into the interior on a few occasions. Each village and hamlet had its soccer field. The goalposts are year-round fixtures. Baseball and softball diamonds were scarcer than Canadian dollar bills in a cocoyo manago dispensery.

European hockey players, we noted, when stopping the puck with a skate, kicked it toe-first, not sideways like the Canadians. We asked why. We were told "soccer training." And those foreign babies seldom mire with that steel-shod toe.

Les Digby, eastern convener of the Ontario Football Association, and Reg Dickman, president of the Bay of Quinte Football Association are enthusiastic over the general increase in popularity of the sport over a reasonably short period in this neck of the woods.

"Indicative of this," says Digby, "is the fact that we have the largest number of entries in the playoffs for the Eastern Ontario Cup (Norman Hayhurst Trophy) since the league's inception in 1926. Teams include Aurora F.C.; Barrie Collegiate; Brampton City; Kingston Sports Club; Newmarket; Oshawa Thistles; Peterborough Italia and Trenton F.C."

Both football officials believe the future of the game in these parts is assured by interest taken by the minors. Northern Secondary, said Digby (and there's no sarcastic pride), had fielded a fine team this year, due in no small part to young players who replaced older veterans who felt their playing days were done.

"Northern," he said, "had won the Eastern Ontario League title and will meet Trenton, champions of the Bay of Quinte League in the Belleville Charity Cup two-games finals. These games will be played at Bain Memorial Park, Trenton, on Sept. 13 and Sept. 19. Kick-off at 3 p.m.

Soccer-minded youngsters are on the increase to the point where a summer bantam league was inaugurated this year with four teams enjoying a successful season.

Within the next two weeks the ten-year-old fall bantam league will get under way and all indications point to another successful season for the six-team circuit.

The juvenile division is at a temporary impasse due to age limits, and is at that part of the cycle where it must wait for Time to take its toll of the bantams. Only one juvenile team operated this year for that reason.

So it would seem the future of soccer hereabouts is bright. Northern Electric, Raiaws, Trenton, Trenton ROAF, the "big brothers" of the sport, have been playing a splendid calibre of the game and setting a fine example to their minor counterparts. With the minor league flourishing and new young players coming out each year, the various leagues are assured of a fine supply of reinforcements for the future.

Mr. Digby paid tribute to the newly-formed Belleville Minor Sports Association, of which the soccer division is a part. "It has done a fine job and helped us tremendously," he said.

Something novel for soccer fans takes place at Bain Memorial Park, Trenton, on Sunday, September 27. It is a seven-a-side knockout competition played from start to finish. Eight teams will take part in seven games of fifteen minutes each way assuring soccer addicts of 3½ hours of continuous sport.

League and cup champions will receive trophies and individual crests at the presentation banquet and dance, scheduled for the Rossmore Hotel, Trenton, Friday, Oct. 2. For information regarding banquet tickets, contact local club secretaries or Bay of Quinte League secretary N. Carter, WO 8-9087.

Dodgers, Braves Give Giants The Move-Over Signal

'Bums' Whip Pirates Twice, Beermen Win, Frisco Loses, Bucs 'Face' Finally Lifted

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago's pennant - pressing White Sox, toughest club to shut out in the American League, suddenly have been shackled with a string of 20 scoreless innings, their magic singles disenchanted by a couple of kid righthanders.

Baltimore's Jack Fisher and Jerry Walker, both just 20, spun a 2-0 shutout over the Sox for a twi - night doubleheader sweep Friday. Walker put them away on six hits in a 16-inning 1-0 decision after Fisher claimed his first major league victory with a three-hit 3-0 success.

The White Sox, dropping three in a row for the first time in three months and handed a double shutout for the first time in six years, now lead second-place Cleveland by four games. Washington cuffed the Indians for their second straight loss, 4-2.

New York took a 1½-game hold on third place over Detroit by belting the Tigers 9-3. And Kansas City banked its losing streak at 13 by beating Boston 8-6.

FACES 20 MEN

Fisher (1-4) entered the first in mid-game only 28 men, one over the minimum, while striking in his first inning opener and his fifth start. He hasn't allowed an earned run in his last 22 innings.

Baltimore backed Fisher with 10 hits, including homers by Bob Seeman, roller in left field, against southpaw Billy Pierce (13-14).

The Orioles, 11-0 over the White Sox going into today's finale of the season series which also includes an afternoon twi-night doubleheader, made it four straight over Chicago by beating reliever Gerry Staley (8-4) in the nightcap. After Walker (11-8), who walked three and struck out seven, went through the 18th, the Orioles put it away on Bill Filippo's single and a two-bout single by Brooks Robinson.

The Senators joined the Orioles as spoilers on Julio Becquer's clutch single in the ninth, breaking a 4-4 tie. It came on reliever Jack Kramer's first pitch, after loser Mike Garcia (3-6) had put the winning run on base with a walk.

Pete Ramos (13-17), who chipped in with his first home run of the year and second in the majors, beat the Indians with the nine-hitter. He struck out eight and didn't walk a man.

BUY SLAUGHTER

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves Friday bought the old pro of baseball, Enos Slaughter, from the New York Yankees. Slaughter will not be eligible to play in the world series if the Braves win the National League pennant, but apparently Milwaukee felt the famous slugger, now 40, would be of help in the stretch drive.

The question no longer is whether Los Angeles Dodgers, dominating Elroy Face's magnificent winning streak, or Milwaukee's barnstorming Braves will dethrone San Francisco's National League leaders.

Now it looks to be more a question of who will do it first.

While last - place Philadelphia tumbled San Francisco 1-0 Friday night on Robin Roberts' three-hitter, the Dodgers closed within a half-game and four percentage points of the Giants with a 5-4, 4-0 twi-night doubleheader sweep over Pittsburgh. And the Braves edged within a game of the top with their sixth straight success, a 4-3 victory over Cincinnati.

FACE BEATEN

The Dodgers, whipped along by Wally Moon's three home runs, ran their streak to four games, while Face's streak was winning string at 22 games with a two-run ninth inning in the opener. Chicago's Cubs beat St. Louis 2-1 on a wild pitch in the ninth in the other National League game.

Face, who set a record for relief pitchers while winning 17 in a row this season, finally was beaten by Bob Friend in the nightcap. Moon, who scored home run of the night and chased Buc starter Bob Friend in the eighth with a two-run homer, also had a single in the nightcap. It was the victory to Larry Sherry (5-2). Chuck Churn (2 - 0) won the opener in relief, getting Don Hoak, who gave up homers by Dixie Dick Stuart and Ray Mathias.

The Phils handed the Giants their second loss in a row and their first run in three games. Shut out on a three-hitter by Mike McCormick (11-14), they finally broke through in the seventh on Joe Adcock's run-scoring sacrifice and a single by Harry Anderson.

Joe Adcock drove in three runs for the Braves with a pair of doubles as they built a 7-1 lead in two innings against the Reds. Lew Burdette was wrapping up his three-run homer, his second, in the eighth as Joey Jay (3 - 10) beat the Reds with a four-hitter.

Fernandez Gets Verdict Over Gaspar Ortega

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) Undefeated Florentino Fernandez will have to beat Gaspar (Indian) Ortega again if he wants a shot at Don Jordan, world welterweight boxing champion.

Fernandez, who scored his 21st victory with a unanimous decision over Ortega Friday night, floored the wily Mexican in the first and fourth rounds but could not knock him out.

Then Brenner, New York matchmaker, said he will rematch Fernandez and Ortega for Oct. 23. If Fernandez wins that one, Brenner said, he wants the Cuban to fight Jordan for the title at Miami Beach Dec. 4.

Reginio Ruiz, Fernandez' manager, said the man at present happy to fight Ortega again and Jordan. "Next time we'll kill him."

Ortega's manager wouldn't argue that Fernandez won, but he said the fight was closer than the judges' decision. Referee Joe Gottfried scored it 97-90 for Fernandez, judge Gus Jacobson saw it 97-91 and judge Fred Aronsson called it 96-93 for Fernandez.

The Cuban weighed 146½ pounds, Ortega, 145¾. Both are 23.

Young Goolie Catches Eyes Of Leaf Brass

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Three players from the Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey training camp here are temporary casualties today after the first day's work out in the Memorial Centre. Teddy Kilrea of Fort Maitland were sidelined with bruised ankles and Henry Marczak wrenched his back.

Two absentees, goalie Johnny Bower and defenceman Roger Cote, are expected to reach training camp today when the National Hockey League Leafs and Rochester of the American Hockey League continue drills under coach Punch Imlach. They also have two sessions Sunday morning, and in the afternoon an interleague game between Rochester Catholic Cubs and players as a training camp exercise.

The annual golf tournament for the players, won last year by Bill Ezinicki, will be held Sunday, Sept. 20. New York Rangers and Leafs also have exhibition game here next Tuesday.

Two entourages were held today with Whites winning over Blues in the first game. Marczak and Lary Creighton scored for Whites, Gary Edmundson for Blues. Whites' goalie was Rudy Migay give Whites a 1-0 win.

Jacques Caron, former Peterborough Petes junior goalie, has been put in charge of the Leaf hockey brass by posting two shutouts in as many days. Jacques will likely wind up with Sudbury in the newly-formed Eastern Canada Provincial League.

CHANNEL RECORD

CALAIS, France (Reuters) — Brazilian swimmer Adelio Couto, 34, set a record Friday of 13 hours, 48 minutes and 40 seconds for the England-to-France crossing of the English Channel. But his time was well outside the record of 10 hours and 50 minutes for the France-to-England crossing—considered much easier — held by Hassan Abdel Rehim of Egypt in 1950.

Whipper Bill Watson's honor is untarnished.

Don Leo Jonathan mingles with the wrong company.

And "Hard-Boiled" Haggerty should not pick on kids or stick his nose in other pachyderms' business.

Neither does Referee Joe Golbob scare easily even when threatened with mayhem, or a facsimile from a couple of 300-pound pachyderms.

Marse Joe doesn't see everything but at least he can discern two hunks of man-eating man when they pair up in the ring.

That's what happened last night when Whipper Billy Watson bowed to huge Don Leo Jonathan in the first fall, pinning him and put him bye-bye with the "Sleeper" hold in second brawl and had him saying "uncle" via the same method in the third, before the Hardboiled Haggerty started a war of aggression.

Not only did the Hardboiled one intervene on behalf of his Mormon pal when fall going was rough, but he proceeded to take apart a fellow referee when he entered the ring when the festivities were at their height.

No fan enjoys the rudeness a wrestler picking on one of the odd-up preceding that when the P-U-P enters the ring of his own volition, he is definitely there in the hope of finding the right man," said club president Barry O'Brien.

But he carefully avoided saying just who the nine-man club executive is considering for the job. He wouldn't even confirm or deny whether some of the names mentioned in speculation are on a list of seven men now under study.

Two former Ottawa Rough Riders, Don Loney and Ted McLarty, have been mentioned in the past, and the name of Carl Voyles, former general manager and coach of Hamilton Tiger - Cats fall. He had Big Don in a bad came up.

Referee — when enter "Hardboiled."

"The "Hag" plainly showed he was no lodge brother of the Whipper and tossed in his heavy artillery on the side of the Mormon.

And the pair wasn't doing a bad job when the interloper interloped and Marse Jo Golbob promptly put a stop to proceedings and disqualified the Mormon on account of Hardboiled exercising his aggression part with the behemoth from Utah.

Sam Steamboat was the popular choice in the semi-final with "The Hag" and the pair wrestled to a time-limit draw in thirty minutes of lively brawling.

Howard Martin took the measure of Karl Kulaski in the preliminary.

Alex Olmedo Smashes Way To Semi-Finals

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)— A pair of giant-killers, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas and Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, smashed into the semi-finals of the national tennis championships Friday along with the top-seeded favorites, Peruvian Alex Olmedo and Australia's Neale Fraser.

Bartzen, 21, a relentless little retriever, took the sting out of Barry MacKay's power - laden service and upset the third-seeded U.S. Davis Cup ace 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Holmberg, a hard-hitting 22-year - old college junior, won over four-seeded Rod Mills of Australia 6-8, 7-5, 8-6, 6-3.

Olmedo, a giant who is fresh heights by the presence of his fellow team Peru, pulled spectacularly in erasing Jim Emerson of the Australian Davis Cup team, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Fraser, individual hero of Australia's sweep of the Davis Cup, played at top form in routing the formidable Luis Ayala of Chile, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

In today's semi-finals Olmedo will meet Holmberg and Fraser will take on Bartzen in a battle of lefthanders.

The women's division saw the advance of Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, Britain's Christine Truman and Ann Haydon-Jones and Australia's Jan Lehane and Carlena Hard of Montebello, Calif.

73-Year-Old-Cree Indian Recalls Races in '12 Olympics

WINNIPEG (CP)—Joe Keeper is beginning to have a little trouble with his teeth, and his legs are stiffening a bit, but he still lugs a small pack frame his race against the best of the world's distance runners.

During a brief stay at Deer Lodge Military Hospital in suburban St. James, the 73-year-Cree Indian talked about his past efforts and achievements.

Keeper represented Canada in the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm, Sweden, as the Canadian Army in France during and after the First World War and made a name for himself in Manitoba racing.

THE GREATEST

He says the greatest distance runner he ever encountered was H. Kolehmainen, a Finn who won the 10,000-metre race at the 1912 Olympics.

"It was a great race," recalled Keeper. "I finished fourth, only 80 yards behind him."

"About a third of a mile from the finish four—of us were all bunched together and then Kolehmainen started to go. As American Indian came second, another Finlander third, and I came fourth."

Keeper won his heat in the 5,000-metre at Stockholm but was knocked out in the final.

He joined the Regiment when war broke out and during sports days in France met some top-notch runners. He defeated Canada's famed Tom Longboat, who represented Canada in the 1908 Olympics in London, in both one-mile and three-mile races.

RING TRIUMPHS

Other victories were over Teddy Wood of England and Jack Kidd, the Canadian mile champion in 1910 and 1911.

The highlight of his army running came in 1919 during an Inter-Allies meet in Paris.

"I ran in the 10 - mile race through the streets of Paris against the crack distance runners of the Allied army," he said, "but an American just beat me out, and no more."

He was just as active on the Manitoba racing scene.

Every Thanksgiving Day the RCA staged a five - mile road race from Deer Lodge to its Winnipeg headquarters and Keeper won this from 1910 to 1913.

Among the top-flight Manitoba runners conquered by Keeper was Tom Towne of Brandon.

"The Brandon fans staged a 10-mile race through the Brandon streets," Keeper said, "but I won against the Wheat City's favorite son."

Keeper is a non-smoker, a teetotaller and an active member of the United Church of Canada.

For more than 30 years he was a member of the Hudson's Bay Company staff at Norway House, near the northeast tip of Lake Winnipeg.

Now living in retirement at Norway House, Keeper says he does a little hunting and fishing and polishes his racing trophies.

FORMER TRACK GREAT — Joe Keeper of Norway House on Lake Winnipeg is still active and vigorous at 73. A Cree Indian, he represented Canada in the 1913 Olympics in Stockholm in the 5,000 and 10,000 metres. He finished fourth in the long race only 80 yards behind the winning Finn. Keeper is shown in a boat in both one-mile and three-mile races. (CP Photo).

To Ask Probe Of 'Cat' Sale

HAMILTON (CP) — Alderman John Munro said Friday he will ask board of control next Wednesday to look into the financial implications of the proposed sale of the Hamilton Tiger-Cat Football Club to private interest.

Jake Gaudaur, president of the club, disclosed Thursday that he and three other men associated with the Tiger - Cats — Ross Fitcher, Frank Gibson and Ralph Cooper—were seeking to buy the team.

The club operates on a franchise entrusted by the Big Four Football League to local trustees. The franchise would be taken over by the new group forming a limited company.

Ald. Munro said the Tigers have "traditionally been a civic enterprise in this community and I feel that council should make sure that the public's interests are being protected."

Labor Day weekend was much activity on the district race front with fall fairs at Centreville, Trenton and Picton Saturday and Monday as well as Kingston Driving Club's twilight holiday meet.

Albert Dempsey, Trenton veteran driver, "Dempsey Dream" to two firsts at Centreville with his filly, defeating Ralph Best "Lyn Belwin", "Francois Ann" and "Country Jet" in the last three heats. "Dempsey Dream" owned and driven by Lt. Lubbock of Wells Island took Barnard Hunt of Tweed driving "H. H. Billy Graham" in two heats of the fast class.

Belleville owned horses raced at Port Hope Saturday afternoon with Bill Faulkner's "Captain Kidd" sharing firsts and second money with Art Hope's Girl" owned and driven by N. Dermond at Port Hope in the slow class. "John DeKuyper" driven by Ken Weeks of Belleville was third in the fourth. "Captain Kidd" won in 2.11 3-5 while the mare won in 2.15.

The middle class saw a double heat winner as the first five horses finished in the same order in both heats. Osler Burkholder of Norwood who is the owner of "Homestead Doc" won both heats with a good 2-year-old Miss Star Chief" who was followed by "Miss Dixie Dillon" owned by J. Herr of Hastings and driven by Ivan Thackeray and "Scenic Bay Grattan" owned and driven by Basil Samons of Cobourg.

The old favorites "Mr. Grift" and "Gus Scot" shared wins in the fast class as the former won the first heat in 2.09 4-5 with the trotter 3rd, but "Gus" came back to win the second heat in 2.09 1-5 with "Mr. Grift" second. Bill Faulkner drove Bill Orr's newly acquired "Mr. Bobby Henley" to a second and third in this race.

"Mr. Grift" owned by Mrs. George Daly of Port Hope and driven by George Daily won both heats of the F.F.A. at Marmora Monday afternoon.

Kingston's 4 race, eight heat card produced eight separate heat winners. The "D" race first heat was won by R. Compton with "Anna Lee Mac Duff" from Sydenham in 2.20 while Charlie Golfogly of Kingston drove his pool colt "Tripper Gratton" to win the 1.1-16 mile second heat in 2.20. Bill Hennessey's "Ace Hy" from Brighton and "John DeKuyper" finished 2nd and 3rd in the second heat after a slight accident took them out of the first. The "C" classified race produced quite a surprise in the 1 mile heat as Clark Hamilton drove his "Stewart's Supreme" from Gan-anoque to win in 2.17. Herman Lucas of Belleville was second with "Smithfield Boy". The mile and a sixteenth was won by Cliff Goodwin's good trotter "Sandy Mac Duff" in 2.25 with "Norjork Charm" second and "Stewarts Supreme" 3rd.

Art MacDonald's "Linda Mac Duff" driven by Johnny Holmes won the mile heat in 2.18 in the "B" race, with Irwin Ness's "Lee Mac S" second and C. Golegly's "Miss Tripplywyn" third. "Lee Mac S" won the long heat quite handily with "Miss Tripplewyn" second in a time of 2.22

Wins in the "A" class were shared by "Mr. Cash" driven by L. Hess of Kingston who won the mile race in 2.10 and "Ellen Eugene" owned by Mr. McGrath of Napanee who won the long race in 2.22. Harold Varcoe drove "Ellen" who was trained at Belleville over the last couple of winters by Ivan Waddell.

The busy schedule continued Tuesday and Wednesday at the Napanee Fair where "Captain Kid" was twice second Tues. afternoon being beaten by "Port Hope's Girl" and "Sandy Mac Duff" in times of 2.19 and 2.18. "Mighty Wyndy" and Retta Herrington's "Lu Attorney" from Brighton shared wins in the second class Tuesday in times of 2.15 and 2.18 respectively. "Mighty Wyndy" R. Gratton was third both trips.

Wednesday afternoon saw "Lee Mac S" win the first heat but hit "Linda MacDuff" bike wheel and fall and finish fifth. This marked the first time "Lee" was out of the money in the district this season.

Bill Faulkner again did the teaming in fine fashion with "Mr. Bobby Henley" to be third in the first heat in 2.13 and a place behind the trotters "Ellen Reenower" owned by Don Gallings of Kingston and "Admiral Jr." owned by Barney Davey of Westport. The second heat was won by "Ellen Eugene" in 2.13 4-5 with "Mr. Bobby Henley" second.

Herman Lucas of Belleville has purchased the stallion "Danny R. Hall" from Elliott White of Colborne.

This Saturday is the date of the Shannonville Fair with races in the afternoon. Kingston Fair is on September 30th and October 1st, 2nd, 3rd this year. There will be two days of racing at the Picton Fair this year.

The Canadian Trotting Association handed out a 30 day suspension to driver Lloyd Hess of Kingston, following the final race there on Labor Day, for the manner in which he drove "Mr. Cash." This is part of Harness Commissioner's policy to strictly enforce the rules at all of the one day meets in the province.

Argonauts Can Dicker With Three Players

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three Argonauts, in third place in the Big Four, apparently are free to dicker with three players suspended by the Big Four Football Conference Thursday by the United States National Football League.

Canadian football commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg said Friday that "any names submitted by the Argonaut club Saturday will be under negotiation list."

Halter said he could not release any names as the negotiation lists of the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union are "confidential," but "if a club wants to release the names on its list it is all right with me."

A spokesman for the Argos said Thursday the club had asked the commissioner to put two players from Green Bay Packers and another from Los Angeles Rams on the negotiating list.

The spokesman said that Argo coach Ramp Pool had learned Thursday that Steve Mellinger and tackle Al Bocking-hour horses finished in the same hacker Jimmy Jones of Los order in both heats. Osler Bur- Angeles soon will be placed on kholder of Norwood who is the waivers by their NFL clubs.

Bisons, Jets Now Trail By 3 Games

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, who won their first International League pennant in 10 years, and Columbus Jets, who took a late surge for second place in the regular season, are to the point of win or no return in semi-final playoffs tonight.

Either Buffalo tops the Virginians at Richmond and Columbus subdues the Sugar Kings at Havana or the two underdogs will wrap up the final playoff berths in the minimum four games.

Richmond, with Deron Johnson still slugging, made it 3-2 in the best-of-seven set with Buffalo, slamming the pennant-winners 5-3 at Richmond Friday night. Johnson drove in all five runs with his third and fourth home runs of the series and Billy Short scattered eight hits for the pitching victory.

SIX RUNS IN FIRST

Havana scored a three-game sweep at Columbus 10-3, scoring six runs in the first inning off Ron Blackburn and Lynn Lovenguth and accounting for all 10 runs in the first three innings.

Lefthander Walt Craddock scattered nine hits for the triumph, coasting after the Cubans sent 10 men to the plate in the first inning and six hit safely. Dan Morejon led Havana's 15-hit attack with two singles, a double and a triple and three runs batted in.

The Bisons will send Dallas Green (9-5) against Richmond's Dave Cox (4-4) tonight. Columbus will have Joe Gibbon (15-8) on the mound against either Vince Amor (9-8) or Emilio Cuellar (9-8).

LONGSHOT WINS

DONCASTER, England (AP)—New World, a 25-1 longshot, led from start to finish Friday and won the Portland Handicap of about six furlongs. First out of the gate, the six-year-old chestnut gelding from Malaya stayed on gamely ahead of second-place Right Boy. March Alone was third.

New Daughter in TV Series Just Change in Casting

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Danny Thomas' new television show comes on this fall, look closely—he's got a new teen-age daughter.

Sherry Jackson, Danny's TV daughter who grew up with the series, no longer is in the famous family. A spokesman for Thomas says Sherry wanted to concentrate on her education and other acting.

In her place will be Penney Parker, a New York actress whose mother gave her a trip to Hollywood this summer for a graduation present.

While here she auditioned for the Thomas show and won out over hundreds of other teen-aged girls. She hasn't returned home since.

When Thomas switched TV wives a few years ago, script writers went to elaborate lengths to make Danny a widower who falls for a young and attractive widow, Marjorie Lord. She's still playing his wife.

WEDNESDAY AT THE BELLE — Rossano Brazzi and Mitzi Gaynor co-starred with John Kerr, France Nuyen and Ray Walston, in Twentieth Century-Fox release of "South Pacific" De Luxe Color film version of the Rogers and Hammerstein hit, opening Wednesday September 16th at the Belle Theatre. Two performances daily at 2.00 and 8.15. Doors at 1.30, 7.30.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

The best TV antenna in the world won't give you complete viewing satisfaction from all channels available if it can't be pointed towards the transmitting station. There are several ways of accomplishing this, but the most satisfactory answer is an electric antenna rotator.

Essentially this is an electric motor mounted on the aerial mast with controls inside the house to turn the motor in either direction. It can be easily installed on any all channel antenna and is relatively inexpensive considering the vast improvement made in television viewing.

Installation is simple . . . for experienced technicians with the proper equipment. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., specialize in this type of work and carry brand name, quality rotors in stock. Phone WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7600) and order yours now!

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, September 13

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Many conflicts could result today, whether with people you love or because of extenuating circumstances. But if you adhere to the highest spiritual tenets, all can be adjusted nicely and kept in perfect balance.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Although this is a holiday, a good associate will extend some very fine idea that will help you careerwise or add to your prestige. Listen attentively, but take no action now. P.M. act with precaution. Do not jeopardize your position of security.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Forget doing those unnecessary little jobs now. Get out and hear the talks or sermons of wise men, or study literature, paper that will give you greater vision. Keep calm. Also, practise what you have learned.

Most Children Born (June 22 to July 21) — Try smiling your way through difficulties today instead of making radical changes where conditions and people are concerned. P.M. go out for some inexpensive fun and relax. Have your dearest friends around you. Be kind.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — This could be a very trying day, since you are torn between following the advice or desires of kin, or friends, and duties you feel you must perform. Only by getting your time planned properly can you make this a productive day, also enjoyable.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Take great care while out driving and also in speaking. Be sure you understand exactly what an informed person is saying. If you misinterpret him, you could lose out on benefits for the future. Be adroit.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22) — In order to avoid getting soured on life because of some rather serious disappointments in your personal life, dispel this by returning good will. Nobility of soul is a goal to strive for.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Try to rid yourself of that irreconcilable Scorpio attitude today if you want your life to be happier and more blessed with abundance, health. Meet the other fellow half way. Though it is not easy, admit it when you are in error.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you put aside that private worry quickly now, you can get out and get the data in whatever field is vital to you right now. Also, be sure you listen to the great wisdom expounded in the service of your choice.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Take care you do not jeopardize in any way your present position, since you are safe and secure. Dwell instead upon how you can add to your material possessions, how to increase your emotional happiness through right living.

Aquarius (Jan 21 to Feb. 19) — This can be one of your typical Aquarian days when you want to break out from under at any cost, but if you use tact in any way, what a melee you will cause! Counteract this with poise and be of service to others instead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — In your mind you are toying with the idea that you would like to make radical changes, disregard of responsibilities. Instead, begin the day by attending services and realize commitments must be met in order to achieve real progress.

If your child is born today . . . The intensity of little child born today will possess tremendous dynamism and will forever be in search of something new and fascinating. Teach perseverance and specialization early in life, however, for real success, or your son, or daughter, may merely remain a dabbler and lose out on the great potential there is in this child. Give a most thorough education.

Monday, September 14, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It is not to give in to that temptation to invest beyond your means now, nor is it wise to show jealousy where others are concerned. Trouble may ensue. Tonight, go out and be sociable where you can best further your career.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Take care you do not get in between and surface disagreement between one who is very modern and progressive and another and stubborn associate. P.M. attend some fine social affair and gain poise, popularity and good will.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you get out at once and time schedule you can easily do the routine work that awaits you and also get into more interesting new venture. Tonight is the time for social contacts and meetings that will help you to reach your goals faster.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) It is imperative now that you plan your existence more wisely so that you have more leisure time and can be busy at interesting activities instead of remaining in daily drudgery. P.M. look over bills. Then turn to romance.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Best procedure right now is to ask others just what their expect from you instead of simply guessing. P.M. is then fine for being out socially or on business and coming to greater understanding with others, cementing better relations.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Don't tie yourself down to regular dull routine now, though you feel you can be very proficient at it. Step out and get that vital information for the future. P.M. the right answer to your problems is at hand.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22) While you have a most inspirational plan you would like to follow, it is important you first take care of financial and real estate matters that are pending. Early P.M. will still give you time for the former.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov 21) You are inspired to accomplish much today in various directions, but it is wisest you truly know what is important and and right to do, and then full speed ahead. Be sure you are not sarcastic with family, or permit this from others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Since you like all secret sayings, this is just the day to delve into them for they can produce excellent results. Research and be sure to read your newspaper for leads. However, be very cautious.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think it over very carefully now before you make any radical changes where most intimate and financial affairs are concerned. Better consult with experts, too. Be sure you comprehend fully all that is said.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 1-) This is not a day to be your usually impulsive self, but to follow all laws that apply to you. Be very practical and down to earth. P.M. terribly good for some fine social gatherings, enlightening conversations.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Many new plans can be carried out today if you will only stop fretting about what cannot be helped. Relegate to the background all errors of the past, and begin a new page. If you are open-minded, much is possible to you.

If your child is born today . . . The fine child born today will have the ability to go after great ambitions because the desire for gracious living is very keen. Greediness, however, must be avoided, and this can be done only if you early teach the Golden Rule and see that it is lived from earliest life. And selfishness is another failing early to be rooted out. Then there can be eminence in almost any profession.

SCIENTISTS

device "going into orbit" was not immediately explained.

Ever since the Russians orbited the first Sputnik, world scientists have had it in mind that a Soviet rocket might be aimed at the moon.

SECOND TRY

The announcement indicated that this is the second attempt to launch a moon rocket by Soviet scientists.

The statement said:

"In accordance with the program of cosmic research and preparation for interplanetary flights, a second successful launching of a cosmic rocket took place in the Soviet Union today.

"The launching of the rocket was made for the purpose of studying cosmic space during the flight towards the moon and launching into space with the aid of a multi-stage rocket."

REPORTS BY RADIO

"To enable the rocket to fly as near as possible to the moon, scientific information to measure the parameters of movement and behavior of the flight of the rocket, it contains a radio transmitting device working on two frequencies (20,003 and 19,997 megacycles).

"The transmitter sends signals in the form of telegraphic messages lasting from 0.5 to 1.5 seconds in such a manner that, during the intervals between the transmission on the 20,003 megacycles frequency, the signals are transmitted on the second frequency at 19,997 megacycles."

FIRST PLANET

Russia's first cosmic rocket, known as the Lunik, went into orbit around the sun in Jan. 1959, to become the first man-made planet.

At the time Russia said it signalled man's entry into the era of interplanetary flight. The next stages were scheduled as: Further studies of outer space by means of the study of the planets of the solar system; and flights by man to the moon.

The United States made four moon-shot attempts between August, 1958, and December, 1958, but all failed.

Welfare Drives Ask $30,200,000 In 99 Campaigns

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's united fund - raising campaigns are seeking an all-time high of $30,200,000 to help pay for next year's operations by some 1,600 voluntary health - and - welfare agencies.

The current goal of 99 local campaigns is 6.4 per cent above the $28,442,520 target for 1959 agency budgets and is 11 per cent above the $27,252,375 raised.

Figures were announced Friday by the appeals' national organization, the Community Funds and Councils of Canada, a division of the Canadian Welfare Council here. CFCC officials said 6.5 per cent is the average annual goal increase over the last two decades.

Most campaigns begin late this month or in October, but some communities will hold their drives in winter or spring.

USE TWO NAMES

In most centres the drive-sponsoring agencies are called community Chest; in others, where national agencies have joined in, they're United Appeals.

Highest single goal is Toronto's $9,127,500 against $8,756,000 sought and $8,233,732 raised last year.

Rough estimates place the number of expected contributors at 2,225,000.

Officials estimate the campaign-financed agencies will give some kind of direct service to two of every five families in the campaign communities which have a total population of 9,000,000.

CRITICISM ANSWERED

The drives have been criticized in some quarters as overorganized and of removing the personal element from charitable giving.

But officials point to these advantages:

They eliminate a multiplicity of nuisance collections. They are highly efficient, with operating costs only three or four per cent of funds raised. They bring together hard-headed businessmen and altruistic welfare workers to review budgets of member agencies and ensure the money is needed and efficiently spent.

QUEBEC UNDER SIEGE — Two hundred years ago today the Battle of the Plains of Abraham ended a three-month siege of Quebec and French rule in Canada. During the siege Wolfe set up his artillery across the river at Levis. This old sketch of Mountain Hill shows bombardment damage to the city. The shattered building at the right is the Archbishop's palace. The city's homes were a shambles after weeks of bombardment and its inhabitants were on starvation rations. The historic night landing Sept. 13 at L'Anse-au Foulon brought about the decisive battle on the Plains of Abraham. (CP Photo).

THE FALL OF NEW FRANCE—This old drawing, published in England in 1797, shows British troops making their daring landing above Quebec 300 years ago today. The unknown artist shows Gen. Wolfe's troops leaving the fleet in the St. Lawrence, scaling the heights at L'Anse au Foulon and battling on the Plains of Abraham. In the brief battle, Montcalm's troops were defeated and the long struggle between Britain and France in the New World ended. Wolfe died on the battlefield and Montcalm, fatally injured, died in Quebec the next day. (CP Photo).

Battle of Plains of Abraham Held 200 Years Ago Ended French Rule in Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two hundred years ago, a small British army landed this night beneath a cliff on the shore of the St. Lawrence River, clambered up and spread over the sloping Plains of Abraham within sight of Quebec, capital of New France.

It was a daring, historic, hectic night—the prelude of a battle that was a turning-point in Canada's young life.

For the next morning, about 10 a.m., the French army stormed out on the plains to break the British foothold. The red-coated invaders held their fire until the grey-clad French were upon them—and then cut them down with musket fire and bayonets.

For 19 minutes the battle raged. Then the French yielded, turned and fled in disorder.

FATEFUL DEFEAT

It was the beginning of the end of French rule in Canada.

It was Thursday, Sept. 13, 1759—the day of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham.

Four days later, Sept. 17, the walled town of Quebec, bastion of French rule in the New World, surrendered.

And the next spring British supply ships sailed up the St. Lawrence River to provision their garrison. How the history of Canada might have been written had French vessels arrived first would be speculation.

Quebec marks the battle Sunday—quietly because the defeat still nags the memory of French-speaking Canada.

The battle is still recalled, refought and argued by historians and military men. Here, from eyewitness accounts and contemporary documents, is the story of Sept. 13, 1759.

THREE-MONTH SIEGE

Gen. James Wolfe, 32, elegant and eloquent, commander of the British forces in Canada, had been trying to capture Quebec for almost three months. His forces had been defeated in one direct attack on the French army near Beauport, but his warships ruled the St. Lawrence.

His cannon and mortars, set across the river at Levis, lobbed red-hot missiles into the old town. His soldiers prodded, took the French in minor skirmishes, harassed farmers and kept Quebec under siege.

He had about 12,000 men and 200 ships. Louis-Joseph, Marquis de Montcalm, the 48-year - old, aristocratic commander of the French forces, had about the same number of men but only half his strength was in regular troops, bolstered by Canadiens and red-coated marines.

For the French colonist farmers the war was havoc and horror. In the city rations were cut to the bone, homes were in shambles after weeks of shelling. In farm villages the British burned their homes, killed their animals and forced many of them to seek safety behind the walls of Quebec with its entrenched garrison.

But for the commanders it was a gentleman's war. There were many temporary cease-fires to exchange prisoners and messages.

The French sent champagne to their rivals. The British sent back Bristol beer. Both sides expressed gratitude.

HOT MISSILES

For the French it was a hollow heartiness. Supplies were running low. When British cannon balls—heated white-hot — began smashing into homes and buildings, many inhabitants left for villages upriver and northwest of the city.

"During the first night the town was hit by more than 200 bombs which did considerable damage," wrote one.

The Ursulines convent was struck. "We passed the night before the Blessed Sacrament in such terrors as may be imagined," wrote one sister.

The people of Quebec — aloof French - born aristocrats, merchants, clergy, soldiers and Canada-born settlers—were facing slow starvation. Wolfe, in poor health, decided to end the war before winter gripped New France and ice trapped his ships and his foot soldiers.

"It is my duty to attack the French army," Wolfe told Gen. Robert Monckton, his second-in-command. "If I am mistaken I am sorry for it and must be an-werable to His Majesty and the public for the consequences."

PLANNED WITH CARE

Cautiously, plans were laid. The idea that the British general took some sort of blind, brilliant gamble is not borne out by documents. He and Gen. Monckton to take a small force to L'Anse au Foulon, a cranny cove about two miles upriver from the walled fortress of Quebec, and scale the heights. He told Gen. George Townshend to lead 3,600 soldiers up the cliff if Monckton succeeded in gaining a foothold.

"When 2,000 men now in the fleet are landed," said Wolfe to Townshend, "I have no manner of doubt but that we are able to fight and beat the French army."

Under cover of darkness, the British soldiers scrambled up the grey shale cliff, pulling themselves upward on scraggly bushes and stumps that grew from the rock face. It was cool and a strong wind blew from the southwest.

Dawn broke over Quebec. A small force of French soldiers guarding the cove exchanged fire with the British. Rifle shots were heard in Quebec itself, two miles away.

"First word came from a man who was fleeing," a French settler wrote in his diary. By 5 a.m., the invaders had dispersed French patrols and were fighting on the heights of Quebec.

"The army was called up," another diarist recorded. "General Montcalm with his whole army left their camps at Beauport and marched out to meet him (Wolfe)."

MARCHED TO QUEBEC

It was an eight-mile march to Quebec. The French forces formed up near a ridge, running like a rocky backbone from the city itself.

"Monsieur le Marquis was very surprised when he reached the heights behind the town to see the English army making a formation on the plain," said a French official in a report.

Montcalm strode among the forces, talking to his men, asking if they felt tired after the dawn march. His military advisers and the Marquis de Vaudreuil, governor of the colony, urged caution. They said he was not in a position to attack the British with his small force.

"We cannot avoid a battle," replied Montcalm. "The enemy is digging in a strong camp has two field pieces. If we give them time to settle in we will never be able to attack with the small forces we have."

In the opposing camp, the soldiers were ordered into two lines and told to hold their fire "to make them feel our bullets and bayonets almost at the same time."

A French soldier wrote in his diary:

"Our army started to move, full of ardor but without order."

BRIEF BUT DEADLY

It was mid-morning of a cool autumn day. The French advanced and the British held their fire. They clashed, with bullets thudding into bodies at close quarters. It lasted 19 minutes.

Wolfe was mortally wounded and died almost immediately. Monckton was shot in the body but he lived. As the French forces retreated in disorder the British took up the pursuit.

Montcalm knew the battle was lost. As he prepared to leave the battlefield he was fatally injured.

"This calamity started such a rout and general desertion," wrote Governor Vaudreuil, "no one recognized any authority or listened to any command."

NATIVE-BORN BRAVE

The British advanced on Quebec itself, a fortress on the peak of land overlooking the river. One thousand Canadiens—born in the new land and somewhat scorned by the French aristocrats—put up a brave battle at a gate to the town.

"Third 450 Highlanders were let loose upon them with their broad swords and made terrible havoc among the poor devils," a British captain wrote. "They drove everything before them and walls could not resist . . . the fury of those breechless brave fellows."

Gen. Montcalm was borne back to the walled town, tormented that his army had been hacked to pieces.

"Before he died," recorded a friend, "we convinced him (this) had not been the case." Montcalm died the next day.

A French officer penned in his record:

"Thus finished the famous battle of the 13th in which the enemy admittedly lost more than 600 killed and about 600 injured. Our losses are 500 killed and close to 300 injured."

That night the surviving French soldiers gathered in the garrison or at Beauport. They decided to abandon their supplies and foodstuffs, munitions and artillery, and retreat in the night.

"We started marching," wrote a French soldier, "in deepest silence."

Russian Rocket Hits Moon Minute Late

Called Brilliant Proof Of Russian Technical Skill

Reds Even Call Shot As to Point of Landing

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today hoisted a spectacular backdrop for Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States with the announcement that it has landed man's first rocket on the moon.

Timed on the eve of the Soviet premier's trip, the announcement burst forth in the Soviet press and radio said the 860-pound capsule crashed into the moon's surface at two minutes and 24 seconds after midnight, Moscow time. That was 5:02 p.m. EDT Sunday—only about a minute off by Soviet calculations.

The Russians did not disclose the exact time or site of the rocket launching, but it took off from Siberia early Saturday. Thus the capsule soared 236,160 miles to the moon in something like 35 hours.

LAND SOVIET EMBLEM

The rocket carried pennants bearing the Soviet hammer-and-sickle emblem and an inscription: "Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, September, 1959."

Pass news agency said negotiations had been taken to make sure that the pennants bearing the emblem would remain intact despite the terrific impact of the moon landing.

The shot marked the first time man has lobbed a missile through space to hit a celestial target.

News of the flight was hailed on both sides of the Iron Curtain as a major scientific achievement.

In Jodrell Bank, England, Prof. Alfred Lovell, in charge of the world's biggest radio telescope, termed the moon rocket "a brilliant demonstration of the advanced state of Russian technology."

American scientists congratulated Russia for feat said expressed hope that information gleaned from the rocket would be shared with the world.

But some American politicians had reservations. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon said official proof was still lacking that the Russians really hit the moon.

Pravda, official Communist party newspaper, says the second Soviet space rocket has reached the moon. It was sent on the U.S.S.R. in the highly important mission of peaceful scientific inquiry, in fathoming the mysteries of the universe.

Actually, the "latest remarkable successes of the Soviet Union in the conquest of outer space," the opinion emphasizes the tremendous importance" of Khrushchev's forthcoming visit.

In Moscow, Soviet citizens stood in queues for their radios as step-by-step reports were broadcast of the trail-blazing flight.

Shortly after midnight Moscow radio announcer began counting: "Five, four, three, two, one . . ."

Of the total, $225,000,000 will be offered to the public to cover an approximately equal amount of the maturing bonds held by the public. Investors will have a choice among three types of bond issues and an issue of 233-day treasury bills maturing next June 1.

The rest of the new issue will be sold to the Bank of Canada, which holds about $225,000,000 worth of the maturing bonds.

The new public offering of $225,000,000 in bonds and treasury bills will be offered immediately to investors through investment dealers and chartered banks. Books of the issue will close at 8 p.m. EDT Tuesday night, with Mr. Fleming retaining the option of accepting or rejecting any application in whole or in part.

Rocket to Have No Effect on Moon or Earth

NEW YORK (AP)—An astronomer at Hayden Planetarium says Russia's moon shot will have no important effect on the moon and none whatever on the earth.

The earth's tides, which are controlled by the moon, will not be affected, said Dr. Franklyn Branley. To affect the tides, the impact of such a rocket would have to change the mass of the moon and the speed of revolution, around the earth, he asserted.

But "the Soviet capsule was too small to do that."

What probably occurred when the 3,245-pound rocket struck the instrument load slammed into the moon's surface was "a pretty big rifle shot," Branley said.

"The rocket probably dug beneath a layer of rocks and interplanetary dust right into the moon's solid surface. The cloud of debris wouldn't remain long, though, because the moon has less gravity and no air to the earth and no atmosphere."

Branley said the crash might have left a scar on the moon visible from earth through the most powerful telescopes. But "it is unfortunate that the rocket hit with such speed, because by means there will be no more data from the instruments."

3 PEOPLE KILLED THREE WOUNDED BY MAD GUNMAN

York Twp. Home Given Bloodbath

TORONTO (CP) — A 41-year-old man was charged today with murder in a wild shooting spree at a quiet York Township home Sunday that left three persons dead and three wounded.

Charged is Radislav Djordjevic, a hospital order guard, with most of his face shot away.

Slain were Franz Winter, about 55, and his four-year-old nephew Frankie Schecner, who died at the scene; and Mrs. Anna Winter Djordjevic, estranged wife of the accused man.

Also wounded were Mrs. Anna Schecner, 24, the dead boy's mother, and Mrs. Anne Winter, 59, Djordjevic's mother-in-law.

ELLIOT LAKE BINER

Detectives said Djordjevic has been working as a miner at Elliot Lake in Northern Ontario.

The shooting was reconstructed by police this way:

Several occupants of the house had just returned from a picnic when they noticed a car parked on the street in front of their home.

Franz Winter ran to the car and tried to wrestle a rifle away from the man seated in the front seat. The rifle discharged and Winter fell dead to the sidewalk.

Hearing the shot, Mrs. Winter came out the front door and was shot down, sprawling on the verandah steps. Mrs. Djordjevic ran

MP Says He's Running Cocktail Bar, Challenges RCMP to Charge Him

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP)—A Progressive Conservative member of Parliament and hotel owner wants the RCMP to charge him with liquor violations so that he can bring the "whole mess" of New Brunswick's liquor laws out in the open. The RCMP has not yet taken any action.

"The liquor law in New Brunswick is the height of hypocrisy," J. E. Van Horne, Conservative member for Restigouche-Madawaska, said Sunday. Liquor stores are run by the liquor law by government stores.

Mr. Van Horne, president of Chateau Restigouche Limited said he has been operating a cocktail bar in a hotel here since Aug. 14. If charged,he said he would show in court that other hotels in the province serve liquor or will be forced to.

Terming the province's liquor control a "racket that has to be cleaned up, he said:

"In one village of 1,000 people in my riding there are to my certain knowledge 82 bootleggers. It is the biggest industry in the village. It's got to stop.

"The law encourages drunkenness. Why, do you know that if a man goes to a Chinese restaurant and buys a bottle of liquor, serves with the meal on it, he can pay a $100 fine? It is better to drink it—the fine for drunkenness is only $20."

Mr. Van Horne said he had information that every member of the provincial cabinet wished to see the liquor law changed but that Progressive Conservative Premier Hugh John Flemming is opposed to an amendment.

Mr. Flemming was not available for comment.

Polish People Achieve Much Despite Hardship

WARSAW

After another rather careful customs inspection, we crossed over from Czechoslovakia to Poland. Here we were free to go on our way, so set out for the city of Wroclaw, the former German city of Breslau. You will remember that after the end of the last war, the Poles were given a large section of Eastern Germany. This was to compensate them for all the land which the Russians took from them. There are few, if any, Germans left here, the whole area has been settled by Poles.

You will recall the famous Hungarian Revolution of 1956. The fact is that the impetus for this came from Poland where a revolt against existing conditions started earlier than in Hungary. However, there is a difference between the two. The Poles stopped short of a full revolution and obtained a certain amount of freedom. The Hungarians went all the way and consequently lost everything.

So much for the background. We wondered whether this hard-earned freedom still existed in Poland. We're not long in finding out. The first day we met a Pole who felt free enough to criticize the state, or to open their hearts to us. One thing we learned. They still don't care too much for the Germans but they have no love for the Russian governments. They are fed up completely with the way they have been exploited by Russia and they have not forgotten that when the Marshall Plan Aid was offered to them by the U.S.A. they were forced by Russia to reject it and the exploitation still goes on.

RUINS EVERYWHERE

When we arrived in Wroclaw, we were surprised to see that the city is still more than half in ruins. One would think that the war had been over only several years. There are many areas where; streets are blocked, and only in the centre have any buildings been completed.

Before we left Canada we had to pay for our hotel room and meals in advance. For this we were given a travel voucher, but when we arrived in Wroclaw the people at the hotel didn't seem to know what to do with it. They finally decided to

RASH OF HIGHWAY MISHAPS BOOSTS DEATH TOLL TO 42

Traffic List 30 Half in Ontario

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rash of highway accidents boosted Canada's accidental death toll to 42 during the week-end.

The traffic death toll was 32, half of it in Ontario where two head-on collisions each claimed three lives. There were also eight drownings, one death by fire and three miscellaneous fatalities.

The count includes deaths in traffic, boating and swimming and in fires and other accidents directly connected with weekend activities, from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Two drownings and the deaths of two persons from auto fumes ended the Ontario total to 30, far ahead of the other provinces.

Quebec had 6 deaths, eight by traffic, New Brunswick counted seven, four in traffic and three by drowning, and British Columbia reported five, with two in traffic, two drownings and a fire fatality.

SIX CLEAN SLATES

No accidental deaths were reported in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

The Ontario deaths:

Larry Sweigard of Trenton, drowned Sunday in Bay of Quinte at Trenton when he fell from a motor boat.

Soviet Moon-Shot Feat Viewed With Apprehension in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — From the standpoint of defence, the ability of the Russians to hit the moon with a rocket is regarded here with some apprehension.

One defence official said the moon shot shows that Russia has as extremely accurate guidance system for rockets. This system could be incorporated into intercontinental as well as interplanetary rockets.

The Defence Research Board of Canada is engaged in research into a possible counter - missile system and the first all-Canadian rocket is believed ready for launching at Fort Churchill, Man. It is a solid fuel rocket developed by Canadian scientists and likely will not travel more than 100miles into space.

Scientifically, there was only praise here for the latest Russian venture in space. One official, expressing a personal opinion said, it would be a blessing for U.S. leaders to try to minimize the Soviet effort.

Niagara-On-Lake Pair Blamed For New Abduction

All Freed at Prescott Unhurt But Minus $150

Using the same modus operandi as when a Niagara district couple were abducted last week, two armed men last night kidnapped a Shannonville couple along with three other persons, who were freed unharmed east of Prescott.

Kidnapped at their farm home two miles east of Shannonville, were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Moore, age 65 and 59; Mrs. Moore's mother, Mrs. Hattie Long, age 84; Jack Moore, 80, and the Moore-hired man, Harold Maines, 39. The five were freed on a sideroad 13 miles east of Prescott about 11 o'clock last night, four hours after they were held up at gun point by two young men.

Describing of the two kidnappers indicated that they were the same two men who last week kidnapped a man and wife at Niagara-on-the-Lake, and then allowed them to go near Trenton.

NOW BEING SOUGHT

The two abductors described as being "mild mannered, but firm" are being sought in the Prescott area. With them they have a large quantity of food and clothing taken from the Moore home, and $150 cash, also obtained from the Moore's.

"Never again. I never want to go through that again," stated the still excited Mrs. Moore as she talked to reporters this morning after arriving back home from Prescott.

And the other members of the Moore family echoed her sentiment. as the kidnapping episode started in the Moore dairy barn shortly before seven o'clock last night.

Mr. Jack Moore, Mr. Percy Moore's brother, and the hired man, Harold Maines, were in the barn doing the milking when they were approached by the two armed men. One had a revolver and the other a .32 calibre rifle.

The two kidnappers tied the 80-year-old man to one of the cow stanchions, then allowed the hired man to finish milking the cows, but would not allow the cows to be put into the pasture from the barn.

ALSO TIED UP

Then Mr. Maines was also tied up and the two kidnappers made their way to the Moore house.

I thought it was the men coming in from the barn and asked them why they came into the house with guns in their hands but the guns were merely shamming," stated Mrs. Moore.

In the house at the time were Mr. Percy Moore, who had come home from Shannonville only a few minutes previously and Mrs. Moore's 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Hattie Long.

RANSACKED HOUSE

Once in the house the kidnappers tied Mr. Percy Moore's hands behind his back and then raided the refrigerator and ransacked the house.

"The two men had been hiding out in our barn and told they hadn't eaten for a week," Mr. Moore said. "They took all the eggs in the house and boiled them.

"They knew all about us even what kind of a car I own," Mr. Moore said. "They told me not to follow them or else tie Percy and Jack," she said.

TOOK SUIT OF CLOTHES

The two men ransacked the entire house looking for money and for clothes.

They took a suit belonging to Mr. Jack Moore, also another set of underwear. Three of Mr.

Scientists Spot Dust Cloud as Rocket Lands

VIENNA (AP) — Radio Budapest today said scientists of the Hungarian Observatory in Budapest spotted a dust cloud raised by the moon when the Soviet rocket landed.

The broadcast added that a black ring was visible for more than an hour after radio signals stopped on impact. Hungarian scientists expressed belief this ring was caused by the rocket into the loose surface of sand and rock on the moon.

Find Footsteps Of Missing Man

TIMMINS (CP) — Searchers combing surrounding bush for Jack Baillie, 36, of Timmins, missing since last Wednesday, reported finding the man's footprints.

A trained dog came upon the tracks in several places near Wawatin Falls, 20 miles southwest of here.

An Ogden Township farmer told police today he saw a man armed man who fitted Baillie's description. Baillie is a war veteran.

He was last seen Wednesday night near the Mattagami River and police at first believed he had drowned.

Percy More's shirts were taken, while the men also got away with about $150 in cash.

Mrs. Moore said the $150 in cash was taken from all five persons living in the house.

They said they were taking all five because "it is too much pain

SUBSIDY ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Friday passed, 55 to 30, a bill to authorize a $13,000,000 subsidy program for the construction of commercial fishing vessels in United States shipyards. The Senate bill, supported generally by senators from the west and northeastern coastal states, would provide for the government to pay one-third the difference between foreign and domestic construction costs of new fishing vessels.

Car Hits Subway, Passenger Hurt

TRENTON — Automobile accidents in this area over the weekend injured one and caused damage estimated at well in excess of $1,000.

A rear-end crash Saturday on the Carrying Place Road resulted when a car driven by Nessel Condette, Belleville, hit a Trenton, was backed out of a driveway and was proceeding north when struck by a car driven by Roy Childerhose, Trenton St., Trenton. The car driven by Childerhose started to pass the other vehicle and in the process the right rear fender of the car caught to left rear fender of the car driven by Condette.

Sunday evening a car driven by Joseph Miosewic, 91 Edwin Street, Trenton, struck the south west corner of the subway on Highway 33 and then went across Dundas Street where it struck a railway switch. The car bent this switch over and continued across the tracks, where it came to rest in a clump of bushes.

Frank Abercrombie, a passenger in the car, suffered facial injuries.

A car which went out of control early Sunday morning, demolished a picket fence on Bay Street and then struck the front of a parked car.

Theodore Martin was the driver of the vehicle. Reports state that the car was proceeding north from the town dump on Camobell Street when it struck the fence in front of the home of Arthur Bay. The car went north from there and then swung left, striking the front of a car owned by Harvey Ellis, which was parked facing south in front of 39 Bay Street.

Total damage in this accident was estimated at $850.

SINGLE-INJURY CANCER

Q. Can cancer be caused by injury?

A. Many readers keep asking this question. Continued irritation or repeated tissue injury may lead to cancer but it is doubtful whether a single injury can. Breast cancer may be an exception. (In a study of 329 women with breast cancer, 120 remembered some slight injury before trouble developed.) In most other cases of supposedly single-injury cancer, the growth is usually noticed shortly after the injury. Recent studies suggest that quite a long time elapses between the very first start of the cancerous process and the development of outward signs of trouble. If this proves true, a cancerous growth might smolder along for months before it would become noticeable. Internal cancers might also even longer to develop enough to cause symptoms. So it seems reasonably safe to say that, in general, an injury today isn't followed by cancer tomorrow or next week.

Behind Iron Curtain

give us our money back, and then charge us for a hotel room. We are still not sure whether this was the correct thing to do but at least we didn't lose any money. Rather, the answer to the point was accepted. In our room we found a radio, on which we were able to get the American sender in Europe without any jamming. The Poles are evidently not completely cut off from Western news broadcasts.

There are other signs that the Poles are, indeed, freer than their brethren. As far as I know it is the only one of the satellites where one can buy Western newspapers, or see Western movies. There is also a considerable number of Americans and Canadians of Polish descent who are now visiting their former homeland again.

HAS DIFFICULT TASK

This breath of fresh air in an otherwise drab existence is fine, but it has its dangerous aspects. Gomulka, the Polish Prime Minister, has to steer a very difficult course. He realizes how unpopular the Russians are, and how popular the West is. If he has any illusions, he has only to recall the relatives reserved attitude of the Poles toward Khrushchev during his recent visit, and the wild reception which was given Adenauer.

However, if Gomulka goes too far in relaxing the restrictions which still exist, he runs the risk of bringing the wrath of the Russian armies down around him, and of losing the little freedom which the Poles alone enjoy. That is a step situation in which to find oneself.

Our trip from Wroclaw to Warsaw was unforgettable. We met innumerable people and stopped on the road, and a considerable number of trucks, but they can't. The main highway varied from very wide to very narrow, from modern pavement to bumpy cobblestones. Every time we stopped we drew a small crowd. They were friendly and curious. I wish I could have talked with them. Both Polish and Russian languages are just far enough apart for me to encounter difficulties.

We had come well supplied with Swiss chocolate and chewing gum, which we passed out among the children. Once, after doing so, we had just started off when a little girl ran alongside the car, shouting and begging for me." A friend of ours experienced a similar show of friendliness. He had a flat tire in a small village. Of course in no time at all a group of villagers had grouped round about the car. They took over and refused to let him lift a finger, until they had changed the tire. All this friendliness in spite of the adverse propaganda against the West.

WARSAW INTERESTING

But on to Warsaw. It is a very interesting city — still in the reconstruction stage. In fact it is remarkable what the Poles have achieved, considering the handicap under which they have laboured. The downtown area looks quite smart with one exception.

Right in the centre of the city there has been constructed a huge building — a gift of the Russians to the Poles. It looks like something out of the Buckingham Palace Suite, so ornate and gaudy. It serves to remind the Poles that the Russians are not far away. It is a really impressive thing, but the money might well have been used for other purposes of more value to the people. You may be interested to know what it is called by the workers, "The Nightmare of the Dreadful Mother-in-Law" — an indication of what they think of it.

In Canada there is no difficulty in finding a gas station for they are everywhere. But you should try looking for one in Warsaw, at least one which sells high octane gas. We looked and looked and finally had to enlist the aid of a young English speaking Pole who took us there personally. It was tucked off in a corner, where it was almost impossible to see. We were so short of gas by the time we reached it, that I am sure we drove the last 100 yards on fumes alone.

COMFORTABLE HOTELS

Here, at least for foreigners, the hotels are comfortable, and quite inexpensive. In fact we have had nothing to complain about in both Czechoslovakia and Poland, except that the employees are rather uncertain as to what to do with foreigners. We also found no indication that our movements were tapped, probably not, but one can never be sure.

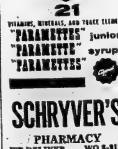
This is just one example of warps here. The average Polish worker earns about as much in one day as an average Canadian in one to two hours. You can imagine how many new clothes he can afford — he has to bumpy cobblestone streets all the time we stopped we drew a small crowd. They were friendly and curious. I wish I could have talked with them. Both Polish and Russian languages are just far enough apart for me to encounter difficulties.

THE ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY — Bat Durette (right) caught this trout, weighing 25¾ pounds, yesterday afternoon about 5.00 o'clock in Dog Lake, about 20 miles from Kingston. The Foxboro barber was assisted in landing the beauty by Gord Gay (left) with an undersized net. The fish, which measures 34 inches in length and 27 inches around its girth, was caught on an eight-pound test monofilament line.

Firemen Put in Busy Weekend

Belleville's firefighters spent an extremely busy weekend. Despite the cool weather things seemed to be pretty hot on the fire department's front.

On Saturday things got underway at 9.17 a.m. with a new dust pile fire at the Airhart Lumber firm on Station Road. This fire was followed by a call to Green's Auto Wreckers on the Halo Sideroad at 9.31 a.m. Here the fire was under control by the Green's employees and fire was allowed to die out.



At 1.05 p.m. there was a grass fire alarm at the end of Pine Street and this was followed by a call to R.R. 8, Belleville, at 4.57 p.m. where an automobile owned by Norman Craig had caught fire. Saturday's activity concluded with a smoker at Wray's Furniture, Front Street, at 7.00 o'clock but this was quickly doused to be due to a nearby chimney, and a hunting bee, or bee hunt, in a tree at 30 Pine St. at 7.20 p.m.

On Sunday a grass fire started off activities at 1.13 p.m. at the property of Stan White on R.R 7, Belleville. At 2.34 p.m. a rubbish pile beside Pinnacle Electric on Pinnacle Street required extinguishing. Sunday's calls ceased after a false alarm to the Hastings County. Home at 4.38 p.m.

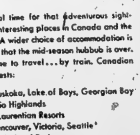
The hostesses were Mrs. K. Putnam and Mrs. R. Ellis.

It could not be said that the tournament conducted by the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday was a bowling success for only eight rinkes rinks showed up to compete for the prizes offered. Belleville club sent up three rinks and one of them, Wilbur Fox, William VanTassel and Walter Elliott as skip, won the three-game high score. A Trenton rink, Steve Way, Al Boyce and Ken Peacock as skip won the two-game high while a rink skipped by W. Nichols of the Rideau Club at Kingston won the one-game high count.



The greens were excellent, the competition keen and the hospitality as usual excellent.

On Wednesday a number of double rinks, five to be exact, will be in Campbellford for the tournament. The members are getting down toward the end of the schedule and a wonderful season has been enjoyed in the district with the bowlers winning many awards, this being especially true of Gordon Watkin and Bruce Miller, who won the Dominion title for doubles.

Study Ways to Increase Domestic Mart for Products

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Studies of ways to increase the domestic market for dairy products are being carried out at the 40th annual meeting of the National Dairy Council of Canada. The council's three-day meeting opened today.

The council feels Canadians should consume more dairy products, especially cheese, although they now are among the largest consumers in the world of such products as butter.

More than 400 delegates are attending the convention.

At one weekend committee meeting a report received from the Harvard School of Dental Medicine in Boston stated that experiments have shown diets comprising milk, chocolate drink, ice cream and cheddar cheese or variations of these dairy foods have resulted in major reductions in the incidence of dental caries.

MILK USE SURVEYED

Another committee heard Dr. L. E. Drayton of the economics division of the federal agriculture department describe fluid milk consumption habits of Canadians. Dr. Drayton said the economic division is embarking on consumer preference studies of dairy foods which will extend over "a considerable period of time."

Although total fluid whole milk consumption had increased by 20 per cent from 1950, he said, "on a per capita basis the consumption of fluid milk products has been surprisingly stable during the last 30 years."

Marmora Home Gutted by Fire

MARMORA (Special): The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. "Dad" Deering on Pearce Street was gutted by fire in the early hours of this morning. The parents of five children were awakened when their two-year old baby started crying from the smoke. The family escaped unharmed but lost all clothes and furniture as the two-year-old new en-room stucco bungalow burned. Mr. Deering are staying with relatives in Marmora.

Let The "Characters" Speak

We were not watching "Live a Borrowed Life" on the CBC television network the other night, and therefore are not qualified to comment extensively on the views expressed thereon by George Rolland, a Toronto watchmaker, other than to say that, from newspaper reports of his remarks, we are confident he should have disagreed with his opinions.

But, while we are not qualified to comment on what Mr. Rolland said, we do feel we are quite qualified to comment on what some people have said about his remarks and the question of the CBC having him on a panel.

Controller William Allen of Toronto has accused the CBC of "sheer stupidity" for permitting Mr. Rolland to appear on the show, but from The Canadian Press report it is evident that Mr. Rolland was not scheduled to speak on racial segregation. The CBC is more sinned against than sinning in this instance.

Even if Mr. Rolland had been supposed to speak on this subject, we are not at all sure that the CBC should be censured. Radical discrimination exists; so do people who believe in it. Even if it is the duty of the CBC to fight racial discrimination, which is a point which might be open to debate, surely good case can be made out for permitting segregationists to air their views. How can discrimination be fought unless we know the opinions and emotions of those who favor it? "Know thine enemy" is excellent advice.

If there is any person with whom we are greatly disappointed in this affair it is Rabbi Abraham J. Feinberg, vice-president of the Canadian Civil Liberties. Rabbi Feinberg, as one might expect, is vigorously opposed to Mr. Rolland's "white supremacy" theories. More power to him for that! But a person who believes in civil liberties should recognize that these liberties involve not only the right to be right but the right to be wrong. Rabbi Feinberg also defends not only the Negro's right to equal treatment, but also Mr. Rolland's right to oppose vocally such equal treatment.

Above all, we are dismayed by Rabbi Feinberg's reference to what he regards as an unhappy tendency in television programming. "In order to amuse and excite people," he says, "panel shows try to import 'characters' into the arena where Canadians would rather listen to for a moment in private conversation." Rabbi Feinberg evidently deplores this policy. We applaud it. Only let the "characters" be genuine, not mouthing outrageous opinions in a hunt for publicity but expressing their sincere beliefs, and we care not what these beliefs may be. Their airing can do the public no harm and, if the good Rabbi is correct in his estimation that the average Canadian would refuse to listen to such views in private conversation, cannot help but do considerable good. We all ought to listen more to all kinds of views, and not just to those in which we concur.

Furthermore, it is precisely this field that television, and to a lesser degree radio, have an unique opportunity to serve the Canadian public. Our Canadian magazines are few—and most of them are stodgy. Our newspapers do not care to hire people who are more interested in presenting unsupported opinion than substantiated facts. Our editorials for the daily press have minds which creep cautiously, groping forward through a litter of conflicting claims, weighing them, questioning what is new and unproven, holding fast to what is familiar until it is proven wrong.

We think that there is much to be said for this type of mind, that indeed, besides being comfortable for its owner to live with, it provides needed stability and safeguards the community against mapy a rash venture. But it is not the type of mind which builds the future. Some minds must break new ground, and must have a medium for presenting these new thoughts before the public. That the scientific mind, for example, moving forward appear to be lagging centuries behind, is beside the point. It is a different mind, and for that very reason should be exposed to the public view.

What makes Rabbi Feinberg's stand against "characters" particularly painful is that he himself has some claim to this designation, having proven on more than one occasion that he is courageous enough to support an unpopular opinion, and that a distinguished predecessor, Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath, was very active a couple of decades ago presenting on radio views which many a Canadian of that time "would not listen to for a moment in private conversation."

JUST FOLKS

WOMAN'S WAY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I dread to have you go away,
I wish you would remain;
Another hour I wish you'd stay,
For parting gives me pain.
I know not just what I have said
Or just what I have done;
The rise act though will be read
When you two folks have gone.

Now all is lovely and serene;
But when you leaves is here
She'll find contents I have
Not to your liking.
Not for your cheer.

The pleasant day that we have spent
Will,
When you depart will fade;
She'll show me where I was no "gent"
And name the breaks I made.

For this is lovely woman's way,
And I am not alone;
You've made some breaks yourself, today,
As soon you will be shown.
My own shortcomings I shall learn
Behing our bolted doors:
And your self wife, when the street you turn,
Will start to give you yours.

Next - - Tobacoless Pipe

New York Times

The visitor entered, wiping his face with a large white linen handkerchief. When he had completed this operation he replaced between his teeth the stem of a black briar pipe the contents of which, unfortunately, were still lit. It was not a day, outdoors, to encourage pipe smoking; it was insufferably hot, and the vagaries of the atmosphere plus the heat of burning tobacco passing through the bowl and stem of the latter itself would have made a highly unpleasant experience for almost anyone other than this visitor, who was, of course, our man from the unlikely point of Bald Bow Prawn, settling himself into a handy chair, and drawing thoughtfully on his pipe as his right hand fished in his coat pocket in his pocket.

Small matter, Mr. Prawn said, after sifting through some kilchen chat and matters of no moment, a small pear, perhaps half a dozen plums, a bit of shrimp and some peanuts in the shell. What he had meant to bring, he said, was a preliminary outline of the introduction of a new brand of cigarette, to be sold in tins, and smoke like any other cigarette but containing vegetable matter instead of tobacco. It appears to be but a short step, said Mr. Prawn, from the production of a tobaccoless mixture for pipe smokers. He peered down thoughtfully at the bowl of his briar, which had been trending feebly forth, small, short puffs, an aroma his tobacconist doubtless would have disclaimed with scorn, if he had been aware. Mr. Pawn continued, had been working outside his pipe and cigaret tobaccos said to contain virtually no nicotine and other undesirable substances to smoke these tobaccos with some success. Now, however, these tobaccoless cigarets and pipe mixtures, Mr. P. declared, were after matter, another matter.

No doubt the makers of the tobaccoless cigaret, said Mr. Prawn, propose to supply those who are openly or secretly concerned that nicotine be removed, without filters, are not necessarily hoch-professionelle. Long practice, however — Mr. P. continued — a sort of Gresham's Law would see to it that smoking which is to say that as bad money drives out good until, if the process continues long enough, there is no money at all, so tobaccoless will drive out all tobacco and smoking will die—perhaps in the course of a few hollows in Tennesee and Kentucky where fashions, fads and tobaccoless are hard about seldom if at all.

The visitor paused, Mr. Prawn, with the possible exception of a certenarian, regards the consumption of tobacco as the major cause of body-building as the drinking of milk. The Lancet, he understood, mined amount of risk, possibly small or possibly not, is involved in the practice of smoking, Mr. P. said, makes smoking, even in moderation, attractive for many people than the year-round munching of jelly beans.

Mr. Prawn said that it seemed likely to him that habitual smokers would curtail or abandon the habit if faced with a choice between puffing ersatz tobaccoless or nothing. For example he said, if someone were to inform him that the bourbon whisky and tasted like it, but had no more effect on the complexion of the liver than water, sales of this product would not long remain spectacular. Man's willingness to poison himself one way or another, Mr. P. said, is beyond her by means of tobacco or vegetable fumes, insecticide residues or products of nuclear fission in air or water, is a very complex and poorly understood business. For example, Mr. P. said, he had several revolvers of Harry Golden's second from side by side and neither of such smiler or scuffed that Mr. Golden's statement that "... Or Country."

Taxpayer In Revolt

Oshawa Times

How far can a taxpayer pull his proverbial leg at a tax office with immunity? OCH Canadian, national reporting authority on tax and business, has a case which might provide some answers to this question.

The case concerns a Winnipeg company which was required by the Dominion Internal Revenue to produce income tax returns on 12 Corporation Tax Return Forms. The head of the company, riled by official procedure, complied with a vengeance. Typical of the taxpayers' comments in the forms submitted were such gems as:

Asked for financial statements and schedules: "none available." Asked for bank balances: "Not known, cannot afford expensive accounting." Asked about reserves as provisions for doubtful debts and liabilities: "no reserves, all debts doubtful, liability unlimited." Finally, asked for the amount of tax payable after deducting tax allowances, he wrote: "cannot afford Gomestic tax, what pay foreign bandouts?"

CCH reports that the company was charged with the offence of failing to file returns. It was fined $200 and costs, or something from $200 to $10,000 in penalties.

The taxpayer won the first round when a magistrate dismissed the charge on the grounds that the form constituted a return. The Crown then appealed to the Manitoba Court of Appeal by way of stated case. The appeal court also went to the taxpayer. The court was confined to the case as stated in the first hearing which were that T2 forms were returned given by the taxpayer company. As a result the court dismissed the appeal on the grounds that a T2 form containing "certain information" constituted an income tax return.

To date the taxpayer appears to have won the skirmish but remains to be seen whether the Department of National Revenue will appeal to higher courts.

Nice to Lose To Good Boat

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

SEPTEMBER 14, 1939

A "pay-as-you-go" policy will be followed as far as practicable in financing Canada's war costs. Revenue Minister Illsley told the House of Commons today when he introduced the war budget. He said the government would insist on the principle of equality of sacrifice on the basis of the ability to pay," believing every citizen should be ready to share the cost of war.

The Minister observed that while Canada enters this war with a heavy peace-time deficit, it has a greatly improved banking system and enormous unused resources. It was a tribute to this improved financial structure, that compared with the catastrophical events of the first weeks of the 1914, there had been in this war no closing of the stock exchanges and no strain on financial institutions.

Miss Frances Hendy has returned to her home in Campbellford after spending the past week the guest of Miss Patricia Rennick.

Miss Lois E. Gorman, who has been home on vacation, has returned to resume her duties as nurse-in-training at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

Ald. George A. Reid received a telegram call today from Mr. Bridle, Ireland, announcing him that word of the Ontario Government will take over the Bay Bridge and Adan Jamaury 1st this year. Belleville is to pay the remainder up to that time, but is relieved of any cost, either adding or maintaining same. This means that the bridge, which has been a annual nuisance costs which the city had expected to pay, has been assumed by the Ontario Government as at January 1st this year. Ald. Reid, chairman of public works, is greatly pleased at the news and of the strenuous efforts of the city to be relieved of this charge. The whole work on the bridge it is expected will cost about $150,000 and Belleville's share was approximately $50,000. The decision of the Ontario Government means that Belleville has been relieved of about $50,000 of the cost.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COMFORTING PEOPLE

I believe that every one of us has certain people to whom we turn, time and again — just to be comforted and eased in our journey through life. A pat on the back, a kind word, a hand, and the smile of assurance exit present. People who go around from day to day just hunting people to comfort—what a human gentle he have a friend. One perhaps, who is ever ready to give comfort and to accept it in an emergency.

A gentle smile travels fast when inspired. What a comfort in sorrow, and when ill. There are those who give without asking, with courage spicely, and who are patient when discourged and full of forbearance. Most of us have a special friend to whom we turn when most alone. Someone to light the path ahead.

I recall a remarkable woman in Iowa, a beggar, who was never so happy as when "the learned of someone in trouble She spoke family her God-given smile of good cheer, and that helping hand. I shall never forget that human angel of mercy and good will. Such people always appear when most needed. When a war is on these people are already ready to answer the isolated station in advance. I had a mother like that and I know there are millions of her the world as kindly competent.

There is an inspiring line in the Bible about Christ. It says, "He went about doing good." Why can't we earn such a line? That in itself is success. And, more than anything else, forgiveness, which we should always be ready and near enough, so that we may be the call for the opportunity to serve someone else.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHOSE FAULT?

Years ago I saw him lift his clenched fist and declare that nothing in the world could ever get him down. Physically he was convinced he was stronger than the biggest man that walked the streets. He always averred that people were out to get him, to keep him from his rightful prominence. He never trusted any of his friends. And he wouldn't take it — no, he wouldn't take it.

He is broken now. He no longer raises a clenched first. He shuffles about and is glad merely to live. But his defeats and reverses in life have changed him but little. It was still the fault of someone else that he never made any progress. If he had just had a chance, he could have beaten all opposition down and come to triumph — had someone, he never had the chance. The meek all about him inherited the earth while he, the aggressive one, went on to get the big positions. He neighbors were his neighbors only because they lived next door — they never dropped in to see him and comfort him.

Let us face the fact that most of the disaster which blights our lives is self-induced. No individual nor any collection of individuals ever ever triumph over life in the way this fellow planned to win it.

Life throws up road blocks against people who think that they can't have it their way. They

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

A LITTLE CARE MIGHT HELP YOUR BACK TROUBLE

Do you know that the way you settle down in your car can have a distinct effect on whether or not your posture causes your back to hurt?

Although adjustable automobile seats are a blessing — if you use them properly — many of us, whether too tall, too fat or too cranky, push the seat back to make it easy for us to get in, but don't bother to pull it forward again after driving.

What's the difference? For some of us — there isn't any. But for others extra support of the back, while sitting, is the difference between aching back and comfortable back. For many a cushion helps enough. For others, drawing the seat forward helps, or, perhaps, pushing the hips back against the seat back is supported and the spine carries the weight vertically instead of aslant or curved.

Letting the back sag at night can make it tired or stiff and worn out mattress is no economy. Or, if the mattress is all right except for one spot, a bed board (a sheet of plywood or the like) under the mattress between it and the springs will stiffen it up to your benefit.

Lifting can cause muscle strain or tire the back muscles. Learning forward bending is important or some of us. Most certainly lifting heavy weights with the back bent is dangerous. Bend at the let your leg muscle do the lifting) is asking for trouble.

Flat feet have robbed as many aching backs as they have caused aching feet, I dare say. At any rate, more than is commonly supposed. Being overweight imposes not only the strain of the weight itself, but it throws the body line out of balance and

As we grow older, some of us suffer from osteoporosis, or fear of the bones in the spine. An overgrowth or "lipping" of the bones at the edges can pinch a nerve root and cause pain. There's not much to be done about this except to use a brace or corset for support, and to avoid heavy lifting or jarring exercise. Eventually this pain subsides.

Osteoporosis (porous tendency in the bone) may bother some women after menopause. Hormones and high protein diet provide relief). Diseases of the pelvic organs may be notorious for causing back pain.

In men, inflammation or enlargement of the prostate gland is an offender. And in both sexes kidney stones and infections as well as colon diseases can cause backache.

I must emphasize that the "lumbago" (type of back pain — usually in the lower back) commonly attributed to rheumatism is — is most common. Such a back should not be treated with liniments, gradual bending, twisting and squirming exercises are the best way to get rid of muscle spasm and improve posture.

In some severe cases, a week or 10 days of heat, rest and avoidance of undue strains may be needed.

But there is no substance for "rheumatism" in backache. If you need be, to find the real causes of the trouble. And the rarer ones are sometimes surprising.

The worst "industrial" back I ever say wasn't that at all — it turned out to be, of all things, trichinosis, resulting from eating pork that hadn't been adequately cooked.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please comment on daily exercise. Should they be taken under a doctor's supervision?" — Mrs. A. "Absolutely not. It is difficult to imagine a condition which would result in daily exercise, and the enema habit" can do just about what the laxative habit does. Get your bowel habits so distorted that it takes heroic measures to get you back to normal again.

A.P.S.: No, I don't thing massage of the feet can treat headache "in any part of the body." Germs in the throat? An itch on the scalp? Diarrhea in a baby? Smallpox Perforated ulcers? No, ma'am, I'm much upset by these extravagant theories.

Bed wetting can be conquered. To learn how, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Building, Chicago 11, Ill., Dundee, Illinois, requesting a copy of "Bedwetting — Causes and Ways To Stop Bed Wetting," and enclosing a large, self - addressed, stamped envelope and 50c in coin to cover handling.

Blackbirds Taste Good

Vancouver Sun

"Four - and - twenty blackbirds baked in a pie, . . . Wasn't that a lovely dish to set before a king? This is from the old nursery rhyme.

Sounds a bit silly, of course, in this day of deep-frozen turkey pies. But people in the old centuries of Europe in Prairie feel a little nostalgic. Perhaps they're quite ready for a resurrection of blackbird pie, a delicacy of our great-grandfathers — they're having free ammunition for a mass blackbird shoot.

Of course, they give the unromantic excuse that the district "is suffering the worst blackbird invasion of its crops" in years. But who knows what realities lie in the mind of a city father?

In great-grandad's time in the Old Country there were such gastronomic delights as field sparrow pie, rook pie, wood pigeon pie, moorhen-and-bacon pie, not to mention partridge pie. And even the lark — until the Songbirds, Killing of, Act, prevented it — was the mainstay of the lark and so saved his setting song for Englishmen and poets.

So is it now with the English blackbird — or so they say from the kitchen.

Well, the prairie blackbird, almost sing with the mellow, deep-throated notes of his English best way to do away with bush in the purple of a summer's day. It may be as well to destroy him as a pest.

But we who have eaten grilled blackbird, as many years ago . . . drawn from beneath a cranberry bog, roasted, washed down with wine, have also the men of Manitoba will try a pie or two if only as an experiment.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To pick up some important papers that had inadvertently been left at the summer cottage when we came away, I once had to return to the bright scene of the summer holidays to pick them up. What a shocking transformation! Labor had taken its thousands and thousands of square miles of the face of Canada. Not a single one of those familiar panoramas was open. Not one had had a boat at it. Every sand beech had a forbidding look to it, bare, hard and barren.

A closed cottage wears a curiously forbidding appearance. It seems to crouch, where, a month ago, it stuck out its chest. Some is shuttered and boarded up. Some

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Although not too many competed in the greased pig race at the Shannonville Fair, the quality of the competition was keen. Above the pig seems to have several snouts' lead over its nearest rival. The race sort of ended from the spectators' point of view when the pig took to the hills away from the fair grounds. It was later recovered, however.

Shannonville 'World Fair' Reflects Life of Community In Best Show of History

Fair time is fun time — fun for the whole family.

And the 103rd edition of the Shannonville "World Fair" was no exception as hundreds of men, women and children from all over the district, including Belleville, Napanee, and Trenton flocked to the Shannonville fairgrounds for the two-day event.

There was something to interest everyone — livestock and poultry exhibits for the men; cooking, sewing and floral exhibits for the women; rides, games and concessions for the kiddies; sports and novelty contests for everyone and harness, carriage and pony races for the racing enthusiasts.

The weatherman also co-operated to help make the fair a big success, providing warm sun tempered by cooling breezes on Saturday, the closing day of the annual event.

Fair treasurer Sid Fitzgerald, a past president and member of the provincial fair board for the past nine years, termed this year's fair "one of the best ever held here."

"Among class C fairs, you don't find too many better," he said, adding there was even a bigger prize list this year.

A colorful school parade opened Saturday's activities, led by the Frankford Kiltie Band. Forming up outside the grounds, it marched down the track and past the judges' stand, S.S. No. 4, with Mrs. Helen McLaren the teacher, won the top prize, while S.S. 1, with Mr. Wells and Mrs. Weese the teachers, and S.S. 14, with Mrs. Jeffery as teacher, copped second and third places respectively.

Games, concessions and rides provided by the Happiland Shows, took the dimes, nickles and quarters of the youngsters, while their appetites were appeased at the refreshment booths and at the tent set up by the Shannonville Home and School Association which served dinners and lunches.

Keenly examples of needlework and mouth-watering home baking, beautiful displays of and displays of farm and garden produce, were on view at the agricultural building. Moon Rocket Serves to Add To Prestige of Khrushchev

By HAROLD MORRISON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Nikita Khrushchev arrives on his history-making United States tour Tuesday, his bargaining position sharply enhanced by a spectacular display of Soviet scientific strength in the first successful firing by man of a rocket to the moon.

Undoubtedly timed to add to Khrushchev's prestige, the 860-pound space capsule hit the moon just 45 hours before the Khrushchev family was due to land at nearby Andrews air force base.

President Eisenhower summoned his top foreign policy advisers to the White House today to check over final plans for his talks.

This new "first" for Soviet science in the space race seemed certain to get some attention in Eisenhower's meeting with State Secretary Christian A. Herter and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon on plans and preparations for the visit.

GOOD PROPAGANDA

The moon shot widened Russia's lead over the U.S. in this field in a manner millions of persons around the world can readily understand. In the East - West propaganda war, Khrushchev appears to have scored a point before his arrival.

But that spot net lessen some of the opposition stirred up by the visit. The American Council of Christian Churches and East European refugee groups have sponsored a huge protest rally for tonight, "to give dissent to Khrushchev's visit and to mourn all those who have died behind the Iron Curtain."

So concerned are U.S. officials of possible threats to Khrushchev's life that he will be surrounded by the tightest security precautions ever taken for a foreign visitor.

15,000 AGENTS ON GUARD

Every main street route will be sealed along the 13-mile parade route from the airfield to Blair House, the presidential guest house alongside the White House. Secret and U.S. agents will be at Khrushchev's side everywhere he goes. Some 15,000 agents, military men and local police will guard streets during the 13-day cross-country tour.

The state department let out one word in advance not to expect "miracles" from the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

Assistant State Secretary Francis O. Wilcox Sunday held out only hope of "slight progress," saying that "we ought not to look for any miracles."

Tommy is saving up for a bike. Dollar by dollar, week by week, his bank account is growing... bringing the Big Day nearer.

But meanwhile, Tommy's dollars are serving a second useful purpose.

Bank credit is based on the dollars Canadians keep in 11 million deposit accounts in the chartered banks—and Tommy's account is one of them. Bank loans are constantly being made to meet the needs of business and personal borrowers in all parts of Canada.

So every time you make a deposit you are—like Tommy—building toward something worthwhile for yourself, and at the same time keeping your dollars at work for the benefit of all.

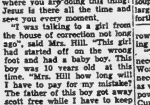
W.A. Hears Fine Talk on 'Co-operation'

JOHNSTOWN — The W.A. of Johnstown held their yearly WMS meeting on the afternoon of September 4 at the home of Mrs. Earl Stickle with a fine attendance.

Mrs. C. J. Brunt, the president, welcomed the guests and members and thanked the hostess and opened the service which was followed by a business session.

Mrs. E. Clapp read a poem called, "The Triumphant Scene". Mrs. G. A. Puttenham gave the Scripture reading found in Matt. 16-20, and in Acts 1-16. A lovely solo was sung by Mrs. Clayton Curtis, called, 'Tell it Again'.

Mrs. Clapp introduced the speaker, Mrs. Ralph Hill, of York Rd., Trenton, who spoke on "Working Together" in the W.A. and W.M.S. societies. Some seemed to think it was impossible to amalgamate the two but it is to be tried, and money will be raised by the duplex envelopes.



The speaker said she had gone through the Bible to find the many times Jesus had talked of working together. He is a co-operative effort, we are workers together with God. "Ye are not your own, ye have been bought with a price. Are we laborers or sleepers waiting for the bridegroom?

We should keep our lights burning always or our church may disintegrate."

Mrs. Hill stated she had been asked so many times by church members, "Is it right for a Christian to play cards or dance?" Shut your eyes for a moment and think, would you keep on playing cards or dancing or anything else you wish to do, if you saw Jesus come into the room where you are doing this thing? Jesus is there all the time and sees you every moment.

"I was talking to a girl from the house of correction not long ago", said Mrs. Hill. "This girl had started off on the wrong foot and had a baby boy. This boy was 10 years old at this time. "Mrs. Hill how long now I have to pay for my mistake? The father of this boy got away scott free while I have to keep on paying."

"My dear", replied Mrs. Hill "you have paid your debt to God a long time ago. It is the nar-

GOOD MANNERS

CALLS TO WELCOME NEWCOMERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you move into a new neighborhood, is it correct for your neighbors first, or are they supposed to visit you first? I have always understood that your neighbors make the first visit, but I want to be sure, as a matter of fact, I've never been inclined to go call on my neighbors very much at any time. — M. C.

In busy suburban and country communities today (but not in cliffdwelling cities) it is often the friendly custom for members of the community to make a "neighborly" call as a newcomer to welcome her and her family to the community. This is not a "must" call, but, if it is made, the newcomer should of course graciously return the call within a week or two. Then the neighborhood relationship, like any other social relationship, may or may not be continued, according to the precepts of every gentleman or lady.

A PLACE SETTING OF SILVER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me what pieces of flat silver are included in a place setting? Thank you. — Bride-to-be

A Place Setting consists of a knife and fork (usually medium-size, appropriate for use at breakfast, luncheon, and dinner); salad fork (which can also be used for some kinds of dessert); individual butter knife (the commercial name for this is "butter spreader"); teaspoon; dessert spoon (the spoon-of-many-uses for some desserts for cereals, for soups served in soup plates or in large cream-soup bowls, and so forth).

townminded people who are making you pay."

"The Woman's Association is a necessary part of the church and Woman's Missionary Society is necessary for people to live and as well as those in ignorance and poverty in far away lands. Mrs. Brunt lived in Africa for 25 years, teaching the natives to know things and healing their souls at the same time. The people were scared of everything when he first went there. They wouldn't go near a sick person, they were left to die. We should not think of just our own church but of the whole world.

"We are a part of a great masterpiece, as it were, through the W.A. We are playing the white keys of an organ, and through the W.M.S. we are playing the black keys. Learn to play them together, for God has no hands but our hands to do His work, for Him."

Mrs. R. Bush and Mrs. Brunt thanked Mrs. Hill for her fine address and for taking her valuable time to come and speak to the W.A.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and one lawyer. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. J. A. — She shouldn't let jitters get the better of her.

Isabel A. — I suddenly feel unsure of everything.

Mrs. . A. — My husband and I are terribly upset about our 23-year-old daughter, Isabel. She is undoubtedly one of the finest young men in the world, yet she has suddenly started to behave fast and procrastinate.

Jim is tall and handsome — looks a lot like Rock Hudson. The girls are mad about him and plenty of them started absolutely green with envy when he and Isabel were engaged. On top of that, he is the only son of one of the most successful businessmen in our community. On top it all he is a real gentleman in every way.

When we started making wedding plans Isabel got the jitters. I feel this is natural, but she shouldn't let them get the better of her. Sometimes I'm a little worried about her.

Isabel A. — I know that everyone is looking at me as if I were crazy or something. I have no complexes and I'm not afraid of sex — if that's what they're thinking. I just suddenly feel unsure about everything.

It's true that Jim is all my mother says and I am very proud that he picked me out of the many girls who were interested in him. When he first showed he was serious, I was in such a whirl of excitement I hardly knew what hit me. Then I started to dislike trivial things I didn't like. It may sound silly, but certain expressions and mannerisms of his annoy me.

Frankly, when Jim kisses me I no bells ring. I don't know if I'm being overly romantic, but I'd like to hear them.

The Council: We don't think Isabel is overly romantic or silly. We do think a girl about to be married should hear bells and should, on the whole, feel drawn toward her fiance's mannerisms and expressions.

These things aren't trivial. Mannerisms aren't accidental. They express something of the inner man. That particular something may be the very thing that sets up an antagonistic vibration in Isabel. The safe "something" may attract another women.

We don't think a suitor must be perfect all along on the basis of such mannerisms, but due heed should be paid to such warning signals. Isabel obviously needs more time to think things through very slowly. Perhaps this quality is something she feels she cannot live with, or it may well be something she can manage to overlook in view of the young man's many assets.

In any case, Isabel should be encouraged to keep her eyes wide open. She should not be pressured by the kind of din her mother has set up. All that super salesmanship is designed to show off even the more subtle, yet very strong promptings of mind and heart.

Mrs. A. evidently must be reminded that in marriage the "giving" is how one partner feels about the other, not what each is to the public at large. A woman with a real capacity for wifely love will not take a man simply because others think he's a "good catch."

It is our impression that Isabel is growing, although this relationship from a superficial girl flouting on her bubble of good luck and popularity to a woman with the courage to accept her own decisions and her own needs. We think she should be left alone to handle the fears she wants to discuss things further with someone capable of taking a larger, more objective point of view than her mother has.

More And More Pickles

by Mary Moore

The pickers are breathing down my neck. Regardless of the number of pickling recipes I give you seem to be insatiable. But I like it, as there are more to fill your requests.

CRUNCHY SWEET-SOUR PICKLES:

14 9" cucumbers, boiling water, 4 cups vinegar, 4 pounds sugar, 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spice, 2 tablespoons salt.

Wash cucumbers thoroughly. Cover with boiling water, let stand 24 hours, drain. Again cover with boiling water and let stand another 24 hours. Repeat for another 2 days. The fifth day slice cucumbers about 1-3" thick. Boil vinegar and remaining ingredients for 5 minutes. Pour hot over pickle slices and let stand 24 hours. Drain off syrup, reheat to boiling and again pour over slices. Let stand another 24 hours. Repeat twice more. On the final send lenth day, drain, heat syrup to boiling, add cucumber slices, bring only to boiling. Pack in sterilized sealers. Yield: about 6 1-2 pints.

1000-ISLAND PICKLE

NOTE 1:

This recipe is for Irene S. and appeared here in September of '57.

NOTE 2:

Constance S. asks for "the delicious sweet cucumber relish that appeared here about 7 years ago". I think this answers Constance S. too.

6 large cucumbers, 1 large cauliflower, 12 large onions, 2 green peppers, 2 red peppers, sweet, 1-2 cup salt.

Peel cucumbers. Put all vegetables through food chopper. Add salt and 2 cups water. Let stand 1 hour, then drain well.

DRESSING:

1 tablespoon celery seed, 3-4 cup flour, 6 tablespoons dry mustard, 1 tablespoon mustard seed, 1 tablespoon turmeric, 6 cups white sugar, 8 cups mild vinegar.

Add drained vegetables and cook 10 minutes. Pack in sterilized jars.

FRUIT CHILI SAUCE:

12 large or 16 medium ripe tomatoes, 2 cups coarsely chopped peaches, 1 cup coarsely chopped apples, 1 cup chopped onion, 1 cup chopped sweet red pepper, 1 tablespoon hot pepper, 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 1 1-2 cups vinegar, 1 1-4 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 1-4 cup whole mixed pickling spice.

Blanch and peel tomatoes, then cut into pieces. Peel peaches, etc. Do no peel pears or apples. Put three fruits through food chopper, using medium to fine blade. Combine vegetables, fruits, vinegar, sugar, salt and spices tied loosely in a cheese cloth bag. Bring to boil and cook until thick, 40 to 50 minutes. Remove spice bag. Pour into hot sterilized sealers and seal immediately. Yield: about 8 cups.

Fishing Rodeos and Tournaments

More and more each year the tendency seems to be to institute fishing tournaments and "rodeos," in a great many of these events the prizes are quite substantial, the totals running into thousands of dollars in cash, not to mention such things as fishing tackle, a trip to the Argentine or Brazil, automobiles, inboard motors, boats, etc.

The majority of these tournaments are staged as advertising or promotional ventures by large companies or corporations whose products would be of interest to fishermen. The basic idea becomes more popular each year,

Perhaps the most popular fishing tournament in the nation is The Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament in which hundreds of thousands of anglers compete annually. Time was when very substantial prizes were given out in this event. More recently the committee has decided that, in the best interests of sportsmanship, substantial prizes (such as automobiles, boats, motors, etc.) be discontinued. Now if you win a first place in that tournament, you receive a handsome wall plaque or, possibly, a loving cup.

Well, tournaments may be all right for grown-up anglers but, for my own part, I don't care for the ones in which cash and valuable presents are given as prizes. I happen to know some of the judges who decide on the validity (or otherwise) of the entries and the skulduggery to which some of the aspirants stoop passes all understanding. In other words, what some people will do for a quick and easy buck makes you lose much faith in human nature.

All right, if grown-up people behave that way in tournaments, using every known subterfuge to move them to the top of the prize list, what will children do when subjected to the same temptations? Children's rodeos are rapidly increasing in number. Well, all you need for the answer to that one is to watch one of these events.

Kids are not as obscure in their reactions as are adults. You can spot very easily the youngsters who are out for the top money. These, usually the larger ones, shove the rest fry out of the way in order to avail themselves of choice locations. Small but decisive arguments ensue, and resentments are built up. Sportsmanship becomes merely a word in the dictionary.

The whole business is contrary to the basic principles of angling and is contrary to the teachings of Izaak Walton, Charles Cotton, Henry Van Dyke, et al, who held angling to be a contemplative sport, gentle and soothing to the nerves.

Tournaments teach none of this to the young. Instead, acquisitiveness is encouraged rather than being restrained. It seems too bad that angling, which, properly done, can be such a relaxing and delightful pastime, should degenerate into a free-for-all, no-holds-barred affair that some tournaments make of it, purely because some company or corporation wishes to sell more of its product.

Every gunner who takes the field, shotgun in hand, to indulge himself in his annual spree of wing shooting, knows how easy it is to miss a quartering bird. You can miss such a bird for one or both of two reasons either to fail to lead the bird enough or you drop your swing as you squeeze the trigger. The result is that each season countless hundreds of pounds of lead shot pellets pass harmlessly behind the flight skills of quartering game birds.

To give you some idea of the flight speeds of some of the unprotected game birds, here are flight speeds as recorded by careful observers who checked them, mostly, with automobile speedometers. Here they are—

"Dove and plover, 34 miles per hour; curlew, 32 m.p.h.; quail, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, jack-snipe, mallard, black duck, spoonbill, pintail, wood duck, ring-neck pheasant, 41 m.p.h.; swan, 45 m.p.h.; Canada goose and brant, 46 m.p.h.; greenwinged teal, 79 m.p.h.; redhead, 52 m.p.h.; blue-winged teal, 53 m.p.h.; and canvasback, 64 m.p.h."

Years ago we used to read of daredevils who went over Niagara Falls in a barrel. Now we learn that daredevilry is not confined to humans.

Word comes from the Pennsylvania Fish Commission about a rainbow trout whose urge to wander evidently passed the boundary of good sense. Last April 11th, 2000 rainbow trout, all of them tagged, were planted by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission in 20-mile Creek, near the New York State line. On July 18th, Mr. Jerry Hesil, of Niagara Falls, while fishing the lower Niagara River, trail below the falls, caught a 16-inch rainbow with a tag in his fin. Investigation disclosed that the trout was one of the stocking in 20-mile Creek.

Olmstead Joins Maple Leafs

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) — Winger Bert Olmstead reported to Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp Sunday, the final member of last season's National Hockey League club to arrive.

Olmstead, apparently a contract holdout, arrived without comment. Manager-coach George Imlach said Saturday that he and Olmstead were in agreement on all points and "everything should pan out okay."

The veteran forward joined Leafs last season from Montreal Canadiens and was a big help in their late-season drive to reach the playoffs.

The first scrimmage was held Sunday with Leafs and Rochester Red Wings, Leafs' chief American Hockey League farm club, playing to a 4-4 tie. The two teams exchanged several players for the practice game.

Dick Duff and Gino Ubriaco, former Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., senior, each scored twice. Single goals went to George Armstrong, Gerry Ehman, Larry Regan and Gary Edmundson.

The injury list at the camp is growing steadily. Gary Collins has joined Rudy Migay in hospital with an infected instep.

Allan Stanley has a sore back and infected tonsil while Henry Marczak is sidelined with back pains.

Goalie Johnny Bower and Roger Cote, a defenceman with Toronto Marlboro juniors last season, arrived Saturday.

By Gil H. Carver, Sports Editor

Chief Tabby Bob Temple of Belleville Bobcats ordered his Cats to sheathe their claws, purred happily and suddenly realized that he is but two victories away from an Ontario softball "AA" title.

Joe Lada's his Bengals from the banks of the Mohawk proved to a Toronto East York bevy of blasters that their first big victory was no flash in the pan. They backed up Lefty Bobby Greene's fine seven-hit mound chore with some timely blasting led by the bludgeon of "Wiener" Brown and trotted home with a two-straight series to qualify for the Ontario finals against Owen Sound or Niagara Falls.

And Marse Robert might be hoist to his own prognostic petard. Last spring in a facetious moment he told this reporter that if the Cats won the title, the man judged most valuable to the team was the sponsor," he mused.

Now no manager-sponsor of any championship team should jaunt to Europe without a public relations guy hanging around. And we know just such a fellow. Besides, while over there last spring we picked up a smattering of Viennese, which could help, perhaps.

But Ole Lady Luck turned not so winsome a countenance on Temple's juvenile Bobcats who were shaded 7-6 in a close tussle with Oshawa in their first "A" playdown game. Frankie Cris' kids had a three-run lead at one stage of the game but couldn't stand prosperity. Oshawa picked up and went three runs up. The Bobbittens tried valiantly, scoring two runs in their half of the ninth but it was too little and too late and the Juves went down to a close defeat. The teams meet again Wednesday night in Oshawa.

At the Fair Grounds Saturday we saw a fine young team fall apart at the seams when Newcastle swamped Gananoque 20-0 in what was a comedy of errors. Bob Osborne, the Newcastle southpaw, tossed a one-hitter while his mates pounded out 16 hits. Sixteen of the runs were unearned as the Gan kids tossed the ball around for a dozen errors. Previously the teams split 4-3 and 3-2 verdicts.

Perhaps the highlight of the weekend sports activities was the sensational ninth-inning comeback of the Lloyd's Cleaners janiors to snatch a 7-6 victory out of almost certain defeat from the Oshawa younkers. Bert Noakes' crew was trailing 6-3 going into the bottom of the ninth when their bats suddenly came to life and while a packed bleachers sat in delighted amazement, rattled off five hits to score four runs and win the game.

Gary Goyer, one of the city's better all-round youthful athletes, poked out the game-winning single that brought a roar from the crowd and a flush of happiness to the erstwhile sorrowful countenance of "Lefty" Noakes.

Meanwhile the Fair Grounds hooked like the old days when the Grand Trunks were battling the Hiltzeits. It was a big day for the Latta fans for their team defeated Read 7-5 in the seventh-game thriller of the South Hastings Baseball League championship series.

It was estimated over 2,000 fans, mostly from Latta and Read saw the battle. The grandstand was filled. So were the bleachers. It was a perfect baseball day with a warm sun tempered by a coolish breeze.

It was a great game and a fitting climax to a great series. Both Latta and Read are to be commended on a fine brand of baseball with the former proving fine champions and Read an outstanding runner-up squad.

Up in Willowdale Lee Culhane's gallant Booth TV bantam softballers dropped a 3-2 squeaker to the city squad. However, the youngsters are not downhearted. They are more or less accustomed to dropping the first game of playoff series over a period of years. It is winning the third game that counts. They will be in there battling next Saturday when the second game is played here. They have proved time and again that while they might be down, they are never out until the last game is over.

Indians Ready For Embalmers; Giants Bounce Back

Drop Twin Bill to Yankees As Chisox Clobber Boston; Braves, 'Bums' 2 Games Back

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

On July 16, 1957, Billy Goodman hit a home run. Two years and nearly two months went by—exactly 254 games—before he hit another.

The homer Goodman hit two years ago with a man on base and enabled Baltimore to beat Chicago, The score was 3-1. The homer Goodman hit Sunday also came with a man on base. This one brought his 10th victory and enabled the White Sox to beat Boston, The score? 3-1.

Billy's surprise blow, only his 18th in 12 big league seasons, probably was the most important hit he ever made. It enabled the White Sox to widen their first place lead to three games over Cleveland and all but mathematically eliminate the Indians from pennant contention.

Y-NOS WIN PAIR

The Indians lost a game and a half to the White Sox as they dropped both ends of a doubleheader to New York, 7-1 and 3-0, Chicago's magic number now is six. Washington moved into third place as Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Baltimore 9 - 5 and 4-1.

In Saturday's action, both Cleveland and Chicago won with veteran Early Wynn being the first American League hurler to reach the 15-victory mark this year as the White Sox rank Baltimore fourth.

The Indians belted three pitching by Gary Bell, defeated Washington starters 7-0 Detroit Tigers blanked New York 4-0 and Boston Red Sox defeated Kansas City Athletics 4-2.

LOSE HARD ONES

Well-pitched games Sunday by Cleveland's Cal Mc Lish Harshman and righthander Jim Perry went the route, Harshman going through 10 scoreless innings with Bob Turley of New York. After Turley had left for a pinch-hitter, the Indians appeared to have picked up the winning run in the top of the 11th.

Tito Francona literally knocked Ryne Duren off the box with a line single off the relief pitcher's ankle. Duren had to be carried off the field. Gary Blaylock took over and gave up singles to Rocky Colavito, Russ Nixon and Woodie Held, Francona scored on Held's hit but Colavito was thrown out at the plate. Ell Grba stopped the rally.

Perry Kuhel singled to open the Yankee 11th. Mickey Mantle who had been jammed twice by Harshman, then smashed a home run into the left field bleachers.

MARAVICH'S FEAT

Duke Maas took a pitching duel from Perry in the second game, permitting six hits for his 13th triumph.

Jim Lemon's first home run ignited a four-run rally in the eighth that enabled Washington to snap a 11 tie and beat Jim Bunning. Hal Woodeshick posted his second victory in relief.

Roger Maris' two - run single with the bases loaded featured a five-run 10th inning—enabling the Athletics to snap a 4-4 tie in the opener with Baltimore. Bud Daley, after five straight failures, finally won his 16th for the Athletics in the nightcap.

WINS QUEBEC TITLE

MONTREAL (CP) — Jules Huot of Laval-Sur-le-Lac won the Quebec golf match play championship at suburban Lasalle Sunday with a 5 and 4 victory over Bob Dean of Cornwall.

For the fifth time since San Francisco Giants moved from Milwaukee into first place a little over two months ago, they are prepared ready for the second ouch. And for the fifth time the issue back Sunday to win a big one.

Their once four-game lead reduced to a mere half-game, the Giants had only to lose to Philadelphia Saturday to set the stage for a three-way tie for first place, provided Milwaukee won. The Dodgers were idle.

The Giants bounced back with a 9-1 victory Saturday and a 1-0 Sunday over the Phillies to boost their first-place margin to two games over the Dodgers who bowed 4-3 to Pittsburgh, and the Braves, who were beaten 13-5 by Cincinnati. In the other Sunday game, Chicago shut out St Louis 8-0.

It was July 9 that the Giants grabbed the lead, which they inherited in three-game over Los Angeles and four over Milwaukee 10 days later. Four times since the Giants lead was trimmed to half a game—on two other occasion, for just one game—once by half a game to Los Angeles and another time by one percentage point to the Braves.

BRAVES WIN SATURDAY

In the other game Saturday Milwaukee posted its seventh straight triumph, edging Cincinnati Reds 4-3 with Bob Buhl's two - run homer in the eighth giving Lew Burdette his 17th victory if the season.

Jack Sanford pitched the Giant victory Sunday, handing the Phillies to five hits. But he received help from Mike McCormick in the ninth.

The lone run, off loser Don Cardwell, came in the second and was driven in by Bob Skinner. Dusty Rhodes' with a sacrifice fly. The stage was set for Dusty's heroics when Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland singled and Hobie Landrith walked to load the bases.

Four Pittsburgh home runs ruined the Dodgers. The last was hit by Hank Foiles in the eighth off reliever Chuck Churn, snapping a 3-3 tie. The other were hit by Ray Mejias, Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart as starter Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline went all the way for his 10th victory.

Eddie Kasko's fourth hit, a seventh - inning single, scored Frank Robinson and enabled Reds to break a 3-3 deadlock Milwaukee. The hit was their yielded nine hits for his 12th triumph. The loser was Warren Spahn, who attempted to register 20 victories for the 10th time. He lost his 14th. Eddie Mathews hit his 28th homer for the Braves.

Ernie Banks batted in five runs for the Cubs with a single sacrifice fly and his 41st home run. Glen Hobbie blanked the Cards on five hits and snapped Stan Boyer's hitting streak which had reached 29 straight games.

Alouettes Upset Tiger Cats, Argos Defeat Rough Riders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The most spectacular game so far this season has just a whole new slant on the Big Four football picture.

Montreal Alouettes, injury-weakened underdogs, came up with a flawless game Saturday to beat Hamilton Tiger - Cats 29-25 and explode the theory that Ticats were headed for an unbeaten season.

The result put Montreal and Hamilton into a first-place tie, each with four wins and one loss. The two clubs go at it again Wednesday night in Hamilton.

ARGOS TOP OTTAWA

Sunday's game in Toronto was a disappointing sequel to the excitement in Montreal. The third-place Toronto Argonauts defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 19-6 in a lacklustre affair.

The weekend action drew more than 50,000 spectators—a record 27,708 at Montreal's Molson Stadium and 25,969 at the Argos' new 21,000-seat stadium in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

An undetermined number of fans was turned away at Montreal when ticket sales were halted before game time. They heard a clamor in which the Als were never behind the favored Ticats.

As the final seconds of the game ticked out the Montreal fans were screaming on every play, fearful that a late drive being staged by Hamilton would wipe out the Als' six - point margin.

RECKONERY SHARP

Quarterback Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry led the fast-improving Montreal attack with a brewing performance. He clicked on 20 of 28 passes, including three touchdown throws to lanky Bill Gleason, and slammed across the line himself for a touchdown.

Tackle Bill Hudson got the other Alouette touchdown when he blocked a Cam Fraser kick and raced into the end zone to fall on the ball. Three converts by Bill Bewley rounded out the winner's total.

A highly significant statistic was the first downs. Montreal made 24 during the ground compared to eight for the powerpacked Hamilton squad, defending champions.

Tiger-Cats' Bernie Faloney tossed a 45-yard touchdown pass to Ron Howell in the second quarter but couldn't find the Montreal defence kept the Cats at bay until the final quarter.

DUPLICATE LEADS DRIVE

Tom Dublinski, who relieved Faloney in the fourth, hit Paul Dekker from 19 yards out for the second touchdown and Billy Bewley added a two - yard plunge after Dublinski's deadly passing and fine running by Gerry McDougall, who replaced Ian (The Thrill) Sheve. Oneschuk kicked three converts.

Coach Jim Trimble blames Ticats' beat Montreal 23-15 in a previous meeting and no injuries plaints after the game. He says his team couldn't cope with the tremendous display of the Alouettes.

Still missing from the Montreal lineup were star end Hal Patterson, halfback Ivan Livingstone and fullback Jackie Simpson, injured earlier in the season.

TORONTO'S SECOND WIN

Toronto's victory was its second of the season—both against Ottawa, which hasn't won in five starts.

The Argos put on a solid ball control performance, highlighted by Cookie Gilchrist's four field goals, one short of the league record for a single Big Four game. Canadian quarterback Dick Shatto also starred as he set back Dick Shatto for an unconverted touchdown and Ottawa quarter Ronnie Knox booted a single.

Inspect halfback Dave Thelen got the only Ottawa points with an unconverted touchdown in the third quarter.

Shatto put the sparkle in the Argo attack as he passed and ran down the sidelines to set the stage for Gilchrist's first field goal and cut loose on a 26-yard rush that set up the second.

DOUCETTE FIRES

Argo coach Hamp Pool pulled a surprise by starting Doucette at quarterback in place of Jones but the latter promptly threw a touchdown pass to Knox and the Argos were running into trouble in recent games. Doucette, Knox and Gilchrist all figured in the Argos' touchdown drive.

Doucette, Knox and Jones completed 13 for 168 yards.

Veteran Frank Filchock started at quarter for Ottawa and the veteran Frank Tripuka finished with him just before the half. Together they completed 15 passes in 30 tries for 191 yards and had four intercepted.

Yesterday night they switch fields with Toronto visiting Ottawa.

Latta Turns Back Read 7-5 To Win South Hastings Title

Latta are the 1959 South Hastings Baseball League champions—unbeaten, they look like it.

They finished atop the league standing to win the Carling Trophy and then went through them from behind to defeat Read 9-5 to win the play-off and the handsome Les Grills Trophy that goes with it.

A spill-partisan crowd of upwards of 2,000 fans at the Fair Grounds saw the new champions climax a three-victory drive that wiped out a 3-1 Read margin.

They spotted Read two runs in the first of innings and evened the score in the fourth. They practically won the game in the fifth with a three-run eruption after Read had scored twice in their half of the inning. Latta then added it away with a pair in the ninth—clouting of a ninth-inning Read threat after they had scored a single run in the eighth.

Lorne Cronkwright threw a four-hitter at the losers striking out seven and walking three. He got in trouble in the ninth and Stan Reid went in to retire the last Read batter.

Reg. Hanley started on the mound for Read and lasted until the sixth innings when Don Masters took over. Hanley, who threw three, walked three and gave up seven of the losers nine hits. Masters also struck out three and walked a pair.

Latta won the game the hard way considering no less than nine errors while Read was credited with three miscues.

Four of the new champions sluggers shared the nine-hit batting honors. Ross Parks powered their attack with a triple and two singles; Gary Cowan poked out a triple and single; Lorne Cronkwright helped his own cause with a pair of singles as did Carson Buskard.

Read's four clouts were all singles, boosers going to Dick Walsh, Kenny Brennan, John Shannon and Tom Callery.

Yesterday's victory gave Latta its first league championship in seven years. Read won the double honors last year, with Canniffton taking the silverware the year

Wilowdale Edges Booth TV's 3-2 In First Game Bantam Semi-Final

Booth's TV's lost a heartbreaker to Willowdale by a 3-2 score in the first game of their OASA Bantam "A" semi-finals at Toronto Saturday afternoon.

Second game of the two-of-three series is slated for the CNRA Park here next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Saturday's game was a tight pitchers' duel all the way with neither club getting a run until the fourth inning.

Pugh hurled for Willowdale, allowing four hits, whiffing 12 and walking one batter. Moll worked for Belleville, also allowing four safeties. He struck out four and walked three.

Booth's opened the scoring in the top of the fourth when Jim Rutherford slammed a basesempty home run. Willowdale came back, however, with two runs in the bottom of the same inning.

Leo Culhane's crew tied the score at 2-2 in the sixth. Boone's lower pinch single, took a second on an error, third on a passball and Culhane rode home on Goodfellow's base knock.

But the Toronto hurler, Pugh, won his own game in the bottom of the sixth. He pounded out one of Moll's pitches for a solo home run and the 3-2 score, then stopped Booth's without a run in the seventh and final frame to protect his one-run lead.

Marsh had two of the winners four safeties, while Pugh had his deciding homer. Morgan also had a single.

Jim Rutherford led Booth's with a homer and single, Bill Goodfellow and Carl Boomhower had one single apiece.

Both clubs played good ball

Green ran into trouble with one out in the fifth. He walked one and Cosby slammed his first homer. Two more walks and an infield single filled the bases before third out was made. East York threatened again in the sixth on Corbett singled to Carr, the 'Cats long error and a walk but once more Green rose to the challenge and came out unharmed.

Cats broke Morris' 13-straight string with a single to start the ninth. He advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Crawford's single. The Bobcat captain was then forced at second by Green, base but jarred the ball loose from the shortstop and the play was ruled safe. Juniors Score Four Runs in Ninth, Snatch 7-6 Victory From Oshawa

Gary Goyer's sharp single in the bottom of the ninth climaxed a four-run uprising which enabled the Belleville Lloyds' Crescent juniors to snatch a 7-6 victory from Oshawa Saturday night.

Oshawa won the first game of the best-of-three OBA junior "A" series by a 6-2 count. The third game is scheduled for Oshawa Wednesday night.

The Noakes-coached youngsters were trailing 6-3 going into their half of the ninth inning. They suddenly found the Oshawa hurler's range. They batted for three runs to even the count then Goyer's millionsdollar single scored the winning run that won the game.

Lefty Gary Ford finished the job the Lloyds crew up to the ninth. He struck out sixteen and walked eleven but was never in any real jam to face him then Larry Soden and Larry Mavety in succession. Soden's single to centre whiffed and Moe Hunter smashed out a triple scoring both runners to give Oshawa the home with the tying run on Clarke's single. Gray went to the shortstop position to nipped Mack Rowland, his successor for a clean single to end the ninth.

Oshawa apparently had the game in the bag in the first few innings. They scored a single in the first off two singles and a walk, then scrapped for four runs in the second off five hits that sent Dainard and Latchford to the plate. Slow-pitch ace Dainard hit Larry Soden who held them to one run although yielding six hits over the rest of the route. He struck out six and walked two.

A fielding error, a walk and a stolen base gave them their final run in the top of the ninth.

Three walks and Moe Hunter's single gave Belleville their lead in the fourth innings. They increased that to Oshawa lead to two runs with a pair in the fifth off Soden's single. Jack Elliott's double and two infield outs.

The Oshawa bats nicked the three Belleville hurlers for 13 hits, six doubles, five off starter Dainard and two off Latchford. Gary Hill powered the visitors' attack with singles. Ted Whiteley had three, Wills and Soden two each with Campbell and Gray getting singles.

While Gary Goyer was the hero of the piece Belleville pitching and another besides some fine fielding, Moe Soden powered a 10-hit attack with a two-run triple and single. Larry Soden had two singles with Hunter, Elliott, Mavety and Clark also hitting safely.

Belleville are charged with four errors, two of them costly, in the second, as Oshawa committing one bobble.

The teams:

Oshawa: Wills, Cooper, Hill, Westfall, Campbell, Middleton, Whiteley, Gray, Goyer, Rowland.

Belleville: Goyer, Moxon, Elliott, Soden, Mavety, Morris, Keller, Hunter, Clark, Follwell, Dainard, Latchford.

Bombers, Eskys Win Over Stamps, Riders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers were victorious Saturday with a comfortable lead in the Western Interprovincial Football Union big four battle for a berth in the run for second place.

The Bombers, powered by the three - touchdown attack of fullback Charlie Shepard, handed winless Saskatchewan Roughriders a 41-14 defeat at Winnipeg Saturday night. Edmonton Eskimos, recovering a Calgary Stampeder fumble in the last minute, edged the Stamps before nearly 30,000 fans at Edmonton.

Edmonton, Calgary and British Columbia Lions are deadlocked for second with eight points apiece. The B.C. will be home for a night at Vancouver when Stampeders meet Lions.

Winnipeg's victory before 15,964 fans, their sixth in eight starts, gives them a firm grip on first place with 12 points.

ROUGHRIDERS FADED

Roughriders' attack was strong only in passing the first touchdown. Then they wilted. At the half they trailed 20-7 and were outscored 21-7 in the second half.

Quarterback Jim Van Pelt connected four times and Shepard scored three.

Fullback Kenny Carpenter started the Bombers on their touchdown, carrying over from Winnipeg's one-yard line. Ron Latourelle's 25-yard pass in the third quarter for the Bombers' other two converted by Bobby Mulgado.

STAMPEDERS WILD

Stampeders of Calgary held the edge during most of the game until the last 10 minutes. Kaye Kerr fumbled. Stampeders led 17-5 after three quarters.

A one-yard plunge by fullback Normie Kwong, a touchdown pass to Jackie Parker and a field goal by end Tommy-Joe Coffery tied the score 20-20 late in the game.

Kapp dropped the ball when hit by Jackie Parker on Edmonton's pass. Defensive end Ed Gray grabbed the ball and scrambled 25 yards for the end zone to clinch things for Eskimos.

Coffey also had a previous field goal and converted one touchdown while Vic Chapman booted two single points for Edmonton.

Ernie Warlick and Ernie Tall scored C.F.R. touchdowns and Doug Brown converted both and kicked two field goals.

Cookie Kicks Four Goals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cookie Gilchrist of Toronto Argonauts kicked four field goals and added a pair of three-way tie for first place in the Big Four Football Conference scoring race as the Argos defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 19-6 Saturday night.

They have a four-point margin over Bill Bewley of Montreal Alouettes who booted three converts Saturday as the Montreal beat Hamilton 27-21. Six players are tied for third place with 13 points each.

Juvenile Cats' Rally Just Short, Drop Close 7-6 Verdict to Oshawa

By PETER CARVER

Oshawa defeated the Belleville Bobcat Juveniles 7-6 in a thriller evening at the C.N.R.A. ballpark to take the first game of a best of three O.A.S.A. Juvenile "A" playdowns. The next game will be played at Alexandra Park Wednesday at 8.00 and the third if necessary probably at Cobourg Saturday.

Oshawa played errorless ball while the homesters committed five goofs. The winners scored three runs in the fifth, singles in the fourth and sixth and then put the game on ice with two in the ninth. The junior Tabbies pushed across three runs in the second, one in the sixth, and two in a ninth-inning rally.

Doug Ellis talling for the Bobcats was credited for eleven hits, striking out one and walking one.

Belleville took a 3-0 2nd inning lead when Clapp walked, Dan Peters singled into centre and scored on Kellar's base hit. Peter Weston singled to left and scored on an error and a passed ball.

Oshawa's two choice and Ritch March's single accounted for an Oshawa run in the fourth. Back-to-back singles by Sibcock and Wright put men on base for Oshawa in the fifth. Sibcock scored on Mapes' fielder's choice and Wright got to 2nd on a passed ball. Mapes added a third run on another fielder's choice.

The Juvenile Bobcats fed the game in the sixth by Dick Lloyd's bowling home run.

Ray Studdard matched Clapp's home run in the next inning by clouting a one-out one run blast.

Network Too Eager to Show Riverboat's Potential Scope

By CYTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company Sunday night launched its big, colorful, expensive Riverboat in the Sunday night channels, hoping that its new challenger will sink ABC's popular Maverick without a trace.

The network, in planning an all-out attempt to capture the big Sunday night audience, has a gimmick in Riverboat which, on paper anyway, makes it every-body's show. Because a boat moves, it can have everything from love interest to lynchings, and different scenery and different casts each week. And maybe the trouble with the first show was that the network was too eager to show Riverboat's potential scope. It had everything.

But the opener gave us only a passing glimpse of the two permanent, central figures of the series, Darren McGavin and Burl Reynolds, attractive and mature star young men who play captain and first mate of the 1840 riverboat Enterprise.

The plot involved a young man played by Aldo Ray who caused the death of his best buddy—and for cash, too. Things get complicated, what with love for a maid (Barbara Bel Geddes), guilt feelings and such that the whole thing was resolved by dropping the unhappy lad into the riverboat's paddlewheels and that was that.

NBC had a weekend monopoly on premieres: Each is a sure escape.

The Friday night adventure series, Troubleshooters, pits men and machines against raw nature—bulldozers dozing, an avalanche, a runaway truck and Venezuelan bandits.

"Bonanza" an hour-long show on Saturday night, is a western in the old tradition and therefore is not afraid of a traditional plot. Heroes are a father and his three sons fighting to protect their ranch from assorted bad guys.

The Man and the Challenge, which follows, is a half-hour science fiction program, full of such dialogue as: "We're trapped in a temperature inversion" All about experiments and not much about people.

Then comes Henry Fonda in The Deputy, also a western in the classic form: It opened with a shot of a train robbery and closed with a shot of the robbers trussed up in the rear of the marshal's buckboard.

Recommended tonight: John Gunther's High Road, ABC, 8:30 p.m. EST — New film from Russia showing how an elite corps of Russian young people are trained at Moscow's State University for Leadership; Good-year Theatre, NBC, 9:30 p.m. filmed drama, Story Without a Moral, starring Brian Aherne.

Veterans Star For Rangers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont (CP) —A former Toronto Maple Leaf and an ex-Montreal Canadien are among the standout performers as New York Rangers' National Hockey League training camp here.

Brian Cullen, from Leafs, scored two goals in Sunday's inter-squad game. He teamed with Dean Prentice and Ken Schinkel, last year's American Hockey League scoring champion with Springfield Indians, in an impressive line.

Prentice scored one goal and Schinkel was robbed by rookie Gump Worsley of two brilliant rushes.

Ian Cushenan, acquired from Montreal, has been one of the big men on defence in early performances. Ranger coach Phil Watson has been impressed with his rugged play and hard-skating style.

Sunday's workout was delayed when goalie Marcel Pallie, former Buffalo Bison in the AHL, was cut for six stitches. A puck fired by Andy Hebenton hit the protector, bounced out and caught Pallie squarely on the forehead

Outsider Wins The St. Leger

DONCASTER, England (AP)—Canelo, a bay filly who was beaten as an odds-on favorite in a race Thursday, came back to win the St. Leger Stakes Saturday in an upset that brought boos and jeers from a crowd of 100,000.

The lead boos greeted jockey Eddie Hide as he steered Canelo into the winner's circle after the finish of the 153-year-old classic. Most of the crowd had written off Canelo after she lost to Collyria, a 23-to-1 shot, two days ago.

Canelo, who started at 100-to-7 odds in the richest running of this classic for three-year-olds, defeated Fidalgo by 1¼ lengths. The favored owner's Pindari was third, another three lengths away. Fidalgo was 8 to 1 and Pindari 11 to 6.

Chuvalo Meets Daniels Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo, who hasn't fought in almost a year, puts his boxing future on the line tonight.

Chuvalo, 22, goes against Franklin Daniels, 21, of Butterfield, Calif., in a 10-rounder at Maple Leaf Gardens which will probably decide whether he is to get some big paydays in the near future.

The Toronto youth, whose bid for the big time was rubbed out by Roy McMurray in a televised New York bout last October, says he has the promise of a second TV try in New York if he can put Daniels away.

SEEKS BIGGER BOUT

Chuvalo is also believed to be looking for a title match with Yvon Durelle of Baie St. Anne, N.B., British Empire light heavyweight champ. The success of that proposal will hinge a lot on tonight's outcome.

Daniels, who has won his last three fights, is hoping for a crack at highly rated Eddie Machen oh the United States west coast if he defeats Chuvalo.

Chuvalo's handlers say he is anxious to wipe out the memory of his disappointing showing in the McMurray bout.

Pre-fight speculation has Chuvalo down as the favorite, chiefly because, he'll pack a 25 - pound weight advantage at an expected 214. Daniels, however, has a slight edge in height and reach.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

The first fall parade of the RCSCC "Quinte" will be held on Tuesday evening, September 15. In the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Armouries on Bridge and Pinnacle streets at 7.15 p.m.

Those boys who would like to join the Sea Cadets are extended a cordial invitation to attend this parade. Cadets are to be dressed in blues, negative jumpers.

Regular parades are held on Tuesday evenings in the Armouries and on Thursday evenings at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street. Parades get underway at 7.15 (1915 hours) on both evenings.

The officers of the "Quinte" met last Thursday evening to discuss and lay down the training syllabus for the forthcoming year. Several chantes are being put into effect to give the cadets a more varied program.

One of the new features will be a shoots period at least once a week. Volleyball, basketball, and boxing are among the sports which have been suggested for this period. Other sports which cadets will have a chance of participating in are sailing and shooting.

The annual competition for the Seldon Trophy, the Corps' sailing award, will be held within the next two weeks. A rifle team is to represent the "Quinte" in the annual competition for the Commonwealth Sea Cadet Marksmanship Award, the Duke of Edinborough's Bell, will also be organized before the end of the month.

Officers of the RCSCC "Quinte" for this year are: Lt. J. G. Donovan (Commanding Officer) of the Victoria and Grey Trust; Lt. Al Clare (Executive Officer), postmaster; Lt. William McConnell (Divisional Officer) teacher at RCIVS; S/Lt. Douglas Bailey (Divisional Officer) of the Singer Sewing firm; Mid. Roque Davis (Stores Officer) of the Department of Public Works; and Cl. Douglas Phippen (Range Officer), of, The Ontario Intelligencer.

Any of these officers would be happy to answer any enquiries as to what the Sea Cadet Corps has to offer boys in this community from either parents or boys who would like to join the Corps.

Applicants should be between the ages of 14 and 18 inclusive, in good health, and require parental consent to be join. Uniforms and equipment are supplied by the Royal Canadian Navy and local facilities are provided by the Navy League of Belleville, a member of the United Appeal.

CALLED BRILLIANT

now three minutes" and finally down to seconds.

Just before midnight, the announcer said: "Wait for a special announcement, listen to Moscow. Listen to Red Square."

At the stroke of midnight the chimes tolled from the Kremlin and the radio began blaring forth the Soviet national anthem.

WORD DELAYED

Minutes after the deadline, as expected flash, the radio began broadcasting concert music.

Finally, at 12:57 a.m. the music ceased and the historic announcement was broadcast—coming after the rocket's reported landing.

The announcement — although delayed — carried full dramatic impact.

In the streets of the capital, thousands of Muscovites stared intently at the bright three-quarter moon, hopeful of a glimpse of the landing even though scientists had expressed doubt that it would be visible.

Anyway, toward midnight, an overcast drifted across the moon, obscuring it from view.

There was no public sign or feeling over the announcement. Red Square was virtually deserted. Moscow restaurants closed at midnight as usual. And celebrating that was done took place at home.

IMPACT PINPOINTED

Calling their shots in advance, the Soviet authorities had said during the evening that the rocket would come down about a quarter of the way from the centre of the moon's disk to its outer edge at a point near the Sea of Tranquility, the Sea of Serenity and the Sea of Vapors.

These last two features of the moon's surface mapped by astronomers years ago. Scientists assume they are dry, but no one knows whether they are expanses of dust or sand.

The communique declared that the Soviet scientists had taken steps to prevent the rocket from being contaminated with microorganisms from the earth.

Scientists generally believe the moon is dead and sterile. But a rocket carried bacteria to it from the earth, there would be no way of knowing whether they eventually laid whether any organisms found on the moon are native to it.

DATA RECEIVED

Tass said that its mouthpiece, "Moon," the capsule busily sent back scientific information to the earth's radio-telegraph bands and magnetic field, cosmic rays, micro-meteorites and interplanetary gas."

The capsule also carried a special radio device called a "moon-stimeter," timed to switch on a few minutes before landing.

"The moon altimeter will supply additional data about changes in the rocket's altitude relative to the surface of the moon," said the announcement.

Moscow newspapers splashed their pictures of the rocket and its launching, estimates of its significance and drawings proclaiming Soviet powers in outer space.

tainment to be tied up." Said Mr. Moore: "They lie you tight."

WAITED UNTIL DARK

They waited until after dark, then untied Mr. Moore and Mr. Jack Moore and Mr. Maines at the barn and ordered everyone into the car. The three men and two cops rode in front along with Mr. Jack Moore and the other four in the rear seat.

They drove east along No. 3 highway, passing through Kingsville, Leamington and Brockville. Then at Prescott they said they were going to turn up the next sideroad, give the Moore's back their car and let them go.

By this time the Moore car was running low in gasoline and as the kidnappers were about to leave them, Mr. Moore remonstrated that he did not have any money to buy gasoline to get them home.

He said one of the men said he would give him two dollars to buy gasoline.

"He gave me a bill but when I looked later it was only a $1 bill. I had to write a cheque for enough gasoline to get us home," he said.

WANTED POLICE

After they were given their freedom, the Moore's drove back to Prescott and notified police. They told their story to Prescott police and left for Belleville shortly after six this morning.

Provincial police at Belleville joined in the investigation of the kidnapping and late this morning were still checking on the automobiles from Ont.

In the meantime, provincial police in the Prescott area joined in a manhunt in an effort to round up the two men.

Mrs. Moore said that one of the men was short and stout and "tall and slim." The other was about 25 but was short and stout-er.

Asked what two of guns the kidnappers had, Mr. Moore was unable to say other than "one was sort of shiny."

He said he did know they were loaded as one man was seen to break open one revolver and put shells in.

"We did everything they asked us to, we didn't see any point in trying to resist," she said.

Police modus operandi of the two kidnappers seemed to be exactly the same used in the kidnapping of the elderly Niagara couple a week ago. Descriptions of the two men also seemed to indicate the same two men were involved.

towards the house and a bullet caught her in the back.

Tony Djordjevic, 6, the dead woman's son, told investigators that Mrs. Schooner picked up her son Frankie and ran up the steps to the house, the rifleman in pursuit.

Mrs. Schooner, Tony said, put the boy down in the hallway and was running towards the dining room when she was shot. Then Frankie, standing in the hallway near the front door, was shot. Neighbors said they saw the rifleman return to the car and shoot himself under the left eye.

Constable James McPhee, a traffic officer who was the first at the scene, said he found Djordjevic stumbling around the front lawn with a severe wound covering half his face.

amounts of 5½-per-cent non-callable bonds maturing 12 years later on Oct. 1, 1975, to yield about 5.60 per cent interest over the entire 16 years.

Conrad bonds due Oct. 1, 1960, with a coupon interest rate of 5½ per cent, offered at 100 to yield 5.50 per cent for the year. These bonds can be exchanged on next issue date, at the option of the holders, into equal amounts of 5½-per-cent callable bonds due Oct. 1, 1975, to yield about 5.60 per cent annually over the entire 16 years.

2. Nineteen-month non-callable bonds due May 1, 1961, with a coupon interest rate of three per cent, offered at 94.55 per cent to yield about 5.60 per cent a year. These bonds will be in addition to $2,000,000 of bonds maturing on Nov. 1, 1961, that were issued May 1, 1958.

3. Investors also may make competitive tenders for 253-day treasury bills due next May 15th. The announcement did not say how much of these bills will be sold. The new bills will be in addition to a $200,000,000 treasury bill issue made last June 30 and maturing in a year.

The Province of Canada, holding some $235,000,000 of the maturing three-per-cent bonds, has agreed to exchange for the following amounts of the new issues: $40,000,000 of three-per-cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1962; $50,000,000 of 5½-per-cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1975; $90,000,000 of three-per-cent bonds due May 1, 1961; and $35,000,000 of 3½-per-cent bonds due May 1, 1961.

The central bank will buy the treasury bills at the average price of accepted tenders from dealers and banks.

World Hails Announcement Of Soviet Union's Moon Hit As Great Scientific Venture

LONDON (AP) — Much of the world today hailed the Soviet Union's announcement of a moon hit as a great scientific achievement—but most of the West expected the rocket's real target was political Washington.

The Conservative British newspaper Yorkshire Post suggests that the scientific impact was intended for the United States, and not really the moon.

"The moon is probably quite unperturbed by the impact of this projection from outer space . . . but not so the earth," says The Post in suggesting that the real purpose was to make an impression in Washington in advance of Premier Khrushchev's arrival there Tuesday.

The London Daily Mail also links the achievement with Khrushchev's U.S. visit.

The Liverpool Post says the flight should be regarded as an achievement of mankind itself and of the Russians only after that.

SELWYN LLOYD COOL

But Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said, "I don't think many people are terribly interested in it." He commented just before flying to New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

In Paris, Le Parisien agrees that the experiment was specially timed for Khrushchev's departure.

"In the coming talks (between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower) it is certain...that the efficiency of Russia's rockets, their manoeuvrability and precision of guiding will add much to the prestige of the Russians."

Prof. Alfred Lovell, head of the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, termed the rocket's flight a "brilliant demonstration of the advanced state of Russian technology."

The chairman of the rocket subcommittee of the Royal Society, Prof. Harold Massey, also thought it was a magnificent performance.

GUIDED ACCURATELY

"They seem to have guided it very accurately," Massey said. "It is marvellous."

Kenneth W. Gatland, vice-chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said the Russian rocket probably was "twice as powerful as the Atlas rocket now being tested in the United States."

Heinz Gartman of the West German Society for Space Research said the reports were not surprised.

"New surprises will be gained only by a manned rocket," he declared.

In New Delhi, The India Times hails the Soviet moon shot as "the most sensational feat achieved by man."

The Statesman and The Indian Express just relatively small headlines on the bottom of the front page.

RED NATIONS CHEER

Communist countries throughout Asia saluted the rocket as proof of the superiority of the Communist system.

Paik Nam Woon, president of North Korea's Academy of Sciences, called it "another striking blow to the cold war advocates."

At a Communist rally in Peking, speakers were cheering even before the rocket's landing. They called it a "pathfinder to the moon for mankind" which signified the "powerful strength of the peace camp."

Small Unforeseeable Incident May Make Nikita's Visit To United States Memorable

By TOM HENSHAW

NEW YORK (AP) — "Mustard!" asked the president of the United States.

"Please," said the King of England.

And a new legend was born. It's usually that way with state visits to the U.S. The usual is carefully planned and momentous but they are rarely remembered for some small unforeseeable incident.

It may turn out that way with Nikita Khrushchev.

King George VI was the first reigning British monarch to visit the U.S., during the 1939 royal Tour of Canada. But the trip might have been forgotten by Americans had he not sampled a hot dog at President Roosevelt's place in Hyde Park.

The Silver Jubilee of the Russian Grand Duke Alexis Romanoff Alexandrovitch, son and brother of czars, is recalled chiefly for (A) an Indian girl and (B) the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

Alexis went hunting in Nebraska with Buffalo Bill Cody but, it was reported, the royal visitor proved more interested in the charms of an Indian chief than buffalo.

It was at the 1872 Mardi Gras that Alexis — now neatly distangled from his Indian princess — first heard the melody If I Ever Cease to Love. He liked it so much he made Ralph Parkman of the Mardi Gras ever since.

Albert, Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, picked an unfortunate time for his visit in 1860. A new Mardi Gras campaign was on and a civil war was brewing.

But the prince didn't go unnoticed. Not in Boston, he didn't. There was the Ralph Parkman, 104-year-old veteran of the battle of Bunker Hill. Snorted the revolutionary Parnham to the prince:

"Too damn much royalty around these days."

Prince Bertie's visit was recalled in New York, too, particularly by an unidentified carpenter.

The floor of a ballroom collapsed under the weight of the prince's admirers. Repairs were made so hastily that the carpenter was said to have been nailed under the new floor for a time.

It is unlikely that Khrushchev's American admirers can summon the weight to collapse any floors. But more improbable he ever will face the situations that confronted two visiting royal ladies.

Queenie Marie of Rumania sailed into New York harbor one day in 138 and posed happily on deck for pictures—until one enterprising photographer made the stunning suggestion:

"Let's have a little more leg, Queenie."

Princess Fatima of Afghanistan was sitting in a New York hotel room, waiting an invitation to the secretary of state, when a little man in faultless diplomatic dress and manner appeared.

He was, he announced, under-secretary Stanley Clifford Weyman come to whisk her off to the state department. He sent not only the secretary of state but President Eisenhower's wife.

After the pay of a $10,000 "gift" which he suggested was standard procedure, the princess did indeed meet the secretary of state, and was presented without even noticing that "under - secretary" Weyman had changed into a naval officer's uniform for the occasion.

Weyman, when the boys from the state department and the navy got around to comparing notes, was under investigation. Weyman wasn't an undersecretary. He wasn't a naval officer. He wasn't even Weyman.

He was Stephen Weinberg of Brooklyn—painter and con-man par excellence.

Doctors Warned To Keep Cost Of Care Down

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Doctors were warned Friday night that they must accept the responsibility for keeping down the cost of medical care in Canada.

"Individual members of the profession must serve the oath of Hippocrates be replaced by the science of economics," Dr. William W. Wigle, of Toronto, president-elect of the 5,767-member Ontario Medical Association, said.

Speaking to the annual meeting of OMA District 10, he urged all members of the profession to take another close look at the Hippocrates oath. He drew to their attention that in no place did the oath say anything about a doctor "receiving a fee for service or being placed in an economic bracket equal to highly paid professions."

"It might say that I, as a practitioner of medicine, shall respect the respect of the people around me."

Dr. Wigle, who becomes president of the association at its annual meeting next May, said, "The profession should be positive in its stand with regard to so-called state medicine, national health or socialization or whatever one wishes to call it.

"Doctors must declare themselves at present as positive in any medical plan that can be shown to be positively designed and destined to improve the national health. We, the medical profession, must step forward, it is our duty and obligation to go to government and insurance companies, and anyone else interested in this business of medical care, and let them know that we know a great deal about medical plans from those that have been administered by doctors in Canada and throughout the world. We must let everyone know that we are prepared to assist whenever called upon to set up a plan that will be the best in the world for the medical care of the people of Canada."

Two Killed In Brockville Train Crash

Passenger Being Put On Siding Struck By Freight

Some of 14 Hospitalized Suffer Severe Injuries

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Two women were killed and 14 persons, including two men, taken to hospital here after a CNR freight train smashed into a diesel hauling three passenger cars. A boxcar jackknifed into the side of a dining car.

The dead were identified as: Mrs. Rene Cordell, 70, of Delaware, Ont., near Otter Lake, and Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, whose address was not known.

Coaches from CPR passenger train No. 283 were being shunted into a siding in this town 50 miles south of Ottawa when the accident occurred. They were to be picked up by CNR train No. 15 from Montreal to Toronto.

The CNR way freight hit a dining car. When the freight engine bounced off the track, the first boxcar leaped, plunging into the side of the diner.

Three operating rooms, a doctor's office and a recovery room were set up at the Brockville General Hospital to treat 18 injured, summoned by ambulances and private cars.

FAMILY REUNION

Mrs. Cordell, with her sister, Mrs. Alphege Supresant, 65, of Eastview, Ont., was travelling to Toronto for a family reunion.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Cordell had one leg severed below the knee. Mrs. Supresant was taken to hospital in serious condition.

In critical condition in hospital is Edward Rose of Toronto, headwaiter in the dining car.

Others admitted to hospital were: Col. G. A. Monk, Ottawa; Gordon Patterson, Toronto; Harold Leitch, Ottawa; and A. G. Smith, Ottawa.

Mill and Boscoe Catholic nuns identified as Sister Matilda of Kingston and Sister Mary Bernard of Ottawa were admitted to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here for treatment. Sister Mary Bernard was released later.

Other staff members taken to hospital were identified as Bill Velvahanoff, Ottawa, in critical condition; Gerry Lafleur, Ottawa; James Stack, Jean Deschenes, Clarence Hall, Sam David and Michael Cipuka.

CALLED BY SON

Mrs. Cordell's stepson, who lives beside the siding, said she didn't know of the crash until her nine-year-old son called her to the window.

"He was just like a paper bag bursting," she said. "My son John told me to look out. He was looking out the window to the tracks 25 feet away. I said: 'Not on my property.'

She said she gave tea to the two engine crews of the freight train—one who had suffered slight injuries, and coffee to several passengers from a coach attached to the diner. They were not among the hospitalized.

Railway officials said a CPR coach and parlor car were being brought to Toronto from Montreal with a CNR dining car.

The CNR was the impact was absorbed by the dining car which Fundamentalist Christian Beliefs Rejected by U.C. Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Fundamentalist beliefs about the soul, the resurrection, cremation of sinners and prayers for the dead were rejected Monday in a United Church call to theological revision.

The statement of doctrine is not to be considered binding on church policy, but was prepared in response to a demand from the church's conference on Christian faith prepared the publication, entitled Life and Death, a Study of the Christian Hope, after five years of study.

The controversial document rejects the idea that hell is brimstone fed and a place of everlasting torment.

"Hell is to be without God and without the fellowship of those who love Him and rejoice in His presence," the publication says.

"Hell is a state of infinite loneliness, hatred, frustration and final frustration."

The book says mankind has no right to interpret hell as a place of "literal and physical torment in fire."

It also cuts across most Protestant thinking that intercession for the dead is useless because "it is too late" to be necessarily judged at death.

"It can be doubted that the dead were so suddenly and completely transformed at death as to put them beyond all need of grace or of our prayers.

"We believe that serious and sympathetic consideration should be given to the point of view of

FREE LIFT — Mrs. Alfred Sadler of Ottawa, was just another member of the public looking over the inside of the Russian TU-104B jet airliner at Ottawa's Uplands airport. She dallied and suddenly found herself locked in, an uninvited guest on a half-hour flight over Toronto with Soviet officials and Ottawa reporters. "I felt like a heel," she said after being comforted by Russian stewardess Irenee Yenisova. 24. (CP Wirephoto.)

Falls off Wagon, Then off Horse, Stunt Man Fined

LONDON (CP)—A stunt man found out Monday that it isn't profitable to fall off a horse if you have already fallen off the wagon.

A police officer testified in Marlborough Street police court that Frank Fay stopped traffic on Park Lane when he emerged from Hyde Park on horseback, crossed the busy thoroughfare and tried to persuade the horse to jump a low fence.

When they reached the fence, the horse stopped. Fay, a stunt man for a film company, cleared the fence by himself.

He was fined a total of £3 14s for riding under the influence of drink and riding in a dangerous manner.

Union Demands Economic Rights Charter of Labor

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian executive of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) has criticized governments and individuals for attacking trade unionism and called for a Charter of Labor's Economic Rights.

Officers of the 34,000-member union also have demanded the right to pension vesting—assuring an employee more than 50 and with 10 years of service that he will get his pension when he reaches retirement age—whether he is employed by the same firm or not.

Charges of "vicious action" in Newfoundland; of "restrictive legislation" in Ontario and of a "conspiracy against labor" in British Columbia were included throughout the report, read to Mine-Mill's convention Monday by President Nels Thibault.

RETIREMENT AT 60

The executive report said a charter should guarantee full employment with good wages, retirement at 60 with pension.

Provisions of the proposed charter include severance pay in the event of layoff, training in new skills and duties for workers displaced by new industries, the right to a good education and protection against sickness and accident.

It also demands "the right to organization and collective bargaining, unhampered by restrictive legislation which weighs the scale in favor of the employer."

Mr. Thibault and his executive said in the report that "with rising productivity and a prosperous economy of abundance, Canada can and must implement a charter" such as had been outlined.

TORONTO THIEVES TAKE PAINTINGS WORTH $700,000

Six Pictures Cut From Their Frames

TORONTO (CP)—Six paintings worth an estimated $700,000 were stolen from the Toronto Art Gallery Monday night by thieves who police said probably bid there before it closed Monday.

Two other paintings were damaged by the thieves who cut two Rembrandts, two Frans Hals portraits, a Rubens and a Renoir from their frames.

Gallery director Martin Baldwin, who gave the $700,000 figure, said: "They took the best paintings in the gallery."

The thieves "obviously knew what paintings they wanted," police said. They left by smashing a front window.

Taken were two Hals portraits, Issak Abrahamsz Massa and Vincent Laurens van der Vinne; Rembrandt's Portrait of a Lady with a Lap Dog and Portrait of a Lady with a Handkerchief; Renoir's Portrait de Claude and Rubens' Elevation of the Cross.

"The Rubens painting was previously stolen in 1954 and later recovered, damaged. It is valued at about $35,000.

Eaton Suggests Abundant Money at Low Interest Rate

REGINA (CP) — Cyrus Eaton, self-styled "aged-in-the-wool capitalist," was there as much to recommend Communist policy of abundant money supply at low interest rates.

Mr. Eaton addressed Monday the more than 200 delegates in the first plenary session of the annual conference of provincial mines ministers here.

Mr. Eaton, chairman of the boards of Steep Rock Iron Mines Limited and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, said tight money with high rates of interest "is not helpful to the general economics of Canada and the United States, and is distinctly harmful to the mining industry."

He also said the premium on the Canadian dollar was "another example in the economic fabric" Because of this premium, the Canadian mining industry would lose $100,000,000 this year through exports to the United States.

Mr. Eaton said he knew of a young engineer who had been compelled to pay eight per cent on a first mortgage for his house, and 14 per cent on a second mortgage.

"The cost of money to a similarly situated young man building a house in the Soviet Union, by contrast, is two per cent.

"The Soviet Union charges the same two-per-cent rate when it loans money to outside governments.

Dealing with the premium on the Canadian dollar, Mr. Eaton said the most frequently cited causes were the Canadian government's policy of restricting money and credit and high interest rates.

A less obvious factor was "America's faltering financial condition," the sorry product of an unwise foreign policy that has futilely sought to purchase peace and friendship by profligate expenditures for armaments, overseas military establishments and foreign aid.

"Unless the United States can be persuaded to mend her ways, she will either go broke or be plunged by the self-righteousness of her statesmen and the vanity of her military leaders into a nuclear holocaust that will wipe mankind off the map."

Because the U.S. is Canada's best customer, the weakness of

Slow Service, Monotonous Menus in Russ Restaurant

SMOLENSK — The road from Warsaw to the Russian border is broad and well suited for rapid travel as well as for military purposes. After about three hours' drive we arrived at the Polish customs. The check here was over in a few minutes and then we were on our way to the Russian customs — about a mile or so away. We soon learned that we were not the only Westerners who had come that way that day. There were three other cars drawn in front of the house, and we were told by the guard to do the same.

Our passports were collected and the customs official disappeared into another room. We sat in a waiting room and looked over our travelling companions, as well as a pile of Russian literature.

After a while a confused borderguard came in and asked me why I had not arrived in a Dauphine bus, since it was stamped that way in my Russian visa. This confused me also, since I didn't know such a bus existed. They must have made a mistake in Ottawa at the Russian embassy. Anyway, we cleared up the matter in a few minutes. Finally our passports were returned to us and we were informed by a guide that we would follow him to the railway station in Brest where we would all meet our guides, get our Russian rubles and then set out for the city of Minsk, some 200 miles away. So we formed a procession and off we went.

ATTRACTIVE RUSSIAN GUIDE

The guide which my friend and I drew proved to be a charming girl of about 22, one of the nicest looking Russians we have seen. She has just graduated in English from the university and spoke the language very well. She was to be with us until we left the country. Thank goodness she didn't have much luggage, just a little overnight bag, since in our car there was just

MAJ.-GEN. VANIER ASSUMES OFFICE AS GOV.-GENERAL

Never Better Served Is Tribute to Massey

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, an old soldier who won fame with Sechers Van Doos, today became Canada's fifth governor-general.

His first words after his installation in the high office were to ask God to "bless the sacred mission entrusted to me by Her Majesty the Queen, and help me to fulfil it."

"May He give peace to this beloved Canada of ours," said the 71-year-old retired lawyer-soldier-diplomat, speaking before a large gathering of government officials, privy councillors, diplomats and members of Parliament in the Senate chamber.

He succeeds Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

Mr. Massey, 72, retiring after 7½ years in office, said farewell to the Canadian people Monday night and was told that Canada has never had a better servant of the state than himself.

The accolade came from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who spoke to a state dinner attended by about 100 persons, who said: "You, Mr. Massey, have performed well and adorned the position of governor-general, and in doing so the sovereign and Canada have never been better served."

FAREWELL SPEECH

In his brief farewell address, Mr. Massey said he was "humbly grateful for having had the privilege of occupying this great office for 7½ glorious years.

"It is difficult," he added, "to appraise one's responsibilities which it imposes, the challenges which it presents, or the honor which it carries."

He also expressed gladness that "an old friend," is succeeding him. Gen. Vanier once served under Mr. Massey, when the latter was Canada's high commissioner in London.

Gen. and Mrs. Vanier arrived in Ottawa from Montreal Monday night, to be greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker, cabinet ministers and their wives and some applauding Ottawa residents who got a glimpse of the guest of honor.

In his farewell address Monday night, Mr. Massey paid special tribute to his son, Lionel, who will step down from his office.

He said the job involves "very exacting and important administrative duties."

"These," he said, "have been carried out by him during my term with great skill, tact and devotion, and I would like to express my deepest gratitude."

HOSPITALITY PRAISED

He also had thanks for the Canadian people's "friendly hospitality" and for the Canadian

President Greets Visitor Warmly At The Airport

No Show of Reaction, Applause by the Crowd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev flew into Washington today to be the guest of President Eisenhower and talk over face-to-face the tensions between East and West.

The Soviet premier was a bit late getting here. His big turbo-prop plane encountered headwinds that threw it behind schedule and it landed at 12:21 p.m. EDT at Andrews air force base. All planning had been on the basis of 11:30 a.m. so the unexpected arrival time.

Khrushchev was the first person to leave the plane. Eisenhower was waiting for him at the bottom of the ramp. They exchanged handshakes and smiled pleasantly.

Eisenhower also shook hands with Mrs. Khrushchev and Andrei Gromyko, the Russian foreign minister.

PREMIER CARRIES HAT

Eisenhower wore a hat but Khrushchev was bare - headed, carrying his hat in one hand. Eisenhower took his off as they reached the end of the red carpet leading to the car and the reviewing stand.

The Soviet premier was gesturing with his right hand in animation as he talked with Eisenhower.

The Russian leader was in a black suit and Eisenhower wore dark grey.

The premier had the Order of Lenin medal on his right lapel and two other Soviet medals on the opposite side of his jacket.

Khrushchev waved to the crowd. There was no show of reaction from the crowd, neither applause nor say-other sign.

Khrushchev was introduced to the formal welcoming committee. They took State Secretary Christian Herter's hand and shook it warmly.

Little Russian girl stepped out of the receiving line and handed Khrushchev a bouquet of red roses. He held the flowers in the arm, hugged the child with the other.

Khrushchev bowed to each person with whom he shook hands. Mrs. Khrushchev, following behind, was wearing a pink dress with polka dots. Another little Russian girl handed her a bouquet of roses.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev walked side by side past the ranks of the Russian and American national guardsmen.

As the band began playing the Russian anthem, artillery pieces wheeled up on the scene, fired a 21-gun salute.

REVIEW GUARD

Eisenhower and Khrushchev, accompanied by a man in civilian clothes and another with animation, nodding his head in emphasis.

Khrushchev had hung his hat on a brass stanchion of the platform as he began his talk speech with both hands, an interpreter took the public address system microphone and translated the remarks.

A quarter of clapping came from the crowd when Khrushchev finished his statement.

The 21-gun salute was then rolled up to the dais. Mrs. Khrushchev, stepped to the fold followed by the president and Khrushchev.

Khrushchev got on the right with Eisenhower in the centre.

Khrushchev, as he car moved slowly down the line of state flags and passed the people lined up behind the fence.

Bad Mushrooms Kill Ottawa Man, 3 Others Ill

OTTAWA (CP)—One man died and three persons are in hospital here as the result of eating poisonous mushrooms.

Gerald Nault, 27, died early today, three days after being admitted to hospital. Admitted at the same time were his brother Paul, 37; Paul's wife Pauline, 38, and Mona Holm, 25.

The Civic Hospital said Paul Nault is slightly improved but still in a serious condition while Pauline Nault and Mona Holms are only in fair condition.

The Naults and Miss Holm live in Ottawa.

Mrs. Joan Laflamme, who formerly worked for the Nault family, said the stricken persons picked the mushrooms last Saturday and had them for supper the same night.

She believed they picked the poisonous mushrooms in the Low, Que., area where the Nault family has 'a cottage.

Over Canada, Khrushchev Sends Greetings

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev sent a telegram of greeting to Prime Minister Diefenbaker today from aboard the Russian airliner taking him to the United States, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The message said: "Flying over the territory of Canada, I send you and your colleagues and through you to all the people of Canada friendly greetings and best wishes."

Eisenhower's statement was immediately translated into Russian. There was a slight burst of clapping when the interpreter finished the Russian translation.

Khrushchev put on his glasses, and began reading his remarks. Occasionally he seemed to wink at reporters as he pulled half a dozen sheets of paper from his pocket and began reading.

He spoke slowly with animation, nodding his head in emphasis.

Khrushchev had hung his hat on a brass stanchion of the platform as he began his talk speech with both hands, an interpreter took the public address system microphone and translated the remarks.

A quarter of clapping came from the crowd when Khrushchev finished his statement.

Khrushchev's Foes Get Feelings Off Chest Before His Arrival

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Americans got their feelings toward Communists off their chests Monday, well in advance of the arrival of Nikita Khrushchev for his Russian premier visit.

Apparently heeding the government's plea for courtesy during the visit, many church organizations and East European groups held meetings to express their opinions.

Most such groups have indicated they would not demonstrate —or at least not violently—while the Russian premier is on U.S. soil.

But many sections of the country saw anti-Khrushchev parades, rallies, mourning protests and other displays. And many newspapers carried paid editorials calling on Americans to mourn and warning against the dangers of too much friendliness toward Communists.

At Rochester, N.Y., and New Haven, Conn., persons of Eastern European origin held silent marches.

A Hungarian church in New York was draped inside and out with black and in Boston there was a two-day outdoor plaque of the Declaration of Independence.

In Washington a protest rally by the American Council of Christian Churches, which represents a small fundamentalist segment of American Protestantism, drew 600 to the Washington Monument grounds, Chairs had been set up for 2,500.

The locomotive, coach and parlor car were also derailed, but remained upright. Montreal-Toronto rail traffic was being rerouted through Ottawa as wreckage blocked the tracks.

A power crane brought in to Lelp clear the tracks tore down a hydro-electric power line, cutting off electricity in the east end f the city for an hour.

No Dog Catcher Yet Appointed For Corporation

The city of Belleville is still without a dog catcher as result of council failure last night to ratify a committee recommendation from last week.

At that time council in committee approved of a recommendation hiring Earl Latchford of Sidney township as dog catcher.

Last night the recommendation was referred back on an amendment from Alderman Les Digby who noted that Mr. Latchford lived in the township.

"There's is a city resident capable of handling dogs," he said.

He asked that the various applicants for the position be again reviewed. His amendment to refer the recommendation back carried by a 7-4 vote.

Alderman Effie McCabe wanted Mr. Latchford's name struck out of the recommendation and that of Charles Thorn inserted in its place. She was taken on the amendment, however, with the motion to refer the recommendation being carried by council.

The position of dog catcher became vacant several weeks ago when the city dismissed Mr. Charles Thorn, retained, Mr. Thorn again applied for the position when the city invited applications.

Four-Way Red Flashers Remain At Intersections

Pending approval from the Ontario Department of Transport, four-way red flashers are to remain at the intersections of Bridge and Bleecker and Victoria and Bleecker.

A covering by-law was given two readings at last night's council and will be forwarded to the above department for approval.

Alderman Digby objected to the by-law declaring that four-way red signals could be made legal but "this was not the way to do it".

He said the only way four-way red flashers could be legalized was for all streets to be made through streets. He contended the four-way red lights were not necessary at the intersections concerned and that there had been even less observance than under the previous system.

In reply Alderman R. Temple as traffic committee chairman said the whole matter of council was to reduce accidents. He said the four-way red flashers were doing a better job than was being achieved previously.

Mayor Hyde then agreed that there had been a marked improvement since the installation of the four-way red flashers.

The covering by-law was approved by an 8-4 vote. Opposed last were Mayor Hyde and Alderman Argue, Collins, Elliott, Graham, Ireland, Temple and Wishart. Voting were: Alderman Digby, Forester, Grandame and Wishart.

H.J. McFarland Given Agreement To Operate Senior Hockey Team In Memorial Arena This Season

The city of Belleville officially bowed out of the Senior OHA hockey picture last night as it approved a lease agreement turning over the assets and player contracts of the Belleville Mcfarlands to Harvey J. McFarland of Picton, the team's sponsor for the past three years.

The agreement also covered rental of the Belleville Memorial Arena to Mr. McFarland for the playing of home hockey games.

The by-law gives the city a minimum of $150 per game or 10 percent of the gate receipts, whichever is the greater, and allows the McFarlands 150 hours of free hockey practice time. If additional practice time is required the team will pay $5 per hour for the arena.

Mr. McFarland has all advertising rights of the club, while the city will operate the arena canteen.

The player contracts and team equipment Mr. McFarland will pay the city the sum of $2,000.

The agreement with respect to arena rental is conditional on Mr. McFarland being able to sign satisfactory contracts with the remainder of the team who does not operate, the city still receives the $3,000.

There was only one objection to the agreement from council when the alderman Les Digby who noted that the McFarlands team owed a city merchant $4,000 for equipment. He suggested the remaining team equipment be held over to this merchant against the indebtedness.

The alderman also wanted to know how $5 per hour for hockey practice compared with other arena rentals and whether $150 per game covered all arena expenses.

NOT BEING SUBSIDIZED

"I just want to make sure that the term is not to be subsidized by the city," he said.

Mayor Gerald Hyde assured that $150 per game would cover all operating expenses with the exception of major repairs and added that anyone can rent the the arena for that purpose.

He said the proposed agreement with Mr. McFarland had been given much consideration by the Arena committee and was already signed by Mr. McFarland.

The arena committee was in the position that it could not give away arena facilities and that the arena was under the charge an exorbitant rental, he said.

He noted that the committee had ruled out the payment for practice time but that this had not been agreed to by Mr. McFarland. "We asked $5 per hour for all practice time but finally bucked down and agreed to the $50 free hours.

Referring to the sale of equipment and player contracts to Mr. McFarland, Mayor Hyde noted that under OHA regulations the city had no right to the players unless the team continued in the franchise the operated under the name Belleville McFarlands.

SAID FAIR AGREEMENT

The team equipment had value to the team operator but was "worthless" to the city. The only thing new was 300 "dried out" sticks, which could be expected to break easily.

Under the circumstances Mayor Hyde felt the city had come off "reasonably well."

Alderman Walter Elliott recalled that last season's arena hockey receipts had been something over $10,000.

"On the basis of that figure 10 per cent of gate receipts going to the city this year would put the arena in the black, or the lowest figure of $150 per game would be close to a black figure," he said.

Council turned down Alderman Digby's amendment to the agreement which would have offered team equipment first to the local merchant who is owed $4,000.

ONE YEAR ONLY

Alderman Ralph Graham felt that one of the important conditions coming out of the judicial enquiry into the city's financial affairs would be for the city to pay the local merchant for hockey equipment.

He said the city had a moral obligation to pay the bill whether or not it had a legal obligation.

Approved amendments to the hockey agreement with Mr. McFarland were one which put a 90 day time limit on signing of the agreement, and another making the agreement for the 1959-60 hockey season only.

The city of Belleville is without a treasurer today with Gerard Miner, appointed in an extraordinary last May meeting the suspension of Treasurer Percy Davies, having now relinquished his position.

Mr. Miner was appointed as acting treasurer after the city's financial position with respect to the Belleville McFarlands was made known. He is now relinquishing the position to continue studies for chartered accountancy examinations.

Mayor Hyde commended Mr. Miner for his job of acting treasurer, a position which he assumed in addition to the auditing job of bringing the books up to date.

In passing Mayor Hyde noted that he had not yet been successful in hiring another temporary treasurer.

Council Extends Deadline on Smoke Nuisance

The current steel strike is resulting in a long protested smoke nuisance being continued in the city.

Last spring injunction proceedings were threatened against the Belle Cleaners and Launderers on Coleman Street following long term complaints of residents in the area.

Then the city agreed to delay proceedings until Sept. 15th on the understanding that the firm in question would install a new gas fired boiler, which would eliminate the smoke nuisance.

The new boiler was duly ordered but the steel strike intervened and the equipment cannot be moved from the strike bound plant of the supplier.

In view of the circumstances Mayor Hyde agreed to extend the deadline and last night authorized the city solicitor to deal with the matter in this light. In the meantime officials at the offending plant are doing their best to keep possible type coal to reduce the smoke nuisance.

Ernie Gurnett Tells Rotary of United Appeal

Ernie Gurnett, campaign chairman of the Belleville United Appeal and a local Rotarian, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club's weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte.

An outline of this year's campaign, to be held from October 5th to November 6th, was given to the local Rotarians. With an objective of $85,000, the coming campaign intends to meet the collective needs of the eleven participating agencies. These are the Boy Scouts Association; the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; the Canadian Mental Health Society; the Children's Aid Society, the IODE, the Navel League, Girl Guides of Canada; the St. John Ambulance; the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Y.M.C.A.

The speaker pointed out some of the advantages of the United Appeal as including: a more economical method of raising money so that a greater percentage of the money collected is put directly to the use of the agencies with reduced operating costs; the campaign is over in a short time to operate their time with the effect of further reducing operating costs; through the use of the payroll deduction and installment giving plan contributors may donate the amount they wish to without inconveniencing themselves.

Mr. Gurnett said that the Belleville campaign has failed to fulfill its goal on a very reasonable figure of $3.00 per capita. This amount is only 70 percent of the amount required by the 17 other appeals conducted in cities across Ontario during the past year. The reasonableness of this amount combined with the favor which the payroll deduction plan is receiving among local contributors should assure that the local campaign reaches its objective this year, he said.

Introduced by Joe Demeza, the speaker was thanked by Harold Mott.

During the meeting two new members were welcomed to the club, R. Denton Taylor, B. Sc., of the Ontario Research Foundation to the club by his sponsor, Ernie Gurnett. Max Wilson introduced Dr. Finlay McCorquodale of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to the club members.

George McIlhorn introduced the guests for the day. The birthday of Jack Marshall was recognized by those present. For those who were hatching, Joe Short gave a rousing sing-song. For those not so lucky, Harry Burns prescribed treatment. The meeting was closed with club president Fred Wilson.

KHRUSHCHEV

American Jozef Miot-Mrus was carrying out a promise made in a letter to President Eisenhower and was still on a hunger strike in protest over the Russian visit.

Black armbands and car stickers denouncing Khrushchev were distributed at the Washington headquarters of the Committee for the Freedom of All Peoples.

Roman Catholic churchmen in many areas called for tolling of funeral bells, prayers and other mourning demonstrations.

At a graveyard in Miami there was a grave reading "Nikita Khrushchev will be welcome here."

But the man who posted it later took it down.

"I had no business putting it there," he said.

Behind Iron Curtain

room for three of us and our luggage. We had the smallest car of the lot, so perhaps she wished she had drawn one of the other cars, which included a Mercedes and a Citroen.

Well, before we set out, we had dinner, which was not too bad, but one of the girls in our group made the mistake of going to the ladies washroom in the station, and came back aghast for she had never seen anything so primitive. So we have kept away from the public washrooms ever since. We are afraid to try them.

Judging by the crowds we have drawn so far in Russia, we are getting more popular as we go along. It has not been unusual for over 100 curious people to crowd around the car all wanting to have a look. Being able to speak Russian is certainly a great help. The questions they have asked me are more or less the following: Where are you from? What kind of car is it? How much did it cost? How many cylinders? How much gas did it use? How long would it take a worker in Canada to earn enough to pay for it? How much do workers earn monthly? Eventually the questions would go on forever if the guide didn't come along and tell us it was time to move on.

In Minsk our conversation with the people started off innocently enough. We took a picture of an ice cream vendor. She was quite surprised and when we thanked her for taking them immediately started up a conversation with us.

QUESTION GAME

We took to guessing each other's age, something which has happened on each trip here. The attention centred upon one of the girls in our group, a young Canadian. Everyone guessed about 17-18 and were they ever surprised when I told them she was 25. A girl that old in Russia usually looks older, especially if she is a mother or a worker.

So far we have seen a considerable number of monuments, government buildings and parks but we never meet enough people to talk to. I wish the Russian travel agency would arrange things so we saw less of the facade of Russia and more of the life.

One interesting thing we have seen, however — is a miniature children's railway about seven miles in length. The whole network is run by children with the exception of a few adults. They run the engine, take tickets in the passengers cars and look after the administration. I took a picture of one little girl who was in charge of a train. She blushed all over when I told her she was doing good work.

Traveling between cities is rather monotonous. There is only one road that is paved — all the other side roads are little better than trails. The villages are off from the main road. All we seem to do is have a quick look at a city and then drive like mad for the next city.

SLOW SERVICE

The hotels we had in Czechoslavakia and in Poland were rather good but so far I can't say much for the ones here. The plumbing sometimes leaves much to be desired and the rooms look like something out of Czarist times — which they probably are. Getting anything to eat is a real chore. We have taken up to two hours to get a meal for the waiters just don't seem to care whether they hurry or not. We are all rather used to efficient service in restaurants, and it rather annoys us to have to wait so long. The food isn't too bad, but so far we have seen the same menu all through our trip. We know it off by heart now and when we get to Moscow we won't have to even ask for the menu.

In the evening our guides leave us to our own resources and go off by themselves — probably to discuss us. So we go off and complain.

One of our friends, would like to dump his guide in the Volga, with a mill-stone around his neck. Ours has been pretty good so far, but I intend to discuss the whole system of guides later.

The places to go after supper when you finally get it) is "The Park of Rest and Culture" — that is actually the name of it. It is there that the people actually congregate and you can meet some real interesting types. We are getting used to being stared at for it happens everywhere, and by the time we get back home we shall miss it. But we have some strange sort of way to do before we leave this country.

Council Declines to Approve By-Law for Land-Use Plan

Whether a recommendation for no contract with the city.

the city to enter into an agreement with Urban Research and Consultants for preparation of a land-use plan and zoning by-law for the built-up portion of the city should probably be finalized by by-law was the topic of lengthy discussion at city council Monday evening.

Last week's committee recommendation to have the by-laws prepared was deleted from the agenda last night despite assertions from Alderman Les Digby that the city had entered into a legal contract with the Toronto firm and was thereby obligated to pay.

SOME WORK DONE

He claimed that the method of payment only should be considered by council as the recommendation to hire the firm had been passed last February and some work had already been done by the Toronto planning consultants. Cost of the work was to be $5,000.

The motion to delete the recommendation from the night's agenda was made by Alderman Ernie Parrott who said that he was doing so "for information only".

Mr. Digby noted that when the recommendation to hire the firm was originally put forward he had expected the work would be done this year. Because the by-law has been held up and consequently the firm could not be paid despite the fact that work had been provided for in this year's budget.

Consequently an initial payment of $2,000 to cover expenses already incurred, progressive monthly payments of $300, and a final payment when the work was completed and approved were asked.

NO CONTRACT EXISTS

City solicitor R. A. Prindle advised that hiring of the Toronto firm had never been covered by by-law, therefore the firm had

Mr. Pringle also disagreed that the firm had legal right to claim for any work already done. "Any firm should have a by-law to protect its contract," he said.

Mayor Hyde objected that if such was the case it could also apply to such city expenditures as the purchase of paper clips.

"It's time that this council went for something bigger than paper clips and stood behind its commitments," remonstrated Ald. J. Lawrence.

Alderman Jack Ireland took the same view. He said he didn't like to see the city use a technicality to get out of paying.

OPPOSE HIRING

Aldermen Robert Temple and Effie McCabe declared they had been consistently opposed to hiring the work done, the former noting the question was whether council should commit the city for $5,000 to have a presently existing by-law re-vamped.

Alderman Roberston Collins said the Toronto planning consultants were not misled. He said

Bench Warrant May Be Issued By Judge Kelly

Possibility of a bench warrant being issued for Detective Elmer Spencer, charged with attempted rape and indecent assault, was seen today after the accused failed to put in appearance at his case was scheduled to commence here at the Sessions Court auties this morning.

The court is being held before Mr. Justice Kelly with two criminal cases, 13 jury cases, and nine non-jury cases listed for hearing.

Yesterday the Grand Jury returned a "no bill" in the case of Robert Arnold Day, charged with criminal negligence in the traffic death of Andrew Burrows, last June. Mr. Burrows was fatally injured at the intersection of Victoria and Bleecker Ave., when the automobile in which he was riding was in collision with that driven by Mr. Day.

Mr. Day appeared before the Grand Jury.

A true bill was returned by the Grand Jury against Gordon Spencer, charged with attempted rape and indecent assault. When his case was called to commence before the petit jury this morning Spencer was not present and a bench warrant for his arrest will be issued by Mr. Justice Kelly this afternoon if he is not present when court resumes at 2 p.m.

Eight of the 13 jury cases listed for hearing have either been settled or were ready to be settled, while two are to be traversed.

Of the non-jury cases two are divorce actions and one for claim of a mechanic's lien.

One of the non-jury cases, a claim by Gerald A. Weaver of Trenton for an injunction to restrain the Trenton Public Utilities Commission from proceeding from extending water and sewage facilities, has been settled.

they had asked for the by-law and if they did any work it was done at their own peril.

Alderman Digby denied this was the case. He said the by-law had been asked for by the planning committee when it was realized the work was going over into another year.

The motion to delete the recommendation calling for the by-law was approved on a 7-6 vote. Approving were Aldermen Argue, Collins, Elliott, Graham, McCabe, Temple and Tice. Opposing were Mayor Hyde and Aldermen Digby, Forrester, Grandame, Ireland and Wishart.

Two Acres Burned Over By Brush Fire

TRENTON — A brush fire in Hanna Park Monday afternoon burned over two acres before it was brought under control by members of the Trenton Fire Department and members of a hydro crew who spotted the blaze.

Hydro workers first spotted the fire at about 4 p.m. and reported it to the Trenton Fire Department. The hydro gang and the fire department worked until 5.15 before the fire was extinguished.

Two oil burners which caught fire Monday kept the fire department busy. The first call came from the home of Mr. W. Dawkins, 386 Front Street, where an oil burner was reported burning out of control. The second call was for the same reason at the home of Mrs. O. Fetterly, 104 Division Street.

WILL DEVELOP WELL

The Public Utilities Commission decided recently to go ahead with the development of a well on Sidney Street. With the addition of a new pump at this well the commission was advised that the output from the well could be increased by 600 gallons.

Testing is not complete at the present time but plans for the use of this well the testing is completed are in effect. It is anticipated that the water from this well will be mixed with the water from the filtration plant with the ultimate aim of improving the taste of this water.

The water from this well is much cooler than the water from the filtration plant, and it is thought that the mixing of the two will greatly improve the water.

Move to Overcome Serious Shortage of Doctors in Army

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department has moved to overcome the serious shortage of doctors in the armed forces, it was learned Monday.

A 42 - month subsidization scheme has been introduced through which medical undergraduates will receive up to three years free academic tuition, financial aid during courses of internship, regular pay and allowances and other benefits if they agree to serve a minimum of three years in the armed forces.

Maj.-Gen. K. A. Hunter, surgeon-general of the armed forces, and his three chief deputies will visit universities throughout Canada in the next few weeks to help put over the scheme.

NEED 30 DOCTORS

An army spokesman said Monday there are approximately 400 medical officers in the armed forces and that another 75 to 80 are needed. It was planned to enrol 30 this year through the new scheme.

An applicant must be a Canadian citizen or a person with the status of landed immigrant, be between 17 and 21 and 36 and must be academically acceptable to either the fourth, fifth or final years of the medical school he is attending.

The "Canadian forces medical undergraduate 45-month subsidization plan"—the defence department's designation—covers all previous medical officer training courses and includes the amount of financial help previously available.

Undergraduates accepted are enrolled as officer cadets at $128 a month and commissioned next year they will be promoted to second lieutenant, or the equivalent in the navy and RCAF, at $210 a month pay, plus $63 to $231 a month additional depending on marital status.

On graduation and after registration with a provincial college of physicians and surgeons, they will be promoted to captain, navy, captain or RCAF flight lieutenant.

Hurray for the Alderman

The Toronto City Council has a revised procedural manual.

Ald. Phillip Givens doesn't like it.

Neither do we.

Perhaps it may be said that the rules of procedure for the Toronto City Council are none of our business. That might be true except that plagues have a habit of spreading.

The revised manual says that no member of council shall "speak disrespectfully" of any member of the Royal Family, of the Governor-General, the Lieutenant-Governor, since it may be argued that they are more institutions than individuals.

Surely, though, nobody will deny that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Frost are individuals.

Ald. Givens doesn't like their inclusion in the list. He sees it as a possible bar to criticism of the policies of the Federal and provincial governments. That there is a difference between being critical and being disrespectful is true, but it is also true that the dividing line is not always plain, particularly when the critic of policies may feel scant respect for the reasons he suspects are behind these policies.

"If we can't criticise Frost for not allowing us to fluoridate our water supply then it's the first step towards a banana republic," he says.

Here, then! And without the bananas.

Why, if this thing spreads, first thing we know the rule will apply not only to members of council but to other people, too, like editorial writers, and will cover not only prime ministers and premiers but mayors and controllers and even aldermen.

Why the thing's outrageous.

Think, of course, they like to widen its scope a bit more and include editorial writers on the right, rather than the wrong, side of the balance sheet.

Three Quotations

"Some Khrushchev methods echo Stalin. He places the same overriding emphasis on production by heavy industry to build state and world power, to the detriment of the consumer economy." —William L. Ryan, Associated Press news analyst, in The Ontario Intelligencer, Sept. 9, 1959.

"In a world where two dominant societies now stand toe-to-toe slugging it out in a cold war, the future of man is almost certain to be settled in the classroom."—James Reston, Toronto Globe and Mail staff writer, Sept. 9, 1959.

"Inverness, N.S., Sept. 8 (CP) The bell today signalled the opening of a new term but not a single pupil showed up at the Forest Street School. Parents of more than 100 pupils formed a vigilante committee to keep their children away from the school which was condemned by fire officials a year and a half ago. The town, in dire financial condition, has refused a request to build a new school."

Ties and Character

Two London, England, clothiers have asserted that a man's necktie is an index of character. If he wears a white tie, he is apt to be a wolf, if his tie is printed silk he is a tightwad, if the tie matches his suit he is timid, if he wears a maroon tie he is dull.

"This, we believe, is a lot of tripe," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "A man very probably wears a white tie or a red tie or a bow tie because his wife bought it for him."

So, argues the Cleveland paper, ties should be considered an indication of the character of the giver rather than of the wearer.

This, we believe, is a lot of tripe. If a man wears a tie solely because his wife gave it to him, it is indeed an indication of his character. Whether the tie be of printed silk, or white or red or a match for his suit, it proves the same thing—he is either timid or a tightwad, or both.

THE LOSER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

You may cheer for the victor and crown him with bay,
You may praise him for what he has won;
But I give my cheers for another today—
Forgot when the fighting was done.

I turn from the field not to flock with the throng,
But to stand with the loser and cheer him along.

I'll fight with a man not for victory's sake,
For the goals that success may attain,
And of his ranks ever watchful to break
If another the goal should attain,
But because I believe he is'
battling for right,
And I will not desert if he loses his fight.

If I fight for his cause when his prospects are fair,
And believe that his battle is just,
If he's forced to go down to defeat and despair,
Then go down with him also I must;
For a coward is he, who defeat cannot take
And follower a man but for victory's sake.

Britons Hard To Please

Wyndmar Star

Australia, until recent years, drew almost all her entire immigration from the British Isles. In latter years, in an effort to build up population quickly she has been accepting and even encouraging immigrants in fewer most other European countries.

Our sister Commonwealth country has been very successful in her immigration policies, because Australia is exclusively speaking. Her earlier fears that bringing in non-English speaking people to have been eliminated. She finds as does Canada, most of them make fine citizens.

She is finding something else, according to a report in The Guardian of Manchester. "It has become plain that the British are among the hardest to assimilate. British immigrants, in general, are more vocal in their grievances and tend to stay together in one of other races in migrant hostels. They are also the most prone to give up and go home when dissatisfied."

This latter part probably also is true in Canada, that the British are the most likely to pack up and go home." It is easier and cheaper from Canada than from Australia. But Canadian experience is that many who do not become assimilated with "home" after a few weeks or months and want to come back to Canada.

Old Recipe For Sore Back

Pembroke Observer

In the library at Mahdeville Manor the home at Wellington, Prince Edward County, of the late Dr. James O'Reilly Mandeville of Pembroke, there are many old books on medicine, fiction, religion, bound copies of New York papers 100 years old, and a priceless volume entitled "Dr. Chase's Everybody," published in Lawrence, Mass., 1878.

Dr. Chase, in this treasured book speaks with the greatest degree of authority on curing diseases — and many of his recipes are suitable for man or beast. Here Ferguson, from Fort Gratiot, Mich., is a prefect says he "would not be without Chase's Recipe Book."

With this in mind wonder grows if for 50 cents he would take Dr. Chase's 1878 prescription for sprains, sunsins, lumbeck, chilblains, butter, I lb. and simmer together; at the last add tincture of opium 2 oz.

His holiday was that the recipe "was also good for cracked feet," Arkan, who thought more of it than of any other prescription in the household. Many persons might think it hard on toads, but you could kill them quicker in any other way."

Tidal Power Unexploited

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Tidal power is one great source as yet unexploited. There are only a few out of the whole world where it can be harnessed, and the Bay of Fundy is one of them.

There are obvious advantages to tidal power. For example, the tides which produce it are not subject to exhaustion as are the fuels we now use for thermal power.

Tides do fluctuate, but they do not reach the seasonal lows of many rivers from which hydro power is developed."

CLIPPINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 15th, 1939

At 11.45 p.m. last night the Hoof O'Command had completed its program, pulling through the Bailey's bewildering heavy taxation increase and a new excess profits measure, and three other measures including one authorizing the creation of a Ministry of Munitions and Supply. Moving at record breaking speed which carried the budget through all stages in six dramatic hours, the House of Commons completed work of the momentous war session but the Senate may block progrogation pledged for noon TODAY, today. In addition to the budget presentation, important announcements were made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who told the House he was convinced there should be no election during the duration session of the present parliament which he would call in January or earlier.

A fast game of baseball was played last evening on the Ann Street School grounds between the Red Sox and the Maple Leafs. The result was a score of 9 to 0 in favor of the Red Sox. The battery for the Red Sox was Mirakles and Aubrey, Marakas pitched brilliant ball, striking out nineteen men during the game. He was also a batting star, with a 5/home run, two triples and three singles in six times at bat. Ashley the catcher played a good game, his pick-up made a good feature and should be heard from next year. The fielding feature was supplied by Fred Miles also of the Red Sox: he grabbed a liner over his head, turned third, then ran and touched the man coming from second to third. The bases were full at the time, Joss and Bob Miles also played a good game. For the losers Kerr was the best, he being the only one who could do anything with Marakas' shoots.

Pope, K.C., who for the past twenty-one years has been connected with the legal office of the Grand Trunk Railway at Belleville and later at Montreal, following the removal of the chief legal officers from here to that city, has been appointed Secretary to the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario. His appointment is expected to relieve the chairman, Hon. Adam Beck, of much of the heavy detail work which now falls to his lot.

Mr. James McKnight left today to visit his sister in Bendo, Wis.

Men Looking For Danger

Brockton Spectator

In another and more adventurous age we might not have been as surprised and intrigued as we were the other day when we saw in a downtown shop window a notice advising: "For those looking for unusual and dangerous work".

So much that is romantic is absent from the contemporary scene; the word "adventurer" glint today with prosaic ruthlessness, calling for cold nerves more than a taste for adventure. Even although we see encouraging marks that distance throws over the past, we are inclined to believe that calls to danger in the thirties offered more romance than they do today. Young men, nurtured on John Buchan's tales, and offering themselves as dangerous adventurers, expected to find at least one beautiful princess and a sinister criminal mastermind at the centre of a spider's web of international spying.

The midnight expresses leaving Istanbul, Warsaw, Berlin and Paris all carried their quotas of secret service agents, according to the romantic novelist of those days.

A young man would expect to fight a duel for the honour of a lady yard of a ruined castle in Bosnemia, or keep a appointment with an old-world-looking man in the back room of a cigar dealer's warehouse in Smyrna. The Arab peddling rugs in a Cairo bazaar was never what he seemed . . .

But if romance has passed from danger, it is not to say that it makes it a scarcer now, danger is still with us, for those who are prepared to use their nerves and those gimme nerves have been implanted. Enough for that.

Now let's discuss this white discharge. Here I must disagree with what you have been told. This may not be "normal," although it is not uncommon. Some irritation. An injury, some microscopic organism (such as protozoon or germ-size invader), or other factor can be the cause.

It isn't "normal," any more than a raw throat is "normal." But it is quite common. Also, at times, the condition lingers on until it becomes chronic and very difficult to treat. I consistently suggest that you see your doctor (a gynecologist) treat it soon, while it can be cured by with relative ease rather than waiting several years and finding it getting more annoying and is difficult to treat.

I'll add this: It is not a venereal disease. I can, no doubt be acquired through intimate contact, but it doesn't have to be, by any means. A girl might catch a cold by sitting on a bench with a cold. But she can also catch cold without coming within miles of a man. The same thing is true of this prevalent and annoying disease we are talking about.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If I don't chew my food well, will it cause constipation. — J. H."

While chewing is one of the first processes of digestion, I doubt if lack of chewing can lead to constipation. Eat slowly, chew your food well, and you'll feel better and have less trouble.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I find that about a week before menstruation I gain gained several pounds in weight. I am also trying to lose weight. — E. W."

It varies from person to person, but it is not at all uncommon to take on a little weight because of extra fluid accumulating in the system — at such a time. This is a temporary matter, and has nothing to do with your natural weight. Taking lots salt may help. There are medicines that can be taken just before the period that will decrease the weight.

Beset by blinding, painful headaches? Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dunsden, Ill., for a copy of my booklet, "How To Tame Headaches," explaining how long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover cost of handling.

Discovers He Was Stupid

Windsor Star

People often pay a heavy price for stupidity, be it their own or of others. Some results of stupidity are laughable, however.

This is illustrated by the case of one Nicholas Petrulli, a New Yorker who has just been pronounced his United States citizenship and sent to Russia. Now he wants back.

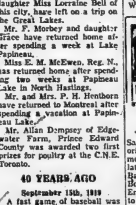
"I have just realized I have done a stupid thing," he said. "I am disappointed in such a couple of months ago he would be able to get a permanent assignment. The question is whether Russia will let him out or, if she does, will the United States let him in."

None is entirely immune from stupidity. Sometimes very smart people do very silly things. It may be that impulse often is somewhat suppressed, but may just be people don't always use the brains they do possess.

Praise Mall For Shopping

Detroit Free Press

Judging from photographs and the opinions of those who have seen it, Canada's newest shopping mall is delightful.



Grass, trees, flowers, children's play areas, outdoor exhibits and benches have replaced automobile traffic. Pedestrians alone are enjoying immensely the freedom from fumes and noise.

Along with Toledo, Kalamazoo deserves great credit for its courage in forging ahead with this experiment. Other cities will be watching closely.

LLOYDMINSTER SASK.

This town on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border owes its name to Rev. Edmund Peck, clergymen Rev. George Exton Lloyd, later Bishop Lloyd, and Isaac Barr, who, in the days of the Hudson's Bay Company, was known as Iron Hoof Barr, was anxious to go to a new land. A colonization plan was drawn up and several hundred joined the trek to Canada under the name of the Barr Colony. But lacking executive ability, mismanaged the affairs and the colony failed to establish the take over. The name resulted from the joining of two words, Lloyd and Minster, the latter meaning a church.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE PROBLEMS PERSIST

Saint Paul in preaching to the Athenians declared that "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation." A little further on is that passage of Scripture, he declared that "we are the offspring of God," and he also observed that "in him we live, and move, and have our being."

There have been hundreds, probably thousands, of books written about international problems and proper race relationships. Saint Paul in these few words says more and better than all the books that have ever been written. We are all of one blood. Human beings are unique among God's creatures, made in the image and after the likeness of God Himself. Whether we want to admit it or not, we are all brothers. We are not better than other's threats, we are not only brothers, but members of the family being God's original intention that we should dwell peacefully within the bounds of habitations for our lives in and through Him, and be kind to Him as differences between ourselves and others, which may at times be annoying, and combine into one great army of well-disposed persons committed to peaceful relations.

Most of the problems which beset us today are man made and our own making. God looked upon His creation in the beginning and declared it good. If it is bad, we have made it so.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For me, the saddest part of pipe tobacco, salt fiinan haddie coming home from the summer and other such indelicacies of cottage is having to bid farewell taste, a faint perfume at best, to the bread that is baked in addition to the vitamins mencamps where we got our bread all summer. They had risen to the top tioned on the wax paper around the loaf since the dough was dropped bread is worse than coming back to city traffic. For some time I complained about store bread, the baking industry has striven to correct me with proof positive that modern machinery and skill is not only equal but improved in every respect but is exactly what the public wants. They have proven it.

I guess I don't belong to the public. Because new and improved store bread tastes to me like fungus. Now it will be a bread critic, and divest a crumb breaks loose from it. It saws like a puff ball. It is adhesive, and it has by my aplique palate, nurtured on hello soggy autumn.

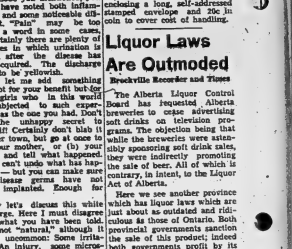
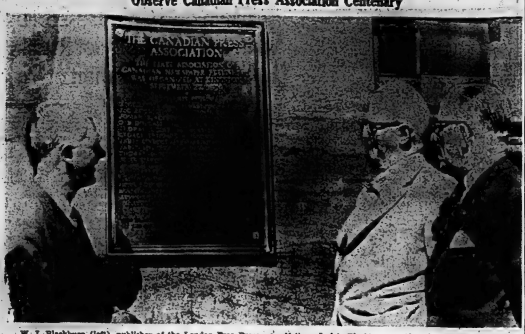
Liquor Laws Are Outmoded

Brockville Recorder and Times



The Alberta Liquor Control Board has requested that Alberta breweries to cease advertising soft drinks on television programs. The explanation is that while the breweries were astensibly sponsoring soft drinks sales were indirectly promoting the sale of beer. All of which is contrary, in intent, to the Liquor Act of Alberta.



Here we see another province which has liquor laws that are as outdated and ridiculous as those of Ontario. Both provinces are dependent upon the sale of this product; indeed both governments profit by its sale inasmuch as they share in the revenues. Yet at the same time the manufacturers of liquor and beer are treated much as criminals and are denied their right to advertise their wares in the same way as any other legitimate product. This farce, and that is exactly what it is, is further enhanced by the fact that the Canadian public in any case, is exposed to American liquor and beer advertising in all American mediums of public communication.

As two cases in point the laws governing the controlling and marketing of beer and spirits in both provinces are outmoded and ridiculous in this age in which we live. The public expects more sensible laws in government. If breweries and distilleries resort to ridiculous and unnecessary subterfuge and methods of advertising, it is because they are forced to do so by equally ridiculous legislation.

Moon Shot Puts Eisenhower At Decided Disadvantage In Meeting With Khrushchev

By HEROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia's successful moon shot has put President Eisenhower at a decided disadvantage in his meeting with Premier Khrushchev.

It not only has tended to give Russia world attention away from such earthly crises as Berlin and Asia, but has brought new admiration for Soviet technology and downgraded United States space achievements.

In fact the planting of the Soviet peasant on the moon has raised the question of whether Russia has thus achieved sovereignty over that celestial body. It has brought U.S. legal experts into the rather ludicrous position of trying to establish argument why Russia is not entitled to the moon.

And while they wallow in this absorbing question, U.S. diplomats feel Khrushchev will attempt to maintain the momentum of his advantage by unfolding some new proposal, by making some new gesture or concession that will continue to absorb and fascinate the world.

But they feel that Khrushchev will yield little or nothing in essential issues, such as the question of reunifying East and West Germany or bringing Communist aggression to an end in Asia.

Eisenhower, in turn appears to have nothing to unfold to counter the impact of the Russian moon shot or to offset Khrushchev's propaganda skill. The U.S., it is true, fired its first operational intercontinental Atlas missile across the Pacific to Wake Island last week.

And the U.S. plans to try to put a rocket on the moon next month. But Defence Secretary Neil McElroy already has conceded that Russia may have up to 10 intercontinental missiles and there is no assurance that next month's rocket shoot will succeed.

The political tendency in the U.S. is therefore to attempt to draw away from Russia's achievements and reduce their importance.

Vice-President Richard Nixon says the Russian space exploit is "nothing to get hysterical about. Scientifically and educationally, we are way ahead of the Soviets."

He even has questioned whether the Soviet rocket actually landed on the moon.

Space scientists in the U.S. and Europe, in contrast, have prais.

Ron Mitchell Receives Severe Burns

END THURLOW — The many friends and neighbors and school mates of Master Ronald Mitchell are sorry to hear of his accident on Saturday night. While burning garbage at his home a sudden flash of fire flared up, burning his face, arms and chest. He had the presence of mind to roll in the grass, extinguishing the blaze.

He was rushed to the Bellville General Hospital, where he was treated for severe burns. He is progressing as well as can be expected and will be a patient in the hospital from two to three weeks.

All wish him a complete and speedy recovery.

the U.S. dollar "costs Canada plenty," the 76-year-old industrialist said.

Mr. Eaton advocated a forceful stand by Canada to establish parity between Canadian and American dollars, but complete economic independence from the U.S. would be "utterly impossible" because the two economies are inextricably inter-twined.

Life Expectancy for Military Pilots Improves Every Year Despite Many More Hazards

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—Back in 1921 when military pilots flew by luck and the seat of their pants, there was a major crashup for every 197 hours in the air.

Life expectancy for military pilots has improved almost every year since that all-time high in hazard, but the death toll in United States air force, navy and marine aircraft accidents remains shockingly heavy.

During the five peacetime years, 1954 through 1958, 6,181 U.S. servicemen were killed in military crashes. That's an average of slightly more than 100 men a month over the five years.

Last year 804 air force planes crashed ago, killing 705 men. In the 12 months ending June 30, the U.S. navy had 696 major plane accidents and 308 deaths.

The raw figures look frightening, but the totals are high because of the millions of hours flown. From the risky days of 1921 to 1958, the major accident rate for each 100,000 hours of flying time in the air force dropped from 506 to 10.3. It has continued to fall despite introduction of faster "hotter" jet planes.

The navy's accident rate also is improving and stands 26 per 100,000 flight hours for the year ended June 30. The navy rate is higher than the air force's because of more dangerous carrier landings.

By contrast, the accident rate for scheduled civilian airlines is 173 per 100,000 hours of flying.

The air force says there were 9,648 flying hours for every major accident in 1958, compared to 197 hours of flying per accident in 1921.

Maj.-Gen. Joseph C. Caldara, air force deputy inspector-general for safety, says: "While the accident rate has been lowered from 44 per 100,000 hours when we first got jets in 1947 to 10.3 last year, the chance that an aircraft involved in an accident would be totally destroyed has risen. In 1947 one in six major accidents resulted in a pilot death. Last year one in three of the majors resulted in a pilot's loss of life."

The air force has found the accident rate of its supersonic fighters—the century series of F102s, F101s, F102s, F104s, F103s and F105s—to be no worse than that of the subsonic jets.

The navy says its record in the first year of fewer injuries, fewer aircra't destroyed, and fewer carrier accidents occurred despite the second year of extensive carrier operation of the new supersonic and near - supersonic jets.

The air force declines to estimate the cost of its aircraft accidents, but the navy places its accident costs at more than $5,500,000 a week.

Who is to blame for military accidents? "All aircraft accidents are the result of a series of unhappy coincidences," says Caldara. "A single accident can have as many as 15 causes, from the breakdown of a part to the man who put the wrong fuel in."

Military pilots are blamed for about one-third of the accidents in which they are killed, but the blame is declining steadily as the primary cause. Caldara attributes this chiefly to better training and more thorough education of pilots and crew members alike.

The air force has found that the first 200 hours of jet time are the most dangerous for a pilot changing over from conventional aircraft.

With jets as with other aircraft, the takeoff is a highly critical part of the flight.

Collisions in air are an increasing danger because of the terrific closing speeds of jets, and the physical limitations of the human eye. "We must support the pilot with something in the cockpit to give him adequate warning of another aircraft," says Caldara.

Many military air fields now are equipped with barriers to arrest the landing roll of jet planes. The air force estimates that over the last three years, if an effective arresting barrier had been available at every base where it has been needed, 82 major accidents could have been prevented, 13 pilots lives saved, and $23,000,000 in aircraft loss or damage avoided.

Memorial Arena Brine Pump to Be Replaced

Failure of part of the artificial ice equipment which needs replacement will mean that no ice will go in at the Belleville Memorial Arena for possibly three weeks.

This was learned by city council last night when Alderman Claude Tice noted that a brine pump had failed and would have to be replaced before any ice could be made.

He said the pumps would have to be ordered from the Canadian Ice Machine Company and would cost $593 installed. Delivery date would be at least three weeks, he said.

Council authorized the expenditure.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Audrey May, younger daughter of Mrs. Alfred B. Stewart, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Stewart, to Robert Maurice, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mallory, R.R. No. 2, Frankford, Ontario. Marriage to take place October 10, at 3 o'clock, in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, Ontario.

HANLEY—TAYLOR

The Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, was decorated with pink and white gladioli for the recent wedding of Miss Anna Mary Monica Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taylor, Marlbank, and Mr. Joseph William Hanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hanley, of Read.

The Rev. Justin Hanley, brother of the bridegroom, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, and offered the Nuptial Mass. The Rev. J. F. Feeney was present in the sanctuary.

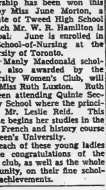
The soloist was Mr. Ronald Cassidy, Tweed, accompanied by Mr. Ambrose Kidd, church organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of white silk organza with side fullness, and a lavish applique of Chantilly lace on the bodice and skirt. Her elbow-length veil of tulle illusion fell from a headdress of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Joan Taylor, Marlbank, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Mary Anne Hunt of Newburgh, Ontario, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in short dresses of mint green silk organza featuring a roll neckline, full skirts trimmed with large bows. They wore matching headbands of tulle and sequins, and carried cascades of bronze and yellow mums.

Mr. James Hanley Jr., Bancroft, attended his brother as best man. The ushers were Mr. Basil Hanley, Read, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Eugene Taylor, Toronto, brother of the bride.

The reception which followed, was held at Cedar Bend Lodge, Beaver Lake.



The bride's mother received the guests wearing a grey-blue crepe dress with dusty rose accessories and a corsage of pink Delight roses.

Because of the illness of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Taylor was assisted in receiving by Mrs. John Boyle, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a sheath dress of beige lace over taffeta with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For a wedding trip through the Eastern United States, the bride donned a fitted dress and jacket costume of moss green bilin and bilin with beige accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

SOMETHING a working mother can do to help her pre-schooler feel more secure is to "visit" him by telephone, in the middle of the day. Such a call assures him she doesn't forget all about him while she's gone. Just a pre-arranged brief chat in the lunch hour is all that's necessary.

The University Women's Club scholarship has been won this year by Miss June Morton, a graduate of Tweed High School of which Mr. W. R. Hamilton is principal. June is enrolled in the School-of-Nursing at the University of Toronto.

The Manly Macdonald scholarship, also awarded by the University Women's Club, will go to Miss Ruth Luxton. Ruth has been attending Quinte Secondary School where the principal is Mr. Leslie Reid. This fall she begins her studies in the honor French and history course at Queen's University.

To each of these young ladies go the congratulations of the donor club, as well as the whole community, on their fine scholastic achievements.

An increase in the number of bursaries granted from the Second War Memorial Trust Fund of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire to Canadian High School students entering Canadian Universities was announced by the National president, Mrs. A. K. Richardson, at the September meeting of the National Executive Committee.

Thirty bursaries (an increase of ten over last year), involving a total of $52,000 for 1959, will be given to individual students in amounts of $1,000 each to enable them to enter a Canadian university of their own choice leading to a university degree.

Women's Institute

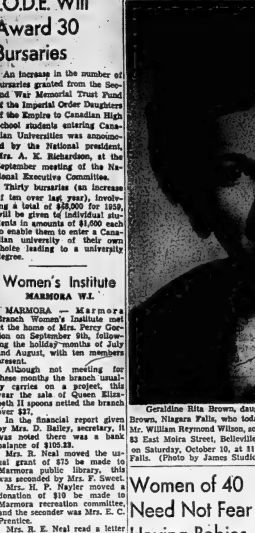
MARMORA W.I.

MARMORA — Marmora Branch, Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Percy Gordon on September 9th, following the holiday months of July and August, with ten members present.

Although not meeting for three months the branch usually carries on a project, this year the sale of Queen Elizabeth II spoons netted the branch over $37.

In the financial report given by Mrs. D. Bailey, secretary, it was noted there was a bank balance of $105.85.

Mrs. R. Neal moved the usual grant of $75 be made to Marmora public library, this was seconded by Mrs. F. Sweet.



Mrs. H. F. Naylor moved a donation of $10 be made to Marmora recreation committee, and the seconder was Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

Mrs. R. E. Neal read a letter from an English branch correspondent which was interesting.

The business of the evening was preparing plans and menu for catering to a September wedding.

A charter member of the branch, Mrs. Charles Nichol, asked she by excused from further active work for health. Mrs. Nichol was presented with a life membership some few years ago. Her presence at the meetings will always be welcomed. Mrs. Nichol read a fitting poem, "Push On", and was assistant hostess with Mrs. H. W. Sabine for the evening.

The October meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. W. Tindill when a "food auction" will be held.

Women of 40 Need Not Fear Having Babies

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP)—Three gynecologists presented evidence Sunday showing women over 40 need not be afraid of having children.

On the question of over-40 mothers, Dr. A. L. Higgins of Teaneck, N.J., told the annual meeting of the Society of Obstetricians and Gynecologists of Canada the dangers of giving birth at this age have "perhaps been exaggerated."

He said a study made of 21,000 mother—2.5 per cent of them over 40 — showed premature births were no more common among the older group than among the younger, deliveries were no more difficult, complications were no more frequent and the mortality rate was not above average.

He also found older women were more easy "to manage psychologic a lly" than younger women.

"I am convinced that the women over 40 should not be afraid pregnancy," he concluded.

Dr. D. C. McEwen of Regina reported a check of records of 12,000 mothers; during an eight-year period in a Regina hospital backed up Dr. Higdon's findings.

Mainland Chinese Corrupt In Image of Soviet Russia Says Newswoman of Visit

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—"Never before have so many millions of human beings been driven in such monumental tasks to accomplish the will of such an autocratic few."

That's the opinion Mrs. Jane Huckvale, Canadian newspaper woman, has of Communist China after spending 18 days there. She came here to counsel confidence on this Chinese Nationalist island with those on the Communist mainland.

"I feel that the people here on Formosa are the real Chinese, not the Chinese on the mainland corrupted in the image of Soviet Russia," Mrs. Huckvale told reporters. She works for the Lethbridge, Alta., Herald.

She was one of 18 Canadians who visited Communist China at their own expense. The trip was arranged by the state - owned travel service.

EXCERPTS FROM DIARY

The diary she kept during the trip includes the following excerpts:

"By indoctrination and incessant talk about the joys of so-called liberation, they (the Red Chinese) are conditioned to perform super human physical tasks.

"Female society is one which tries to make the people believe that to be a draft animal is a noble thing."

Mrs. Huckvale said of Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Chinese Communist party: "You can't escape him anywhere in Red China."

"There are busts of him in hotels, shops, factories, airports —in fact everywhere."

Mrs. Huckvale found the "break-up of family life dreadful —it's heartbreaking."

Mrs. Li Tah-chuan, vice-president of the Communist Chinese Woman's Federation, told Mrs. Huckvale Chinese women under the commune system to have been "emancipated from the drudgery of household work to the joys of useful labor in farm field and factory."

Because of the new-found joys of working on farms and in factories, Mrs. Li said, Chinese women do not want many children.

Mrs. Huckvale said she saw 25 women, two of them pregnant, hauling a road-mending machine.

"They were all straining on a rope and it looked like a land version of the Volga boatmen," she observed.

Communist officials told her 62 per cent of all farm labor is done by women. Most of the men live separately from their wives, she said.

Everywhere Mrs. Huckvale went, she said, she found the Communists hailing peace on one hand and preaching hate against the United States on the other. Great Britain, she said, also is the target of abuse.

Increasing Trend Toward 'Patching Up' Marriages

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: TO BE A GOOD TALKER

If you want to be a good talker, keep your eyes and ears open for interesting conversation-fodder. Be aware. Look . . . listen . . . and read!

ACCEPTING OR REGRETING FORMAL INVITATION TO WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just received a formal invitation to a church wedding and to the reception following the ceremony. The reception card requests a reply. What is the proper way to reply — by note or telephone? If by note, please give me an example of the wording when one can attend and also when one cannot attend.

— A Reader

You must send a formal written reply, acceptance or regret, to a formal invitation to a wedding reception. (It is completely incorrect to reply by telephone, even to your closest relatives or most intimate friends.)

On double-sheet letter-paper or note-paper, spaced in the centre of the page, write the acceptance of the reception invitation like this (this is the short form, most often used today):

Miss Alice Reader
accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Brown
for
Tuesday, the sixth of October
at five o'clock

(Space the lines as I have indicated.)

And the regret:

Miss Alice Reader
regrets that she is unable to accept the very kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Brown
for
Tuesday, the sixth of October

HOW TO PRONOUNCE "CAVIAR"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Now that caviar is increasingly in the news, just how should it be pronounced? Some people seem to take delight in pronouncing the first syllable with a stiffy-sounding "car" . . . caviar. Is this correct? — Reader

No. The "a" in the first syllable of caviar should be pronounced like the flat "a" in "candy." (No stiffy sound here!)

CALGARY (CP)—A marriage counsellor here says there is an increasing trend toward "patching up" insecure marriages, rather than rushing to the divorce courts.

The statement was made by Cecelia Addy, executive director of the Calgary family service bureau, who heads a staff of five marriage counsellors.

They deal with persons from all walks of life, with all sorts of marital problems such as the raising of children, religious differences, relations with in-laws, alcoholism and infidelity.

"Marital problems are certainly not any more common among people with low incomes than with people in the 'income brackets,'" Mrs. Addy said in an interview.

"A lack of sufficient income, however, or poor housing facilities can often put a strain upon a marriage."

SICK MARRIAGES

Charges of infidelity are one of the most common problems encountered at the bureau, she said.

"Infidelity is a symptom of a sick marriage. Had it been a good marriage, then neither would have been likely to become interested in anyone else."

Mrs. Addy said the fact that infidelity has been admitted does not save a marriage. The reason for such infidelity was the important thing.

"If a wife is unfaithful, it may be because her husband has given her very little love or affection. On the other hand she may be an irresponsible type of person incapable of being loyal to any one person."

Also infidelity could be a childish way of "getting even" with one's marriage partner.

Mrs. Addy believes that one of the first steps toward healing a strained marriage is the ability of a man and wife to discuss their problem.

"Many of the women whom we counsel have already spoken to their husbands before they come here, but if they haven't we hope that after they leave they will be able to go to him and talk it over. This is at least a beginning."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two members. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by reasonable agencies and counsellors.

Emily R. — He enjoys the company of his cronies better than mine.

Alfred R. — She expects miracles out of married life.

Emily R. — My husband and I are in our early 30's and have been married a year. My problem is that my husband seems to enjoy the company of his old cronies more than mine.

I fixed up a nice home when we got married but Al just does not seem to enjoy it. After dinner he watches TV for a while and then gets restless. He goes down for a couple of beers with the boys. I have called up some of my old friends but they are mostly dating or married and have babies to take care of. I don't feel like spending the evening alone or babysitting.

I plan to continue working until we have a baby. I work hard at my job and want to enjoy myself evenings. We go out together only about twice a week.

Alfred R. — Emily expects miracles out of married life. She accuses me of being restless but she is worse than I am. She thinks that we can go on the way we did before we got married — going out nearly every evening.

I feel that you don't have to give up all your old friends just because you are married. I enjoy shooting the breeze with the boys. I don't see why Emily can't get some fun out of being with her friends.

It seems to me that two nights out a week is enough. You can't keep hanging around the house all the time or you get bored. Emily always throws up to me how hard she works, but I work too. It's all for our own future.

The Council: Neither Emily nor Al appears to have accepted the fact that they now have to build a new kind of life.

Despite the fact that she is the complaining party, Emily gives no indication of having done much more than Al about setting up this new life. Fixing up a nice home is one step, but it is just a beginning. That nice home needs some further attractions in the form of human beings.

Emily doesn't mention whether or not she has invited friends to her home, whether or not she has tried to become a part of any social circle. Obviously her husband wants contacts with other human beings. If a wife doesn't accept social responsibility, the husband is likely to find his companionship among carefree, loose men — bachelors or other men escaping from the dull confines of their homes.

Al, on the other hand, doesn't recognize that marriage calls for a change in the relationship that existed between old friends. One does not have to give them up, but one cannot continue the associations merely as it existed. "Hanging out with the boys" is fine on occasion, but it should be well-tempered by other relationships with other married couples.

The boredom that is already undermining this marriage can have serious consequences. Emily and Al should not passively wait for a child to save them from the doldrums. They should find activities — community, church, social or personal hobbies — that will help them live more meaningful lives.

With My Gloves On

by Mary Moore

I suppose nearly everyone knows how to make an apple pie, but because Peter's mother made such a delicious one when we called there this week I want you to brush up on your technique.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Chicken and Cheese Savory Pie (with leftover chicken from Monday); Fruit Chili Sauce (see Monday); Rosebud Beets Vinaigrette; Spinach; Chilled Compote of Peaches and Red Plums; Cocoanut Macaroons; Coffee.

Right now the best apples to use for your pies are Gravenstein, Transparent, Duchess, Melba, Wealthy. I used Gravensteins.

PERFECT APPLE PIE

Pastry: (for one 2-crust 9" pie). 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour or 2 1-4 cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup shortening, well-chilled, 1-4 to 1-3 cup ice water.

Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in half the shortening with pastry blender or two knives until pieces are size of peas. Then cut in remaining shortening leaving some pieces larger than peas. Sprinkle water, a little at a time, over flour mixture and toss lightly with a fork. When adding more water moisten a dry portion each time. When just enough to hold together under slight pressure form into two balls, flatten and chill while preparing filling for pie.

FILLING: 5 to 6 cups peeled, cored sliced apples, 1-3 to 3-3 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon or pastry spice, 1 tablespoon butter.

Place half of dough on a lightly floured board and roll to a circle about 12" in diameter. Line pie pan, being careful not to stretch dough. Combine sugar and spice. Place apples and sugar mixture in alternate layers on lower crust. Dot with butter. Roll out other half of dough and cut steam vents. Moisten edge of lower crust and place top pastry loosely over fruit. Trim pastry even with edge of pie pan, press and crimp edge. Brush top crust with egg yolk diluted with 2 tablespoons cold water. Bake at 425 deg Fahr. 40 to 55 minutes.

PUFFY PIE

1). Sprinkle one tablespoon lemon juice over very sweet apples. 2). Cranberries, raisins, currants or mincemeat may be substituted for a portion of the apples. 3). A cheese crust may be made by adding 1-3 cup grated Cheddar to the dry pastry ingredients.

BETTER FOODS build better families!

Beginning this week, The Ontario Intelligencer — and newspapers all over the country — will begin a concerted two-week drive to focus attention on one of the basic necessities of your life — food.

Food manufacturers, distributors and local retailers will be co-operating in this nation-wide movement — identified by the symbol shown on this page — "Better Meals Build Better Families."

The desire of your daily newspaper and people in the food business is to emphasize the importance of the family meal as the traditional gathering place for the family. The family meal rather than meals on the run is not only more nourishing but it makes for a better, more cohesive family relationship. A closer family is a better family.

Your daily newspaper is spearheading this drive because the newspaper is the number one means of food communication. Food is news — and the newspaper delivers this news daily through its food pages and through the advertisements of retailers and manufacturers.

You will be reading all about the "Better Meals Build Better Families" campaign in the days come. Look for announcements in the pages of your "Total Selling" medium — the daily newspaper.

American League Nears Homer Record Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — American League batters have shot the junior circuit to within easy striking distance of its home run record.

But what has happened to the .300 hitters?

While only six players showed averages of .300 or higher after Sunday's games, the American League home run total soared to 1,033. This is only 42 less than the loop's mark of 1,075 set in 1956.

The home run breakdown by clubs was: Cleveland 161, Washington 156, Detroit 152, New York 145, Boston 120, Baltimore 106, Kansas City 105 and pennant-bound Chicago 88.

It's possible that only three players among those eligible for the batting title will finish over .300. They are Harvey Kuenn of Detroit, .327 leader at .320; Al Kaline, another Tigers' star, .326 and Pete Runnels of Boston, .313. Gene Woodling of Baltimore .304, Nellie Fox, Chicago .304 and Bill Tuttle, Kansas City, .300 can, if they continue to slump, fall into the .300 group which includes only Bob Cerv, Kansas City .294, Minnie Minoso, Cleveland .293, and Bobby Richardson, New York .291.

In fact, all six players over .300 lost ground last week.

Tito Francona of Cleveland leads all American League batsmen with a .377 average after 339 official times at bat. He will not, however, be eligible for the championship. The title requirement is 10 total appearances including bases on balls, sacrifices and hit by pitchers.

Riders' Feelings Not Players Are Injured

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders emerged from their fifth straight defeat Sunday with a carload of hurt feelings, but only one serious physical injury.

Defensive end Lou Bruce suffered a twisted knee in the second quarter and sat out the rest of the Big Four football game at Toronto. The club reported Monday he probably will miss Wednesday's game here against the Argonauts but should be able to play in Montreal next Saturday.

Riders also reported two new players. They are halfback Joe Kelly, a weekend cut of Los Angeles Rams of the United States National Football League, and homebrew tackle-linebacker Jim Hughes.

Jack Kinsella wrote in the Ottawa Citizen that the game with Argos was "the worst display of Big Four has produced in a decade, or perhaps even longer."

Fight Probe Resumes Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission hearing on the promotional angles of the June 20 heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson was resumed today.

A representative of the district attorney's office and Vincent Velela, associated in the promotion as a director of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., were due to testify.

The commission suspended Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, when he failed to show up for Monday's hearing after being notified in a letter Sept. 2 to appear.

Bill Rosensohn, promoter of the fight and former president of Rosensohn Enterprises, discussed at length his dealings with Tony Salerno, D'Amato, Charley Black and others involved in the Patterson-Johansson affair.

Salerno is a shadowy figure who is understood to be the man whose advice Rosensohn sought, and Black is a close associate of D'Amato.

Rosensohn revealed that he and four others sold a block of 200 press tickets for $8,000, and split the profits. The others, he said, were Beckley, Black, Salerno and D'Amato.

He said he relinquished his ancillary rights, or TV, movie and radio profits, a week before the fight when Salerno told him D'Amato was considering pulling out of the affair.

Rangers Play Petes Tonight

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Coach Phil Watson of the New York Rangers has named a squad of 20 players for tonight's opening National Hockey League exhibition game in Peterborough against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Four lines, three sets of defencemen and two goalies were named following Rangers' last practice session before the preseason clash.

Regular netminder Lorne (Gump) Worsley and Marcel Paille, formerly of the American Hockey League Buffalo Bisons, will share the goal assignment.

In front of them will be veterans Bill Gadsby, Ian Cushenan, Harry Howell, Lou Fontinato, Jack Hannah and rookie Irwin Spencer.

The forward lines will consist of Brian Cullen as centre to Ken Schinkel and Eddie Shack, captain Red Sullivan playing with Andy Hebenton and Jimmy Bartlett, Dean Prentice with Les Ingarfield and Larry Popein, and top-scoring star Andy Bathgate with Art Stratton, ex-Cleveland Barons centre, and Camille Henry.

Hawks Meet Rangers in NHL Opener

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League announced today that the 1959-60 schedule will open Wednesday, Oct. 7 with Chicago Black Hawks as hosts to New York Rangers.

A single game is also scheduled for the following night, Oct. 8, when Boston Bruins play in Montreal against the champion Canadiens.

The annual all-star game will be played in Montreal Saturday, Oct. 3, when the first and record all-star teams go against the Stanley Cup titleholders.

Each team plays a 70-game schedule—35 games at home and 35 on the road. The schedule ends Sunday, March 20.

Opening home dates for other clubs are:

Toronto Maple Leafs: Oct. 10, against Chicago.

Boston Bruins: Oct. 10, against New York.

Detroit Red Wings: Oct. 11, against New York.

New York Rangers: Oct. 14, against Boston.

The Rangers and Canadiens each play four games in five days on four different occasions. The four-time situation confronts the Boston club three times: Toronto, Detroit and Chicago twice each.

Most popular dates continue to be Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, with a scattering of others. Detroit Red Wings have the only Monday date—Nov. 16.

There will be 11 Saturday afternoon games telecast nationally in the United States. The first is Jan. 9. Detroit has an earlier Saturday afternoon game —Dec. 5—on its home schedule.

Blake Signs 3-Year Contract

Updates 8177 day

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Toe Blake, 47, with a record string of seven straight Stanley Cups in as many seasons as pilot of Montreal Canadiens, signed a three-year contract Monday, then watched the annual training camp opening.

There was a full turnout of 56 on the ice. Among them were 35-year-old Maurice (Rocket) Richard, ready for his 18th season in the National Hockey League. Jean Beliveau and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

The veteran Rocket, the league's all-time scoring leader, was smiling when the brief workout ended.

"I feel the same as I did at this time last year—but then I got hurt," he said. Two injuries limited his playing last season.

NFL Is Ready For Expansion

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell said Monday he feels his National Football League will expand to 14 teams in 1961, and possibly 16 in 1963.

"We're ready for expansion," said Bell at the league office here.

"There is a great demand for pro football all over the country," Bell said.

"Our owners apparently agree with me or they wouldn't have voted for the increase of the player limit from 35 to 36 players," he said.

The commissioner explained that the player increase was predicted on the proposition that each NFL club would contribute a minimum of two players—one to each new franchise—when expansion became a reality.

Pay $22,000 For Racehorse

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto partnership of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe paid $22,000 for the bay filly Delsaint, owned by Frank Selke of Montreal, at the 16th annual yearling sales of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society. The price was an all-time high for this sale.

Selke, managing director of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, consigned six yearlings and realized $47,900. Nearly one-third of the total $171,000 paid out by horsemen from Quebec, Ontario, Western Canada and the United States.

In addition to the $22,000 for Delsaint, Maloney and Smythe made a successful bid of $15,000 for Chalotype, a dark bay filly owned by Selke.

Dejanirs, bay filly by Chop Chop out of on The Fly, is a half-sister of Wonder Where, Canada's leading three-year-old filly.

BUY TWO PLAYERS

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League announced Monday they have purchased left-winger Jean-Marie Gosselin and defenceman Bob Robertson from Cleveland Barons of the Central League. They played for the Aces the last four seasons in the defunct Quebec Hockey League.

Six 'Amateurs' Join Ottawa Canadiens Pros

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull-Ottawa Canadiens will have about 35 players on hand next Monday when practices open for the opening season of the new Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The club will hold two practices daily in preparation for an exhibition game Sept. 24 against Toronto Maple Leafs and the EPHL opener Oct. 11 against Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, both at the Hull Arena.

About six players who played last year with Canadiens in the OHA Senior A eastern division started workouts Monday with the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

They included netminder Claude Cyr, defenceman John Lecagnai and Jean - Claude Tremblay and forwards John Annable, Bob Ellett and Guy Black.

WAIVER WITHDRAWN

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have lost an attempt to claim slugger Vic Wertz from the Boston Red Sox on waivers. The Tigers said Boston had removed the first baseman from the waiver list. Detroit had hoped to use Wertz at first base for the remainder of the season.

SPARKS SHOOTING RISE — Frank Opsal, 28-year-old holder of the Canadian and British Columbia over-all trapshooting titles, has sparked a rise in the sport in British Columbia. A Vancouver equipment salesman, Opsal started shooting only seven years ago. He won the Canadian singles title in 1956 and the Canadian high over-all crown at Edmonton last fall. (CP Photo).

Indians Win City Bantam Baseball Title

The Indians captured the city bantam baseball championship over the weekend, by defeating the Dodgers 8-4 to climax a very tight series.

Indians won two games in the two-of-three series with one other game ending in a tie.

The champs were never behind in this deciding tilt but the Dodgers rallied twice, once to tie the game at 3-3 and again to pull within one run in the top of the sixth. A pair of runs in the bottom of the sixth clinched the title for the Indians.

Bobby Boyle was the hero for the Indians, both on the pitching rubber and at the plate. He tossed eight-hit ball over the distance and struck out 14.

Boyle also led his club with the stick, rapping three hits including one home run. Art Lucas also had three hits while Bill Ryan clouted two.

McBride gave up 10 hits on the Dodger mound while whiffing eight. Work paced the Dodger hitters with three hits while Mullin collected a pair.

"Because he has no idea where the clay will fly or at what angle, it is a greater test of skill. In addition, the competitor has a chance to win optional money and cover his expenses."

BIGGEST EVENT

Some clubs put up varying amounts to attract shooters. The largest is $17,500 at the annual shoot of the Golden West club at Reno, Nev. Some contestants win as much as $3,000 in this event.

Last May, Opsal won $2,300 in the five-day tournament.

"I have always done well in shoots," said Opsal. "In the first two shoots I entered I won more than $1,000. I now make about 14,000 to 15,000 a year.

"I never tried to make a living by touring the trapshoot circuit. But a good shooter is handicapped so greatly it's almost impossible to break even."

Because the money won is actually a bet placed by contestants, trapshooters are considered amateurs, and compete in international sports meets such as the Olympics and Pan-American Games.

Opsal and Earl Caldwell represented Canada in the 1956 Olympics, but he says they had a bad time. "I'm just waiting to try again in 1960."

He won the Canadian singles championship in 1956, the first year it was held, and won the Canadian high over - all crown at Edmonton last fall, potting 771 of 800 targets.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seven years ago Frank Opsal was a young city slicker who had never fired a gun.

Today the 30 - year - old Vancouver equipment salesman is acknowledged one of the continent's shotgun experts, Canadian and British Columbia overall trapshooting king. His success has sparked a rise in skeet and trapshooting in B.C.

Opsal's introduction to skeet shooting was an afternoon of practice with an uncle. "I really enjoyed it,and a week later joined the club, bought my first shotgun and soon was spending most of my free hours practising," said Opsal.

About eight months from his casual start he was classified as a double A shooter, the top grade.

"But skeet shooting is an expensive hobby," said Opsal. In large shoots the entry fees, shells and clay targets might cost $100 plus transportation and lodging.

"There is little variety in it," Opsal said. "I got tired of just winning trophies." He has won 86 in seven years.

He explained the difference between skeet and trapshooting: "In skeet shooting there are but two traps, and the targets are thrown out at a constant height, angle and speed. Only the shooter changes position, shooting when he is ready.

"In trapshooting there is one large trap and the clay is thrown out from various positions in the trap at varying angles and heights and at speeds of about 60 miles an hour. The shooter

VANCOUVER (CP)—Over the years, raising funds has proved one of the greatest stumbling blocks to improved achievements in amateur athletics.

Few have realized this more than Merv Ferguson, Bob Osborne and K. D. McKenzie of Vancouver.

This is why they sowed the seeds from which grew the British Columbia Amateur Sports Council, a voluntary group devoted to encouragement—privately through financial assistance —of participation of B. C. athletes in national and international competitions.

Its objectives are clearly set out and its success in its first year has been reasonably good.

FOUR-YEAR TARGET

When the council was formed early this year it set a $100,000 four - year financial goal, with $30,000 the 1959 objective, and it blasted a three-point aim.

To stimulate province - wide interest in international competitions such as the British Empire Olympic and Pan - American Games; to provide continuing financial support to supplement individual clubs and sports when they had extraordinary expenses; to stimulate B.C. athletes to raise their performance standard.

Professor Osborne is head of the physical education faculty at the University of British Columbia. Mr. Ferguson is president of the B.C. Amateur Athletic Union, and Mr. McKenzie is a former president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The plan they fostered has grown through the A.A.U. of B.C., the university, the B.C. Olympic and Empire Games Association, the Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce and the B.C. branch of the Canadian Legion.

ATHLETES BENEFIT

The British Columbia athletes who took part in trials for the Canadian Pan - American Games — and especially the 61 from B.C. who went to Chicago for the Games — reaped the results. The sports council is footing expenses of between $22,000 and $24,000 for the trials and the B.C. competitors' trip to Chicago.

"We have the support of a great number of very prominent people in B.C.," said McKenzie, chairman of the council, "and while we'll probably fall a little short of our $30,000 objective this year, we'll raise enough to cover our actual outlay."

Lieutenant - Governor Frank Ross is patron and an active supporter and among the honorary members are Premier W. A. C. Bennett, former Vancouver mayor Fred Hume, A. E. (Dal) Grauer, president of B.C. Electric, and other prominent B.C. businessmen.

"Baseball! Make an unassisted triple play when there's two outs already!"

The provincial government has thrown in financial support, too —to the tune of $10,000, with $6,000 earmarked for the national Pan - American Games committee and the remainder to the B.C. council fund. Other finances are raised through voluntary donations from various sources.

McKenzie says the council is trying to co - ordinate fund-raising activities of the individual sports bodies, and that there is hope the B.C. council may be the forerunner of a national group with similar aims.

Right now the council is planning a campaign for another $30,000 next year to finance B.C. athletes' participation in events leading to the Rome Olympics.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Jack Carson, Ontario Baseball Association vice-president, sat in his car at the Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon, booed over the well-kept baseball diamond and heaved a nostalgic sigh.

Out there on the diamond two teams of pee-wee baseballers from Newcastle and Cananoque were going through the throes of a third-game playdowns "decider." A dozen people or so were in the grandstand.

"It will come back," Jack muttered through ruminating lips. He relaxed slightly when a plaid-shirted outfielder made a fine running catch of a towering fly to deep centre.

"Meaning what?" he was asked.

"Senior baseball," said the guy whose deepest sports love is baseball, and who has never given up hope of bringing back the senior brand to a city that without doubt has baseball virus in its blood.

This was proven beyond the shadow of a doubt on the "weekend" when packed stands and bleachers greeted two baseball games played at the CNRA Park and the Exhibition Park diamond.

The attendance at both games also gave this observer the impression that "weekend" sport would meet with the wholehearted approval of the greater majority of fans.

"What better way to spend part of the day than this," said our scribe. He wasn't at all concerned about missing at the Fair Grounds. The sun was shining warmly and brightly. A tempering breeze swept in from the west. In the stands shirt-sleeved fans rearied their approval or disapproval, depending on whom baseball ox was being gored. It was perfect baseball weather.

All that was lacking to round out the color of an old-fashioned baseball crowd was the "barkers" selling their peanuts, popcorn and soft drink wares.

Senior baseball passed away, or shall we say, went into a coma here a few years ago when it was the year of "Hurricane Hazel," when a Belleville team and Oakville were battling for the championship. In fact the issue was never settled, for "Hazel" ripped through Ontario preventing the "Oaks" from filling their end-of-season here. Both teams decided to call it off and "split" the championship.

Since that time many, what proved to be fruitless efforts, have been made to resurrect the game. Jack Carson has worked tirelessly year after year, contacting this person or team management in an effort to get a league organized.

At one time baseball people here and in Kingston had high hopes of forming an international league with teams from south of the border including with Canadian clubs. It went so far that representatives from here and Kingston trekked to Watertown at the invitation of American interests. Things appeared to be in order when suddenly the Yankee clubs decided to call it off.

However, Carson is a tenacious rum. He refuses to say "uncle" to circumstance and as each spring rolls around, renews his efforts towards organization. This year he mailed letters to Kingston, Peterborough and Oshawa regarding the matter, but received no replies.

While there is life there is hope, and baseball as a sport is far from "dead" in this city. Thanks to the Belleville Minor Sports Organization, the game is thriving among the smaller fry, and thanks to some other people, the city has a Junior squad that ranks with the best in this part of the province.

And therein lies the hope for senior baseball in the not-too-distant future. Kingston, Peterborough, Oshawa and Lindsay are bringing along fine junior squads and as Time takes its inexorable toll, everything augurs well for a too-too-far-away upper-brackets loop.

LOOK WHO'S COMING!!!

Well, if ever brawn met brains, it happens here Friday night when Don Lee Jonathan teams up with Hardrolled Haggerty in an effort to take apart Whipper Billy Watson and Sam Steamboat in a tag-team tussle.

Now there's one for the books . . . Don Lee and "Hard-rolled" as a comery a pair of cusses as ever came down the wrestling pike while the Whip and Steamboat are fast, clever and unafraid. It should be a dilly of a brawl. Also on the card are Ian Campbell and Jack Lazelle, and Tiger Tasker and newcomer from Australia, Bud Cody.

Boxing returns to the city next Monday says promoter-manager Jack Fitzgerald who announces four outstanding five-round bouts along with exciting preliminaries. Grant O'Reilly meets Johnny Ray of Hamilton in a return grudge battle while Howard "Mezzy" Dean of Belleville hooks up with Junior White of Oshawa in the fourth five-round fray.

Indians Cling To Hope; Braves In Second Place

'Have a Chance' Says Gordon As Tribe Wins, Chisox Lose; Giants, Dodgers Lose Ground

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Strange how one victory can make a man adjust his point of view.

Sunday after his Cleveland Indians had lost twice and Chicago had won to boost its first-place margin to 5½ games, manager Joe Gordon greeted reporters:

"Come in and join the wake."

Monday, after his Indians had knocked off New York 8-5 while Boston was upending the White Sox 9-3, the same man said:

"I'm not ready to concede, still got a chance."

HAVE GAME IN HAND

Chicago has nine games left, Cleveland 10. If the White Sox win six, that's over. But all of Chicago's remaining games are against first-division clubs — two against New York, six against Detroit and one against Cleveland. On the other hand, only one Cleveland game is against a first-division club. Besides the one against the White Sox on Sept. 22, the Indians have seven against Kansas City and two against Boston.

In other games Monday, Washington blanked Detroit 5-0 and Baltimore whipped Kansas City 9-4.

Dick Donovan, seeking for the third time to post his 10th victory, had it all his own way with the ninth inning when Boston sent 12 batters to the plate and collected six hits. Five walks and six runs off four Chicago pitchers.

Frank Malzone hit a two-run single, Ted Williams singled in a run as a pinch hitter and Gene Stephens also singled in a run. That was enough for Bell Monbouquette to register his seventh victory in a route-going job.

DOWNS "COUSINS"

Cal McLish checked the Yankees for the sixth time this season. The big righthander had a shutout until the ninth when the Yankees pounded five runs across. It was the first time this season McLish found himself had driven in three Cleveland runs with a triple and single, and maybe the pitcher had knocked in three with a double and two singles.

McLish hasn't pitched a shutout since May 5, 1951. Last year he hurled eight scoreless games and this year he turned in seven.

Jim Lemon knocked his 32nd home run for Washington, fourth in the last five games, as Tribesman Clinton, normally a outfielder, stopped the Tigers with four hits. Washington rookie outfielder Dan Dobek had a triple and two singles.

Bob Nieman walloped a three-run homer as Baltimore ruined Kansas City rookie Al Grunwald's starting debut. Grunwald, who retired the first 18 batters and settled for a fifth-place as he notched his 10th success.

Lacrosse Finals Start Tonight

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Both coaches rate the opposition highly as East meets West tonight in the opening game of the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup and Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

Peterborough Mercurys are here to defend the trophy from New Westminster Royals, who have won it 13 times.

"Twice as good as the eastern team last year," commented Jake Proctor, chief of the New Westminster Lacrosse Club, as he watched the Mercurys.

"Strong," said Peterborough's Moon Wooton as he watched New Westminster practice Monday.

The smooth floor at Queen's Park Arena here is expected to give the Peterborough team a rough time. Eastern games are usually played on dirt.

BECOME ADJUSTED

Wooton said his players felt the floor "bothersome" after the initial workout but became adjusted after subsequent sessions.

Wooton, back after a two-year suspension imposed when the Canadian Amateur Association declared scoring star Bobby Allen ineligible and Peterborough refused to play in the Dominion final, says he has always played to win. He wept when he lost to Victoria in 1953 and vowed he wouldn't play again.

Peter have recruited Ron Roy and Florian Cliften for the playoff but Proctor has not said what Intercity Lacrosse League players he will pick up to bolster his team for the series. Rules allow four.

The playoff continues Sept. 17, 19 and 21. Other dates, if necessary, are Sept. 23, 25 and 26.

Boxer Loses, Floors Winner Slugs Referee

HAMILTON (CP) — Gerry McEachern of Moncton lost his Ontario amateur featherweight championship on a technical knockout Monday night, but not before he floored the winner and knocked the referee.

McEachern, from Moncton, N.B., unbeaten in 15 starts, was on the loose against Joey Le-Roy of Hamilton, became incensed when referee Tony Brandino stopped the fight to save him from further punishment.

He charged across the ring and the referee raised LeRoy's arm as victor, floored his opponent with a right, then turned on the official. His seconds grabbed the boxer before he could land a solid punch.

Gilchrist, Dekker, Simpson Top Scorers in Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—The accurate place-kicking toe of Toronto Argonauts' Cookie Gilchrist and the glue-fingered hands of Paul Dekker of Hamilton Tiger-Cats have knocked Bobby Simpson out of his spot as the undisputed scoring leader in the Big Four Football League.

Gilchrist, Dekker and Simpson, Ottawa Rough Riders' pass-catching ace, now share the leadership with 24 points each. Gilchrist, the core of Argos' defence as a linebacker, jumped from two down in the scoring standings by kicking four field goals for 12 points as Toronto beat Ottawa 19-6 Sunday while Simpson was being held scoreless.

Dekker moved up into the deadlock for first place by counting a touchdown as Montreal Alouettes defeated Hamilton 27-21 Saturday. He previously was in a four-way tie for second place.

AFTER FIVE GAMES

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that after five games Gilchrist, Dekker and Simpson hold a four-point lead over Bill Bewley who scored three converts Saturday. Dekker's and Simpson's totals are made up of four touchdowns and Gilchrist's from one touchdown, three converts and five field goals. Bewley's 20 points come from 12 converts, two field goals and two singles.

Six players are tied for fifth place, each with 18 points. They are Veryl Switzer and Bill Glossop of Montreal, Gerry Gallagall, Steve Oneschuk, Ron Howell, all of Hamilton, and Boyd Carter of Toronto.

The best touchdown performance of the weekend action was by Glossop, a new Montreal import from Texas A&M University. He caught two payoff passes from quarterback Sam Etcheverry to mark the 41-21 victory that tied them with Hamilton for the league lead.

HEADS OFFLU

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring race, Bailbadi Terry Meyer of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen regained the lead counting a touchdown as the Dutchmen trounced Detroit Raiders 36-6 Saturday. He now has seven touchdowns for 42 points, four more than backfielder Ernie White of Sarnia Golden Bears who booted two converts as the Bears were beaten 29-14 by Loudon Lords. White, tied with Meyer last week, has scored five touchdowns, seven converts and a single.

Ed Beattie of London is in third place with 36 points and one point behind him is Mike Norcia of Kitchener-Waterloo.

Glamor Boy Ronnie Knox Walks Out On Argonauts

Tells Coach Back Troubles Caused Him to Give up Game; Checks Out and Leaves Town

TORONTO (P)—Ronnie Knox walked out on Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union Monday night.

The 24-year-old import quarterback told Lew Hayman, Argos managing director, that he was worried about his troublesome back and had decided to give up the game.

Hayman spent 2½ hours trying to talk Knox out of the decision. Knox quickly checked out of his plush apartment and apparently left town. Hayman said Knox had indicated he was either going home to California or to Europe on a holiday.

Coach Hamp Pool said Knox had made no mention to him about departure plans.

PRE-SEASON INJURY

Knox injured his back and left shoulder in a pre-season exhibition against Saskatchewan Roughriders. He went to hospital Monday for x-rays but the plates didn't show anything serious.

Pool said he didn't think Ronnie's sudden departure had anything to do with the fact Gerry Doucette was started at quarter in Sunday's game here against Ottawa Rough Riders which Argos won 19-6, their second victory in five games.

"I know he has never indicated jealousy," Pool said. "You have to understand this kid's background before you can understand the things he does.

"The kid's been under pressure since he was 10 years old—almost forced to become a great football player. It's possible he has just reached the point where football doesn't offer him the appeal it did."

RAZZED BY FANS

Pool said he walked beside Knox when the team left the field after Sunday's game and heard him get a razzing from the fans.

"It took us about five minutes to reach the dressing room. All this time people were yelling things like 'Ronnie Knox you're a fraud,' and 'Hey Golden Boy, you're a fake.'

Pool said Knox got the same taunts in Ottawa and Montreal, "but I guess it's worse when you get it in your home town, too."

Pool said Argos will start Doucette again Wednesday night in their game at Ottawa although they have another import quarterback in reserve. He is rookie Johnny Green, 21, who posted a brilliant record at the University of Chattanooga.

After an exhibition game against Chicago Cardinals next month Pool called Green the best quarter he had ever seen, "outside of Knox."

In order to use Green Argos must use up another of their seven import changes allowed by Canadian rules. They used their first Sunday; benching Corky Sharp for tackle Ron Kissell.

NO FULL SEASONS

Ronnie has never finished a full season with one club. He came to Canada in 1958 after a great career at the University of Oregon in Los Angeles and joined Hamilton Tiger-Cats. After seven games his attitude, Ivor Harvie Knox and Ticat coach Jim Trimble had a dispute. Ronnie finished that season with Calgary Stampeders.

In 1957 he was drafted by Chicago Bears of the National Football League but was later suspended for failing to show up at practices. Last year he still never played a game for Chicago when Toronto got him on loan. Argonauts are said to have gained him for $18,000 this season.

Ronnie, who has dabbled in movie acting, was sensational in his late-season debut in 1958 with last-place Argos, and they nearly made a playoff spot.

This year Hayman arranged an extension of the loan of Knox from Chicago.

Chuvalo Seeks Yvon Durelle After Victory Over Daniels

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo went looking for a title defence against Yvon Durelle today on the strength of his seventh-round technical knockout Monday night of Frankie Daniels.

Chuvalo, a ham-fisted 22-year-old hunting for a second crack at the big time, said he wants a title bout within five weeks, preferably against Durelle, the British Empire light heavyweight champ from Belle Isle, Anne, N.B.

Daniels, a 31-year-old veteran of 59 outings from Bakersfield, Calif., was dumped twice in the scheduled 10-rounder, the second time with blood spurting from a cut over his left eye.

A doctor examined Daniels' eye and halted the fight at 1:35 of the seventh.

FANS UNHAPPY

Most of the 4,000 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens didn't appear to agree with the TKO decision but it later turned out that Daniels needed 8 stitches.

Chuvalo, 22 Saturday, showed a definite lack of timing in his first fight since his loss to Pat McMurtry in a televised New York bout last October. He had trouble hitting the evasive Daniels, who was 21 pounds lighter in 1959.

In the fifth the chunky Toronto youngster sent Daniels to his knees, and in the seventh a right crumpled the Californian. Daniels was up at the count of two both times but took the mandatory eight-count.

In the seventh referee Bobby Laurence called time when Daniels was out. Up to that point both judges had given Chuvalo every round and Laurence had it 4-3 in his favor. On points, judge Fred Nobert was scoring it 30-25 for Chuvalo, judge George Thorne 30-26 for Chuvalo and Laurence had it even.

It was Chuvalo's 12th win in 16 pro fights. Daniels has a record of 41 wins and 15 defeats.

Boros Captures Dallas Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Julius Boros shot a methodical par 70 to win the $25,000 Dallas open golf tournament Monday with a 274 for 72 holes as young Joe Gustin wilted under pressure.

Gustin, who started the final round tied with Boros for the lead, didn't even finish second.

Boros was eight-under par for the 72 holes and was given $6,500.

Tying for second were Earl Stewart of Dallas, who set a record for nine holes with a 29 in the first of a closing 64; Dave Ploerstewart of Tequesta, Fla., who had a 67-65, and Bo Winniger, who finished with a 68. All had 275 total.

Gustin had a 72, missing a short putt on the last hole for one over par when he could have tied for the lead had he gotten a birdie. He finished fifth with 276.

Stewart, Winniger and Winniger won $1,666.66 each. Gustin received $1,300.

Al Balding of Toronto finished out of the money with 73-72-70-73—288.

BC Lions Push Into Second With 14-8 Win Over Stamps

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions pushed into the giddy heights of second place Monday night, beating Calgary Stampeders 14-8 in a crucial Western Interprovincial Football Union game.

The win was only two points back of the league-leading Winnipeg Blue Bombers with the season at the halfway mark. B.C.'s five previous years in the league have almost invariably found them nudging the cellar position.

The victory broke a three-way tie for second place among Calgary, B.C. and Edmonton Eskimos.

Lions boosted their season attendance to 125,546 by packing a standing-room-only crowd of 32,716 into Empire Stadium.

Canadian fullback Billy Britton changed more from the sidelines in the dying minutes of the game to give B.C. the decision.

Quarterback Joe Kapp put Calgary on the scoreboard late in the first half when he threw 45 yards to halfback Lynn Bottoms in the B.C. end zone. Trimble converted.

Former all - American Randy Duncan got Lions going in the third quarter when his eight-yard pass reached end Bruno Claridge at the goal line. Vic Kristopaitis kicked the convert.

Brown put the Stamps in front again in the fourth quarter with a single on a 25-yard field goal attempt that went wide.

The winning touchdown by Britton also was converted by Kristopaitis.

Experts Claim U.S. Prisons Are Outmoded Snakepits of Human Despair, Grim, Dirty

By ROGER GREEN

NEW YORK (AP)—American prisons, beset by frequent bloody riots and moral dry rot, stand in need of another great wave of penal reform such as swept the country more than 150 years ago.

That's the finding, but the emphatic concensus of many leading penologists and prison officials.

In an era of growing enlightenment, experts say, too many Unfed institutions are outmoded snakepits of human despair, grim, soul-swelling bastilles where thousands of men are entombed year after year in a grey steel world.

Even hard - headed critics who accept any pie-in-the-sky-prisoner approach — "nobody invited them to a picnic" — are slowly beginning to realize that some U.S. prisons amount to virtually a national disgrace.

Then, too, recent comments by American visitors to Russia, not favorably comparing U.S. penal methods with Soviet prisons, have set off a fiery demands for a searching re-examination of the American penal system.

QUESTIONS SYSTEM

"More than 40 years as a prison official have led me to question not only the place but the effectiveness and the validity of the prison system in our society," says Dr. Frederick S. Baldi, former warden of Pennsylvania prisons.

Harry Elmer Barnes, noted sociologist and long - time advocate of penal reform, declares:

"We shall ultimately come to admit that society has been as unfortunate in handing over criminals to lawyers and judges as it once was in entrusting surgery to barbers."

"A hundred years ago we allowed lawyers and judges to have the control of the insane as they still exert over the criminal but we now recognize that insanity is a complex medical problem which we entrust to properly trained experts in the field of neurology and psychiatry.

"We may hope that in another 100 years the treatment of the criminal will be submitted to medical and sociological experts."

Some authorities contend that about half the country's prisoners could and should be turned out of prison — either shifted to a parole or correctional camps and farms or released on parole.

The day of the high-walled Big House, they say, should be ended for all but the toughest, most vicious and unregenerate offenders.

REFORMS IMPENDING?

The feeling among most leading officials today is that widespread reforms are impending — though progress will vary from region to region, state to state.

Penologists are taking a hard new look at the 200 jam-packed federal and state prisons which house over 200,000 convicts. And they're shouting for far-reaching reforms.

The result, they say, could be as revolutionary as the passing of the prison lockstep, ball and chain, zebra - striped uniform, shaven head, the sweatbox and the dread silent system which drove men insane.

The most pressing immediate need, according to many wardens, is the establishment of a psychiatric clinic in every prison to weed out the hopeless defectives and degenerates—and keep them apart.

Chevrefils Says He's Through

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran forward Real Chevrefils says he has abandoned hopes of making a comeback in the National Hockey League because he has no confidence in himself.

Chevrefils, 27, tryies out this year with Detroit Red Wings after seven season with Boston Bruins, told Red Wing General Manager Jack Adams Monday he plans to go home to Timmins. He did not reveal his future plans. Adams expressed regret at the decision.

"There's a lot of hockey left in him but I don't know how we can get it out of him. He gave him every opportunity. Cherry has lost his confidence. He doesn't believe he can do it with the NHL anymore."

Chevrefils scored one goal in 30 games for Boston last season. He spent most of the year with Spring field Indians in the American Hockey League. The Wings still hold his contract, had given Chevrefils permission to try out with the Wings.

Todd's New Picture Made In Smell-O-Vision Process

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Lorre is alive today because a Spanish surgeon resorted to the ancient medical practice of bleeding.

That's the word from Michael Todd, Jr., and Jack Cardiff, producer and director of Scent of Mystery, the movie Lorre was waiting when he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage last May.

"When I heard what the doctor did," says young Todd, "I thought it was absolutely barbaric. But there's no doubt but that is what saved him—and, in a way, us, too."

The picture, made in Todd's new Smell-O-Vision process, is the first picture ever made to smell on purpose. It was half finished when Lorre suffered his stroke.

"We got five of the top heart specialists in Spain there immediately," says Cardiff. "They all shook their heads and said death was just a matter of hours.

"Then our company doctor cut him and let him bleed. He said it would reduce the blood pressure. It did."

Lorre was back 'before the cameras in less than two weeks. and finished the picture.

Todd said it costs about $17,000 to equip a theatre with the special equipment that sifts enable the audience to smell as well as see and hear the movie.

"We are playing it all for laughs," says Todd. "We don't expect our picture to win any art awards, but I guarantee audiences will have fun."

The smell process will be worked for gags as much as sight was used in old movie comedies. In one scene Denham Elliott, the hero, and Lorre sit at a table and order coffee. As the camera focuses on Elliott's cup, the audience will get a whiff of fresh coffee. As the camera closes in on Lorre's cup, the smell will be that of brandy.

The Smell - O - Vision process works by individual seat with the smells being piped in synchronization to the action of the film.

AT THE PARK — Glynn Johns stars with Rossano Brazzi in the comedy romance "Count Your Blessings", in Color by Eastman, opening Wednesday at the Park Theatre. On the same program is the controversy of the century, "A Question of Adultery", starring Julie London and Anthony Steele. Both features are first showings.

Ingrid Bergman Back to Do 'The Turn of the Screw' on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingrid Bergman, back in the United States on her first working visit in 10 years, learns fast. On her first night in New York Miss Bergman dedicated herself to watching television — and fell asleep, just like a seasoned viewer.

The Swedish-born, Paris-based film star is here to make her TV debut. Despite the succession of problems complicating her private life, Miss Bergman looks radiant and is excited about attempting what is, to her, a new acting medium.

A new adaptation of Henry James' classic ghost story, The Turn of the Screw, persuaded Miss Bergman to make her initial dive into television via NBC-TV, Oct. 28 hook-world.

"It is going to be very hard work, and I don't see how we can do it with so little rehearsal time," she says. "But I am happy to try it."

Nikita Khrushchev is TV's star of this day, this week, this month and possibly this year. Never in the history of broadcasting has there been such concentration on one mat. Hs Radio alone plans a total of 268 seconds of him—hourly coverage, NB has chartered a plane to keep a part of their special news staff with the Russian visitor.

ABC reports gleefully that a Frendex study of Sunday night viewing gave the fall premiere of Maverick a 22.9 audience rating, compared with 11.1 for the second half of NBC's new River-boat. The lead later increased to 26.5 against 12 Sullivan's 14 and 6.1 for Chet Huntley's think-show on Africa.

Recommended tonight: Lars Nelson, pianist, 7:30-8:30 EDT — another delight for the ears; Sugarfoot, ABC, 7:30-8:30—starts its third season; Fibber McGee and Molly, premiere, NBC, 8:30 — situation comedy; Tightrope, CBS, 9—second in a new police-action series; Alcoa presents Delusion, ABC, 10—new weekly series of dramas of the "supre-normal."

'Lose Weight Or Else ... Says Hawk Boss

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks settled down to serious scrimmage here Monday after preliminary skating exercises Sunday at their National League training camp.

The weight problem cropped up in camp and manager Tommy Ivan gave an ultimatum to four players to reduce or else.

Ivan refused to name which players he considered overweight but gave them five days to take off the extra poundage before a decision would be made.

So far only one player, the club's highest scorer Ed Litzenberger, is under contract. Litzenberger signed a two-year pact last year which carries through the upcoming schedule.

Chicago officials expect little trouble in signing the remainder of the squad.

Smoky Burgess Porterfield May Quit Baseball

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pitcher Bob Porterfield said Monday he will ask Pittsburgh Pirates for his unconditional release soon, and catcher Smoky Burgess said he may drop out of baseball after this season.

Porterfield, now a relief pitcher, told baseball writer Jack Hernon of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette:

"I intend going in before the season ends and ask general manager Joe Brown to give me my unconditional release. I still feel that I could pitch every four days or more, but I doubt that I'm in their plans very much. Maybe I can stay out for a year then come back and pitch in that third league. But I definitely want to get my unconditional release."

Burgess, who came to the Pirates this year in a trade with Cincinnati Redlegs said:

"This could be my last one. I'm not sure, but my wife and I are going to discuss it thoroughly during the winter. She's getting pretty tired of the travel now and the children are growing up. After all, this is 16 years of travelling. I'll look just a few days of being a 10-year man. It just could be that I will call it a career."

Wednesday, Sept. 16

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — If you perform every duty given you to the best of your ability, those in power will be delighted and you can expect fine benefits, support and advancement. P.M. decide secretly what you desire; then take steps in the same fashion.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — It is possible now to meet a most interesting person who will assist you materially with your career or business aims. P.M. either go out socially or entertain your pals and relatives at home. Be charming and joyful.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Many things break for you now that you scarcely knew where to begin. Give a word of praise to kin wherever merited. Also, inform them that you will support them in their good aims. Make this a banner day of accomplishment.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Many benefits will come from a day of conversation and planning with partners and friends, relatives so that you can have a happier and more prosperous future. Loyalty is the keynote, however, so keep this in mind throughout.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you are receptive to the ideas of those who truly want to see you get ahead, by being serious, you can advance quickly right now. Also, work hand with fellow workers, be co-operative, understanding and have a definite goal.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You are so dynamic and attractive this day that many invitations are extended to you. Accept the best and have a wonderful time. P.M. get together with associates harmoniously for a good heart-to-heart talk. Be smart.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Be diligently concerned now about putting house in order and increasing abundance so that you please kin and insure security of them and yourself.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Dear pals and loyal relatives are all in an expansive mood now and eager to be of service to you and support you in your aims. Write letters, adjust situations with others that will make your life happier and more successful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — By positive action on real estate, financial, business matters today, you can get the added respect and benefits you so desire. Get bookkeeping done accurately. P.M. look into matters of health. Take treatments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You have an opportunity today to state your ambitions and aims to influential persons not in your walk of life, and they will be inclined to support you. Though it may be only advice or benefit of their experience, be grateful.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Every item that will help increase your income should be considered today. Also, take any action that will materially help you better your lot in life, emotionally or artistically. Get rid of unwanted.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be precise and explicit now with associates or competitors and let them know what your desires are. Loyal pals will corroborate your statements, support you. Start a new beginning on a new clean slate. Be victorious.

If your child is born today ... The intelligent, thinking child born today will soon know how to make practical any enterprises of magnitude, and will be able to do the necessary work pertinent thereto. Train early in the spiritual truths, too, as well as give the finest education possible, since the artificial does not appeal to your youngster. Back him, or her, up in orderly, clean harmonious attributes.

those who believe in prayer for the dead."

Prayers for the dead have long been regarded as a Roman Catholic teaching bound up with a belief in purgatory. In the Anglican Church they have become increasingly accepted in recent years and provision now is made for them in the revised Book of Common Prayer, approved this month by the General Synod.

The United Church committee takes issue with the belief that there is a distinction between body and soul and the idea that at death the body is buried and the soul judged, going either to heaven or hell to stay there forever.

The study says the view that death is a separation of the soul and body comes from Greek philosophers, not from the Bible. The document adds that "it is in harmony with basic Christian principles to believe that there is opportunity for those who have died or not yet lived having heard the gospel to receive salvation through Christ. In the case of those who, having heard the gospel, have rejected or been indifferent to Christ, are we not certainly know whether there is opportunity after death to repent and be saved."

"But there is more than a hint in the New Testament of the hope that ultimately all will be saved, that God, for His own glory, will at the last conquer evil and win all men into communion with himself."

The United Church committee was composed of 24 men and one woman in addition to Dr. W. G. Berry, chairman and secretary of the Presbyterian secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

Dr. Berry said views in the booklet are not new to Christian intellectuals and theologians but mark no new trend in thinking in the United Church theological colleges. But they may be considered revolutionary to laymen, he said.

"The man in the pew is 30—50 years behind in his thinking."

DRIVERS SUE UNION

DETROIT (AP)—Thirty automobile hauling drivers Monday asked the Teamsters Union and their employer for $340,000 damages, claiming they worked in a sexiority dispute. The suit named Western Auto Supply Co., Inc., a Drew farm, and Teamster Local 290. It said the company has transferred about 100 drivers from Denver to Detroit, and that there years was because their seniority had given them better work assignments.

Tomato Growers See Mechanical Picker at Work

McKAYS CORNERS, Ont. (CP) Kent County tomato growers and processors saw the start of a new era for their industry Saturday when they witnessed a demonstration of the world's first mechanical tomato picker.

Local tomato growers and processors were amazed as they watched the harvester fill bushel baskets of tomatoes in only seconds.

Developed by two professors at Michigan State University, the harvester was brought to Kent County for experimental tests using an unusual variety of tomato developed by a Canadian canning company.

The new tomato plant bears fruit that ripens all at the same time, a plait or variety of tomato the harvester inventors had been seeking for some time in the United States without success. The new plant is ideal for mechanical harvesting, said Dr. William Hunt, co-designer of the invention. He said this was because the machine was unable to distinguish between unripened and ripened fruit.

Kidnap Suspects Driven Off By Farmer's Gunfire

Police Following Trail Started at Niagara Falls

CHESTERVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police are moving in on two suspected kidnappers surrounded in a cornfield near Goldfield, it was reported today.

The two men, objects of a huge manhunt in this district, were driven off in an exchange of gunfire with a farmer Tuesday night near this village 30 miles south of Ottawa. No one was injured.

Today police said they were expecting to make a capture soon as they encircled the pair in a field outside the small community of Goldfield, 25 miles northwest of Cornwall.

The two are thought to be the ones who have been holding out in farm homes and holding occupants at gunpoint. Their trail began in the Niagara Falls, Ont., district last week.

Provincial police at Cornwall said they were unable to identify the farmer who drove the men away from his home a few miles after the suspects tied up a couple at another district home and drove off in the couple's car.

USE THE HELICOPTER

Police said they plan to use a helicopter to help flush out the pair believed to be on foot somewhere within a 10 - mile radius of a farmyard in which one of here where they abandoned the car Tuesday night.

Some 60 policemen patrolled farms and woods in temperatures that dropped to 30 degrees during the night and early morning hours. They warned district residents to keep their doors locked.

The men are believed to be the pair who abducted Mr. and Mrs. George Rooney from their Niagara district home last week, then kidnapped five persons near Chesterville Monday.

The men invaded two farm homes in the Chesterville area.

UNINVITED GUESTS

In the morning they were the uninvited guests of Mrs. Ethel Lessard, 53-year-old widow, and her aunt, 72 - year - old Mrs. Eleanor Shaver, almost five hours before driving off with the two women's car. It came in the Cardinal district.

From 5 p.m. until 9:15 p.m. they were in the home of Ferguson Froats of nearby Dundela. They left the Froats' car at Froats' yard and went off with Mr. Froats' sedan.

Froats, 50, said the men were "very polite" while they kept him under the muzzle of a rifle and a windbreaker. They missed his watch and a cheque for $150 they found in his car.

LEFT THEM TIED

They did not hurt the farm couple but tied them up before they left. Froats wriggled free of his bonds and phoned police for help.

The men were already in the home of Mrs. Froats' arrival at 5 p.m. from visiting relatives in Chesterville. Mrs. Froats, who has been helping fill a neighbor's silo, came home to find the police car. One of the intruders had a 22-calibre rifle; the other a pistol. They told him not to try to get away.

Clarence helped police get on the trail of the suspects minutes after Mr. Froats phoned them.

While the husband and wife of the Froats car was being broadcast, a provincial policeman was seen driving in front of his cruiser along Highway 31. He followed

5-Storey Italian Apartment Block Collapses, 18 Killed, 80 Missing

BARLETTA, Italy (AP) — The collapse of a five-storey apartment building assumed the proportions of a major tragedy here today as a 100-ton lug frantically lit its debris, removed 18 dead persons and expressed fears that the final toll might run much higher.

Another 15 injured persons were carried from the small mountain of wreckage.

Police said 80 persons are not accounted for. There were fears that many of these might be dead.

The building crashed down at 7 a.m. today with a roar and rumble that made many residents think that a tanker had exploded. Thousands of them rushed out into the streets in panic.

Officials said 106 lived in the building.

The upper floors were added about six months ago. Apparently the weight was too much for the foundation. The entire building caved in.

Barletta is on the Adriatic coast about 30 miles north of Bari.

ASSEMBLY READY TO TACKLE MANY EXPLOSIVE ITEMS

Peruvian Professor Elected Chairman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Opening ceremonies over, the United Nations General Assembly prepared today to tackle an agenda containing explosive items of war and peace from Asia to Algeria.

The assembly began its session Tuesday by electing a president and steering committee of 21 members due to meet today to work on an agenda of some 70 items.

The talks between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower are over-shadowing UN proceedings, and the diplomat community wryly off the assembly floor that "we're liable to get long ears from trying to listen in on the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchanges."

Khrushchev and Ike will doubtless come in loud and clear Friday when he addresses the assembly and they renew contacts. The UN has been swamped with applications from people wanting to see him.

"We've had kings, queens and princess here before, but never anything like this," commented one secretariat official. "I only hope nothing goes wrong. We've been thinking of a physical kind here and I'm sure this will be the same."

The Nationalist China has promised that at least a few seats will be available. Diplomatic sources said the entire Nationalist delegation will boycott the assembly when Khrushchev speaks.

REJECT DINNER BIDS

Chief delegate F. T. Yaing Plaza made a decline an invitation to a dinner which Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold will give the Russian Friday night.

Dr. Victor Andres Belaunde, Peruvian professor, diplomat and writer, was elected president by a 45-vote majority of the 82 - member assembly, along with 13 vice-presidents and chairmen of seven committees which will perform much of the work of the assembly. Together they comprise the steering committee.

$325 Million Bond Issue Oversubscribed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's $325,000,000 public issue of securities was oversubscribed when books closed Tuesday night, Finance Minister Fleming announced today.

He said the new subscribers a choice among three types of bonds with interest rates ranging up to 6.61 per cent, and an issue of 30-day treasury bills.

Mr. Fleming's statement, showing allotments made of the four securities issued, said public interest centered on a new three-year bond with a coupon interest rate of 5½ per cent, sold at $97.75 to yield 6.33 per cent annually. It carries a special convertibility feature by which holders can exercise it for 5-per-cent bonds maturing in 1973.

Of the $325,000,000 issue, $200,000,000 of that three-year bond were sold.

Another $75,000,000, together with $225,000,000 of the new securities, were purchased by the Bank of Canada, will be used to repay $350,000,000 in three-per-cent bonds maturing next Oct. 1.

The new three-year bonds, and those maturing in one year, both carried coupon interest of 5½ per cent, but the first sold at a price that the government has issued a 5½-per-cent bond.

Alarm System Knowledge Key To Gallery Theft

TORONTO (CP) — Knowledge of the Toronto Art Gallery's burglar alarm system apparently was the key to the $640,000 theft of six of its best art masterpieces Monday night.

Gallery Director Martin Baldwin said Tuesday night that "there were literally dozens of times when someone who didn't know how the system operated would have set it off."

One of the thieves tried to cut the centre panel out of a fire door, apparently sure that the alarm system would go off if the door was opened.

The thieves worked through the night, hacking six masterpieces from their frames and damaging two others. Stolen were two Rembrandts valued at $150,000 and $250,000, one Rubens at $20,000, a Renoir at $20,000, and two Frans Hals at $120,000 and $80,000.

ONE THEFT'LL TURN UP

Mr. Baldwin said he is confident they will turn up: "No one can steal paintings like these without getting his fingers burned."

The thieves probably will try to make an undercover deal with insurance companies for their return, said police and some art experts.

Police still did not know how the art thieves entered the gallery. One theory is they hid in the building and waited for it to close. Another is they crawled in a series of stepping-stone bricks leading to a window, broke two small panes and opened the window from the inside with a stick.

Jupiter Missile Explodes Seconds After Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL AP)—A Jupiter missile carrying 14 pregnant mice and two frogs exploded today 12 seconds after launching.

The shot was to have been a test of the effects of space flight on the type animals and several other biological samples packed in the nose cone.

The would-be space travelers met a fiery death when the Jupiter blew apart about 1,000 feet in the air.

Pieces of the vehicle fell back on the launching area.

No person in the area was hurt.

The 60-foot rocket rose from its pad at 7:40 a.m. E.D.T. It moved sharply on course almost immediately. Suddenly it erupted in a huge ball of fire and smoke and it was ripped by tons of exploding fuel.

The defence department announced later that the range safety officer deliberately destroyed the big missile when his instruments detected a malfunction.

The Jupiter was to have carried the nose menagerie some 500 miles into space and 1,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range, where ships and planes waited hooping to recover the nose cone and its cargo.

The mice and frogs were packed inside the nose cone with one of the strangest groups of passengers ever assembled. Also aboard were onions and mustard seeds, fruit fly larvae, bread mould, human blood and skin, algae cells, sea urchin eggs and radiation emulsion packs.

ARRIVAL AT GUEST HOUSE — Both President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev were flower-laden Mrs. Khrushchev from the president's automobile as the three arrived at the Blair House where the Russian guests will stay during their Washington visit. De Gaulle Ready to Unveil His Peace Plan for Algeria PARIS AP) — President de Gaulle tonight discloses his master plan for ending the Algerian rebellion—France's top problem.

De Gaulle prepared his statement behind a cloak of secrecy at his country estate in eastern France. This morning he will read it to the cabinet and later broadcast it over radio and television.

Little officially was known in advance of what de Gaulle would propose for ending the rebellion, but it had been disclosed that he would affirm the principle of self-determination."

This has been interpreted to mean that Algeria's 9,000,000 Moslems will be able to vote on how they wish to be governed.

Nothing official has been reported as to de Gaulle's timetable for bringing this about.

To achieve maximum attention, the French president ordered radio and TV channels cleared in France and Algeria to carry his statement. The speech is expected to last about 15 minutes, will also be heard throughout the vast French community embracing 12 semi - autonomous states in Africa and Madagascar.

De Gaulle's words will also be broadcast in Arabic and Berber, the main languages of Algeria, as well as several other foreign tongues.

Throughout France and in parts of Algeria de Gaulle's televised image will accompany his words.

Behind The Iron Curtain

Driving Car in Moscow Nightmare for Visitors

By Raymond Canon

ARTICLE FOUR

MOSCOW

After a rather monotonous drive from Smolensk, we finally got into Moscow. I had the same feeling as I had nine years ago, when I arrived in Paris after having read about it all during my school years. At last I was looking at streets and buildings that I had read about for years.

Just as we were arriving one of the big Russian jets circled overhead as it prepared to make a landing at nearby Vnukovo airport. Finally we came to the large sign Moskva, and as my friend was driving and keeping an eagle eye on the unpredictable Russian traffic, I had a chance to look about.

Everywhere there was construction. We were informed by our interpreter that we were mainly apartment blocks since there is still an acute housing shortage in Moscow. The main streets are all very broad, much wider than ours, but there is much less traffic, so we seemed to have lots of space to drive in. First appearances are often deceiving, as I shall explain later.

Our hotel was almost within a stone's throw of the Kremlin, and we had hardly got out of the car, looking rather travel weary, when we were approached by a couple of photographers who had seen our Canada sticker on the rear fender. After finding out who we were, they started taking pictures from all angles.

Before we had a chance to catch our breath, a woman reporter came and asked if we spoke French. Yes, we did, so we were subjected to a series of questions about our trip, our impressions and where we were going afterwards. Evidently we were the first Canadians she had run into.

Only then did we find out that the interview and some of the pictures are to appear in a future issue of a Russian magazine. We have been promised copies of this and I hope we get them. Since then we have been running into the reporter here and there on our travels to and from the hotel, and she has always been very friendly. This is the third time I have been interviewed all in Europe. I guess one has to leave home to become newspaper material.

Well, we got settled in our hotel which looks about the same as the others we have been in. We went up to the restaurant, and sure enough, the menu was the same as in the other cities. We sat down, and prepared ourselves for a long wait, it was almost an hour before we even got a waiter. But what happened in the meantime interested me. A Russian came in, and five minutes later he was busy stuffing himself. After better part of an hour I could stand lie no longer. I dug up the

INCOHERENT MAN SETS OFF BOMB IN SCHOOLYARD

Beloved Son Among 6 Dead; 18 Injured

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —"A man walks across the street with a bomb and kills children."

So said William Hawes, who had just identified the body of his only son, Willie, 11.

The lad was one of six persons killed when a man pushed a homemade bomb into a suitcase of explosives Tuesday on the playground at Edgar Allen Public Elementary School.

Paul Harold Orgeron, accused the dynamite-type button minutes atgdi enrolling his son, Dusty Paul, 7, in the school.

In addition to young Hawes, the blast killed Orgeron, Dusty's another pupil, a teacher and a custodian.

INJURIES PRINCIPAL

The 18 persons injured included the principal, Mrs. Lucille E. Doty, 54. Four children remain in critical condition. Several are in serious condition with leg amputations and internal injuries.

William Hawes and John Cecil Fitch, 8, died as they ran ahead of the flash when they were released for recess. Their playful eagerness placed them in the unexpected danger zone.

Mrs. Jennie Kolter, 54, a second-grade teacher, and Joseph Monigomery, 58, school custodian, died while aiding Mrs. Doty

Protests at Khrushchev's Visit Assume Quiet, Imaginative Forms

NEW YORK AP)—Across the United States symbols of mourning are cropping up and prayer-full services are being held as some Americans express their protest or concern over the visit of Premier Khrushchev.

But few of the demonstrations have personally touched on the Russian leader and they are generally quiet, solemn, not violent. The American people appeared to be almost unanimously adhering to President Eisenhower's request for courteous treatment of an important foreign visitor.

Many of the protests showed more imagination than anger.

A Hungarian refugee tried to put a black blindfold over the eyes of the Statute of Liberty in New York harbor, but the cloth dropped from the statue's crown and was torn away by the wind.

A paper plant at Holyoke, Mass., and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Buffalo, N.Y., flew flags at half-mast upside down—the distress signal.

A skywriting plane drew a huge cross over Washington skies as Khrushchev arrived into the capital Tuesday. The cross is a symbol of our faith" sponsored by an evangelistic religious group.

The Soviet premier may also have been able to hear the hymn Faith of Our Fathers tolled by church bells as the caravan went past the White House.

But he did not see a sign reading Tyrants Not Welcome "USA which two Georgetown University students tried to put up outside the White House. The youths, however, were prevented by the police and were held with their sign.

Ike And Mr. K. Agree On Agenda For Camp Talks

Friendly, Frank Meeting Sets Stage for Parley

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower and President Eisenhower appear to be slowly melting some of the cold war ice between them.

A major break-through could come nine days hence when they journey to the president's Camp David retreat in the hills of Maryland in efforts to reach firm understanding on crucial world issues.

Tuesday, in a White House conference lasting almost two hours, they agreed during "friendly and frank" talks on a rough agenda for the Camp David conference and left details to be worked out by their foreign ministers.

Foreign Minister Gromyko and State Secretary Herter were to exchange views today on matters relating to the Camp David talks. It was made clear that they would cover major issues splitting East and West.

EFFECTIVE NEEDED

The weekend meeting—Friday, Sept. 25 to Sunday, Sept. 27—will top Khrushchev's 15-day tour of the U.S. It may be a tough and gruelling session for the 65-year-old Soviet leader, but he showed Tuesday that he has plenty of stamina.

After a 12 - hour air journey from Moscow, he looked refreshed during ceremonies at Andrews Air Force Base, a 35 - minute motorcade ride and the two-hour White House conference. Khrushchev readily agreed to a surprise impromptu trip aboard Eisenhower's helicopter to Camp David, a three-hour state dinner.

His wife, Nina, and his two daughters spent the afternoon quietly at Blair House, across the street from Eisenhower's mansion. Khrushchev's son, Sergei, showed his father's artist and toured some of the Washington sights before dinner.

Today Khrushchev's program included a visit to the U.S. farm research centre at nearby Beltsville, National Press Club luncheon speech, an afternoon trip around Washington, a visit to the Senate foreign relations committee and dinner with the head of state at the Soviet Embassy.

EISENHOWER SOBBER

Khrushchev got a full redcarpet treatment on his arrival Tuesday, though Eisenhower appeared somewhat subdued and somber in his greeting. In contrast, Khrushchev appeared relaxed and a bit disdainful of the pomp and ceremony.

They drove in silence from the airport to the White House after Eisenhower said the U.S. covets no new territory and wants no war. He hoped that as Khrushchev came to believe that, they could develop a new, improved basis on which we can together conduct the problems of the world for us."

Khrushchev said he came with "open heart and good intentions." The Russian people wanted to live in friendship with the U.S., but Khrushchev reminded Americans that the Soviet Union was the first and only country to shoot a rocket to the moon.

EXPECTING TROUBLE

A noon crowd estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000 lined Pennsylvania Avenue to greet Khrushchev welcoming parade. The Soviet premier's car was mobbed by bomburg hat repeatedly, but though some cheered, most people were silent.

The commander - in - chief of the U.S. armed forces, Major-General Louis G. Feldmann, later thanked Washington people for their "restraint."

"No one could interpret the welcome as a warm one, but neither could we be accused of attempting to embarrass the high Soviet leader," he said.

The Khrushchev didn't appear concerned. He was reported in jovial mood at the White House dinner Tuesday night. It was a glittering white-tie affair, but Khrushchev characteristically turned up in the business suit he wore all day. He did all the talking.

NO GLOVES FOR MRS. K

Mrs. Khrushchev wore a floor-length dark red and blue lame gown with a v-shaped neckline and back. She wore a single brooch at the neck, no earrings and no gloves.

Reports of how things can change, even among leaders, was demonstrated when the helicopter ride. Eisenhower was reported to have expressed concern to Khrushchev that Khrushchev see the capital from his helicopter, but the Soviet premier had his own ideas. His aides said Eisenhower was relaxed during the 30-minute ride beside Khrushchev from Andrews air base. Khrushchev apparently accepted the 30-minute air trip.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev also spent about 15 minutes in private conversation after the formal afternoon conference between the two leaders and their foreign aides. They discussed was not disclosed.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

MAY HAVE BEEN JET BREAKING SOUND BARRIER

A possible explanation of the explosion heard in this area last night is that the noise may have been a jet plane breaking the sound barrier.

This, however, was discountenanced by Trenton Air Station officials who said none of their jets were in the air over Trenton district at the time the blast was heard.

Still another explanation was that it may have been a United States jet aircraft which broke the sound barrier in the immediate Belleville - Trenton area. It is understood that American planes do fly over Canadian territory without notifying Canadian officials.

VEHICLE STOLEN FROM CAR LOT

City police reported the theft of a 1956 sedan from the Cliff Murphy used car lot on Station Street last night. The vehicle has still not been located late this morning.

Old Adage Does Not Exactly Apply to Our Modern Times

"Building a better mousetrap won't be enough for Tom Yellowlees, guest speaker at the fall meeting of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club, last evening. The program planning manager for Canadian General Electric wove an intricate pattern of the problems of product development concerning the introduction of a hypothetical new product inventor could tinker about in his ivory-tower workshop inventing new things for the benefit of mankind, and, when he produced some item which really filled a need of the public, reaping the profits of his genius as the results of his product as he conceived it.

Today the earnest inventor must conduct a market research program to determine if the public really wants what he invents and what particular version or model of his invention will be of greatest acceptance to John Q. Public," said the speaker. The opinions of experts in the particular field concerned, of wholesalers, of retailers, and of the ultimate buyers must be obtained, analyzed and interpolated to determine the anticipated demand for the product.

Then a phase known as product planning goes into effect. What specifications, standards and price must be considered? What products do competitors have on the market? What models and accessories should be developed for the proposed product? All these must be considered to be sure that the items will meet the real need of the consumer better than anything else on the market. Once this phase has been completed and the production of the "mousetrap" has been determined, the promotion of it amongst the trade and the public commences.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

All available information on the product is given to the firm's advertising agency to plan the advertising campaign and make the product known to the retailers and ultimate consumers. But parallel to this action there must be set up adequate parts and servicing facilities to cover the entire consumer area. Customer confidence must be inspired by adequate service facilities and a good warranty. This later item must be carefully planned. The manufacturer must determine the "life" of his product in the hands of the average user and be assured himself that his unit is good for so many operations or for a certain length of time. He must also determine what amount of liability his firm is to be responsible for in the event of failure or accidents involving his product in use.

Then, too, there is the problem of arranging attractive point-of-sale displays, and seeing that they are placed in the proper marketing channels. Once this is arranged the time of year when the product is to be introduced to the consumer market most effectively must be determined. After all this work of producing a better mousetrap, there is still the fact that the meeting.

Accused Picked Up in City on Bench Warrant

Following a bench warrant issued by Mr. Justice Kelly, presiding over assizes of the Supreme Court now sitting at Belleville, Gordon Elmer Spencer, 23, was arrested by city police yesterday.

Spencer is charged with attempted rape and indecent assault of a 13-year-old girl. The offence is alleged to have taken place in the Hillcrest area.

Tuesday morning the Grand Jury returned a true bill against Mr. Spencer but the accused was not in the courthouse and the bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Police located Mr. Spencer at a Coleman Street address and he was placed in custody. His trial before the petit jury commenced at the courthouse this morning.

WILLIAM A. BRENNAN

CARS Appoints Director for Eastern Ontario

Announcement has been made by the Ontario Division, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, of the appointment of Wm. A. Brennan, as the Regional Director of the Society for Eastern Ontario, to assist Mr. John D. Pearson, National Executive Director.

Mr. Brennan has taken up residence in Kingston. At present his territory extends from Peterborough to Ottawa, including branches of the Society at Cobourg and Belleville, as well as Kingston. His duties will be mainly the improvement and expansion of the Society's services in this section of the province.

As Regional Director for Eastern Ontario, Mr. Brennan's duties will be the extension of the Society's services to rheumatic sufferers in the smaller communities adjacent to the areas already served by the Society, and to develop ways and means of establishing branches in the centres now being served.

Arthritis and the Rheumatic diseases are the least publicized, yet the most common cause, next to the mental diseases, of suffering and hardship in Canada. Born out of every twenty in the population is affected by a greater or less degree. According to official government statistics over 165,000 Canadians are totally or partially disabled by arthritis, a figure over thirty times greater than the amputees of the First and Second Great Wars and Korea combined.

'Quinte' Corps Holds First Parade of Term

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" held its first parade of the season at the armouries last night. Plans for the forthcoming year's programme were outlined and general enthusiasm over the prospect of reorganizing the Sea Cadet Band was evident. The first part of the parade consisted of drill and was followed by a sports period during which instruction in boxing fundamentals was given to the cadets by Lt. McConnell.

A number of boys showed up to join the Corps and the Commanding Officer, Lt. Donovan, announced that any boys wishing to join the Corps and have experience were especially welcome to join the corps and provide a nucleus for the new band.

A detachment of cadets and officers went to the barracks during the sports period to prepare for the first inspection of the new term which will be held this Thursday. Lt. Davidson, RCN, of Ares Office will be the inspecting officer.

Any boy wishing to join the Cadet Corps is invited to attend this parade. It will be held at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street, starting at 7:15 p.m. The first classes in seamanship and other instruction will be held at this time.

'Instalment Giving' for U.A. Outlined to Kiwanis Club

The Belleville United Appeal has a real "easy payment plan" — no interest. Except, of course, the interest you show in the welfare of the community by pledging to pay your contribution in small amounts at regular intervals.

It's called "instalment giving" and it is an easy and convenient way of financially aiding the 11 charitable and philanthropic organizations, which are members of the United Appeal this year.

Instalment giving, as such can be carried out either by the payroll deduction plan or by direct pledge, is easy on the family budget — and the dividends, in personal satisfaction at the knowledge you are doing your share to serve the community, are large and are paid every day of the year.

This feature of giving by instalments was particularly emphasized by Appeal campaign chairman E. G. Garnett, in an address on the Belleville United Appeal to members of the local Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting Tuesday at the Kiwanis Centre.

Mr. Garnett concluded in the payroll deduction plan instituted in most local businesses and industries. Each employee signs his or her employer to deduct a specified amount from each pay. It is completely voluntary and the amount each employee requests deducted is kept secret, he said, in explaining the new pledge cards.

If a person chooses to give by direct pledge, he or she authorizes the Appeal headquarters to bill him annually, semi-annually, quarterly or monthly, for a specified amount. Or donations can be sent in to the Appeal headquarters by post-dated cheques, the speaker said.

Mr. Garnett said he felt confident this year's campaign will reach its objective of $72,076 and local citizens use the instalment giving plan.

He said a total of $72,076 was collected from last year's Belleville United Appeal campaign. The total of all budgets submitted by the participating agencies last year was $70,719, with $5,858 for campaign expenses, and $8,688 for contingency.

DISPERSED IN 1960

"Therefore we were able to give all participating agencies 90 percent of their budget," Mr. Garnett stated.

On the matter of differences in amount of budgets submitted by the various Appeal organizations the speaker explained the amount of money each agency requests from the Appeal is the difference between the agency's budget and the money received from other sources of revenue, such as government and municipal grants.

He said the campaign will reach its objective on an average per capita basis of $3.06. A study of 17 other Appeal campaigns carried out in Ontario cities last year showed an average per capita of $4.39 to reach their objectives, he said.

In stressing the advantages of collecting the "united way," Mr. Garnett said if the Appeal campaign is not successful, the 11 participating agencies would probably be forced to return to the old system of holding separate campaigns, which would be a great inconvenience to all concerned.

He said the B.U.A. hopes in future to persuade as many fund-raising organizations as possible to join, thereby eliminating many of the numerous tag days held annually in the city.

"We have succeeded in eliminating three tag days this year," he said, in noting the I.O.D.E. Argyle and St. Julien Chapters have joined the Appeal, and the Kiwanis Club was persuaded to discontinue its annual tag day.

In closing, Mr. Garnett urged Kiwanians individually to help the Appeal reach its objective this year.

The speaker was introduced by Hal Floyd and thanked by Frank Creegan.

Additional thanks of the club was expressed by vice - president George Tripp, who was chairman for the meeting in the absence of president Gerry Whalen.

Ted Newbigging, chairman Bob Brain reported on the sale of Travelogue series tickets. He said 81 tickets at $2.50 each have been sold to date, but that only a portion of this money has been turned in to treasurer Bob Freestone.

PERIOD EXTENDED

He said the ticket selling period has been extended another four weeks, and reported a total of $2,324 ($100 more than anticipated) was netted from last year's travelogue series.

Mac Turnbull reported on the Kiwanis baseball diamonds' project at the Fair Grounds. He said spading of the area started last Friday for 60 to 70 per cent completed, and levelling will commence Wednesday. The remainder of the work, rolling, seeding and rolling of the area for the two diamonds, will be undertaken by volunteer work parties of Kiwanians, starting Monday, September 21st, to Saturday, September 26th.

Vice-president George Tripp urged Kiwanians to sign up for the work parties, any evening from 6:30 p.m. or Saturday afternoons.

"On to Montreal" chairman Charles Lusk, gave a last call to Kiwanians still wishing to attend the O.Q.M. district convention which opens September 26th.

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials snapped a six session losing streak to lead the stock market to a good advance in light morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 550,000 shares, compared with Tuesday's 755,000 at the same hour.

Banks and foods were low to industrial leaders. Shawinigan rose 1 at 29¾ and Loblaw A was up ⅞ at 29¾.

Uraniums and senior base metals were strong. Hudson Bay added 1 at 42 and ⅝ wins went to Nordana and International Nickel. Among uraniums Consolidated Denison added ½ at 13 while smaller gains went to Gunnar and Algom.

Kerr Addison and McIntyre were ahead ¼ for the major changes in golds.

On Tuesday, industrials took their sharpest setback since Nov. 24, 1958, as they dropped 8.60 to 427.03.

It was the sixth straight loss for industrials. Other losses: golds 1.27 to 84.35; base metals 2.79 to 180.38; western oils 2.36 to 103.36. The base metals' close was the low.

Volume in the month's best session was 2,340,000 compared with Monday's 2,095,000.

Steels, banks and refining oils had the biggest industrial losses.

MacLaren Power and Paper was down 2 points at 60, on a single sale. Canadian Tire Corp. was off 12 at 180. Bank of Commerce gave up 1¼ at 53¾ and Toronto-Dominion 1 at 49¾.

Golds were slipped ⅝ at 31⅝ while Kerr-Addison gave up ¼ at 33⅜.

Some B was down ½ at 12 while Pacific Pete and Pembina lost smaller fractions in western oils.

Language Woes Trip Witnesses In Court Case

TRENTON — Two Hungarian immigrants caused some confusion in Magistrate's Court here yesterday when they tried to testify as witnesses to an accident early this year.

A special interpreter, Michael Gartner, of Trenton, had been brought into court to assist in translating evidence. But the whole situation got an "oul cf hand," according to Magistrate T. Y. Wills, that he dismissed the witnesses.

The two young immigrants were James Turi and Istran Kovacs, both of Belleville. Turi was first to appear on the stand.

Questioning went well for the first few minutes with the interpreter translating each question and answer in turn. Then Turi and Gartner started carrying on lengthy conversations at each query, to the obvious displeasure of the magistrate. It was evident that Mr. Gartner had not been briefed on the case prior to his court appearance and after repeated requests by the magistrate to translate the question only and not go into lengthy conversations with the witness each time, Mr. Gartner asked if he may might tell him what the case was all about, so that he might get the right interpretation to each question.

This request was denied, with the reminder that he was there as an interpreter only, and that all he was required to do was translate exactly all that was said. However, the language barrier continued to be a great handicap and both witnesses and interpreter were forced to continue their lengthy explanations at each question.

This caused so much amusement to the large number of spectators that the court had to be quieted down several times.

When both the interpreter and Turi misunderstood a question, with Turi giving a misleading answer, his friend Kovacs, who was seated in the court, blurted out the correct answer. This resulted in dismissal of the first witness and the calling of Kovacs to the stand.

Kovacs spoke some English and appeared to understand more of court procedure than his friend. When told he would speak through his interpreter, Kovacs said he'd rather do the talking himself, because "he gets in too much trouble".

This brought another outburst from the crowd.

When all had settled down, the Magistrate gave him his chance to speak for himself. But Kovacs bungled the first question — in swearing in.

At that point, Magistrate Wills had had enough. Without further ado, he dismissed the witness and the case continued without their testimony. No one ever did find out what Turi and Kovacs had seen the night of the accident.

Three Cases Heard in Court

TRENTON — Three cases were heard by Magistrate T. Y. Wills here yesterday.

The first involved Mrs. Marie Berry, who appeared to answer a charge of contempt of court. Mrs. Berry had been jailed Friday when she refused to tell Crown Prosecutor Gordon Robertson, Q.C., where she had received a camera.

The matter came up when Gordon Woodcock, 20, appeared in court charged with illegal possession of a cheap camera alleged to have been stolen from a parked car on the night of August 10th.

Appearing before Magistrate Wills yesterday, Mrs. Berry admitted that the camera had been given to her by Woodcock. The case was remanded until October 5th.

In the second case yesterday Donald Childerhouse, pleaded guilty to having control of a vehicle while intoxicated. He had been arrested early Saturday morning by Constable French when the accused was found slumped over the wheel of his parked car on Flindall Street.

In addition to having his license suspended, Childerhouse was sentenced to seven days in the county jail.

The third case involved the questioning of several witnesses to an accident in Trenton last April involving cars driven by Bob Andrews, 131 Front Street, an employee of Gould's taxi, and Douglas T. Clare, 140 Bay Street. After considerable questioning, Magistrate Wills dismissed the case.

2 More Oil Burner Fires Extinguished

TRENTON — Trenton firemen were called out to extinguish two more oil burner fires yesterday, bringing to four the number of such calls they've received in the past two days.

The small fires yesterday were at homes on Joseph and Byron Streets. Little damage was caused in either instance. The previous day, similar outbreaks had occurred at a home on Front Street and another on Division Street.

Commenting on the rash of such fires in the past few days, Fire Chief Ellis explained that they were not unusual for this time of year. But he added, that while these particular instances had not been of a serious nature, extreme caution should always be used when igniting an oil burner, and proper care must be exercised in order to keep the burner clean at all times.

Would Not Pass Observance Test

TRENTON—Trenton Fire Department members have decided they can give a local lady A for effort, even if she would rate as a failure in an observance test.

Last night about 8.30, they received a call from a Trenton lady that there had been some sort of explosion and smoke was pouring from the roof of the post office.

On the way to the scene, the fire truck narrowly missed a head-on collision with a car on Dundas Street. And when they arrived at the post office, they found there was smoke allright, but no more than the normal amount that comes out of the chimney.

As for the "explosion," that appears to be a mystery, as there seems little explanation for several strange booms heard throughout the Quinte area last night.

Two Children Hit by Car On Way Home

TRENTON — Trenton police are on the look-out today for a red and white station wagon that struck two children in a school cross-walk yesterday.

The accident occurred shortly before five o'clock when the two youngsters were on the way home from school. Charlie Nokes, 15, of Catherine Street, and Dale Spencer, no given address, were crossing at the designated school cross-walk near the Marmora Street school when the station wagon struck them, then sped off.

Fortunately, neither boy was seriously injured, although the Nokes boy suffered bad scrapes to his legs.

Police were called out to investigate two other minor accidents yesterday. The first occurred around nine-thirty yesterday morning and involved two vehicles at the corner of Elgin and Dundas Streets. One car, driven by Charlie Hilton, 215 King Street, received a dented left rear fender when it was in collision with a second vehicle driven by Lloyd Byrd, 53 Canniffon Road, Belleville. Damage was estimated at $200.

And the town bridge was again responsible for another slight mishap yesterday when another transport truck got stuck in the overhead girders. The truck was owned by S. Piscione and Sons, Ltd., of Rexdale, Ont., and driven by John M. Jackson, Downsview, Ont.

The accident happened during the noon hour rush when the driver attempted to take the truck across the river. Except for two twisted girders on the bridge and a slight delay in traffic, no other damage was caused.

South Hastings Member Enjoys Soviet Plane Trip

Lee Grills, M.P., flew to Europe last spring to the world hockey tournament — and discovered he liked flying.

Hastings South's genial Ottawa representative liked it so much he avails himself of every opportunity to enjoy its pleasure.

His latest aerial jaunt was a special one. It is not likely to be repeated for some time.

Lee, Grills, with three cabinet ministers and a dozen or so parliamentary colleagues, were taken for a ride in one of Russia's latest model airliners, the TU-104.

The luxurious 100-passenger aircraft flew to Canada to take part in the Toronto air show, where it caught the eyes and admiration of critics.

The twin-motored jet liner has wings that sweep back and slightly downward. It carried Mr. Grills and his colleagues over Kingston and Belleville at a speed of 550 miles per hour.

The interior of the craft is luxurious and comfortable. Rows of three seats are located on one side. Rows of two on the other.

Two pretty Russian stewardesses looked after the party. Vodka and caviar were served periodically to the Canadian party.

The RCAF officer, a friend of Mr. Grills, acted as liaison between the Russians and Canadians.

The big plane landed at Uplands, Ottawa, because landing facilities at Malton were not suitable.

Monday night Mr. Grills, with other members of parliament, were the guests of the Russian embassy in Ottawa at a cocktail party given in honor of the visiting Russian flyers. Each guest was presented with a package of Russian caviar.

The South Hastings member also attended the installation ceremonies of Canada's new governor-general, Major General George P. Vanier, on Tuesday.

Grand Jury Completes Duties At Assizes

A Hastings County Grand Jury, completing their duties at the Supreme Court assizes being held in the county courthouse this week, had no recommendations in their grand jury report about conditions at the courthouse.

Following hearing of the two criminal cases listed for trial the grand jury made its customary inspection of the county properties and reported their findings to the court.

Their report had a word of commendation for the fine manner in which the county home was operated but made no recommendation with respect to the courthouse.

The report noted that it was understood a new courthouse was to be constructed, therefore, there would be no point in commenting on the building.

The Experts Contented

Russia says that her rocket hit the moon on Sunday, within a minute of the time calculated and announced in advance for its arrival at its target.

Vice-President Richard Nixon of the U.S. seems unconvinced that there is proof that this time the Russians are telling the truth. His scepticism does not appear to be shared by most of the world's scientists.

The difference of opinion between politicians and scientist ought not to disturb us greatly. But there also appears to be a difference of opinion between scientists as to the significance of this achievement.

Thus all the layman can say for certain is that, presuming that the Russians were not mistaken, they have demonstrated that it is already possible to achieve a considerable degree of accuracy in inter-continental as well as interplanetary rockets."

Almost the same thing was said by an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Washington, quoted as declaring that "they (the Russians) have advanced rocket guidance systems that the U.S. does not yet possess."

Dr. Homer Stewart of the Administration is quoted as adding that (the moon) is something larger than the target facing the aimer of an intercontinental ballistic missile, but because of the much longer time it takes to reach the moon than to reach another continent, it is in no way easier to hit the moon than to hit the target of an ICBM."

In direct contradiction to these statements by experts at Ottawa and Washington are the views of Dr. Herbert A. York, director of defence research and engineering of the U.S. department of defence, and T. Keith Glennan, director of the same National Aeronautics and Space Administration to which Dr. Stewart quoted above, belongs. Said Dr. York: "Believe me, it is easier to hit the moon than to hit New York from Moscow." Stated Mr. Glennan: "But this (the Russian achievement in hitting the moon) should not be related to the accuracy in the delivery of atomic warheads. The guidance system they used is not comparable to a land system."

All these experts cannot be right. Some of them are making misleading statements, either through ignorance, or by intent. Neither explanation is very comforting to those who regard the Russian moon rocket as primarily just another battle in the cold war.

A Job Well Done

It is given to few men to achieve the rare distinction of living up to all the high hopes that their friends entertained for them.

Such a man is Vincent Massey, now ex-Governor-General of Canada.

When he was appointed to that post, his friends and indeed most Canadians hoped that he would so conduct himself during his term of office as to demonstrate that a Canadian commoner could represent the sovereign in Canada as ably as any peer from the Old Country.

Not only did he achieve this but the standard he has set has been so high that his successors face a tremendous challenge.

Canada may not always be so fortunate as to discover available a man of the calibre of Maj-Gen. George P. Vanier to meet this challenge.

When Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, a French-Canadian, obtained the appointment of this English-speaking Canadian as the representative of King George VI in Canada he could hardly have foreseen that in eight years an English-speaking Prime Minister of an opposing political party would obtain from a Queen the appointment of a French-Canadian as the nation's second native Governor-General, and that, we suspect, without the possibility of a return to representative from overseas having been seriously considered.

This is a happy record, in which all concerned can take pride.

Britons Like To Hit Hard

Ottawa Journal

"Let no one interfere," said the immortal Churchill — "let no one interfere with the sagacity and rancor of personal opinion."

Thus British elections have always been fought, and thus, too, will the present one be fought, judging by its opening rounds. Hear for example, Mr. Gaitskell:

"The Labor Party must fight all the shifty shirt snobbery that still disfigures society in Britain."

And consider a Labor pamphlet entitled "The Tory Swindle," which notes that 13 cabinet ministers, including Mr. Macmillan, "wear the old school tie of Eton" and adds:

"A democratic government should include representatives of all sections of the people and not be drawn only from one narrow and privileged class . . . Mr. Macmillan's methods of recruiting his government belongs to the 19th and not the mid-20th century.

This is not as fierce as the things Randolph Churchill used to say of Gladstone, or as savage as what Joseph Chamberlain used to say about the Irish and vice versa, or as searing as Disraeli's attacks on the aristocracy — "they whose fortunes are dripping with the fat of sacrifice" — but it will be compared with the Tweed lines on the Irish, with the "men of Irish bog, liar, coward, demagogue".

But it is also appeal just the same; the first shrill outbreak of a bitter lively British campaign.

Here in Canada we have developed a kind of nice-Nellyism in our election debates, indeed in our parliamentary debates; a kind of code of "decorum" but which is little more than dullness, with no iron or vinegar into it at all, but only a dreary procession of dismal platitudes, sometimes tiresome and gets nobody half excited we suppose only the snobs who have an obsession about "good form".

Yet democracy without excitement, without passion, is a poor, desiccated business.

Plenty Makes Us Heedless

Hamilton Spectator

It has been said that the amount of edible food thrown into garbage pails in North America would provide square meals for the hungry of the rest of the world.

Life in what amounts to a luxury economy blunts our perceptions. In a land of plenty, how can we attach significance in discarding a half-eaten meal, still less in the casting away of a crust of bread?

We are not heartless people, but we are thoughtless. Abundance has made us so.

To throw a biscuit from a railway coach to a starving man through the slums of an Asian city is to show a callous lack of taste in keeping with a terrible truth of our times. The crowd that fights for a two-land square of pastry is not driven so by a desire to get something to eat. Something that is a well, high universal failing — but by a more elemental urger—hunger.

Not so long ago Churchill, President Eisenhower told the people of the world in a television broadcast that the problems of the under-developed nations were more serious than the machinations of Soviet-Western differences.

Yet we continue to tell people today who are living without sufficient food, shelter, clothing and health services that they are free, said, "they are not going to remain quiescent."

Our wastefulness, bulge, our store houses are choked, our garbage pails bear testimony to our lack of our wastefulness, and two out of every three children born into the world today know it.

We have solved mysteries; we have discovered the secret of plenty; we have banished poverty. Yet we make a fetish of obsolescence and waste.

"Actually, it should have been christened 'Charitie' but Mrs. Gilmore cut her finger on the bottle."

Aftermath of the Canadian War Budget handed down by the Dominion Government saw a calm Belleville population take almost everything in its stride. While there was much conjecture regarding the possible advance in the price of food-stuffs and other commodities, there were little or no signs of the "jitters" or "flight" was termed a necessary measure. As prominent Front Street tobacconist stated this morning that the new tax on tobacco and cigarettes had not as yet gone into effect. He was of the opinion that not until new stocks now on order were delivered, would the new prices be quoted.

After entire work on the bridge will cost. It is estimated. About $500,000 of which Belleville's share was placed at about $120,000. Up to the end of 1929 the share of the city has been approximately $70,000. The decision of the Government means that Belleville has been relieved of about $50,000 of this cost.

Misuse RCMP And Troops

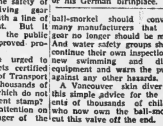
Pembroke Observer

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police can hardly be held to blame if they now find it impossible to live up to their motto. They are too busy providing "local color" for Canadian entries in beauty pageants and acting as camera subjects for tourists at Ottawa and border crossing points.

The Mounties themselves obviously don't like it. When the commissioner has said two officers, accompanied by wives, are touring the dubious title of Miss Canada to the equally dubious Miss America contest, are doing so on instructions from the government of New Brunswick. The new RCMP contracts for police duties with many of the provinces, it is constantly pointed out, call for the escorting of beauty queens as police work, although in New foundland's case they do not include the maintenance of law and order under that subject, at the time of the woodworkers' strike violence.

The duties of Mounties City aren't the first case of misuse of men trained for other and more serious purposes. The RCMP for many years have acted as photographers' assistants at fairs and at some border points. And a decade ago the Canadian Legion at this year played tin soldiers in Ottawa. They subscribed up the Hill and, in their scarlet and heavy, unreasonable clothing so that the Ottawa tourist bureau could count its profits. Taken from their training for the new type of war in which atomic warheads might conceivably be hurled, these troops are part of Canada's billion-dollar defence bill and they deserve thinks should be cut.

If tourist promotion is needed to dress up and serve as attractions for tourist cameras, it would be preferable to entrust them to hire actors for the job — but not to the detriment of the work in the kind of clothing and under the conditions expected and required of fit males to defend us policemen and soldiers paid from taxes.



Journalists Told 'Go East'

Toronto Financial Post

From the mysterious — and controversial — Bilderberg meetings comes somewhat oblique commentary on pressures in the Twentieth Century.

"All founder members of the Pakistan Writers Guild have been insured for a sum of Rs. 5,000 each. The insurance scheme covers death, permanent disablement, injury and suicide to which intellectuals are in certain cases easily susceptible."

Our advice to the many who write TP asking for employment in journalism: Go East, young man, there will be more room at the top.

Adams had their lands surveyed in 1845, they named their new village Adamstown, for obvious reasons, but this name was changed to Hanover, after Hannoverian, a settler who came early to the district, which like that name and caused it to be changed to Hanover, to honor the Royal House of Hanover.

Snorkels Dangerous

Vancouver Province

Skin-divers and water safety experts have condemned as dangerous the snorkel breathing tube with the "ping-pong ball" shutoff valve. It is unfortunate that the hazardous nature of this equipment was not given more public prominence before a life was claimed.

Divers and a coroner's jury have urged that this type of snorkel be banned and that government inspection be instituted to rule out unsafe equipment.

Government inspection or a system of manufacturers' permits for diving gear, as for swimming and diving gear would provide us with a line of approved equipment. But it would not prevent the public from buying unapproved products.

Here are two homes, one right in the village, the other in the regions, in the other heaven. The one, a woman who lives in one of the homes hate each other, are estranged from their children and from their grandchildren, talking about a divorce and taking vengeance on the other by preventing a divorce.

The house next door is a very happy different matter altogether. The middle-aged couple there have to get along month by month on a medium-sized salary check. There has been one death in the family which cast the shadow of sorrow over all. But there are three girls and two boys who almost tear the house down with their romping and mischief. There is frequently the happy gathering together of relatives. The girls do not go to the neighbors by way of getting ready to go to college. Every Sunday morning the father and mother and five children are out early to attend Sunday school and church. They own second-hand car and they have run now for five years. On the shelves of their library are the literary classics and the best of new books. They sacrificed considerably a few years ago for an expensive record player and the outstanding musical classics have been purchased after much saving.

The difference between the two homes is not in the amount of income, hell and heaven — the difference between hate and love, between sin and wholesome godliness.

To Your Good Health

POLYPS ARE AN OVERGROWTH OF TISSUE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that after a person has consumed quite a bit of liquor, eating slice or more of bread will absorb the alcohol and help to shake a drunkard? — Mrs. D. B. L."

Yes, it won't. Because the alcohol is still there! This is a common notion, but it just does not do any good. On the other hand, a stomach full of food in addition may delay the action of the alcohol.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything anyone can do for varicose veins besides having them cut? I have had shots but they didn't help for long. — H. B. P."

Sometimes a varicose fswollen vein can be successfully obliterated by injections or "shots", but it depends on the degree of trouble. If that fails, surgery is the answer — remove the entire vein, and the parallel veins will take over the work. The removed vein, since it is gone, can't become varicose again. This does not mean that some other vein may not become so.

Wait, I lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing". For a copy, write to Dept. 6, 400 East Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 135, Dundas, Ont., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Ants May Yet Inherit Earth

Montreal Star

Experiments made by a South African entomologist indicate that in a nuclear war ants and other insects would come off best of all creatures on earth.

"Best" is not defined, but a colony of ants in a laboratory, exposed to radiation for many times the radium which would normally kill a human being, is still running around quite happily."

What the moral of this is we wouldn't dare say for sure, not certain, to begin with, that South African ants are normal ants and not an example with respect to things other than nuclear energy to be commended in terms of the Biblical injunction. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise." For the same entomologist finds aberrations of behavior in other species of ants.

He has been studying 400 species of ants in South Africa for 25 years and finds that female ants, just like most human females, prefer gin to whisky and brandy, but like their liquor diluted in sugar water."

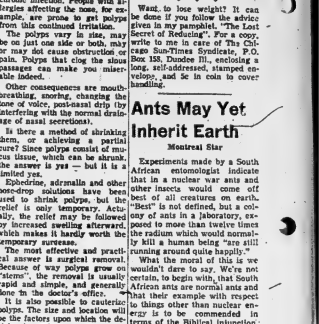
No connection is established between these drinking habits and the ants' immunity to radiation. It is surely one subject that should be investigated further.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My nephew has a dog called George. I do not recall a dog by the name of George in the whole life of dog fancying. Dogs' names, as a matter of fact, are rarely unimaginative: Sport, Jack, Nip, and similar appellations are usual with this animal. What is wanted is a short, clear name to be uttered sharply and to command instant attention of the dog. It is by the name of Aloysius, for example, could be executed for never answering his call.

In the case of George, he arrived in his present domicile while still a ball of fuzz; and since my nephew's family is large, there were a lot of contenders for naming the puppy. The children proposed that each should call it a different name of his or her own choice. But this was voted down as being too much of a strain on the dog when it grew to man's estate. To this my nephew, who was decided to call it by the name of the donor, replied that it mattered not to my nephew — George.



It is a perfect name. It is short, can utter with rolling stern scorn when it is necessary and tame and dog-like, it can be shouted across half a city block and it comes out clear, sternly terian, with bushlike surtcoats, so that the most refractory dog in town can hardly pretend that he didn't hear himself being summoned.

Gregory is no name at all for a dog. I know a bugbie by that name and dog, too, a wire haired terrier, at which I take no offence, the dog is a pot-bellied dachshund whose stomach barely clears the ground.

This annoys me.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Behind The Iron Curtain

first intourist guide I could find, and told him in as plain a language as I could, just what I thought of this endless waiting. I don't know whether this got any results or not, but soon afterwards we were served.

We were told that we should try a meal at the Pekin restaurant while we were here. We have done just that. Of course the menu was more or less the same, but it was a bit different from most of the other restaurants for it took the waiter three hours to serve us. He was never quite sure just where we were in our meal. Once he was gone so long we thought sure that he had either been sent off to Siberia or was doing his military service.

But now on to a subject which makes me shudder every time I think of it — that is driving in Moscow. The traffic is not so bad, but oh, those pedestrians! They drive me frantic. No one seems to care whether the traffic light is green or red, they cross the street whenever they feel like it. At first I slowed down so that I wouldn't hit them, but they kept right on going. Now I have got to the point where I just keep right on going when the light is in my favor and they can get out of the way as best they can. This seems to be the accepted way to drive here, so I guess I'll just follow suit. I still expect to find some pedestrian on my fender before I leave, guess I'll just bring him back as a souvenir. Every other souvenir I've seen so far is too expensive.

CONFUSING DIRECTIONS

Another thing which causes a western driver no end of trouble is the fact that one cannot enter certain streets only by certain directions. What these directions are, I still am not sure, since I have continually running afoul of traffic policemen.

The other day I tried three different times to get on to Gorki Street, the main thoroughfare here. Three times the same traffic policeman waved me off.

Having expended all possible methods, I turned on in the accepted fashion, and did a quick U turn only to be confronted by the same policeman. By this time quite sure he was never going to get rid of me and in desperation, he did the only sensible thing, he waved me on. The next evening I ran into grief on three different occasions, and I'm sure every traffic cop in the district was on the lookout for a blue Dauphine. However, considering the circumstances, I think I have done rather well, no damage done so far, but my friends have been little help to me. All they do is sit back and laugh every time we tangle with another traffic policeman.

Here in Moscow we have been treated to the usual number of monuments, statues and state buildings. But some things stand out. There is a huge permanent industrial and agricultural exhibition. Each one of the Soviet Republics has a permanent building where they show their products and industry. There is also a technical building, where the accomplishments of Soviet industry, and they are many, are shown. It is surprising what has been accomplished in some fields. There is also a life-sized model of the TU-104 Russian jet. There is such a lineup at some of the exhibitions that we would have to wait for hours, if our guide didn't show his pass and get us in right away. I will say this about the Russians, no one seems to complain when we get through while they have to wait.

VISITS THE KREMLIN

On to the Kremlin, a really imposing group of buildings, surrounded by a huge wall — in front of which is a large square, where the large parades are held. Between the square (Red Square by the way), is the tomb of Lenin and Stalin. The two bodies are well preserved and you can get in to see them. In fact there is such a line-up that it takes several hours before you get in. The Russians all seem to wait patiently — again not complaining when we got in at the head of the line.

Another point of interest which I should mention is the underground railway or subway. The stations are for the most part very ornate and elaborate, and the service seems to have improved in the past few years. Needless to say, the Russians are very proud of it.

Also included in our stay here has been a visit to the Canadian Embassy where I have met several of my comrades with whom I used to work in External Affairs. Some of what they had to say to me will be included in a later article.

But I can't close this article without giving you a little lesson in Russian. One word which one hears here especially in the restaurants, is the word "zachas," which ought to mean right away. The waiters use it all the time whenever you ask for something. But I have come to learn that it means rather "later perhaps." Sometimes much later.

My friend who has picked up a bit of Russian here and there, is as much put out by the pedestrians here as I am, and has taken to shouting at them to get out of the way. It didn't work in English and German, so I suggested that the Russian word might work, so now pedestrians are being startled by a young Canadian leaning out the window and shouting ostrozhno at them. It's too early to say what result this will have, but maybe I'll have something to report later.

DIFFICULT LANGUAGE

Incidentally, for any reader interested in languages, let me assure you that Russian is a pretty tough nut to crack. If you want to learn it, be prepared for a lot of hard work.

But, all this is not Moscow. If I may sum up my impressions let me say that the city seems to be one which was built main-

Mysterious Blast Is Heard Throughout Extensive Area

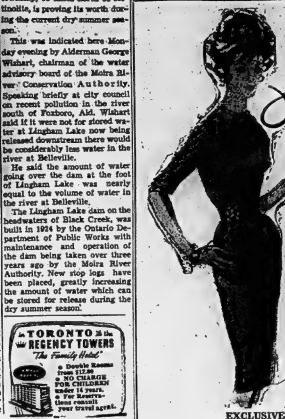
A mysterious blasting noise which shook windows over a wide area in the immediate Belleville district resulted in a flood of 'phone calls to police and fire departments last evening as anxious residents sought to learn the cause of the explosion.

One call mistakenly named the Bakelite plant in the east end of the city as the locale of the explosion and firemen and police raced to the scene to find it was a false alarm.

The blasting noise was heard at Foxboro and across the Bay in Prince Edward county as well as both east and west of the city, as far away as Trenton. A Bayside woman noted the blast was very pronounced in her district. This morning the origin of the blast was still very much of a mystery although one suggestion is that blasting on area highway projects may have been the cause.

Stored Water in Lingham Lake Proving Worth in Dry Season

The stored water in man-made Lingham Lake in Grimsthorpe township, 18 miles north of Actinolite, is proving its worth during the current dry summer season.



This was indicated here Monday evening by Alderman George Wishart, chairman of the water advisory board of the Moira River Conservation Authority. Speaking briefly at city council on recent pollution in the river south of Foxboro, Ald. Wishart said if it were not for stored water at Lingham Lake now being released downstream there would be considerably less water in the river at Belleville.

He said the amount of water going over the dam at the foot of Lingham Lake was nearly equal to the flume of water in the river at Belleville.

The Lingham Lake dam on the headwaters of Black Creek, was built in 1924 by the Ontario Department of Public Works with maintenance and operation of the dam being taken over three years ago by the Moira River Authority. New stop logs have been placed, greatly increasing the amount of water which can be stored for release during the dry summer season.

The lake, about two-and-a-half miles across, is the largest reservoir on the Moira watershed which can be used advantageously for storage. There are no cottages on the lake and levels can thus be reduced as desired.

Area of the lake is about 2,500 acres with a head of 21 feet at the dam.

Woman Bit Excited Over 101st Birthday

HALIFAX (CP) — Mrs. Katie Snow, 101 today, wonders what people will do when she reaches "200 or more."

She said she couldn't understand all the fuss "just because I'm 101 years old." However, as she prepared to celebrate the day with her son at his home here, she admitted being a bit excited about the next birthday party she'll attend.

That will be Sept. 24 when her brother, John Vogler of nearby New West Quoddy, is 103.

Mrs. Snow has no secret for long-life.

"There's not a day during the seven in a week that I don't have at least three hearty meals and perhaps a lunch if there is something good on the go," she says.

EGGLETON W.M.S. & W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The September meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker in Stirling.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley, presided over a program which she had prepared on "Christian Citizenship," and opened the meeting with the hymn, "Happy the Home When God is There."

The Scripture lesson, Matthew 18:1-6, was read by Mrs. Warren Harlow, who also gave the commentary on the lesson, "The Christian Home," saying in part: "The love, teachings, memories of a Christian home, remain with us and are an influence in our lives through all the future years."

Thy Mizz Nancy Brownlee then gathered the offering, which was dedicated with prayer by the president; Mrs. Stapley also remembered in prayer Dr. Florence Murray, the special missionary for prayer during this year.

The roll call, answered by a verse of Scripture, showed 11 members and 2 visitors present.

During the business period the W.M.S. president requested members to still save their used rayon hose, so another parcel could be sent away later on. She also announced that the Belleville East sectional rally of the W.M.S. will be held on October 31st at the Carmel United Church.

Members of the Mission Band will sell boxes of Christmas cards, proceeds of which will go to the missionary funds.

The W.A. president stated that the annual bazaar would be held on October 30th at the home of Mrs. William McMullen, from 2.30 to 5.00 o'clock. Members are to invite friends. The secretary, Mrs. Fitchett, was also requested to send out invitations to a number of nearby societies.

A committee, Mrs. B. Stapley, Mrs. William McMullen and Mrs. Keith Johnson, was appointed to arrange the menu for the bazaar date.

The October meeting is to be held at the church on the regular date, with Mrs. Warren Harlow preparing the program.

Discussion took place on minister for the anniversary service, October 11th. Bills were presented and moved to be paid.

Mrs. B. Stapley gave a splendid paper on "Christian Citizenship, the Church and the Christian Home."

Mrs. Clarence Fitchett gave a reading on "Gambling." Its effects and the stand Christian citizens should take to overcome this evil.

WIDOWS' OCCUPATION

Mrs. McMullen gave an interesting reading about how widows in Japan 55 years of age and older, can make a living by unravelling the nylons sent overseas, rewinding these threads and making many lovely articles such as bedspreads and blouses. She also gave another reading about a minister and his wife who held services in an agricultural area in Japan; how their work was blessed by many converts to the Christian Faith, because of their love of God, love of mankind and love of Christ.

Mrs. Stapley reminded members to bring their clippings for the scrapbook to the October meeting. She also expressed thanks to Mrs. Wannamaker for the use of her home and to all those assisting on the program.

After the meeting closed, Mrs. Wannamaker served delicious refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

W.H. Auxiliary Announces Fashion Fiesta

The first Women's Hospital Auxiliary meeting of the Fall term was held Tuesday at the Nurses' Residence when the president, Mrs. B. Burley, welcomed a large turnout of members and made a plea for renewed energy and effort in the big fall campaign months.

It was announced that a gift of money had been donated to the Auxiliary by a friend which would be used to purchase an oxygen tent for the Pediatric Ward.

Miss Doris Smith, superintendent of Nursing, requested us and are an influence in our lives through all the future years."

A coffee party is being planned for the annual Fashion Fiesta which is to be held on the evening early in November under the membership of Mrs. W. H. Finkle. In charge of the draw tickets is Mrs. A. J. Melenden, who urged members to do their utmost in salesmanship and reported that the first prize attractive prize was $300 worth of merchandise at McIntosh Bros. store.

On behalf of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Burley presented a lovely lamp case, suitably inscribed, to Mrs. Kenneth Box, former Administrator of Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Box thanked the gathering and said a few words about his new duties in Toronto.

The Opportunity Shop reopened its doors on September 10th and will now remain open every day from 2-4p.m. except Wednesdays; it will also be open on Friday evenings from 7-9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9.30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

After the meeting adjourned a social hour was enjoyed.

Shape Keeps Mag Cournou In Lucrative Modelling Job

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Mag Cournou is billed as the world's largest fashion model.

Her shape, or lack of it, has kept her in a lucrative modelling career for the last 20 years.

For the first 10 years she was a svelte size 14. As the result of gradual trouble she grew models' size 53. Her waistline is twice the size it used to be.

The Paris model — statistics 56-56-56—came here to model fashion at the Canadian National Exhibition for a Canadian firm, which specializes in large-size clothes for women.

STYLES ADMIRED

The applause she receives on stage and the admiring glances of people on the street please the attractive blonde model who is content to be stout.

She's against dieting. She says it makes women bad tempered. Her theory is stout women get pleasant husbands because they are pleasant themselves.

She also says heavier women look younger.

Her warm smooth complexion and youthful features belie the fact that she's the mother of a 22-year-old girl.

With the help of an interpreter, French - speaking Mrs. Cournou said in an interview that fashions have improved tremendously during the last four years. The larger sizes need to be made only in styles for older women. Now stout women of all ages can be smartly dressed.

FROWNS ON SLACKS

"We must never wear slacks. Shorts, yes, but only with a skirt over them," she says.

The most important thing for stout women is to wear clothes loosely so that they are comfortable. Skirts should have ample room. Many of Mrs. Cournou's feature a pleat which opens when she sits down.

Her smart wardrobe includes several pleated outfits, but no full skirts. Her dresses are always calf-length "no matter what the style."

As discreet with words as she is with fashion, Mrs. Cournou disapproves of the English word "fat" and the French word "gross." Instead, she prefers the gentler terms "stout" and "fort."

FUMES KILL GIRL

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Carbon monoxide fumes, leaking through the floor of a parked car, asphyxiated a 17-year-old girl Tuesday night. The victim was Angeline Worby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Worby of Deerfield, Fla., who were in a group of 32 migrant laborers en route to a potato camp.

12 Housewives Produce Paper Twice a Month

By ATHOL RETALLACK
Canadian Press Correspondent

DAWSON CITY, Y. T. (CP)—Twelve housewives produce Dawson's home - made newspaper, a six-page effort printed on a duplicating machine every second Thursday.

Rhoddie Korner has been appearing regularly since as the weekly newspaper Dawson News ceased publication four years ago. It began as a newsletter of the Nutty Club for the benefit of members who had left the Yukon.

The current edition has a circulation of 400, but a much larger reading audience, and its mailing list includes Ireland, France, Italy, South Africa, Colombia, Solivia and Puerto Rico.

Members of the Nutty Club — the organization got its name because it has not had an executive for longer than a year of operation—take turns as editors and reporters, help cut stencils, make up the pages and handle accounts and mailing.

The Korner's Korner is a clearing house of information for Yukoners. Letters with circular name from many parts of North America with birth announcements of grandchildren and obituaries of those who came over the trail of '98.

The publication never takes itself seriously, and its style is that of a friendly letter. The progress of Katy McLennan's garden may fill up as much space as the arrival of a noted visitor.

Small advertisements are also printed, but there is no worry about showing a profit. If the budget permits, the club makes presentations to schools, donates trophies for student sports or makes Christmas gifts to older women.

St. Joseph's CWL Plans Coming Events

The Reverend J. J. Buckley, director of St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League, welcomed a large crowd to the September meeting held on Monday.

Father Buckley announced the resignation of the president, Mrs. P. F. Mallorgie. It was with regret that the ladies learned that Mrs. Mallorgan had moved out of St. Joseph's parish. Mrs. J. C. Baker, first vice-president, has consented to take over the presidency. Mrs. A. J. Ribbons, treasurer, and Mrs. T. McQuaid, corresponding secretary, have also found it necessary to resign their positions. Father Buckley paid tribute to the excellent work done by these ladies. Mrs. H. Carr-Brant conducted the meeting in the absence of the president.

Reports were given by Mrs. G. White, Mrs. T. Hopkins, Mrs. J. Hanley and Mrs. C. Murphy.

Mrs. R. Lynch is convening the "Marathon Bridge" which will commence at the end of September. All members are asked to participate in this social undertaking and make it a success.

Mrs. F. Maund advised the ladies that the September bridge party will be a "Telephone Bridge and Euchre." Each member is asked to hold a bridge or euchre in her home on Tuesday, Sept. 22.

The annual Hallowe'en tea will be held early in November.

Father Buckley conducted a question and answer period which was enjoyed by all.

At the conclusion of the meeting a thank-you was extended to Mrs. Carr-Brant by all the ladies.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Wasden and helpers, Mrs. D. Duminie, Mrs. V. Mulcoon, Mrs. B. Beirne and Mrs. C. Tugnett.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE TIME "AUNTIE" HAD TO TAKE A BACK SEAT!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We all tried so hard to have everything go smoothly and happily at our daughter's wedding ten days ago — but the gremlins took over in a circumstance at the church wedding, and it involved a relative of ours who is too often inclined to be crotchety and critical. Also whenever she's late (and it's a habit of hers) everyone else is expected to sit—just to her lateness (as when, for instance, she comes to family dinners or holiday dinners at our house).

We had been most careful to assign her a seat in the reserved section on our side ("bride's side") of the church, had told her about this seating-arrangement, and my son, who was an usher, passed this information along to the other ushers.

Then at the wedding the bridegroom's mother and father had already been escorted up the aisle. I had also been escorted up the aisle. The wedding party had been formed, just about to start up the aisle. Then enter — Auntie! Late as usual, and as imperious as usual. My son quickly stepped from his place in the wedding party, and directed her to an aisle seat in a pew in the rear of the church.

Ever since the wedding, Auntie has complained bitterly about this, insisting that she was treated most shabbily and undignifiedly, and that, as such a close relative of the family she should have been escorted to her assigned seat in the reserved section, even though she did arrive late. She's upset us all, of course, but most particularly our son. Do you think he was right or wrong in what he did? — A worried mother

Your son was emphatically right in what he did. You had already been escorted to your place in the first pew . . . and the important rule, which definitely should not be broken, is that after the bride's mother has been escorted up the aisle and has taken her place in the first pew, no one should be seated. In this there is a significant traditional procedure which should not be changed . . . and no latecomer should expect it to be changed.

As a matter of fact, Auntie should have entered a side door of the church and taken her place quietly in a rear pew at the side of the church. I do hope you can explain this proper procedure to Queen Auntie, and be able to convince her that your son took the only possible course.

TIPPING THE HEADWAITER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been about quite a bit, and I must admit I'm very observant about the correct procedure of one's escort. So last evening I was certainly surprised to see that my escort gave the restaurant headwaiter a 50-cent tip. I have always thought that if a man got the headwaiter a tip (which I believe isn't always a "must"), the tip should be "folding money," never change. Right? — Reader

Right!

Finnish Women Combine Intelligence and Beauty

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women in Finland combine intelligence and beauty, and are to be found in all professions there, says Mrs. E. M. Woodsworth, who has just returned from a visit to Helsinki.

As Canadian delegate to the International Federation of University Women convention at Helsinki, she was accompanied by her 30-year-old mother and 13-year-old son.

"They are the most creative people I've ever seen," Mrs. Woodsworth said of Finland, a country of 4,000,000 people.

"The Finnish glass and the architecture are beautiful. Department stores are filled with sumptuous goods, and even the smallest hotel has its live orchestra for mealtime and incidental music. Appreciation of the arts was always in evidence."

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Gray, said she would like to make the trip again. They had also seen Estonia and Russia.

"I used to do 36 holes of golf in a day, so why should I get tired sightseeing in Leningrad? I've never had my hand kissed so much as I did in Russia. Food and language presented no problems. We ate everything, and didn't even have a headache."

Mrs. Woodsworth said the Russian girls have discovered their waistlines. "They are attractively dressed in cotton prints—in fact, it looked just like home."

Appointment as Chairman Surprise to Miss MacLellan

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Margaret MacLellan explains she doesn't know the answers to the complex problems wrapped around the legal and economic status of the world's women.

"But I think I know which questions should be considered", says the attractive, dark-haired woman who is chairman of the status of women committee for the International Federation of University Women.

The appointment was a surprise. Librarian and self-styled "jack of all trades" in the justice department's combines investigation branch, Miss MacLellan was not among the 6 Canadians who attended the international meeting at Helsinki, Finland, last month.

But she had let her name stand for nomination as chairman of the international committee, with little thought she would be elected.

WORLD PROJECT

"The news floored me," she said in an interview. "This is a bigger field than I've ever worked in."

First Canadian to head the committee, Miss MacLellan consoles herself with knowing some of the questions and having some idea where to turn for the answers. She is chairman of the Canadian Federation of University Women's status of women committee — a job she has held for four years.

The international committee's work is closely linked with work of the United Nations commission on the status of women and other agencies of the UN.

With her five committee members in five other countries, Miss MacLellan expects the job to entail "mostly paper work" from Ottawa. However, she probably will attend international meetings in Vienna and possibly Colombo, Ceylon, during her three - year term.

Right now, she says she doesn't know whether the correspondence will start rolling in "or whether I'll have to go after it."

ACTIVE IN CANADA

Despite her feeling of trampling off into the unknown, Miss MacLellan looks to her international volunteer job as one which will "open windows on the world."

But she has been busy in her own corner. Former Ottawa University women's president, she has served on the Canadian federation's national executive for eight years.

Also an active executive of the Ottawa Elizabeth Fry Society, dealing with penal reform and prisoner rehabilitation, she now is on the society's advisory board.

As preparation for her work in the 100,000 - member international federation, she has energetically worked to create interest and activity in the status of women committees within the 9,000 - member Canadian university women's organization.

Jury service for women taxation, domicile, adoption laws, working women and studies this year of the proposed Canadian bill of rights are topics covered by her Canadian committee.

The Toronto - born, University of Toronto honor arts graduate

TO STUDY WOMEN'S STATUS — Margaret MacLellan, librarian in the justice department's combines investigation branch, will serve the next three years as chairman of the status of women committee for the 100,000-member International Federation of University Women. A University of Toronto honor arts graduate, she finds many problems affecting women need legislation less than persistent prodding. The committee's work is linked with that done by various United Nations' agencies. (CP Photo).

FULL GOSPEL W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — On Thursday evening the Women's Missionary Council of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle met at the home of Mrs. Gerald Curry, president, who welcomed all the ladies and especially the guest speaker, Mrs. Abe Hodgin of South Bolton, Quebec, a former Frankford girl (Miss Daisy Chapman), the wife of the pastor, Rev. A. Hodgin. Mrs. K. Wright of Wallbridge, led in prayer.

The secretarial report was given by Mrs. Fred Miller, during the summer months 35 lbs. of Sunday school literature was sent to the West Indies, a parcel of bandages to Rev. and Mrs. Wentland in Africa, and parcel of quilts to Moosonee Bible School and parcels of used clothing to needy families.

Correspondence was read from different mission fields, Africa, West Indies, Northern Ontario and Quebec, thanking the Women's Missionary Council for parcels received.

Mrs. Mary Patrick read the Review.

Miss Marjorie Forbes gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Gordon Pierce the flower fund report.

Prayer requests were given and a season of prayer followed.

Mrs. A. Hodgin, guest speaker, brought the word, speaking on "Different Women of the Bible"—Motherhood, Love, Influence, Sacrifice, Testimony, Helping Others and Home. Jesus said: "She hath done what she could." She told of the missionary work in Quebec.

Refreshments were served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edward E. — My wife won't socialize.

Gloria E. — I don't like to put on a front.

Edward E. — My wife and I have been happily married for ten years. We have three children. Our only problem is a social-economic one.

I am a lawyer and two years ago I went into business for myself. Unfortunately, I haven't been too successful. I have a few steady clients and I am building a reputation, but I feel that it is very important for me to socialize more. I need to build up the circle of my contacts.

My wife is the shy, retiring type and has never done any entertaining outside of her family and one or two old school chums. She turns down invitations when we get them because she says she doesn't like the crowd. Yet I feel there are all kinds in every crowd, and I know if I have valuable contacts through not being at the right place at the right time.

Gloria E. — I don't believe in socializing just for the sake of business. I'd rather live on less than be forced to go around with people I don't like. I'm not the grasping, pushing type and I don't think I would really be much help to Ed even if I did go to some of those functions.

I feel Ed ought to be grateful to be married to a woman who is not demanding. I love my home and family and I'm never so happy as when we are all together and I don't have to put on a front for other people.

If Ed can't make out in business for himself, he should get a regular job in some firm. He would be better off in the long run if he is on his own, yet it will take many years to build up his business. These are the years we really need money. We are too far in debt already.

The Council: We can understand that it is very difficult for Gloria to socialize if she feels she is forced into it. The essence of sociability is involved in enjoyment of the nature of our fellow human beings.

However, Gloria should be aware that she has restricted herself ability to feel any sincere warmth for, or interest in, other people. She has placed the same restriction upon her husband's life and we suspect he rather resents it — and not for economic reasons alone.

Doctors who work with certain emotionally disturbed individuals find that their lack of feeling for others is closely tied up with lack of esteem for themselves. Such individuals may be noisy and bragging or extremely withdrawn. At bottom, both kinds think they aren't very much and are desperately afraid that others will find them out. They crave attention and even love from others, but they are hostile or indifferent to friendly advances and set up further barriers by being overcritical of others.

Gloria's statement that she is unhappy at having to "put on a front for other people" is a give-away. Why put on a front? Why be so afraid to expose herself? Why is she so concerned about what that she has simple curiosity about her fellow humans? Why must she "grasp and push"? Why not take things as they come?

Gloria should be aware that she is not as worthless as she feels.

Kidneys In The Grand Manner

by Mary Moore

A recent letter asks "Can you enlighten me how to cook kidneys They are said to be fried or used in the English traditional steak and kidney pie."

For the benefit of this reader I decided to give Braised Veal Kidneys and Broiled Veal, Pork and Lamb Kidneys.

For the benefit of our British descendants like me I will give dear old Steak and Kidney

NOTE:

Before using, all kidneys should be washed and split and soaked in salted water for at least 1 hour, then drained and dried.

BRAISED VEAL KIDNEYS:

2 lbs. veal (or lamb) kidneys, 1-2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, 1-3 cups boiling water.

Remove membrane, split each kidney through centre, and remove fat and tubes. Soak kidneys in cold water to cover with 1-2 teaspoon salt for 1 hour then drain and dry. Slice and then dredge thoroughly in flour which has been mixed with the salt. Melt fat in heavy iron or aluminum frying pan and brown on all sides in the hot fat. Add water; cover and simmer for about 1-2 hour or until tender. Serve piping remaining in frying pan as gravy. 6 servings. Lovely with rice.

BROILED VEAL KIDNEYS:

Veal and lamb and choice pork kidneys may be broiled. They are particularly good as an item in a mixed grill with bacon or sausages and mushrooms. Wash, split, clean and soak in slightly salted water 1 hour. Drain and dry. Marinate in 1-3 cup French dressing for 2 hours. Place on broiler 4 inches from heat and broil one side until golden and turn over and broil other side.

STEAK AND KIDNEY PIE:

1-1 1-2 lbs. beef, 1-2 to 1 lb. kidneys (3 lbs. meat), 1 onion, diced, 2 tablespoons fat, 1-3 cup flour, 2 cups hot water, 4 whole cloves (optional), 1-3 teaspoon mixed pickling spice (optional), 2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, biscuit dough or pastry.

Cut beef and kidney in 1" cubes. Heat fat and brown 1 hour in cold salted water (1-3 teaspoon salt to 3 cups water). Brown onion in fat. Roll meat in flour seasoned with salt and pepper and brown. Add water and spices if used tied in cheesecloth bag. Cover and simmer slowly 1 1-2 to 2 hours, removing spices at end of the first hour. When meat cooked, cook along the way, that's just gravy. 15 minutes after pressure is reached.) Place in greased casserole, 1 1-2 quart size and cover with

TEA BISCUIT TOPPING:

Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt. Cut in 1-4 cup butter or shortening with pastry blender until fine. Pour 3-4 cup milk in depression in centre. Stir just until mixture leaves sides of bowl. Turn out and pat to 1" thickness. Cut out with floured cutter and place on top of meat filling. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 25-30 minutes until biscuits are cooked.

Tweed and Hungerford Twp. Councils Favor Stoco Lake Dams to Control Water Level

Municipal councils of Tweed village and Hungerford township are keenly interested in the possibility of temporary type dams being placed in the outlets of Stoco Lake as a measure of controlling the lake water level during the dry summer season.

This was revealed Monday evening at a special meeting of the two ocuncils called by reeves D. E. Spencer and B. J. Hunt. Also attending the meeting was T. C. Graham, Moira River Conservation Authority member from Tweed, and Michael Chubb, authority field officer.

Resolutions passed at the meeting requested the Moira Authority to proceed with preliminary studies of the proposal and the matter will come up for discussion at a full meeting of the Authority scheduled for next week.

Undoubtedly the Authority will pass on the resolution and request that an engineering consultant be engaged to make preliminary studies and prepare cost estimates for the dams.

Early preliminary estimates indicate the cost figure might be somewhere between $28,000 and $30,000.

REQUIRE TWO DAMS

Two temporary dams would be required to control summer water level in Stoco Lake, one in each of the two lake outlets.

With shallow water and rock bottom being required for the dams, there are only two possible locations for the dams. The location in the west chanlel is about three-quarters of a mile below the lake and in the east channel about one-and-a-half miles downstream.

The Ontario Department of Planning and Development would pay 50 percent of the cost of the project with the major part of the Authority share undoubtedly being borne by Tweed and Hungerford, the two benefiting municipalities.

There are two types of temporary dams which are felt might be suitable for the Stoco Lake project.

Both types use short plank-type stoplogs which are put in placed near the end of the spring freshet thus maintaining the lake level. The planks are removed in the fall so as not to impede the heavy run-off the following spring.

Marmora Dam On Crowe Lake Being Inspected

Consulting engineers from Toronto are in Marmora today inspecting the Marmora dam on the Crowe river to arrive at an estimate of possible costs of repairing the structure.

The engineers will report their findings at a meeting Monday evening of the water control committee of the Crowe Valley Authority, when it is expected that plans and specifications for the repair work may be ordered.

Crowe Valley Authority officials have been advised that the Marmora dam is in bad state for repair and it is urged that remedial work be done as soon as possible.

INCOHERENT MAN

in trying to persuade Orgeron to leave the school grounds.

Two incoherent notes were found on the playground, but police and the FBI could find no specific reason who Orgeron, a former convict, set off the explosion.

HANDED NOTES

Mrs. Patricia L. Johnston, another second-grade teacher, said Orgeron approached here, handed her the threatening notes and asked her to read them.

She said he kept mumbling something about God and "having power in a suitcase." He was carrying a small black suitcase.

"He kept on urging me to get the children in a circle," Miss Johnston said.

Teachers summoned Mrs. Doty, who arrived minutes later with Montgomery.

TOLD TO LEAVE

"I told him that he had to leave the school grounds," Mrs. Doty said. "He kept telling me over and over, 'I have to get to the children.'

"That is the last thing I know. There was a terrific explosion as I was standing near him talking to him."

Hundreds of parents and neighbors rushed to the school when the blast shook the area.

"Tell me it's a dream," begged one little girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston A. Weatherhead, experienced first aid, rushed to the scene. They said they witnessed the death of one child and heard another cry, "I'll never walk again."

Mrs. Orgeron said she had seen her former husband last week for the first time since April. She recalled him telling her "I have done so many things to hurt you but I'll never hurt you again because I have found God."

The man and the boy had been inseparable companions since the Orgerons were divorced in 1958.

Band of Negroes Drag Girl From Escort's Car

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A band of Negroes dragged a sobbing, scared teen-age girl from her escort's car Monday night and raped her repeatedly, police here said today.

The white girl, screaming and hysterical, ran from a wooded area about a mile west of downtown Fort Worth into the arms of police when her escort had notified. She was almost nude.

Several suspects were arrested.

Police said the 16-year-old girl and her escort, 21, were sitting in a parked car when the Negroes appeared on each side of the automobile.

Officers quoted the escort as saying that one of the Negroes struck him over the head with a pipe after he pleaded with them not to harm the girl.

The man, who feigned unconsciousness after he was struck with the pipe, ran to a filling station nearby to call police.

Total Eclipse of Sun by Moon Will Be on October 2nd But Not Fully Visible in This Area

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—It is recorded in the Old Testament's Book of Amos, in Chapter VIII, Verse 9:

"And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord God, that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and will darken the earth in the clear day."

The next time this prophecy is fulfilled will be Oct. 2, when there will be another total eclipse of the sun by the moon.

But in North America, it will be seen as a total eclipse only from a narrow belt of eastern Massachusetts. Canadians living east of Lake Superior will see a partial eclipse, and those west of there little at all.

"A very satisfactory eclipse for us," said an official of the Dominion Observatory here.

EXTENDS TO INDIAN OCEAN

The eclipse will occur at 5.20 a.m. EST but will be total only for watchers in a 100-mile-wide band extending from Boston east across the Atlantic, the Canary Islands, the Sahara, Sudan and Ethiopia, ending in the Indian Ocean.

The last total eclipse visible over Canadian territory was June 30, 1954. The next won't be until July 20, 1963, and then only in the Hudson Bay area.

In ancient times, eclipses were regarded as portents and a large number of them are mentioned in history and literature.

The first record of an eclipse occurs in Chinese literature of about 4,000 years ago but the first accurate date for one, recorded by the Chinese, is bc. lieved to be Sept. 8, 776 B.C.

The one recorded by the prophet Amos is estimated to have occurred June 15, 763 B.C.

AWED ANCIENTS

Homer's Odyssey says at one point "the sun has perished out of heaven and an evil mist has spread over all" and the Greek poet Archilochus wrote: "Zeus, father of the Olympians, made night from mid-day, hiding the light of the shining sun, and sore fear came among men."

This latter eclipse has been identified as occurring April 6, 648 B.C.

The most famous of the ancient eclipses occurred May 28, 585 B.C., during a battle between the Lydians and Medes. The frightened warriors stopped fighting and made peace.

From 747 B.C., Babylon kept a record of all astronomical observations, including eclipses.

INDECENT SHOW

NEW YORK (AP)—A Manhattan resident was convicted Monday of allowing a man and woman to frolic in the nude in a swimming pool inside his apartment while some 50 persons watched. Convicted with James Meechel, 30, was 21 - year - old Esther Huerta. Both were found guilty of allowing the apartment to be used for an indecent show July 21. Sentencing was deferred.

Contentious Issues Before Bitter Mine-Mill Convention

TORONTO (CP) — Three contentious issues—communism, an auditor's report and a bitterly long strike—still remained to be debated as the annual convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) hit the halfway mark today.

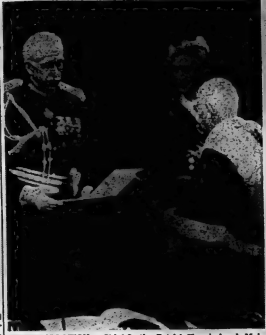
The issues all concern the Canadian body's powerful Sudbury Local 598, whose delegates have spent the first two days sparring in readiness for some pretty hot talk when, and if, the issues are aired on the convention floor.

The 14,000-member Sudbury local struck last year against the big International Nickel Company of Canada, which had stockpiled in anticipation of the strike, described by many observers as ill-timed.

The walkout lasted three months, depleted union funds and was settled with only meagre wage gains for the nickel workers. Soon afterwards, the executive was voted out of office in annual elections and a new slate headed by Don Gillis took over.

Mr. Gillis and his supporters command 113.5 of the convention's 277 votes. The local actually has 133 votes, but an eight-man faction led by former president Mike Solski controls 20.5 of them.

The Sudbury local has proposed two amendments to the mine - mill constitution which would bar Communists and their sympathizers from office and would require a candidate to take an oath that he is neither a member of a Communist or Fascist group nor associated with such organizations.



The old Sudbury executive was allegedly leftist and the national union has been accused many times of being pro-Communist.

The big questions are whether the anti-Communist resolutions will reach the convention floor, which and whether Mr. Gillis can swing enough votes to get them adopted if they do.

Another issue is an audit made of Local 598's books by Alistair Stewart of Winnipeg earlier this year. An auditor and former CCF member of Parliament, Mr. Stewart's report noted extravagances and unauthorized expenditures by the Solski executive.

The national union appointed a four-man fact-finding committee to study the report and present its findings to the national convention.

A report of the Sudbury strike is also scheduled to be given to the delegates.

3 Armed Men Get $17,359 in Bank Holdup

TORONTO (CP)—Three armed men held up a branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada Tuesday, made off with $17,359 and vanished into suburban traffic in a car driven by a fourth man.

Police blocked off streets near the bank on Bloor Street West after the men, armed with pistols and a sawed-off shotgun, forced the staff and one woman customer into the vault and made off with their loot. But they did not find the bandit car.

The bank staff, first made to lie on the floor and then told to go into the vault, saw the bandits wore "crazy hats" and dark glasses.

After shoving the money into bags, the bandits jammed the doors of the vault and fled. A. J. Hall, acting manager, and accountant Bryan Knight opened the door by releasing an inside catch.

Girls Overcome By Gas Fumes

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A man returned home Tuesday night and found his two daughters almost unconscious in their downtown apartment. Roy Caughill also found Mary Lee Blais, 16, in the same condition in an upper apartment of the house.

He called the city fire department. The daughters, Barbara, 12, and Sharon, 14, and the Blais father were revived with oxygen.

A defective furnace had sent coal gas fumes through the two-storey house.

Thrown From Car

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Christina Marilyn Lemay, 29, of suburban Etobicoke was killed Tuesday when her car collided head-on with a truck on Highway 400. Police said the woman was thrown from her car.

Russian Newspapers View Khrushchev Welcome With Different Eyes Than West

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow newspapers told readers today that Washington's welcome to Nikita Khrushchev was the greatest in the history of the American capital.

Stories appearing in Pravda and Izvestia said the Soviet premier was greeted by "friendly shouts" and "stormy applause" from a huge and smiling crowd.

"Not even the end of World War II brought such a sea of people onto the streets of Washington," said the Communist party organ Pravda.

"About 300,000 Americans met the Soviet guests, people stood on rooftops and balconies and many climbed monuments or trees."

UNRESTRAINED ACCOUNT

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia — edited by Khrushchev's son-in-law Alexi I. Adzhubei, 35, who is traveling with him—gave an even more enthusiastic account.

"Everywhere there were smiles and raised arms. There were outbursts of applause. The streets of Washington from the most distant outskirts were packed with people.

"Work stopped and school lessons stopped as a solid wall of people lined the sidewalk. There was not even a place to drop an apple. Washington had never before seen anything like this. You heard friendly shouts at Khrushchev.

"There was waving of handkerchiefs and flags. The bulk of the Washington population are employees of the government and private firms. There are very few workers."

Washington police estimated the crowd at about 200,000. American, Canadian, and other Western reporters described the reception as polite but restrained, with a large measure of silence along the parade route.

Moscow radio and Tass news agency gave a play-by-play report of Khrushchev's historic crossing of the Atlantic on a scale never before afforded any Soviet leader.

Izvestia said there was only one cloud in a clear sky—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

Izvestia apparently referred to the comment by the vice-president Sunday when talking to reporters about the Soviet moon rocket.

A press aid with Nixon said there was no official proof yet that the rocket had actually hit the moon. Nixon said: "Yes, that's true. None of us really knows that it is in the moon."

Izvestia said Nixon's comments showed there is still no position to improvement in relations between the U.S. and Soviet Union.

Tractor Rolls Over

SIMCOE (CP) — William Harrison, 18, of Lennoxville, Que., was killed Tuesday when the tractor he was operating rolled over, crushing his chest. The youth was working on a tobacco farm near Windham Centre, owned by Joseph Stachura.

Party Picked Wrong Kind Of Mushrooms

OTTAWA (CP)—A sailor about to return to civilian life after a five-year hitch in the navy died Tuesday of mushroom poisoning.

Three others who dined with him on mushrooms last Saturday night are in hospital here, one of them in critical condition.

Dead is Leading Seaman Gerald Nault, 27, who was staying with his parents here awaiting discharge from the RCN. Nault had been in hospital since early Sunday.

Critically ill is Paul Nault, Gerald's brother, while Paul's wife Pauline, 38, is in serious condition.

Gerald Nault's girl friend, Mona Holm, was in fair condition.

The four went hunting Saturday but off Highway 17 near Carp, and while in the woods they picked some mushrooms.

DEADLY MEAL

The mushrooms were cooked, spread over slices of bread and eaten with steak after the four returned to Ottawa Saturday evening.

Sunday they became ill and Isidore Nault, the boy's father, took all four to hospital.

An agriculture department official said if there is a bulbous cup at the base of a mushroom, "steer clear."

"Unfortunately," said the official, "this cup grows smaller and softer as the plant matures and often breaks off when the mushroom is picked."

Another authority surmised that the killer was a mushroom popularly known as the "destroying angel."

"Jest a Second"

"If'm — so this is why you couldn't afford to buy me popcorn at the movies last night."

Lloyd's Remark On Moon Rocket Called Silliest

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A Conservative foreign secretary is scalded by a newspaper that supports his own party for his views on moon rocketry. An opposition leader is praised by the television critic of a government-favoring paper for a television broadcast on his trip to Russia.

As the campaign for Britain's Oct. 8 general election slowly gathered headway today, party lines were crossed over Selwyn Lloyd's statement that he doubted "that many people are terribly interested" in the Russian moon rocket and Hugh Gaitskell's report on his trip to Russia.

The Daily Sketch, a strong supporter of Prime Minister Macmillan, was severe with Lloyd, terming his statement at the London airport Sunday "the silliest remark of the hour."

"Right now we don't think many people are terribly interested in Mr. Lloyd. But his attempt of his to pooh-pooh a brilliant scientific achievement by the Soviets is plain daft."

Lloyd, who arrived in New York Monday for the United Nations General Assembly opening, told reporters he could not remember making the statement about the moon shot, adding that "it does not represent my views."

Another Conservative newspaper, The Daily Mail, says Gaitskell emerged from his broadcast Monday night as a TV personality of the first rank."

The broadcast, like Macmillan's joint appearance with President Eisenhower two weeks ago, was officially non-political and the Labor party leader, appearing with his wife and Aneurin Bevan, Labor's foreign affairs spokesman, made no attempt to solicit votes.

They talk informally of Nikita Khrushchev, agreeing that he would appeal to his hosts in the United States, and offered a commentary of Russian films of their visit.

Bionda Stars In Western Lacrosse Win

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—With Jack Bionda in good form, New Westminster O'Keefes launched defence of their Minto Cup championship with an easy 32-4 victory Tuesday night over Peterborough Mercurys before more than 3,000 fans.

Bionda, who during the regular season shattered the all - time Canadian senior lacrosse scoring record with 74 goals and 70 assists, was up to his old tricks. He fired in four goals and had three assists.

The 25 - year - old native of Huntsville, Ont., in his second season here, opened the scoring with an unassisted tally. Before the first quarter ended he added two more.

The six-foot, 200-pound forward continued his rampage in the second quarter, scoring the fifth O'Keefe goal and setting up three of the next five:

OFF FOR FIGHTING

A lacrosse fighting penalty late in the third quarter stalled Bionda's efforts, but by then New Westminster completely dominated the play and was content to run out the clock.

Heavily favored to sweep the best-of-seven series, New Westminster took quarter leads of 6-4, 8-4 and 10-4.

Ken Oddy, Jack Barclay and Cliff Sepka each scored twice for New Westminster, while Jack Byford, a steady cog on defence, counted three assists. The other New Westminster goals came from Bill Stuart and Mario Crema.

Bob Curtis scored two of Peterborough's goals, the others coming from Frank Farley, Curly Mason and Paul Parnell.

Few were surprised by Bionda's performance. But a scoreless night by dangerous Bobby Allan of Peterborough caused a few eyebrows to lift. Allan, who held the modern lacrosse scoring record until this season, had paced Mercurys to the eastern championship.

Allan was closely shadowed and while he took eight shots, seldom was dangerous.

A highlight of the game was the netminding of 19 - year - old rookie Les Norman of New Westminster. He burned aside 32 shots to outshine the veteran goalie Moon Wootton — Mercurys playing-coach.

Norman's task was made easier by Peterborough's long-range shooting. Few Mercury forwards ventured far into the hard-hitting New Westminster defence.

Second game of the series is scheduled here Thursday, and the third Saturday.

The New Westminster is seeking its 14th Mann Cup triumph, a record.

Quinte Trap And Gun Club

Over 2000 targets were fired at over the past weekend as shooters came out in full force at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club.

Fourteen shooters took part in a registered shoot, coming from the Toronto, Picton and Belleville districts to participate.

Sheldon Galbraith of Toronto's Downsview Club captured top honors, Galbraith picked off 48 out of 50 targets at 18 yards and had 93 out of 100 handicap targets.

Following are the high scores from the regular weekend shoot:

Clay Little 25, S. Galbraith 23, S. Keogh 24, J. Cole 24, M. Slinger 24, W. J. Watson 24, R. Scott 23, M. Walcott 22, J. Wardhaugh 22, R. Thomson 22, D. Johnston 22, H. Leavitt 22, E. Marvin 22, R. Walsh 22, E. Bain 22, R. McKinnon 22, C. Maynard 22, Denny Rosette 22, G. Hammett 22, G. Haggis 22, R. Moore 22, Richard Rosette 21, H. Cummings 21, D. Folkard 20.

Sugar Kings Nip Richmond In Overtime

HAVANA (AP) — Richmond Vees send rightHander Bill Short to the mound tonight in Gran Stadium to try and knot them even with Havana Sugar Kings in the International League's best-of-seven final playoff series.

Havana eked out an 11-inning, 5-4 victory Tuesday night as Tony Gonzales single d home Vergy Davalillo with the winner. It was the opening game of the finals.

Davalillo singled with one out, and went to second on Elio Chacon's bunt single. Ed Dick relieved Richmond starter Jim Brentad and Gonzales hit the fourth pitch for the clincher.

Deron Johnson, who hit six home run in five games against Buffalo, was stopped cold by Ted Wieand and Lou Arrops.

Short, who was 17-6 during the season and 1-0 against Havana, will be opposed by Miguel Cuellar, who won three of four decisions against the Vees and was 10-11 over-all.

Ted O'Connor Will Coach Whitby Dunlops

WHITBY (CP) — Team manager Wren Blair Tuesday named Ted O'Connor playing coach for the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops of the Ohtario Hockey Association Senior A series.

He will replace Sid Smith who announced his retirement earlier this week.

An outstanding rear - guard with the Dunlops for the last three seasons, O'Connor has had professional experience with the American Hockey League Hershey Bears and with Tacoma in the Western League.

Last year he was drafted by the Toronto Maple Leafs but declined the offer.

The Dunlops open training here Saturday, Sept. 26 with about 25 players.

BLAST KILLS THREE

EVADALE, Tex. (AP) — Two explosions tore through a boiler unit of the East Texas Pulp and Paper mill Monday, killing three men. Eleven others, burned and battered, remained in hospital in serious condition. The mill, a $27,500,000 plant owned by Time, Inc., makes high-grade bleached paper for the Henry Luce magazines.

Hawk Brass Pleased With Team Practices

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks went through some serious scrimmages Tuesday, the first-time coach Rudy Pilous has allowed bodily contact since the National Hockey League club opened its 1959 training camp here during the weekend.

"I've always liked to bring them along slowly," Pilous admitted, "but we've got a home-and-home series with Toronto (in Peterborough Friday and back here Saturday) coming up. We've got to be ready for it."

Both Pilous and general manager Tommy Ivan were pleased with the way all three squads went at it.

"There's more spirit and confidence in this year's camp than I ever remember before," Ivan said.

BIG LINE SHARP

Chicago's big trio, Ted Sloan, Ted Lindsay and Bob Pember, looked particularly sharp. Pilous had Glen Skov working between Earl Balfour and Kenny Wharram while Bill Hay, purchased in the off-season from Montreal, centred Bobby Hull and Eric Nesterenko. Hay played with Calgary in the western loop last year.

Phil Maloney was at centre on another line with Ron Murphy and Murray Balfour, another off-season purchase who played last year with Rochester of the American Hockey League.

Goaltender Glenn Hall was in one net and Claude Pronovost with Montreal Royals last year, in the other.

At Arbour, Jack Evans, Pierre Pilote, Elmer Vasko and Dollard St. Laurent worked the defence along with Pat Prosley, who played last season with St. Lawrence University in Canton, N.Y.

Injuns Head For Winter Teepee; Giants Up Margin

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carter, Sports Editor

The world series is just around the corner and at this moment there is only one thing about the fall classic that is sure. It will be played in either Cleveland or Chicago and Milwaukee, Los Angeles or San Francisco.

The series, like its predecessors, will be productive of a hero and a goat, some choice word phrasing and probably one or two colored guns that will go down in baseball history.

The October epics of the past, like other games, have brought out many more or less wonderful, humorous and serious pieces of phraseology, a lot of which have survived the years.

Privateer there was John Drebinger's report when Babe Herman caught a fly. "Terry filed to Herman unassisted." And Chicago's Ed Burns at an Ebbet's Field battle when Wattie Hoyt hoisted a fly to Dan Hurst, wrote in true Fieldmaken. "Hurl hoisted it to Heist."

Then there is Franklin P. Adams' choice classic. "Those are the saddest words, Tinker to Evers to Chance," while George MacNair once wrote "A husky guy is Dizzy Dean, strong of arm but weak of head."

The "dizzy one once said about Babe Young, "he's the most nonchalantest player I ever saw," while who will ever forget Mike Gonzalez' now famous classic, "Good field, no hit." It took a foreigner to simplify English to its minimum.

Once when a batter objected to a called strike, Umpire Bill Klem speaking in catcher Johnny Gooch, replied, "It was right over the plate, wasn't it, Johnny?" The backstop replied, "Allibi your own lousy decisions, I'm too busy catching."

The irrepressible Lefty Gomez once wrote when filling an employment form after retiring from baseball, in answer to the question 'reason for leaving last employment, "I couldn't get anybody out."

Some remarks, the records state, have been distorted by the reporters. There is the famous "mone" made by Bill Terry when he was the manager of the Giants, "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" The truth is that during the winter when Gotham baseball writers busy writing the Giant and Yankee series about trades and re-signings, over in Flatbush there were no moves and no announcements.

One wrote, the public would hardly know there is a franchise in there." On the day the story appeared, Terry came up from Memphis for a visit and while he was discussing Boston, St. Louis and other rivals, a writer asked him if Brooklyn had improved. "Are they still in the league? I haven't heard a peep from them all winter," said Terry. The cry was taken up the following September as a slur against the Dodgers.

When Leo Durocher was with the Dodgers somebody asked him for something and the "Lip" dessurred. A baseball writer nearby said, "Oh, be a good fellow and give it to him." Whereupon Durocher snapped his now famous remark, "Good fellow!, Gegd fellows, Dead fish. Look at Mel Ott over there." The gulp was enlarged out of focus to become Durocher's cruel code but he did not mean it at all in the sense that it was interpreted.

They used to call big Johnny Mize "The Cat," supposedly because of his ability to pounce on grounders around first base. Actually the original sally came from Bill Rigney, who noticing Mize's tawny-colored eyes, said, "With those eyes you'd look like a cat if you had whiskers."

They called Sal Magle "The Barber," supposedly because he used to shave the boys pretty close. Sal never shaved a guy, with a razor, in his life.

It all started when a couple of strangers were pointing out players to each other as the Giants lounged in a hotel lobby. "Which one's that?" asked one of the fans pointing to Magle, "that tall black-haired fellow over there—the one that looks like the barber on the third chair downstairs in the shop."

Add more recently if you were listening to the Cleveland-Yankee game last Sunday you will recall Dizzy Dean when the Indians with two on and nobody out, laid down a bunt and the rumors were afo.

"Nobody ain't got nuthin," screamed Dis. "They're all safe. No siree, nobody got nuthin'."

Whipper Billy Watson and Sam Sicamboni aren't saying too much about Friday's upcoming bout with that terrible pair of terrors, Don Leo Jonathan and Hardboiled Haggerty, but quietly they're perfecting a defence against the mayhemic tactics of the pair, and an offence that should bring them the victory nod.

All of which doesn't bother the Terrible Two too much. They laugh decisively at this pair of minor upstarts, and are threatening all kinds of dire punishment, the minute they set foot in the ring. They're deadly serious about the whole thing. And as a matter of fact so are the Whip and Steamboat. All of which makes for some delightful limb-rending.

Drop 1-0 Verdict to Bosox As Chicago Shades Yankees; Dodgers Edge Braves in 10

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

He won't admit it, of course, but the only real problem manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox has today is a choice between Early Wynn and Billy Pierce as his opening game pitcher in the world series.

Lopez, chairman of the board when it comes to pike guy managers, insists that there are a number of worries to be taken care of before he starts thinking about the series. But with his White Sox 3½ games ahead and their magic number reduced to four with eight games to play in pursuit of their first American League pennant in 40 years, what problems he claims are imaginary.

LIMP BUT HAPPY

Still, Lopez was a limp—but happy—manager after his Sox' 4-3 victory over New York Yankees Tuesday. He was limp and very, very happy a few hours later when Boston knocked off second-place Cleveland 11-6.

In other games, Baltimore defeated Detroit 3-1 in 11 innings and Washington split a twi-night pair with Kansas City, the Senators winning the opener 1-0 behind Camilo Pascual's three-hitter, then losing 5-2.

Pierce (14-13), the little lefty, beat the Yanks a fourth time Tuesday, although he gave way when his shoulder suffered in the eighth inning—after holding the ex - champs hitless following the first of Mickey Mantle's two home runs in the first inning.

Pierce, free of the big trouble that slashed at him recently, said the shoulder stiffened during a long top of the eighth, when the Sox came from behind with two runs and beat reliefer Whitey Ford (14-10). Bob Shaw, put it away for the Sox surviving a scary ninth.

The Sox got out of it when rightfielder Jim Piersall raves snared Mantle's zapper liner and started a hectic doubleplay. Bobby Shantz was on his way to relief when Rivers made the catch. Rivers's throw to second skipped off Aparicio's glove, but third baseman Bubba Phillips, backing up the play, grabbed the ball and made a diving stab at the second base bag for the game - ending force play.

"That," said Lopez afterward, "is how we win 'em. I've had a helluva nervous stomach lately."

It was the 35th and orderly to 46 one-run decisions.

Boston beat the Injuns, who have lost three of their last four and five of their last seven, with a ninth - inning run by Tom Brewer (16-13) out - dueled Jim (Mudcat) Grant (9-7). Each allowed six hits.

YCAZA SUSPENDED

NEW YORK (CP) — Jockey Manuel Ycaza, one of the top riders in the country, drew a 10 day suspension from the stewards of Aqueduct Race Track Tuesday. Ycaza was set down effective until Sept. 26 for bearing out in the stretch with Nail in the eighth race Monday.

The stage was set for the big series today as the National League's only 20-game winners, Milwaukee's Lew Burdette and San Francisco's Sam Jones, clashed in the first game of the season's most important two-game set.

The Giants, apparently free of their hitting doldrums, were compelled by the knowledge that even should the Braves knock them off in both games, the best Milwaukee could do is tie them for first place.

The Giants' lead today was two games, made possible by Tuesday's 13-4 conquest of Cincinnati, coupled with Los Angeles' spectacular 8-7 comeback victory in 10 innings over the equally stubborn Braves.

St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 6-4 in the other No. game. Cold weather postponed Pittsburgh at Chicago.

SHAKE UP HELPS

Alarmed over the Giants' lack of base-hits in recent days, manager Bill Rigney shook up his line-up and his move paid immediate dividends. With Felipe Alou in right field and Jimmy Davenport at third base, the Giants smashed out of their hitting slump with eight runs on nine first two innings. They massaged four Red hurlers for 13 hits, including home runs by Daryl Spencer and Willie McCovey.

Mike McCormick, the young southpaw who had lost his last two outings by 1-0 decisions, was tagged for 12 hits but never in jeopardy. Jay Hook, the young Cincinnati bonus right - hander, failed to retire any of the five batters he faced in the first inning.

Little Maury Wills was the ace of the Dodgers' thrilling triumph. The light-hitting shortstop, who seems to have come up with a loaded bat, had a perfect five-for-five at the plate, scoring three runs and driving in another. He has 15 hits in his last 40 times at bat.

Relief hurler Don McMahon forced over the winning run with a free ticket to Red Fahty. Chuck Churn, fourth Dodger pitcher, was the winning pitcher.

"You've just been traded, Mike! He's your new manager!"

Als, Riders Face Big Tests, Meet Tigers, Argos Tonight

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders face crucial tests in Big Four football action tonight.

The Als invade Hamilton Ti-Cats' home park bidding for the league leadership on the strength of their 37-21 upset of the previously-unbeaten Ticats in Montreal Saturday.

They'll have a tough time staying ahead of the favored Ticats who play their best ball in newly-renovated Civic Stadium.

Riders, winless in five games so far this season, take on Toronto Argonauts in Ottawa with a victory practically a "must." Another loss would just about drop them out of sight.

Montreal and Hamilton now are tied for the Big Four lead, each with four wins and one loss. Toronto is third with two wins in five starts.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD

Officials at Hamilton expect a crowd of about 25,000 to set a third attendance record there this season. The previous high was 24,945 for Argonauts' Labor Day visit but added facilities have made 34,938 seats available for tonight's game, plus standing room. Ticket sales were nearing $2,000 Tuesday.

Coach Jim Trimble of Ticats said Tuesday night the weather would decide whether he dressed one or two quarterbacks. Regular Bernie Faloney will start and if the weather is dry Tommy Dobbratzki will probably help him out.

Trimble also hopes to start end Harry Lampman as a first-string offensive player. Lampman, out for two games with a knee injury, insists he is ready to go tonight.

Max Boydston, an All-American end in 1956 with the University of Oklahoma and a four - year veteran with Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League, practised with Hamilton Tuesday but will not play.

Alouettes will have one of their three injured stars back in action — Fullback-linebacker Johnny Bleicher will return, displacing defensive backfielder Wally Lenez. But end Hal Patterson and wingback Ivan Livingstone are still out with leg injuries.

Oddmakers in Montreal have established the Ticats at nine-point favorites. But Alouette fans are quick to point out that their club was the pre-game underdog Saturday, too.

TROUBLES AT QUARTER

Argos are down to one seasoned quarterback for their trip to Ottawa. Ronnie Knox walked off the job Monday night, saying football is a "game for animals" and that he preferred "the finer things in life."

Honorable Gerry Doucette will be in the Argo slot gunning to repeat the 24-6 victory over Riders in Toronto Saturday.

There's a chance that boss Lew Hayman may order John Green, former star with the University of Chattanooga, into the quarter slot.

Coach Frank Clair summed up Ottawa's troubles in one sentence: "We can't get much worse — the only way to go is up."

He said, however, he's sure Riders are better than their win-loss record and he has picked out a lot of mistakes watching films of Sunday's loss to Argos.

"We played some pretty tough football in the second half," added Clair. "If we play as hard as we did then, we may come up with something."

Three former Ottawa players — Wally Masters, Arnie Morrison and Jake Dunlap — have sharply criticized Clair's handling of the club. Morrison, a pre-war quarterback, said the league has become too tough for Clair.

May Switch Moore to Right Wing

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens toiled through two practices Tuesday and coach Toe Blake said "they looked pretty good the first time."

"I'm certainly not disappointed and I thought some of the rookies showed up well," he said, declining to single out any yet."

Blake injured shoulder muscles putting Dickie Moore, normally a left winger, in a right wing spot. Moore, leading goal getter in the National Hockey League last season, apparently has little preference himself.

Where Moore winds up may depend upon veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Billy Hicks, rookie who won the American Hockey League scoring championship while with Rochester last season and then was called up to Canadiens during the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Along with the Rocket and Hicks, Blake has two other right wingers in Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Claude Provost, shifting either one would mean five in all.

Blake said that if Hicks does all right and the Rocket goes along as expected, then the left of the pair Richard or Maurice and Henri—and Moore may be reunited.

Yvon Durelle Wins by TKO

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle cut down Al Anderson of Lafayette, Louisiana, for a TKO at 2:45 of the fourth round in a scheduled 10-round heavyweight six-mile bout here Tuesday night.

The Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., belter, Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion, floored Anderson with a left hook. Anderson got up at the nine, signalling "enough, enough," and referee Ed Kerr of Moncton awarded the fight to Durelle.

Durelle said he intends to continue fighting in the heavyweight class. He weighed 190 to Anderson's 192.

He also said he contemplates a light - heavyweight fight with Mike Holt in South Africa if an over-the-weight match can be arranged.

Durelle said he would like to meet George Chuvalo of Toronto, Canadian heavyweight king.

"I do not think Chuvalo would give me much trouble."

Durelle's brother, Joey, stretched his unbeaten string of professional fights to 13 and picked up his first professional victory by flooring Ray Mascol, 150 pounds, of Glace Bay, N.S.

TAKES BRITISH TITLE

WEMBLEY (AP)—John (Cowboy) McCormack, from Glasgow, took an eight-round pummelling Tuesday night but won the British middleweight title. The referee disqualified defending champion Terry Downes for hitting after 1½ seemed doubtful whether the Scotsman had earned the promised prize of a world title match with Sugar Ray Robinson.

Calgary Wants 1968 Olympics

CALGARY (CP) — Efforts will be made to bring the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Calgary and Banff, Gordon Pogue, elected president of the Calgary Olympic Development Committee, announced Tuesday.

The committee will send a delegation of three observers to the games in February, 1960, at Squaw Valley, Calif.

If the plans can be realized, events to be held in Calgary include hockey, figure skating, speed skating and curling, either as an event or as a demonstration sport if it is not put on the program.

Events to be held in Banff include the five major ski competitions, downhill, slalom, giant slalom, jumping and the cross-country race.

Golf Brass Makes Several Rule Changes

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Golfers will be allowed to clean a ball on the green, repair pitch marks and feel the turf on the green to test it under amendments to the rules announced by the Royal and Ancient Golf hab Tuesday night.

The club, headquarters of the game in Britain, approved the changes after agreement with the U.S. Golf Association. They come into force next Jan. 1.

The low-stroke penalty for striking another player's ball is extended, in future it will apply in any case when both balls lie on the green—not just when they are within 20 yards of the hole.

Other changes:

Flagsticks must be straight and circular in cross-section (Definition 12).

A ball dropped in error or in the wrong place may be withdrawn without penalty (Rule 22).

When a player's ball is moved by an agency other than his side, he is entitled to recover his former lie (Rule 27).

A player, after making a stroke, may not call on his caddie or partner to remove an unattended flagstick (Rule 34).

Wistful Vista Couple Makes Fine Debut on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWAY

NEW YORK (AP)—Old friends of Flibber McGee and Molly must have been relieved Tuesday night to find that the Wistful Vista couple have been moved intact and without violence from radio to the television screen.

Such a delicate transplant would have failed in any but expert and loving hands.

Bob Sweeney fits neatly into this viewer's mental picture of Flibber and Cathy Lewis is perfect as Molly. It was an extremely pleasant half hour on NBC.

Earlier Laramie, an hour-long western, also made its debut on NBC. This is a good professional show but like most TV horse operas seems to have an unnecessary amount of shooting and slugging.

BUCK NIGHT WEDNESDAY— $1.00 A CARLOAD

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, September 17, 1959
Aries (March 21 to April 19)

In early A.M. take care you do not ruffle the feathers of one in power; or you will not get the benefits desired. Then be sure you value an associate correctly so that you know what his, or her, relative position is in your life.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)

Annoying chore deters you from going after a cherished want or aim in A.M. Complete it. Then if you forego frivolous amusements, etc., you can accomplish a great deal and put important work behind you quickly. Advance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)

If you listen to advice of somewhat depressive adviser in A.M., you can lose out much that will be and is of value. However, latter part of day is excellent for making up for lost time. Get in contact with individuals who are vital to you.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) So many situations come up in A.M. that you scarcely know which to continue or concentrate attention on. Provided you simply keep active and working, all will be fine. But try to put the important before the unimportant. Think.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Relegate to the background time-some chores and be off to new interests, people, places that will mean greater advancement for you soon. Also, communicate with key persons who can then fit into your plans nicely.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

While you are highly inspired to make great strides in career and with finances, A.M. is difficult since you must give attention to an intruder. Latter part of day is then fine, and individual person gives excellent assistance.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

One who is close to you prevents your being free to follow your inclinations in A.M. Then later you can be with a good associate and carry through with your ideas and plans.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A secret situation has you so disturbed in A.M. that you are unable to concentrate on your duties. However later you can go ahead and make up for lost time, working very efficiently and speedily, too. Work until late.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Be sure you remain loyal to good friends now instead of going off with strangers and possibly investing much more than you can afford. P.M. be with pals and partners for a happy time. Be cheerful and entertaining.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Forget worries and delve into some important civic tasks or take steps to advance in your profession or social life. P.M. have fun with some loyal member of your clan. Discuss important new ventures. Make concrete plans.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Private worry or secret angling will get you nowhere this A.M. Also if something must be said to someone get it off your chest and come to better understanding. P.M. you get wonderful inspirational ideas for the future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)

A penny-pinching individual pulls you over the coals in A.M. over the manner in which affairs and problems are resolved. Pay attention but take no steps until P.M. when you can make some necessary and welcome changes.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting little child born today is the type who one moment is all enthusiasm and the next is very lackadaisical. So it is your duty to teach perfect balance early if the real success in this chart is to be realized. Give courses in psychology early. There is great ability here for details and the minutiae a very important asset in many professions. Anything artistic is fine here.

NEW LEGION SECRETARY

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Legion announced Saturday the appointment of Donald M. Thompson, 37, as its Dominion Secretary — top administration post in the Legion. He succeeds F.D. Anderson, who left the Legion last April to become chairman of the Canadian pensions commission.

VALIANT MATADOR

MADRID (Reuters)—A Matador severely gored in the Valencia bull ring Sunday went on to kill his bull before collapsing and being taken to hospital. Jose Montermino was gored twice while thrusting his sword between the shoulder blades of his first bull of the day.

Chippewa Team Defaults Series To Wellington

By AYLMER GUERNSEY

WELLINGTON — Wellington's power baseball club was awarded its playdown series with Chippewa when last weekend when the visiting club refused to prize to the series' deciding game.

Wellington dropped the first game of the series a week ago, but came back to even matters at a game apiece with a 9-7 victory last Saturday.

Arrangements were made for the third and deciding game to be played one hour after completion of the first tilt. In the meantime, the field was broken out between Wellington and Chippewa fans over the first game, although members of both teams stayed out of the contest that resulted.

When play ball was called for the third game "the Chippewa team was nowhere to be seen. Umpire-in-chief Archie McCallum waited for 15 minutes more but when the Chippewa club did not appear, awarded the game and the series to Wellington.

It was reported that no word was given that Chippawa did not intend to finish the series until town constable Earl Marvin brought the fact to the umpires' attention that they also had left Wellington.

In the earlier game the clubs battled in a close affair with Wellington's four runs in the bottom of the sixth finally taking the locals their 9-7 victory.

Allen Channell hurled fine ball for Wellington while Gehnsed West tilled on Chippawa's mate.

Zacharia, G. Lavender, Channell and Bellhey played prominent parts in the Wellington victory with their key hits. Newton had a two-run homer for the losers, while Goody also hit well.

Line-ups:

Chippawa—Rose, Gaily, Simpson, Newman, Goozy, Burrows, Rutherford, West, Gohn.

Wellington—Bellhey, T. Lavender, Ogilvy, Gallagher, G. Lavender, Channell, Zacharia, Pelley, Hollister.

Umpires — McNeill, Fensbury and McCauley.

De Gaulle Offers Algeria 3 Roads After Pacification

French Settlers Bitter, Moslems Not Enthused

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle has announced that Algeria will be given the right of self - determination four years after its "pacification."

Defining "pacification" as the time when the revolt-born North African territory's annual ambush-and-attack death toll falls to 200, the French leader Wednesday night said Algerians would be able to choose by ballot among secession, complete integration with France or self-government in association with it.

Observers said de Gaulle's statement "filled the bill" for American support indicated when President Eisenhower was here recently.

EISENHOWER CONDITION

United States sources made it clear then that Washington's support for France on Algeria hinged on Eisenhower being able to say with conviction that de Gaulle's policy was "democratic and liberal" and had the backing of a just settlement.

De Gaulle's statement was a clear break with his past precedent on the territory, terse for the leader of a war between French troops and independence-seeking Moslem nationalist rebels.

At present Algeria is regarded as part of Metropolitan France.

De Gaulle's eagerly awaited announcement surprised many. In France it was called a bold challenge to right - wingers and European extremists in Algeria and also cut the ground out from under rebel leaders in Cairo and Tunisia, some observers said.

SECESSION UNLIKELY

As for the majority vote for secession from France is regarded as unlikely here.

But, should it happen, de Gaulle made it clear that France would maintain itself in part of Algeria and would preserve its direct access to the Sahara.

He insisted France would uphold the right of those Algerian Moslems and Europeans deciding "for France" to go on living in the land of their birth under French jurisdiction.

ALGIERS (AP) — Gen. de Gaulle's plan for ending nearly five years of rebellion Algeria left the million-odd French settlers largely bitter and the 9,000,000 Moslems mostly apathetic.

The French president laid out three choices for the people once the fighting ends: the Moslem region—independence, integration with France, or autonomy. Choices, he said, that would be made in an election within four years after the country has been pacified.

But he warned those demanding independence that it would bring a disastrous misery, terrible political chaos, general throat-cutting and soon the warlike dictatorship of the Communists."

REBELS SUSPICIOUS

Algerian rebels immediately expressed suspicion in face of de Gaulle's offer of self-determination. Some leaders of the rebel government in Cairo called the move a trick to hoodwink world opinion before the coming United Nations debate on Algeria.

Reports of Moslem attacks and new skirmishes with the rebels reached newspaper offices even before the de Gaulle's speech was being broadcast here Wednesday night. The fighting preceding 24 hours a total of 38 rebels were reported killed in clashes with French troops.

Most European interviewed here disliked de Gaulle's decision to put Algeria's fate to a vote will have a destructive effect on economic prosperity.

"Who will invest here risking expulsion after the vote? It was a general opinion expressed.

FRENCH UPSET

Several right - wing organizations of French settlers in Algeria adopted resolutions condemning de Gaulle's plans.

The French army blocked public access to Algiers by clamping a censorship on the press and threatening to seize papers printed in French that tended to undermine public safety.

Many Europeans have come to Algeria and then abandon it as being asked to shed blood to save Algeria and its Moslems. It is a result of an election.

A number of Algerians expressed doubt that de Gaulle's plan will have any effect on the decision-making rebellion.

EIGHT YEARS FOR FATHER

OTTAWA (CP) — Royal Beaudin, 25, was sentenced Wednesday night to eight years in the Kingston Penitentiary for fatally beating his four - year - old daughter Susan Jean. Beaudin, originally charged with murder, was convicted this week on a reduced count of manslaughter.

Ends Extraordinary 2-Day Washington Performance With Nimble Verbal Show

Plans Disarmament Offer to UN But Won't Budge on German Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev raged to a stormy end today with a promise of new disarmament proposals. He gave the answer a big build-up with an extraordinary two-day Washington performance.

Khrushchev may have something spectacular to submit to the UN, something in the way of a surprise proposal. But whether his address is a surprise or not, the consensus here is that his performance on the first leg of his historic U.S. visit already adds up to significant propaganda for Moscow.

MUST FIND WAY

The Soviet leader himself conceded that thus far he had not got nothing new to offer in the way of proposals. He has suggested that the main antagonist in the cold war, if they want to avoid turning this search into "ashes and graves," must find ways of composing their differences on the future use of nuclear power and rocket science.

But he may yield a bit to curb the East-West arms race, he won't budge an inch on the status of West Berlin.

In fact, he again has told the West to get its occupation troops out of West Berlin, turn it into a free city and recognize the division between East and West Germany as a permanent split.

Calling for two separate peace treaties with East and West Germany, he told a National Press Club luncheon: "It is high time to adjust the problem identified from the Second World War if we do not want a third world one."

Saying he wanted to eliminate the "artillerymen" of war, he hinted at some dark forces in West Germany he claimed are trying to keep Russia and the U.S. apart. German militarists, he said, started two world wars and West Germany might start a third.

WAS PLAN FOR UN

But Khrushchev held out hope that Russia would make some concessions on disarmament. At the UN, he indicated, he would submit a disarmament proposal he says he hopes will play an important part in the solution of this, the most difficult issue of our time."

Khrushchev put on a nimble display of Communist manoeuvring during his second big day of activities. He traded quips with Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson at the annual tour of the nearby Beltsville farm research centre, spent an hour and a half relaxed at the press club luncheon, traded comments with Vice-President Nixon at a party and entertained President Eisenhower at a Soviet Embassy dinner.

The 25 senators members of the Senate foreign relations committee, tried to pin Khrushchev down on specifics but he brushed aside any questions too hot to handle. Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem., Mass.) said Khrushchev indicated there was room for talk with Soviet position on vital issues.

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower suggested today American people would not be fooled even by such a "master debater" as Premier Khrushchev into believing that communism is the better system.

He told a press conference questioner that the U.S. people are strong enough in their convictions to know any man presents his views and to make up their own decisions on the man's argument.

He said he is convinced that Khrushchev is sincere in expressing repugnance of the horrors of war but, even so, there is still room in the world for a lot of misunderstanding and miscalculation that could be very serious.

The American leader said his talks with Khrushchev have been extremely friendly, but that it is too early to tell whether the Soviet premier has changed his mind on any world issues.

He told his press conference that Khrushchev's manner and deportment indicate he really is trying to reach agreement regarding international problems.

Mr. Eisenhower made his first meeting with reporters since his two-day conversations with the Soviet chief Tuesday, and his talks with Khrushchev at social events.

The first question was whether Eisenhower forsees any concrete evidence, on the basis of the talks, that Khrushchev may be a changed his position on international issues.

SPELL EARLY

Eisenhower replied that it still is a little bit early to go into details or come to any conclusions at that matter. He went on to say, however, that Khrushchev's general attitude has been extremely friendly.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev will meet again Sept. 24-27 for another round of talks at the president's mountain retreat, Camp David in Maryland.

In the interim, Khrushchev will have made a cross-country tour and seen something of the United States and its people.

Eisenhower said his first conference with Khrushchev, however, with the matter of agenda for the Camp David conversations, had also brought a mutual restatement of general positions regarding the issues.

BERLIN, LAOS ON AGENDA

A bit later at today's press conference, Eisenhower was asked if that such , specific problems as Berlin, Laos and Communist China, Russia on specific problems and general governmental problems.

Eisenhower remarked that is his estimation very large crowds have come out to greet Khrushchev. He said that was natural because the people were interested in seeing Khrushchev.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev arrived in New York today in brisk, sunny weather, expressing hope a bright sun always would shine on Soviet-American relations.

The Soviet premier's special train from Washington pulled into this city at 11:34 a.m. EDT on the second leg of his tour of the United States.

Pennsylvania Station, where the train arrived, swarmed with police and security agents. So did every other strategic spot on the super-secret itinerary laid out for the Soviet leader.

A crowd of more than 2,000 was on hand outside the terminal on Seventh Avenue, waiting for a glimpse of the bouncy visitor from Moscow.

The Soviet leader was greeted by Richard C. Patterson, commissioner of the department of commerce and public events, who is the city's official greeter. The welcome took place in the terminal's baggage room.

LINE STREETS

At the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Khrushchev's first stop here, several hundred school girls stood on the sidewalk more than an hour before the Soviet leader was scheduled to arrive. Thousands more people soon lined streets, behind barricades.

Khrushchev expressed his hope for sunny Soviet - American weather just before his special train left Washington, at 8:31 a.m.

Do Trading Stamps Really Save Money for Customers?

NEW YORK (CP) — Do you really save money by collecting trading stamps?

This debate flourished in the United States three years ago when sales of trading stamps boomed. In Canada the discussion came to prominence recently when some of the biggest supermarket chains in Ontario joined the parade.

In the U.S. around 1958, opinion on trading stamps were sharply divided. Since then, the answer to the question whether they really are a saving has often been, "it depends".

The U.S. department of agriculture made a study for more than three years in 21 cities and made this assessment:

You pay more for food at supermarkets that give trading stamps but the added cost is more than offset by the value of the stamps.

The study showed that prices averaged .6 of one per cent higher in stamp - giving stores than in non-stamp stores. It computed the value of the stamps at about two per cent of the money spent.

But as this agriculture department said others have cautioned, shoppers still need to compare prices and quality of goods they buy to get stamps.

Stamps pay between $1.80 and $3 for 1,000 trading stamps. The more they buy, the smaller the gift. However, 1,000 stamps have a value of about $2.45 to $3 towards claiming premiums.

The main opposition to trading stamps comes from small businessmen although some consumer groups still are opposed to them.

Handing of the stamps at the rate of one for every 10 cents spent, the merchant gives away 1,000 stamps on every $100 of sales.

To make up the cost of the stamps, the businessman has to sell more goods. In some cases, the attraction of giving stamps has attracted business.

Small businessmen complain that stamps cut profit margins. Small corner grocery stores can't match supermarket prices as it is. Once committed to a stamp plan, it is hard to get out for fear of losing customers. They also say stamps don't bring enough new customers to warrant the cost.

One of the biggest supermarket chains, Canada Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, was a big trading stamp company customer about 40 years ago.

"We don't use them now," said A. and P. executives. He declined to say why.

There are about 300 trading stamp companies in the U.S. The biggest, the only one that operates all across the U.S., is Sperry and Hutchinson, which issues Green Stamps.

S. and H. does not make public its sale figures nor its earnings, but it had a $143,000,000 balance sheet at the end of 1958. Among the assets it listed $47,000,000 in securities, $29,000,000 in inventories of goods and $14,000,000 in cash.

THINK KIDNAP SUSPECTS HAVE ELUDED POSSE

Police Assisted By Helicopter

CORNWALL (CP) — Provincial police today were ready to implement the theory that two armed men who have terrorized Eastern Ontario residents in the last two days still are hidden in the area.

Police Wednesday cordoned off a ramshackle near Chesterville, 30 miles northwest of here, after a farmer reported seeing two suspicious men. A thorough search revealed nothing although police were assisted by an RCAF helicopter from Trenton. They also made a barn-to-barn check in the area.

The search for the men, who abducted a Niagara Falls area couple last week and later a Belleville area family, has centered between here and Morrisburg, 23 miles west.

ASK QUEBEC AID

All roads south of Ottawa and east to the Quebec border were blocked. Now police have asked Quebec provincial and Montreal police to be on the alert in case the two men have gone that way.

Police theories that the wanted pair may have hopped a freight train.

U.S. Satellite Fails to Orbit Say Officials

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. AP) The United States failed today to put into orbit a satellite designed for experimenting with a global navigation system.

More than an hour after a three - stage launching vehicle lifted into the sky from Cape Canaveral in Florida the defence department's Navy organization announced that the third stage apparently failed to work.

A brief announcement said:

"Since confirming data has not been received, it must be assumed that the satellite did not go into orbit."

The satellite, riding on a combination Thor - Able launcher, lifted cleanly off the pad at 10:36 a.m. EDT. The second - stage rocket, engine fired for schedule.

The Advanced Research and Projects Administration had said that the new navigation system, if it worked—would be more accurate than any system now available.

Under a clear sky London airport reported a reading of 31 degrees early this morning and Muskoka's temperature fell to 34. Patchy cloud prevented any extreme drops in temperature over Northern Ontario where light temperatures were about the same as in the south.

A gradual moderation in temperature was expected in begin today.

K Box Score No Hits, No Runs, No Errors But Still Big Leaguer

WASHINGTON AP)—The box score on Nikita Khrushchev, after his first day's visit to the United States capital, comes out like this: No hits, no runs, no errors. But he's a big leaguer, just the same.

He was he hit with the shoutsands who stood mute as he whizzed by in his motorcade. There have been no apparent gains scored in the scoring line. He has promised nothing and conceded nothing. But he didn't commit any fumbles, either.

He had plenty of chance to make a fool of himself or anger Americans in his public appearances and statements. He did neither. He just sounded like a carbon copy of letters he had written Eisenhower before the past.

Khrushchev has a bit of a hang on him—mugging in front of the camera, stealing scenes from Eisenhower with his hands, slapping backs, being a jolly good fellow — but anyone watching could well have wondered:

Was this round little man with the bald head and the peasant's face, bouncing around town tireless, the last chance for a long time to melt the cold war?

He's 65. He may not last much longer. He's a Communist, and a tough one, but compared with Stalin he's been a breath of fresh air in Russia, a liberalizing force.

If the two cannot work out some settlements with him, then with whom. His successor may be more of a Stalinist and try not only to turn the clock back in Russia but to make the cold war more frigid than it is now.

The only public statements—those repetitions of what he had long said he would bring to a bare—Khrushchev didn't bend an inch on the Berlin dilemma he himself created, or on anything else.

The most he has done so far toward trying to get agreements is to indicate that he may make some new proposals at the U.N. disarmament before the United Nations. Maybe there will be some changes when he talks with Eisenhower next week.

Khrushchev like practically every thing else that has been said about his visit, is plain guessing. Nobody can so far has attempted to state as a fact the reasons for his coming here in the first place.

Nothing tangible at all may come of this visit. But Khrushchev, by his manner, his bluntness, and his firmness in the capital of capitalism — has undoubtedly already done himself immeasurable good with the people of Russia and perhaps many millions of people elsewhere too.

Behind The Iron Curtain

Chewing Gum, Jazz Music Liked by Russ Children

By Raymond Canon

(Article First)

MOSCOW—

Having reached the half-way point in my trip behind the iron curtain, I think it would be best to devote an article describing some of the people I've met and the general impressions I've had of these encounters.

First of all, I can state categorically that the people here are just as friendly as is any country I have been in Europe and that includes just about every one. The combined with an almost boundless curiosity, make-it very easy to talk to any of them, once a conversation gets started.

Let me tell you something about the children. There is an abundance of bloods, and they smile at you so readily. Then all agree they are about as cute as any you will find anywhere. The older children seem quite well behaved. Those who belong to the Pioneers, the Communist youth movement, proudly wear their red scarves.

I have met a considerable number of children, perhaps because word seems to have got around that I was well loaded down with chewing gum. In a foreigner will have something to offer along that line. Anyway I swear that every kid in Moscow knows me by sight. They will come up to me and try to ask in their best Russian the chewing gum. But do not give it to them. You generally might expect that from other countries. I am glad to say that here not in the least. Not once have I had a child beg. They are quite content to get something in return. It may be a postage stamp or quite a pin.

CHEWING GUM FROM PINS

I have exhausted all my Canadian pennies, so now a brisk business has sprung up between me and the kids. I trade chewing gum for pins and free enterprise no less and I have a large collection of them by now. Hope I don't run out of gum in the near future. There must be more pins around Moscow somewhere.

Khrushchev Much Irked by Query About His Role When Stalin Ruled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's Premier Khrushchev nearly blew his top—before a television audience—when asked if he once admitted doing nothing to protest Stalin's crimes against the Russian people.

Flushing with anger, Khrushchev refused to answer on grounds the question was part of a plot by newsmen and lies which do not correspond to the truth.

Puzzled millions of U.S. North Americans witnessed Khrushchev's outburst on their television screens, as did some 400 reporters and guests who jammed the National Press Club to hear him after his first major speech on North American soil.

The question, the first of 12 asked him after his 45-minute speech, seemed to stun Khrushchev.

New York Times reporter William H. Lawrence, club president, asked it in what was intended to be a humorous vein.

Khrushchev saw nothing funny in it. He glared

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

FROSTS NIP GARDEN PRODUCE

Frosts of the past two nights have nipped tender garden produce in the Belleville area, it was noted this morning by market vendors.

It was not thought, however, that the frosts were severe enough to cause much damage.

Cucumber vines, pumpkins and sunflower leaves were nipped by the frost in certain areas away from the warming influence of water in the Bay of Quinte. White frost has been plainly visible on the grass in low lying areas for the past two mornings.

Local Police Assisting in Intense Search

Provincial police from the Belleville district headquarters are assisting in the search for two young kidnappers, who have left a trail of robberies and holdups in Central and Eastern Ontario during the past ten days.

The two are being sought by police in the Prescott-Chesterville area where two farm families have been held up this week. A week ago an elderly Niagara district couple were kidnapped and released near Trenton, while Sunday evening the Percy Moore family and hired man at Shannonville were abducted and later released near Prescott.

Tuesday and Wednesday Inspector A. McDougall of Belleville O.P.P. headquarters and 13 officers joined in the search for the two men in the Prescott area, most of the officers returning to their regular stations last night. Three men from this district are still assisting in the search.

Inspector McDougall noted today that all clothing taken from the Moore family had been recovered from where it had been left at a farm house in the Chesterville area.

They are armed with a .22 rifle taken from the Moore home and with a nickel plated revolver and also have a pair of stockinet binoculars.

The oldest of the two suspects is said to be a Nova Scotia man, who has a married sister living in the Trenton area. The other is a 17-year-old youth, is believed to come from Boston.

SWEDISH TONGUE

Outside of Sweden, the Swedish language is spoken by about 250,000 people. It is the most many Swedish around the world.

Poison Control Centre Located At Hospital Here

Poison control information centres are in operation in 43 centres in Canada—including Belleville—to aid doctors and druggists in identification and combating poisons in emergency cases.

The Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, in conjunction with provincial health departments and over 100 hospitals across the country, has established a poison control service in an effort to reduce the accidental-poisoning death toll.

The telephone has made possible the local poison control centres. In Belleville, the telephone number of the poison control centre is 1511 (Belleville General Hospital.)

More than 300 Canadians die each year from accidental poisoning, and more than half of these fatal accidents take place in the home. The poison control centres can supply information obtained in patented brand name or toxic ingredients combinations, cleansers, insecticides and all other chemicals found around the home in the medicine cabinet, bathroom, kitchen, cellar, garage or barn.

Ask Ottawa study on home poisonings, made by the Epidemiology Division of the Department of National Health and Welfare, showed that more than 94 per cent of the hospitalized cases involved children under five years of age, with three-year-olds accounting for more than one-third of the total.

Moments count when a child swallows something he shouldn't. Time, and sometimes the life of unknown composition, and today the physician can pick up the telephone, call the nearest control centre and get immediate information on the treatment.

AT INAUGURATION

BONN Reuters)—Five Canadian members of Parliament attended the inauguration here Tuesday of Dr. Heinrich Lubke as West Germanys second president. They were Speaker Roland Michener, Justice Minister Davie Fulton, John Pallett PC—Peel), Oscar William Weichel (PC—Waterloo North) and Lionel Chevrier (L—Mohtreal Laurier.)

Behind The Iron Curtain

Some of the children have started learning English at school. The "other day" was holding forth beside my wife before the usual couple hundred curious onlookers. The conversation got around to our educational systems. They were all happy to learn that we can study Russian at university, and that I myself had given lessons from time to time. "Well" I asked, "Where do you start learning English here?"

PLEASANT EPISODE

A little boy about 13 who had worked his way up to the front row, rather shyly admitted that he had already started. The rest of the crowd decided it would be a good thing if he tried some of it out on me. So rather haltingly, and with much encouragement from the crowd, he stammered out a few words and phrases. I complimented him on his fluency, and everyone was happy. The efficiency of the Russian educational system had been proved. Another boy whose English was somewhat better asked me to send him some souvenirs of Canada. Out came pencil and paper and he wrote down all the addresses straightened out. There was a fast crowd in one of the old porters at the hotel. We mentioned that we were from Canada, and he said, "It seems he remembered reading about it somewhere." He was a big country, anyway, like Russia. The very same night we decided we would like to buy something to drink in our room while we talked over the day's proceedings. Our old porter volunteered to see what he could do. He supplied with some of our money, away he went. Fifteen minutes later he returned, quite excited with some beer that all he could find. We thanked him, and he was off up —something which isn't practised much in Russia. I got kissed on both cheeks for that effort.

Later, he met me again while I was looking for something in the car. This time I offered him some postage, and a package of cigarets for all that he had done for me in the meantime, and I honestly got kissed a few more times. The total rose to about twenty Rubles I left, but it's nice to know I left one friend behind.

FRIENDLY PLUMBER

Something went wrong with the plumbing in my bathroom. When there still "running water" they meant that it ran all over the place. Up came the repair man to look at it. He was surprised when I did him in Russian what had happened. He, too had heard of Canada, and so another friendship got started. Twenty minutes later he returned with a plumber who could be filled, if only we could get through to him. It was alone that they do not believe all the nonsense they read about us is encouraging.

Nonsense is the word I use to describe some of the material which is put out by the Russian government. A grain of truth is here and there twisted to suit their needs, or else a statement is made in one context, and then another friendship got started. given without any regard for its surrounding circumstances. The whole impression got around to our educational systems. They were all happy to learn that we can study Russian at university, and that I myself had given lessons from time to time. He was surprised when I did him in Russian what had happened. He, too had heard of Canada, and so another friendship got started. Twenty minutes later I had to remind him what he came for. But I couldn't have gotten better service at the Royal York Hotel.

You may have read already that tens-agers in Russia also have their problems, and that juvenile delinquency is not unknown. The most serious of this I suspect are the Stilyagi teen-agers, most of whom have plenty of spending money, and just as much time. They appear rather bored with all that Russian life has to offer, and so a certain imitation of Western styles has crept in.

WHAT TEENAGERS LIKE

The other day we were lucky to meet one of them born. I wouldn't classify him as a delinquent, but he himself was so eager to find out what kind of his own age in Canada were, what they did, and what kind of music they liked. He also asked when it would be acceptable to wear blue jeans. We had just as many questions to ask him, so out of the conversation we got following information. Many teenagers in Russia love all sorts of Elvis Presley will bring you as much as 25 Rubles. They seem to have a preference for western-style shirts with button-down collars.

There is a black market for American dollars, just how well organized it is our friend didn't know, but he told us that if we ever wanted to buy some we were willing to pay American dollars for them. The price is in accordance with someone who could give us a much better rate of exchange with the official one. He also informed us that many of his friends were frankly bored with Russia has to offer, and that they didn't believe all the propaganda which comes out. Russian government printed against the Western world. They like to know much more about us, and reliable information was hard to get, as there is little direct contact with Westerners.

I must admit that I was glad of the one or two of his class that I have met but that encounter, together with the reports of others I have heard, leads me to believe that there is a considerable amount of good material which could be filled, if only we could get through to them. It is alone that they do not believe all the nonsense they read about us is encouraging.

Asked how he reconciled his appeal for world peace with aggression in Tibet, Korea and Laos, Khrushchev said he promised disarmament "wouldn't die these "third countries" while in the U.S. However, he did discuss the German issue at the luncheon.

Asked also to pass travel restrictions in Russia, Khrushchev was reported to have told the publisher that he would like the U.S. dismantled its military bases ringing the Communist world.

Moscow's 85 - year - old iron man reappeared briefly at the gruelling scheduled and showed himself no worse for wear. Reporters marvelled at the dexterity of a practised politician.

Many who attended the luncheon session were hoping for Khrushchev's views. But the Soviet leader omitted the ice to the extent that he had his audience laughing and applauding.

RUSSIAN-STYLE DINNER

For Khrushchev, the final event in a second of two days of talks in Washington was the Russian-style dinner at which President Eisenhower, the Soviet leader's guests at a Soviet Embassy luncheon which returned Tuesday night's White House dinner. Present were 13 invited Americans and 23 Russians.

The menu included Russian caviar, Ukrainian borscht (beet soup), Caucasian shashlik (lamb on a skewer), vodka and Soviet champagne.

Among the guests were Vice-President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem, Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, and members of the president's cabinet.

During his first two days in the U.S. Khrushchev obviously has kept a tight control himself and his viet leaders in the light of ordinary human beings rather than mysterious and somehow menacing unknowns. He attempted to allay the fears of the American people that Stalin regime and such things as the armed Russian suppression of the Hungarian revolution under an avalanche of words.

EXPECTATIONS DIMMED

But, throughout it all, the Soviet leader did not retreat an inch from his avowed conviction that the Soviet Union's system would surpass that of the U.S. in the near future in a number of economic production; that the Soviet system would be on hand to witness the burial of the Western way of life as a natural development of history.

He did say at the dinner, however, that his self-and Eisenhower's—visit to Russia "will further a warm spell" in Soviet-American relations.

"The ice of the cold war has already melted and started to thaw and to start stirring it," he said in sweeping champagne toast to friendship.

Eisenhower, in replying, said he, too, felt a warm, friendly talk with Khrushchev may mean at least the beginning of the melting of the ice of the cold war.

He said also that perhaps growing understanding between the masses of the American and Soviet people might help solve international problems and put the world on the road to peace, just as the two governments.

THE RED CHINA TRIP

Eisenhower twitted the Soviet leader for deciding to visit Red China immediately after his tour of the United States.

He assured Khrushchev that he will not visit Red China after he tours the Soviet Union. He said he would rather stay in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Embassy afterward made public a complete unofficial text of Khrushchev's remarks. But it issued only a summary of Eisenhower's reply.

MONTY HAS CHILL

LONDON (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, 71, is suffering from what he describes as "a bad chill," and is staying indoors for a few days at his home in Alton, Hampshire.

Mayor Ross Burtt pulls the cord to unveil the plaque at the official opening of the addition to the Trenton Filtration Plant. This ceremony took place yesterday afternoon. Addition to Filtration Plant Officially Opened Wednesday

TRENTON — With the turning of a small valve by PUC Chairman Clifford Baker yesterday, water started flowing through the newly-completed filtration beds of the Trenton water filtration plant. Mayor Ross Burtt was present to unveil a plaque commemorating the occasion, following which open house was held, with the addition of the filtration plant being on public display.

Commenting on the importance of the new filtration beds Mr. Baker spoke of the many advantages the filtration plant had brought Trenton. In 1957, he said, the search for more water was started in this area. After a year's search, it was decided that there was not enough spring water in the area to supply the needs of the growing town, and that it would be advisable to add to the present filtration plant.

This work got underway in January, 1959, and contractors had managed to get the beds operating before the peak season of the year. Without this, there might have been many families without water this summer when consumption was at an all-time high and supply from wells at an all-time low.

Mr. Baker stressed the fact that the PUC was working to improve the water situation on the east side of the river. He said the development of a well on Sidney Street, underway at the present time, would no doubt help the situation considerably.

LADY ATTLEE IN CRASH

LONDON AP) — Lady Attlee, wife of former prime minister Earl Attlee, was injured slightly in an automobile collision Thursday while driving from their country home to visit him in a London hospital where he is being treated for a minor ailment. The driver of the other car in the collision was killed.

Will Ask Council To Declare Rink Heating Is Safe

TRENTON — The controversial matter of the heating system at the Trenton Community Gardens was brought up again this week at the regular board meeting. After considerable discussion, it was decided that the board will approach Trenton town council and ask for a resolution that the present gas system is perfectly safe.

This resolution is necessary before the Ontario Fuel Board will grant the Gardens a permit to use the system this year. Chairman John Farrell reported findings from a recent consultation with the Ontario Fuel Board concerning the matter, and he also read telegrams from four other Ontario municipalities that use similar gas heating units in their arenas.

From information he had gathered, Mr. Farrell stressed that all these heating systems had been found safe. He is planning to relay this information to council at its next meeting on September 21st.

During the discussion of other business at the meeting, it was decided that the ice would be placed in the arena as soon as possible after October 15th.

Present at the meeting were Chairman John Farrell, secretary Norman Banfield, and board members Nick Fraser, Jim McDonald, Howard Aziz and Cliff Baker. In spite of the fact that the public had been issued a special invitation to attend meetings of the board of the publicly-owned Gardens, no one seemed very interested Tuesday night when not one spectator, except members of the press, turned out for the meeting.

Commenting on the lack of public interest, Mr. Farrell stressed that members of the public would be more than welcome to attend any or all of the meetings, so that they might see how the Gardens was operated and just where their money went. Meetings this winter will be held on the third Tuesday of every month at 7:00 o'clock.

MINOR DAMAGE DONE

TRENTON — A two-car accident in front of the Trenton Post Office Tuesday night caused an estimated $25 damage to the two vehicles involved.

The accident occurred about 7.30 p.m. when Mrs. Adah M. Baker of 30 Johnson Drive, Middleton Park, was driving east on Dundas. A car driven by Michael Brothers, 40 Henry St., Trenton, pulled away from the curb and struck the side of Mrs. Coker's car. Damage to the Coker car included a dented front door and right rear fender. Police estimated it at $75. The second car escaped with slight dents to the left headlight rim and fender, estimated at $10.

TO LAUNCH NEW SHIP

COLLINGWOOD CP) — The bulk carrier Murray Bay, largest ship built for trade on the Great Lakes, will be launched at this Georgian Bay town Thursday without ceremony. The ship, expected to go into service early next year, was built for Canada Steamship Lines. It is 729 feet long, and will have a capacity of 25,000 tons of iron ore.

Members Treated To Demonstration Floral Displays

TRENTON — The Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club resumed its monthly dinner meetings Wednesday night at the Hotel Gilbert when the members were treated to a demonstration of floral displays by the proprietor of The Flower Shop in Trenton, Mr. Matt Thompson.

Three displays, which had been prepared beforehand, were circulated among the members while before their eyes Mr. Thompson transformed bits of fern, flowers and dyed grasses into beautiful, artistic arrangements.

Explaining the various types of containers and flower holders, Mr. Thompson stressed the fact that as in building a house, a flower display must start with a good foundation. Mr. Thompson pointed out that materials need not always be purchased but that many weeds and grasses, when properly treated, could form the major portion of the display, with only a few flowers, attractively arranged, could often be more effective than those in solution. Line and color were touched on with the fact that unusual color combinations could be used in flower displays with very pleasing effect. One of the most beautiful of the several arrangements was, most appropriately, in the autumn trend, having as its container a hollowed out duck decoy, in which was tucked orange-bronze mums, grasses, fern and autumn leaves.

Miss Verna Nelson and Miss Alice Wilson gave brief outlines of their attendance at the International Congress of the Business and Professional Women held in Paris, France, in July. One of the points stressed in the sessions at this Congress was the need for more women to enter the political field. It was felt that their participation in this field would do much to raise the moral and ethical standard at which government is run.

True to its reputation, Paris provided outstanding entertainment for the Congress members and the form of a fashion show, musical concert, ballet, etc.

Members from Business and Professional Women's Clubs of twenty-five countries were present on October 10th under the convenership of Mrs. Peggy Crouchman, beginning with church attendance on Sunday followed by a luncheon at the Hotel Gilbert.

CBC PRODUCER SUSPENDED

Trenton to Have Junior Hockey

TRENTON — It's finally been decided — Trenton will see junior hockey this winter.

At an O.H.A. meeting in Belleville Tuesday night, which was attended by Paul Tripp of Trenton, it was confirmed that there will be junior hockey here this winter, providing the town can get the necessary public support. Since the Trenton team will have to pay its own way, financial support is necessary. This can be given through the purchase of season tickets, now available from Legion and Service Club members.

Entered in the league this year will be Trenton, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough and perhaps Port Hope and Cobourg. Jack Devine, Belleville sportscaster, has been appointed convener.

Erie Resistor Plans Addition

TRENTON — One of Trenton's fastest-growing industries, Erie Resistor of Canada, will soon be making an addition to its present factory.

Tenders have been called for a 5,400 square foot addition to the Wragg Street plant. The 60 by 90 foot addition will expand the company's facilities and will mean work for several people. It has not yet been announced when construction will get underway.

The addition will be of cement block construction and will be built in such a way that another storey or an additional wing may be added at a future date.

Council Names Ron Thompson As Engineer

PICTON — Prince Edward County Council, at its September meeting yesterday, engaged Ron Thompson, presently of Port Hope, as the new County engineer. He succeeds Robert Allison, who recently accepted a position in Hamilton. Starting salary was set at $6,500 per year with yearly increasements of $300 up to a maximum of $8,000 per year. The new engineer is a graduate of the University of Scotland and has been working in this county with the Ontario Department of Highways. He will commence his duties November 1st.

Reeve Clare Platt moved that a vote of thanks be extended county road superintendent Ben Beagle on the manner in which he has carried on the work without the services of an engineer since July 1st.

Council learned from architect Paul Weichand of Belleville that plans for the $385,000 addition to Prince Edward County Home have not as yet been approved by the Ontario Department of Public Welfare. Warden Ern Warden asked why the delay and was told that since the Department shared half the cost they desired a full investigation.

Plans call for a two-storey add-dition extending 200 feet west of the present building with a 100 feet projection from it to the north. We are trying to keep as residential an appearance, the architect said.

BELIEVED FOX RABID

Possibility that there may be an outbreak of rabies after a long dormant spell, in Prince Edward County, was reported yesterday by Jesse Hinsman of the village of Consecon-ville. Mr. Hinsman was attracted by the noise made by his dog and investigating, he found the animal was being attacked by a fox, which was frothing at the mouth. Both the fox and dog were destroyed. Mr. Hinsman had kept his dog tied up since last April when it was bitten by a rapid skunk but did not contract the disease.

Essential Food Values in Fruit and Vegetables

It is accepted today that one can eat plenty of energy foods and yet slowly starve for lack of necessary food elements.

Among the major elements provided for by fresh fruits and vegetables are vitamin C, vitamin A, calcium, folic acid, carbohydrates, iron riboflavin and niacin.

In addition, these natural foods contain a large variety of elements of which the nutritional functions are not fully understood but which are, nevertheless, important. Apples, bananas, oranges, muskmelons, raisins, the legumes and white potatoes, for example, have been found experimentally to be among the best body alkalizers.

The bioflavonoids, found in the meat (but not in the clear juice) of oranges, necessaries and strengthen the capillary system.

Some of the substances in fresh fruits and vegetables build up resistance to various infections.

An important benefit of eating plenty of fruits and vegetables, including some raw, is provision of cellulose for the bulk that is essential for normal digestion.

"Communism" In Rhodesia

Did you know there was a communist state in Africa?

The answer will be in the negative, but only a belief in communism, not the Soviet kind but akin to that practised by the early Christians and some other religious communities, could justify a system exposed by NBC's brilliant commentator, Chet Huntley, in a calm, factual report on Rhodesia, shown on television on Sunday.

The Northern Rhodesia's copper mines, said Huntley, white man and black man work side by side, doing the same tasks. The white man gets 1,700 pounds a year, the black man 200.

Only a sincere belief in communism, that the principle of a just society is "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need," could enable a reasonable man to defend such a system as just. And even the believer in communism would have difficulty in proving that the white man really needs eight times as much as the black man in order to enjoy a decent standard of living.

Of course, there is no such belief in communism behind the system. The white man does not receive eight times the black man's pay because he needs it, but because he has been powerful enough to demand it. The demands were by the white man's labor union, which is not the same union as that which represents the black worker.

Huntley pains to point out that the lot of the black worker in the copper mines in Northern Rhodesia is infinitely better than the lot of his fellow African in more populous Southern Rhodesia. He also said that the two major companies, one British and one American, have done much to educate the black workers and that they are aware of world opinion and are concerned about dividends. He seemed to imply that both these factors would tend to an eventual correction of the wage differential between white and black, but the concern with dividends, the economic factor, is a knife that cuts both ways. The company will certainly seek to keep its workers satisfied and to attract more and so may grant its black workers pay increases, but it would appear doubtful whether the companies can raise the black workers' pay to the present level of white workers' and still compete on the world market. If pay is to be equalized, the increase in the pay of the blacks would almost certainly have to be at least partially offset by a decrease in the pay of the white workers.

These white copper workers receive 1,700 pounds a year; a London journalist of our acquaintance, in a responsible position with Reuters, gets 1,200 pounds. If the black workers are underpaid, the white workers appear to be overpaid. They have already proven that they will resist any attempt to deprive them of the privileges to which they are used.

Nor was this the only point which Huntley made against the Rhodesian regime, now aiming towards self-government. During the recent disturbances in Nyasaland, blacks in Southern Rhodesia were arrested for "security reasons" and held without trial. One man told how he was imprisoned for 56 days before he could prove that his detention was a case of mistaken identity. As Huntley remarked "Britons at home would be shocked by this." Yet Britons at home may, almost unwittingly, shoulder final responsibility for depriving the natives in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland of what little protection they already enjoy against arbitrary acts by white rulers, for these areas, now under the Colonial Office, are scheduled to be linked with Southern Rhodesia in an independent nation within the Commonwealth, in which the control would rest in the hands of Southern Rhodesian whites who would appear, from Huntley's comment, to be patterning their policies on those of South Africa's apartheid.

There is, surely, no sense of talking about the inability of Africans to govern themselves and the necessity for education of the masses when black workers capable of doing the same tasks as white men are denied the equal pay which would enable them to provide for themselves and their children that training and education they need.

Huntley questioned the wife of one Negro leader. She was born in Mississippi, most Jim-Crow ridden of the Southern States. She said that she would sooner live in Mississippi than in Rhodesia, because in Mississippi the law, on the whole, was on the side of the Negro.

Never have we heard a statement more calculated to humiliate any person who hoped—and believed—that British justice was the same in all parts of the Commonwealth.

NOT AN EASY FIGHT

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Go face the world, young man, and fight
Your way up to the top,
But don't expect that you can climb
And never come upon the time
When you will have to stop.

And don't expect always your way
To level be and plain,
For bitter things will try your soul
Before you ever reach your goal,
And you'll encounter pain.

Envy and malice you will meet,
And all things won't be true;
The world will batter you and bruise,
But if the paths of right you choose,
Success will come to you.

IQ Not Only Yardstick

Toronto Daily Star

From Dr. W. P. Percival, former deputy minister of education for Ontario, come some exceptionally timely and commonsense views about the role of education in Canadian society.

Dr. Percival is no doctrinaire theorist. He does not hold with the view that equality of education opportunity, in any sense, means equal results in a classroom of pupils.

"We know," he says, "that on this North American continent we have about 7 per cent of people who are ultra clever and about the same proportion at the other end of the scale. We know that only about 30 per cent of our people have IQs of the minimum required to permit them to get a good college grade. This leaves no less than 70 per cent who do not have that ability."

It is clear from what Dr. Percival says that he believes equality of opportunity, in a social sense is just plain nonsense so far as education is concerned. And he is right.

A large proportion of Canada's educational resources are wasted in futile attempts to force higher education on many who are not suited by talent or nature to benefit from it. Indeed, as Dr. Percival pointed out, many of mankind's truly great had neither the opportunity nor the aptitude for what we call their schooldays. But later they turned out to be men of genius.

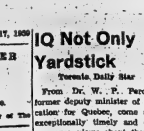
Trouble is, as this eminent Canadian educator points out, that our education has led to expect far too much of education, that is, to look to it to make about high IQs and have wholly ignored the fact that it necessarily depends on other qualities as well. Among other qualities which are fundamental are the EQ, or emotional quotient, the AQ, or attitude quotient, and the SQ, or commonsense quotient.

Academic brilliance undoubtedly has its place in the scheme of things, but a really progressive society also needs people who are emotionally stable morally sound with a realistic attitude towards life and possessed of uncommonsense.

To expect the school to assume exclusive responsibility for instilling and developing such qualities in the nation's youth is sheer nonsense. Parents religious groups and leaders in public life have an enormous responsibility as well to help in this regard.

Unhappily in the realm of politics false economic values often outermines set up, which in turn, when accepted by a nation at large, can lead only to disillusionment and disaster.

Lunik Two No Metchta



Montreal Gazette

When the Russians launched their first rocket to the moon on Jan. 2, they first called it "Lunik" where in Russian "lu" is the word for moon. The name, which means "the moon that is worthwhile" to Brigadier-General Homer Boushey of the Air Force opinion that "Who controls the moon controls the earth."

It is generally agreed that the moon is valuable as a springboard to the other planets: that it would make a splendid space observation post, that it has value for world-wide television broadcasts; and that it may contain enormous mineral wealth. Some of these uses can be made of it by semi-permanent bases, even before the first man gets there.

Meanwhile, although the Russian propaganda value for the Russians; it proves they have larger rockets and better guidance mechanisms than the Americans have — so far.

French Study Solar Energy

The London Bystander

The industrial value of the sort at France's solar energy research establishment at Mont-Louis is considerable, greater than strategic. But the cloak of secrecy in which the establishment is enveloped, its seclusion behind walls, the presence of the alert eyes of a parachutist garrison, the ban on photography and occasional whispers of the evil doings of Communists naturally titillated the imagination of local residents.

Small groups of tourists, undaunted by the military guard, peered at a glimpse of the big parabolic reflector on Sundays and Holidays, but they were not allowed to see the solar ovens in operation, nor peer into the laboratories; and few would have suspected to learn that the parachutists at Mont-Louis are being trained in the use of the A-bomb to police Algerian fellaghas.

Mont-Louis's real secret is, on the contrary, known to all. In accordance on the cold war, is hope that, with the help of the sun, the dehydrated millions of Asia and Africa that the case recover their lost powers. Perhaps, one day, may one day means a cup of tea, be supplied to make it tenth-century Britain.

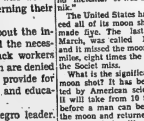
It may well be powerless before the average Indian or Arab, these family can afford its own solar-energized cooking-stoves, fans, and cold storage, distillation and pasteurization plants have been designed.

The Mont-Louis establishment's present refrigeration plant, sited on a grassy ramparts, is "powered" by two Fresnel lenses, two reflectors, three or four yards long and eight wide, which concentrate sufficient heat to as ammonia-and-water circuit to produce enough power to operate a dog.

Running costs of such installations are almost negligible, and initial costs are being slashed by the development of cheap, durable plastic mirrors and standardized structural parts. Experiments are already under the rough-cast tracks and erected by unskilled labour.

Mont-Louis has become the focus hopes of solar energy engineers throughout the world, and the nerve-centre of a continental interchange of information. In its files are reports of experiments in many parts of France, from a dozen countries. France, it seems clear, leads the field in solar research. And Israel and Japan have given evidence of a high standard of practical achievement.

Then There's Litterature!



Ottawa Journal

A Toronto housewife brings word of a valued charwoman who arrived one day carrying the house in unusual disorder. The housewife apologized for the chaos there had been a reception the evening before.

"It's all right, you're not as bad as literary people," said the charwoman.

"What's so bad about literary people?"

"Well, you know, literary people always litter, litter everywhere."

BOISSEVAIN, MAN.

There has been much speculation concerning the origin of this name, and according to the best information it was given to honor a Dutch financier named Boissevain, whose firm loaned money to the CPR. Mr. Boissevain's address was Paris, the same name, visited the town in southwestern Manitoba in 1855.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HOW A PERSON IN PERFECT HEALTH DIES OF HEART ATTACK

"Dear Dr. Molner: How can a person who is supposed to be in perfect health die of a heart attack?

"My dad, at the age of 52 died of one. On the day he had to have a physical exam twice his normal rate and he was in perfect condition

"One night he came home from work and complained of cramps in his stomach. We thought it was indigestion so I took a couple of seltzer pills. Then he lay down. All of a sudden he said his legs were aching out. He fought for breath, thought he was going to die. After a few minutes his color was back to normal but in 10 minutes he was dead. On the death certificate it said, 'Myocardial infarction due to coronary thrombosis.' Would you explain. — M. T."

Cases like this, obviously, are very shocking, but they happen. There is a perfectly valid reason why these cases happen — and I have had the misfortune to see doctors who were the victims of such heart attacks without any more warning than anyone else would have had.

Let me use an automobile as an example. Let's say that you took your car to a garage to have the brakes relined. The mechanic said, "This car is in perfect condition and doesn't need anything done to it."

But also let's suppose that there was a little wear in the gas tank. The next day this little drifted down into the line that runs from the gasoline to the motor. It plugged the line. No gasoline could get to the motor, so the engine stopped.

This is exactly what happens in these heart attacks that occur without warning. An embolism, or thrombus, as it is called, a clot of congealed blood, or other foreign substance, will lodge in the artery which supplies blood to the heart muscle. Shuts off the blood supply.

The heart muscle, without a supply of blood, becomes paralyzed and ceases operating. The heart stops.

This is what happened. It is tragic, and I understand how you feel. Others have shared your sorrow and sympathy go out.

Yet there is no way to predict when such a thing will occur. If at all possible, they never will. Only when the arteries are open and the body is operating with full efficiency; the next day an obstruction occurs in a narrow place, and the person is gone in minutes.

That is the meaning of "coronary thrombosis," "coronary embolism, or obstruction, clogged the artery leading to the heart. Hence, "myocardial infarction," or destruction of the heart muscle.

In some instances changes in the electrocardiogram will indicate when such a thing will occur—an impending infarction.

In other instances there is no way of predicting it, any more than we can predict when a gasoline line will clog or a light burn out or the TV set quit.

Fortunately, most of them are crooked. I would like to know how many orthodontists there are in the United States.

Also what is the cost of their work? Should I consult my dentist about it and ask his advice? — Crooked

Sign your name when you write to me. I won't print it anyway. But please, no more of these letters signed with just pen-names. I don't know how many orthodontists there are. If I did, I'd tell you — and I'll bet a wager a good tooth against a whole set of bad ones that you don't really care. All you want, at most, is just one. The last sentence of your letter is absolutely and utterly sensible. Except the question mark, that is. Of course you should go to your dentist and ask his advice.

Note to Mrs. W. C.: Radioactive iodine is not only "all right" to treat suitable goiter cases — it is one of the best treatments we know. For suitable cases, I said. There are different cases.

Invents New Language

Manchester Guardian Weekly

Travellers, internationalists, and neurotics who are not yet discouraged and appalled by the enormous number of languages in the world may welcome even say "Where is the manager? I wish to complain" will greet with a blank stare the news that yet another language has been born.

Its father is Mr. John Williams, of Bushey, Hertfordshire, and it is called Glosa. Mr. Williams, whose hobby is working in the World Peace Movement, has invented it because of his interest in the problem of world understanding.

Pikto is based on small bits of Romance, Teutonic, and Slavonic words combined and spelled in form long words. Mr. Williams has published a dictionary of the language containing 35,000 words, and a grammar which includes a bilingual version of the Lord's Prayer ("Patri nostri, qui es in cielos, sanctifikesko tui nomo"). To be precise! who has always been a Dartmoor, for "candlin mit force" (rubbery with violence) and who calls a bicycle a "rated estuasimi amur" (made ardent by speed).

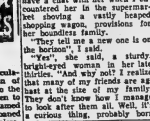
The vocabulary of Pikto has a certain wild simplicity for Englishmen and for Russians, whatever Mr. Williams thinks, would be fairly flabberrated by it). Cottage, for instance, is "minivilla," kiss is "lipotch." Lady is "ariconsam," parlor — "ultragudsalon." prude is "ultraconsi." And there is a certain new light cast on the world by saying "ultra-speech" for tired.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The wife of a professional man among my acquaintances has given her husband a subtle, beautifully alive, and is now expecting her eleventh. Since th is fashionable habit to have a baby and adopt another for a companion for it; or to have a baby and then adopt another to have a chat with her when I see her pushing a baby carriage, I bet shoving a vastly heaped shopping wagon, provisions for the whole household.

"They tell me a new one is on the horizon," I said.



"Yes", she said, a sturdy, bright-eyed woman in her late forties. "And why not! I realize that many of my friends are sick that's the size of my family. They don't know how I manage to look after them all. It's a curious thing, probably born out by biology, that the more of them there are, the less I am looking after they need. Indeed, my friends who have only one are the ones who fuss. Those with two are pretty bad; but not as bad as with the wives. Those with three find far less trouble than those with two. And the wife with child has more sense than it is usually credited with. When a baby is a baby it seems instinctively to co-operate."

I was studied me intently for a moment.

"Look", she said. "You write books. You must know something about it. You must know it's a curious thing, but there are

Minor Baseball to Benefit By 2 Brand-New Diamonds Sponsored by Kiwanis Club

Next summer, thanks mainly to the efforts of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, the city's baseball-minded youngsters will have two more modern diamonds on which to play.

The sod has been turned on the two playing fields situated directly west of the main diamond at the fair grounds.

The diamonds will be the regulation ninety feet between bases and are intended primarily for baseball. However, the base paths can be shortened and the playing areas used for softball.

The establishment of the two new diamonds along with the main one means that practically all minor league baseball can be concentrated in the fair grounds next year.

One of the biggest bugbears of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association for a number of years, has been the shortage of diamonds and other facilities in the city.

At one time there were 36 teams here using nine diamonds, three of which came indirectly under the city's jurisdiction, five on school property and another at the CNRA Park.

With the possible exception of the CNRA Park, you would scarcely mistake any of the others for Yankee Stadium. Not a few needed "repairs" badly.

Meanwhile, cognizant of the state of affairs, the baseball-minded Kiwanis Club had been mulling over a possible remedy.

For a number of years this popular service club had sponsored baseball clubs, mostly of junior classification. Now, it seemed, they were ready to do something more.

A few years ago Kiwanian Ted Schwab contacted this writer and stated Kiwanis was contemplating a complete renovation of the Alemite field as a minor baseball league park. Little league baseball was at the beak of the clubmen's coleictive mind, he said.

The suggested changeover called for a complete fencing, with dressing rooms, dugouts, in fact all the "front" of a big league park.

The cost of the proposed renovation was estimated at $15,000. The club went so far as to have a scale model made.

Later the clubmen took into consideration a suggestion by William H. Hurst, treasurer of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association, that unused ground the Fair Grounds be converted into two diamonds. Dressing rooms and other facilities available there could be utilized. The cost to the club through this project would be greatly reduced from $15,000.

Meetings between Kiwanis representatives and those of the BMHA, Recreation Commission and the park superintendent Gordon Nicholson were held, with the result the service club agreed to sponsor the project.

Kiwanis president Gerry Wishart, Kiwanian Len Foxard who represented the service club were enthusiastic over the idea. Meeting with them and discussing plans were Mr. Hurst, William Van Tassel, chairman of Belleville Recreation Commission, Lloyd Doran, director of recreation here, and William Brennan, vice-president Belleville Minor Baseball Association.

Work on the two diamonds has started. A big job is that of levelling. Fill has to be moved from the north to the south as in some cases there is a drop of six feet.

When the levelling is completed, the areas will be seeded so the new diamonds will be ready for the 1960 season.

May Settle Question of Grants to Que.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says in 5 Quebec City dispatch that observers believe there is a good chance that the question of federal grants to Quebec universities will soon be resolved.

The newspaper says negotiations between Quebec and Ottawa aimed at settling the issue will be opened soon.

It says reports emanating from Ottawa are circulating in Quebec City to the effect that Premier Maurice Duplessis, before his death last week, had reached an agreement with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The Gazette quotes the reports as saying "that a new formula had been worked out under which the grants would again be paid the Quebec government which would, in turn, distribute them to the universities."

Montreal university officials declined comment.

ELIMINATE CROSSING

TORONTO (CP) — Work will start immediately on an overpass at the costly level crossing on Highway 400, it was announced Tuesday. The crossing is about eight miles south of Barrie. The $500,000 cost will be shared by the province, 15 per cent; the federal board of transport, 80 per cent, and the CNR, five per cent.

MEN AT WORK — Operations are under way at the Fair Grounds where ground-levelling for the two new Kiwanis-sponsored baseball diamonds is taking place. Seeding is expected to be completed this year so the playing fields can be used by the city's baseball youngsters next spring.

Milford Fair Patrons Enjoy Splendid School Parade and Fine Exhibits of Home, Farm

PICTON—Although most farmers and their families were rushing to harvest tomatoes before an anticipated frost, South Marysburg Fair at Milford on Wednesday was well attended. The evening saw the big shed filled for a baby show and a variety of entertainment and prize giving.

The afternoon opened with parade of the seven schools in the township, together with decorated cars, floats and horses. Winners were Rose's school, Royal Street and Black Creek. Points were given for banners, marching and appearance. H. L. Knight, IPS announced the winners, commending teachers on their efforts. All except one are newcomers to South Marysburg this term.

With saddle horse winners were Laverne Way and son who rode with him; Mrs. Way, Glendon Walker and Bob McKee. For ponies, prizes went to Ronald Green, Janet Hill, Ted Miller, Rosemary McCaw, Jim Thompson and young Janet Keogh.

Karen Chapman entered the best decorated car, a white station wagon decorated in red, white and blue and bearing a large cake with 13 candles to mark the Fair's 13th year.

Murray Head drove the Dixon Club's tractor with float artistically arranged with bales of straw and loaded with fruits and vegetables. Yellow, green and brown streamers formed a canopy.

For an unusual float the Good Neighbors Club brought to the fair the matter of a much debated new township school. Placard read: "Where's Our New School — 1960?" The float contained an old, roofless school filled with children.

GAY COSTUMES

The schools were in gay costumes. Rose's had "Pioneers of Prince Edward" as the theme. The girls wearing old-fashioned dresses and the boys boutonnaires and bow ties. Royal Street school banner read "Welcome to our school Library" and each pupil carried a book cover. Head bands bore the name of the school section. Black Creek school pupils wore dark arm and head bands with maple leaves, S. S. 11 pupils had a sign, "Fly ho Come to the Fair" and pupils carried fruits, flowers and vegetables. S. S. 12 wore green hats and capes. S. S. 13 had red and blue hats, the girls in red and blue capes, the boys wearing shades streamers. S. S. 16 had novel hats made of two clasped hands to carry out the "Welcome" theme. All were excellent.

OPENING OF FAIR

Reeve Donald Bond presided for the official opening. President Vernon Striker extended a welcome and Norris Whitney, MPP, officially opened the fair. All expressed appreciation to teachers and pupils on their efforts and to those connected with staging a popular community event. Mr. Whitney spoke of fairs contributing to agriculture, still the backbone of any nation.

Agricultural representative D. A. Taylor said the fair was carrying on the tradition of pre-war school fairs and was very worthwhile. Ken Wright, assistant at the agricultural office this summer, and running studies at the OAC this week, announced results of special entries in the parade and results of calf club.

Carson Scott was a genial master of ceremonies, awarding many attendance prizes, interviewing the oldest, newly married, longest married and coming 25th anniversary couples.

CALF CLUB COMPETITION

Eleven calves were shown in the Marysburg Calf Club competition with Tom May as judge. This completed the year's work, points being given for calf, showmanship, judging competition, guide, care and feeding, attendance at meetings. First in entire contest was Linda Wiggins with 919 points, followed by Hugh Striker with 893 and Kathleen Kerr with 891. Others, in order, were Billy Moore, Melvin Murphy, Larry Ackerman, David Grimmon, Joan Emlaw, Douglas Murphy, Earle Rorabeck and Floyd Fudge.

For calves alone, placings were H. Striker, J. Emlaw, L. Wiggins, K. Kerr, for showmanship, F. Wiggins, H. Striker, B. Moore, C. Emlaw. Tommy May gave reasons for placings.

FINE EXHIBITS

The hall was filled with a colorful array of exhibits, reflecting the bounty of field and garden even though it had been a dry year. There were 68 plates and seven baskets of polished apples, pears, plums and fancy baskets.

Garden pumpkin, green and yellow squash, red and green peppers offered contrast to plates of potatoes, onions and other vegetables. Many flowers and plants made a splash of color. Sealers of grain and canned yellow corn were set off by sheaves of golden grain and green corn stalks.

Tempting home cooking filled most of a table and there was a nice array of sewing, knitting and dressed dolls. Handicraft included bird houses, rope halters and woodwork. Writing and art depicted talent in this line. Milford Art Club had a fine display of oil paintings.

Marysburg 4-H Club displayed rope halters and collections of legumes.

Ladies of the township supplied home cooked food for the popular refreshment booth.

Carman-Union W.A., Milford Boy Scouts, Black Creek Club and Black Creek W.A. had booths and displays.

SHEEP SHOW

Outstanding was the entry of sheep—forty in all — representing Suffolk, Cross Country Cheviots, Hampshires and grades. This entry was particularly good and exceeded at few fairs this size.

There were also ten calves exhibited in open classes.

In the other square a variety of poultry added their noise to that of dogs and cats. There was a hen with baby chicks.

A variety of sports was keenly contested. Above all, it was a meeting place for old friends.

Officers of the society are: Vernon Striker, president; Gordon Striker, vice - president; Stewart York, secretary. Committee chairmen included Murray Clapp, Elmer Collier, Alex Miller, Don Kerr, Clifford Walker, Ralph Grimmon, W. Davis, E. T. Cook, Mrs. K. Walker, Mrs. C. Scott, Mrs. Q. Minaker.

New Book 'Africa Disturbed' Introduced at WMS Aux. Meet

The September meeting of the W.M.S. Auxiliary of Bridge St. United Church, convened in the S.S. rooms with a large attendance.

Mrs. McArthur, the president, conducted the opening exercises and because there was a guest speaker for the meeting, the business was dispensed with as quickly as possible.

The card secretary, Mrs. Massey, reported visitations for the year, and so far 127 cards were sent during summer.

The supply secretary, Mrs. MacDonald, reported on the shower for the Port Workers. This was held at the June meeting at Mrs. Fuke's home. There were 100 different articles donated, such as towels, soap, tooth paste and wash cloths, plus $1.50 in cash. Mrs. MacDonald received a letter from the port worker, expressing thanks for the generosity of the members.

Miss Clarke announced the W.C.T.U. meeting and gave everyone a pressing invitation to attend. Twenty-five dollars was voted to the Mission Band leaders. Also in connection with supply work, Mrs. MacDonald asked for good used clothing for the bale that must soon be shipped.

Mrs. McArthur drew the members attention to an article on page 7 in September Missionary Monthly. This article and picture depicts the use that believers in Korea are making out of old nylon stockings. They ravel and rewind the thread then use it after bleaching and reoloring it, magenta, green or pink, for making many beautiful articles. Mrs. MacDonald will be glad if the women will save their ol dnylons and bring them to her. This is a worthy cause and its to be hoped the members will make a real effort to help where help is so badly needed.

Mrs. McArthur handed the meeting over to the study group in charge, Mrs. Ruggles and Mrs. Adsett.

Mrs. Ruggles expressed her pleasure in seeing such a splendid attendance and introduced those on her group.

The Scripture study was on "Freedom." Though passages read by Mrs. Harry Rollins, Freeson was traceded from the time when Israel was freed from the Bondage in Egypt from the Old into the New Testament.

"Christ's life and ministry gave freedom a religious meaning; released from slavery, fear, temptation, sin, superstition, hate and greed to the point where people became new creatures, seeing life, the world and its problems and hopes from the viewpoint of God and His ongoing purposes. This is the freedom in which we are called in Jesus Christ."

The Scripture study was followed by a talk, entitled "Big Harvest Flies," sung by Mrs. Riddell.

Mrs. Ruggles asked her co-convener, Mrs. Adsett, to introduce the guest speaker.

In Mrs. Adsett's opening remarks she spoke of the contribution the Matthews were making to the W.M.S., the president and the minister's wife both came from there and the guest speaker for the day was a native of Prince Edward Island. She went on to say that Mrs. Fisher was born in Malpegue, within sight of "Green Gables."

"The Presbyterian Church here was the birthplace of "foreign missions" for Canada. Right women of vision and love for God and their fellowmen, organized a Foreign Mission Society; their names appear on a plaque on the church. The mission work, as carried on throughout the churches, is the result of the small beginning."

Mrs. Fisher's subject was to introduce the new study book, "Africa Disturbed."

The study book was written by "Emory and Myrta Ross" who have spent many years in mission lives working with Africans. In 1913 Dr. Ross served as a missionary in Liberia and later, with Mrs. Ross, gave ex- tended period of service in Belgian Congo. Now in later years turning to writing Dr. and Mrs. Ross literally took hundreds of their friends resumed to Africa, in order that they might see and hear at first hand, present Africans' reactions to the impact of the West on their lives. Mrs. Fisher then introduced the many new cases.

"In Mrs. Adsett's opening remarks she spoke of the contribution the Matthews were making to the W.M.S., the president and the minister's wife both came from there and the guest speaker for the day was a native of Prince Edward Island. She went on to say that Mrs. Fisher was born in Malpegue, within sight of "Green Gables."

"The Presbyterian Church here was the birthplace of "foreign missions" for Canada. Right women of vision and love for God and their fellowmen, organized a Foreign Mission Society; their names appear on a plaque on the church. The mission work, as carried on throughout the churches, is the result of the small beginning."

Mrs. Fisher's subject was to introduce the new study book, "Africa Disturbed."

The word "Disturbed," regarding Africa, carries a happy meaning; it denotes Africa is no longer willing to remain "The Dark Continent" spiritually or intellectually, but is anxious for knowledge in every sphere. Therein lies the churches' responsibility and opportunity to give the knowledge through Christian channels, schools, hospitals and ministries.

Miss Young, on behalf of the society, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Fisher for her fine presentation of the study book, adding that Mrs. Fisher had given the desire to read this book through her splendid introduction.

Miss Young also thanked Mrs. Riddell for her solo, enjoyed by all; also the pianist, Mrs. Bird, for her contribution at each meeting.

The group in charge served a cup of tea during which the members enjoyed a reunion after the summer recess.

Talk on Africa Given at W.A., W.M.S. Meet

RAWDON — Twenty - three ladies from Mount Pleasant Rawdon and four visitors from Stirling and Hoards, attended the joint meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society and the W.A. at the home of Mrs. Ira David on September 8th.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Will McAdam and Mrs. Irvine Potts. Mrs. Burton Sharpe contributed soft piano music. Mrs. Herbert Smith, W.M.S. president, extended a welcome to all and a prayer of general thanksgiving was read in unison.

Mrs. Will McAdam was in charge of the devotional and read a poem, "Brothers All," and all sang "O Brother Man." Mrs. Will Jeffs read from the Bible and Mrs. Irvine Potts read a prayer. Mrs. Garth Joslin played a piano solo. Three favorite selections were sung by the group, "God Will Take Care of You," "Brighten the Corner," and "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder." Mrs. Don Johnson read a selection followed by "Rise Up O Men of God."

DISCUSSES AFRICAN PROBLEMS

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave the highlights of items found in the first three chapters of "Africa Disturbed," written by Mr. and Mrs. E. Ross.

She said; "Africa is a continent four times as large as the United States and today all Africa is surging to be free. They are rebelling against the old injustice that skilled Africans must accept a second best role in the pageant of world progress simply because their color is black. Merely to be white would double their pay and perhaps triple it as the Africans are experts in learning new skills. Music is the language understood by Africans and they thrill to rhythm and singing. The African also has many creative activities such as folk tales.

"An African missionary compiled 46 typewritten pages of African proverbs and their translations, among them 'The conceived man doesn't thank God until he sees a blind man.'

"The first three chapters are centred around the proverbs 'The pot is boiling because somebody makes it boil,' 'Drink from walking, the body is strong,' and 'It does not matter whether the counsel comes from small or great to those who profit by it.'

"Christian missionaries were the ones who instituted a program of education and today African women are on a bridge and their work is broadening all over Africa. The Social Welfare Department is training women in literacy, useful crafts, agriculture, law, business, radio, and even medicine," she stated.

NEED TEACHERS

"The great need is for more teachers for the power of the Christian Gospel, taught and lived, is the hope of Africa."

She said the authors visited 21 territories and in many homes they found daily newspapers, magazines, radios, refrigerators, comfortable furniture, flowers, pictures and sewing machines.

"From such homes and families come Africa's ambassadors and spokesmen throughout the world," she said. "The responsibility accepted in the home and on one's own doorstep will inspire responsibility in all life," the speaker concluded.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman read the letter written by Miss Frances M. Wallbridge, B.A., of the Means Vocational School, Lutaro, Africa, as it appeared in the 1958 edition of "Missionary Leadership." Miss Wallbridge is home on furlough and will be the speaker at the Belleville Well W.M.S. Sectional Rally at Mount Pleasant Rawdon United Church on October 14.

The Mission Band leader will soon have her Christmas cards for sale. The Baby Band leader had her travelling basket at this meeting.

SHIPPED USED CLOTHING

The supply secretary reported shipping a bale of used clothing weighing 90 pounds for overseas relief. She gave an itemized account of coats, dresses, mittens and other articles that were packed. The W.A. donated the money to the United Church treasurer to forward the boxes overseas. Two letters of thanks from Toronto were passed around for all to read.

The "friendship quilts" were recorded by Mrs. Will Jeffs. Thirteen members answered the W.M.S. roll call. The treasurer reported the collection of $4.85 to date for this quarter. Prayer was offered for missionary Miss Blanche Gerhard, R.N., Drumheller Valley, Alta.

The Thanksgiving meeting will be held earlier owing to the sectional rally. Mrs. Don Knight will be hostess and the date is Tuesday, October 6th.

The offering was gathered by Mrs. Will McAdam and dedicated with four verses of "We Give Thee But Thine Own."

W.A. president, Mrs. Carleton Potts, conducted the W.A. business. An apron sale in Springbrook W.A. bazaar and "thank-you" notes were read.

The treasurer reported a total collection to date of $788.

Various plans made for the November bazaar were presented to the group and other items of business discussed.

The W.M.S. president expressed thanks for the hospitality and closed the meeting.

The hostess and lunch conveners served light refreshments.

SCHOOL TUNIC RESISTS CHANGE — School tunics haven't changed much over the years despite unpredictable fluctuations of women's fashions, as this young girl shows. The square neck, self belt, and three wide pleats are still in evidence. Only concession to a new look is the fabric, more often a crease-resistant, machine-washable material than the old all-wool heavy serge. Uniformity in classroom clothing alleviates schoolmate's jealousy about wardrobes, and is easy on the budget. Navy is still most popular color. (CP Photo).

School Tunic Not Changed In 25 Years

TORONTO (CP)—Dame Fashion, a notoriously fickle lady, has remained stubbornly constant when it comes to the school tunic.

Through more than 25 years of wear, it's weathered the Gibson girl look, the new look and the sack.

The design has remained the same. The three wide pleats, front and back, self belt, double yoke and square neck are the same today as they were when tunics first became popular.

Even the length has remained the same—just touching the floor when kneeling.

Navy is the most popular color with a few schools ordering grey or green. However, these are the exceptions and manufacturers still select good shades of navy each season for school uniforms.

The continued popularity has been attributed to the comfort they give mothers. The tunics solve the problem of what to wear, jealousy of classmates' clothes and the need for extensive and expensive wardrobes of suitable classroom dresses. They're easy on the budget too. Although there has been no style change, the fabrics have changed considerably. The first tunics were heavy all-wool serge, a far-cry from today's crease proof and machine - washable fabrics.

Average Man Not Shopper Says Clothier

NEW YORK (AP) — Mother knows best what father should wear.

This seems to be an accepted fact among manufacturers, designers and salesmen of men's clothing. When mom comes along to help pop buy a new suit, everybody is delighted.

Stanley Goldman, one of the country's leading manufacturers of men's upper-bracket suits, explains it thus:

"The average man is not a shopper. He dreads the idea of walking into a store and trying on things in front of strange salesmen. His main idea is to get it over with as quickly as possible, and get the heck out of there. So he orders the same kind of suit he's been wearing for the last 10 years and that's that. He resists the idea of a new style or a new color. He's a creature of habit, and becomes panicky when confronted with a change in routine.

"His wife, on the other hand, likes variety. She's interested in anything new. Moreover, she knows what looks well on her husband. If she goes along when he decides to buy a new suit, he's much more likely to come out with the right thing. And it also will be a much less painful performance. A man is timid about looking at anything new, he doesn't like discussing his clothing problems with strangers. But when his wife is with him, she's a friend, and he depends on her advice. She will urge him toward new ideas in fashion and color, and after he's accustomed to the idea...he'll like it."

Goldman doesn't go so far as to say a woman should buy her husband's suits the way she shops for his shirts and pajamas. In the matter of choosing a suit, the man should be present. But his wife's counsel on style and color is advisable.

Since the average North American man today buys only seven-eighths of a suit each year, when he gets a new one, it should be right. And if he's wise, says Goldman, he'll heed the advice of his spouse—unless, of course, she's like the wife who accompanied her husband on a suit-buying trip and chose the dullest and most unbecoming one in the lot, re-marking: "I have enough trouble with other girls chasing him now, I don't want him to look too good."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Inez D. — I can't do more for our parents.

Dorothy R. — She should relieve me of some of the responsibility.

Inez D. — I am a married woman, mother of two young children, and I am having a dispute with my older sister who is unmarried and living with our parents.

Dorothy thinks I don't spend enough time with our parents who are elderly and in poor health. I visit them with the children one afternoon a week, and one evening I have them over to dinner. They seem satisfied with this arrangement and seem to understand that "I" am busy with my home and family. Only Dorothy complains.

Dorothy speaks of all she sacrifices to keep our parents from being lonely, but she is often impatient, even cruel, in the way she talks to them. I'm supposed to be the bad one, but I wouldn't dream of talking like that.

Dorothy R. — I know that I'm sometimes impatient with my parents but who wouldn't be if they were in my place? Inez has no idea what it is like living with old people who are often cranky. I know I shouldn't feel this way, but sometimes it gets on my nerves.

If Inez visited more often I wouldn't have to feel guilty every time I go out. I always make several calls home to make sure they are all right. It is nerve-wracking to have this constant responsibility. I have had to take it for the past five years and sometimes I wonder whether I'll be able to survive it much longer.

I haven't had a real vacation in three years because I've been afraid to go too far from home for a long period.

The Council: We suspect that Dorothy's problem is with herself rather than her parents.

Older children who lack a sense of self-reliance often complain of their parents' need of them. They are naturally ashamed of facing the fact that they need their parents. The parents are often troubled by the excessive concern of such children. They would prefer to see their adult children living their own lives.

The impatience Dorothy expresses with her parents' cranky ways, her "nerve-wracked" condition, are fairly sure signs that she is somewhat disgusted with herself. Those who are happy within themselves manage to be patient with both the old and the young. Actually they enjoy letting of their own good spirits to others.

Dorothy evidently feels in the position of a child in her parents' home. She is probably aware that she would be somewhat at a loss without her parents. She detests this dependence and turns her futile anger against them.

We think Dorothy must become aware that she will have to build more of a life for herself, if she wants marriage she should turn her energies to getting it instead of wasting herself in unfair and idle resentment of her "fate." But married or single, Dorothy is badly in need of a wide interest in something. She should seek it, and when she finds it, she will be much less resentful toward her parents and sister.

Autumn Accessories

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Wool challis is going to be the big fabric favorite for daytime blouses this fall. A neat leaf print, characteristic of challis, is done in brown or black on a white ground. The blouse has a plain round neck and raglan sleeves. Good with a pleated or plain skirt or a daytime casual suit. The ladies have taken over the Tyrolean hat — another raid on the masculine wardrobe. These pert hats fit in nicely with the mannish look that milliners decree for daytime headgear. The hat comes in velours in various shades, both light and dark, and has the traditional braid band, if not the brush.

10 Blind Girls Take Course on Development

EDMONTON (CP)—Ten young women held a banquet for their teacher recently after completing a course on personal development.

They had good reason to thank their instructor, Mrs. Olivia Jewsbury. She had taught the 10 blind girls charm, poise and good grooming in a course at the local branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The eight - week course included instruction in pose, walking and sitting, exercise for figure development, grooming, make-up and choosing clothes.

Mrs. Jewsbury, who had taught blind children in England, said the girls were nervous and self-conscious at first, but soon became enthusiastic.

Before beginning the course, Mrs. Jewsbury blindfolded her eyes and managed to get through her household chores. She also experimented in applying her make-up by touch.

Mrs. Jewsbury said the sightless girls' sensitive fingertips enabled them to apply a makeup base evenly and to trace the shape of their lips perfectly. They also learned to feel the shape of their hair-do and to arrange their hair in styles suggested by their instructor.

She found that blind persons tend to look down rather than directly at persons to whom they are speaking. She taught the girls to hold their heads high and to face the sound of a voice.

The girls' acute sense of hearing helped in instructing them in the proper way to walk. Sensitive to rhythm, they could distinguish by ear a fault in Mrs. Jewsbury's walk.

Mrs. Jewsbury is writing a book on personal development and hopes to have it printed in braille to help other blind women.

$50,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

MONTREAL (CP)—Two youths bludgeoned a Montreal jewelry importer on a downtown street Tuesday and escaped with $100,000 in uncut jewels. Maurice Kuropatawa, 39, manager of Premier Diamond Import Company, was taken to hospital with a broken nose and a possible fractured skull.

Turns pass clockwise around the circle, starting with the host.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT . . ABOUT WHAT YOU SAY

What you say cannot be very different from what you are. So . . . watch most carefully what you say.

TWO FLOWER GIRLS AND TWO RING-BEARERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it improper to have two flower girls in my large, formal church wedding? I would so very much like to have two, but not if it is incorrect. One flower girl would be 3 years old, and the other 6 years old. If I may have two, would each walk up the aisle alone, or should they walk together? I am planning to have two ring-bearers also.

2. In our wedding party there will also be: maid of honor, best man, three (or four) bridesmaids, and three (or four) ushers. What would be the correct order of the Processional? — J. B.

1. It is entirely correct to have two flower girls, if you wish. And they may walk separately or together. However, with your plans to have two ring bearers, I should certainly advise that the two flower girls walk together, and the two ring bearers walk together. If the four children walk separately, it would, I should say, make it look too much like a "parade."

2. The Processional. First the two pairs of ushers (if there are only three, one pair leads, and the tallest usher follows alone). Next, the two pairs of bridesmaids (if there are only three, one pair leads, and the tallest bridesmaid follows alone). Next, maid of honor, alone. Next, the two ring-bearers, together; followed by the two flower girls, together. Last, you and your father, or whoever is to escort you.

WHEN CONTRIBUTION IS GIVEN TO CLERGYMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several months ago my bride-groom-to-be was best man for his cousin at a large, formal church wedding. As they were about to leave the house for the church, his cousin handed him the envelope containing the contribution to the clergyman, and suggested that he hand it to the clergyman before the ceremony. This surprised my fiance, who says he had always thought that the best man was supposed to hand the envelope to the clergyman after the ceremony. Will you please tell my fiance and me what is the correct way? — D. B.

Either way is correct . . . but today the bridegroom usually prefers to have his best man hand the contribution to the clergyman before the ceremony. After the ceremony there is usually a rush to collect hats and coats and speedily get on to the reception-place.

BEST TO WAIT FOR BOY TO WRITE FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I recently returned from my vacation at a summer resort. While there I met a very delightful boy from a city some distance from where I live, and we had a wonderful time together. We spoke about corresponding with each other, but there really hasn't been time for me to have heard from him yet. When a new friendship like this has been started, what is the rule about who writes first, the boy or the girl? I really should think it would be the girl who would write first.

The Girl.

You apparently had such a fine time beginning this friendship that it is quite natural that you would have the impulse to write to this attractive boy at once. But, since it is a fairly definite rule that the boy write first, I think you would be wise to wait for his letter, just as, if he lived in your city, you would (or should) wait for him to invite you to have a date with him.

Mother's Helper

MOST ATTRACTIVE three-dimensional pictures can be made with shells your child collects. Paint a piece of the wood, let it dry thoroughly. Arrange the shells on the wood in a pattern, paste them in place. (Choose the color of the painted background to harmonize with the room where the picture is to be hung.) A frame is nice, but unnecessary.

Hamilton Bay Goes International

by Mary Moore

A rosy sunset, heat lightning, was last night!) In the velvety the glow from Stelco slag and Dofasco's chimneys, the arching necklace of the new Skyway, European ships at anchor, smooth water below and good company — all this from the Commissioner's yacht in Hamilton's natural harbour.

It was a thrilling experience for aboard, to add to the spectacle were Carolyn and Llyn Stephens just returned from their posting in the Canadian Embassy at Bonn, to take up their new one in Ottawa.

Many of you will remember that Marianne and I visited Carolyn and Llyn in Bad Godesberg last January and we were over so happy to meet again on our native soil.

Marion and John Farman are Carolyn's sister and brother-in-law and they were the hosts on this unique cruise — to show them how Hamilton harbour had taken on an international air.

Incidentally one of Llyn's last jobs before leaving Bonn was to clear the way for the German ships that are at anchor off the breakwater at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Marion, the ever-thoughtful hostess, provided the just right refreshments on the return run. By this time a welcome chill had come into the breeze and we put on sweaters and stoles. (All but Barbara Robinson, who said — "I love being goose pimply. Tomorrow when it's gone I want to remember how cold I was.")

Self Service Market Has Great Effect on Packaging

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Change and variety is a new way of marketing and should be applied to the dairy industry, Richard Loftus, general manager of sales and advertising for H. J. Heinz Company, said Tuesday.

He told the annual meeting of the National Dairy Council of Canada that "packing has succumbed to the new selling techniques. The self service market has had a greater effect on packaging than anything else has in 20 years."

He urged the dairy industry to adopt colorful containers and labels with impulse appeal. He told the 400 persons attending the meeting, which ends today, that "the customer is pre-sold on certain products by advertising before she gets to the self-service store."

CHALLENGING PROBLEM

Self service is the most challenging merchandising problem of the day, Mr. Loftus added.

"Do you know the answers to what will make a customer pick your package instead of someone else's?"

"We have seen the development of powdered milk for household use," he said. "With technological advances it may be that we will see in the near future a complete swing to instant milk. Parts of Canada have for some time been buying their milk in powdered form."

The city consumer, who has accepted many of these processed food changes, may be quite happy to eliminate the bulky bottles of milk from the refrigerator, Mr. Loftus added.

HEADS COUNCIL

Earlier, E. A. Lewis, general manager of Palm Dairies Limited in Calgary, was re-elected president of the national dairy council.

Provincial directors elected included R. Gildner, New Dundee, Ont.; J. M. Hartwick, Wellington, Ont.; J. R. Weir, Peterborough.

Miss I. Atkinson, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, told a panel discussion that many housewives would like to buy more milk for their families but are restricted by the budget.

Other members of the panel were F. L. Hart, president of Dominion Dairies of Montreal Limited; John T. Monkhouse of Wilsonpier, vice-president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada; and P. J. Harrison, Calgary, Moderator for J. M. Hartwick of Quinte Milk Products Limited, Wellington.

CITES RESTRICTIONS

Mr. Hart suggested that some of the problems facing the dairy industry result from restrictive regulations imposed by provincial milk control boards or commissions which hamper free enterprise.

In some provinces boards restrict dairies from selling two or three quarts of milk in one container at a price lower than what individual quarts cost, Mr. Hart added.

Cottage cheese is a popular product, Mr. Harrison said, and suggested that processors put a greater effort into perfecting the food.

High Interest Rates Said Bad Business

LONDON (Reuters) — The Financial Times declares that the current "violently exaggerated" interest rate movements in the United States and Canada are bad business both for North America and the rest of the world.

The rate movements, said the influential weekly, were unjustified and "must represent a threat to the continued prosperity" of the U.S. and Canada.

"The rest of the world cannot fail to feel anxiety lest it should be involved in what is surely an unnecessary crisis."

The editorial asserts interest rate movements have affected stock market confidence and "may well work through to business confidence and to business activity."

Science Helps to Make Modern Foods Better

One of the men who contributes most to making our food supply more abundant and more nutritious is the modern scientist.

As a result of his work in the laboratory, the output of our farms has been increased. During the past 20 years, for example, production of milk per cow has been increased 37 per cent. Hens are laying twice as many eggs and the yield of potatoes per acre has increased 156 per cent.

As a result of the scientists' efforts, many of our basic foods have been enriched and fortified. Thiamin, niacin, riboflavin and iron have been added to bread, for example, to make it more nutritious.

OTHER EXAMPLES

Other examples of fortified foods are the vitamin-D added to milk; iodine to salt; and calcium, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin added to cereal products.

Research is constantly being carried on to determine the cheapest sources of protein, calcium and thiamin, all of which are essential to our diets.

Science has touched on the processing of foods, as the scientist studies the various methods of conserving food nutrients during the growing, storing and processing of various products.

Thanks to science there are more convenience foods available — those that are frozen, canned and dehydrated, the baking mixes, plus the many others which cut down on kitchen time.

WELCOMED BY WOMEN

Housewives welcome these products because in addition to saving time and money, they give her a chance to serve better-balanced meals.

Also because of the uniformity of processing, she knows in advance that when a can or package of food is opened it will yield a certain number of servings and that its contents will be fresh and appetizing with no guesswork involved.

From a nutritional standpoint, modern processed foods are usually at least equal to, and often superior to foods straight in raw form. And many foods are additionally fortified with vitamins and minerals.

TEST FOR QUALITY

Most food manufacturers now maintain laboratories where all their products are tested for quality and other factors such as color consistency and flavor. In addition, much time is devoted to developing new and tempting products for our dinner tables.

Use Television For Teaching In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Television is bringing the school rooms to thousands of Newfoundland youngsters while the province's schools are closed because of the polio epidemic.

"It's a bold experiment," said Education Minister Dr. G. A. Frecker.

But initial results have been satisfactory—for some teachers as well as the students.

The polio epidemic has closed schools until Sept. 30, maybe longer. At the start, school subjects for grades one to 11 were arranged in 10 programs for a two-week period starting Sept. 1. The program has since been stepped up to 4½ hours a day.

It was not known how many homes in the province have television sets. Stations CJON and CJOX volunteered to carry school programs each day free of charge until school reopens.

The education department programs teach subjects such as English literature and composition, spelling, geography, science, French, civics and history.

The program is helping less-qualified teachers. Dr. Frecker said only about 23 per cent of Newfoundland's 3,700 teachers have minimum qualifications. By watching high-calibre teachers on TV, they learn valuable techniques.

"But, probably the overriding value is that department officials are getting an opportunity, at no cost to the department, to gain valuable experience in television education for possible future use."

Newfoundland's polio count rose to 86 Tuesday. The two latest cases were mild.

Since the outbreak in early July, six children have died from the disease.

Mine-Mill Convention Will Vote Today on Question of Affiliation With Congress

By DON HUNTLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — A tight, and telling vote by delegates to the annual convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelters Workers (Ind.) is expected today on the question of affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

The vote will determine two things—whether Mine-Mill's request for CLC membership will be allowed to stand, and what support Local 598 from Sudbury can expect from the other 24 locals and auxiliaries represented at the convention.

Local 598, pledged to work for affiliation with the CLC, came out strongly Wednesday against a resolution from Local 480 in Trail, B.C., protesting the Mine-Mill's application to join the CLC be withdrawn.

Mine-Mill's national executive has appeared pro-affiliation but the Trail local's most prominent graduate is Harvey Murphy, one of Mine-Mill's two vice-presidents.

ONLY 32 P.C. VOTED

In a referendum July 16, Mine-Mill's membership voted six to one in favor of applying for affiliation with the CLC. Only 32 per cent of the 34,000 members cast ballots.

Al King, president of the Trail local, said the "most outstanding thing" about the referendum "was the indifference to the question."

A strong opponent of affiliation, he told the convention Wednesday that joining the congress won't work a magic wand over Mine-Mill and give us things we haven't had before.

Mr. King said the CLC has "treated pretty lightly" Mine-Mill's application to join it.

Although the resolutions committee recommended non-concurrence in the Trail resolution for withdrawal of the affiliation proposal, Mr. King and his supporters managed to have the resolution thrown back to the committee.

It was ordered to express Mine-Mill's "indignation" at the way the CLC had handled the union's application for membership. As a result a protest telegram was sent to the CLC.

CLC TAKING GOOD LOOK

CLC Claude Jodoin announced earlier there would be no decision on Mine-Mill membership until CLC officers had studied the path taken by the convention.

Delegates argued the affiliation question for two hours on Wednesday afternoon without calling for a vote, causing Local 238 President Don Gillis to charge the convention with stalling.

"I wasn't given permission to use the microphone before we adjourned but I would say at this time that we are stalling," he yelled as the convention adjourned for the day.

Fast-Dwindling Steel Supplies Bring Layoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — The fast-dwindling supplies of steel in the United States have created an emergency situation, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly, in commenting on effects on the 70-day steel strike.

Parts manufacturers and other big users still have enough steel to keep producing for a few weeks, but even if the strike were settled right away they'd have to curtail production, Iron Age declares, noting that the supply emergency is reflected right now in layoffs in the auto industry and skyrocketing prices of foreign steel.

With steel stocks shrinking, the Journal predicts, it becomes more likely that President Eisenhower will invoke the 80-day "cooling off" provision of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and send the strikers back to work.

China Requests India Stop Lama's Activity

PEKING (Reuters)—Red China today for the first time publicly asked India to stop "anti-Chinese activities" involving the Dalai Lama, exiled ruler of Tibet.

The Communist party newspaper People's Daily, referring to the proposal by India's Prime Minister Nehru to settle the Chinese-Indian border dispute by peaceful negotiations, says the Chinese would like to see the Indian authorities live up to their words.

"We are even more justified in demanding that India put an end at once to the anti-China campaign, including anti-Chinese activities by some people using the Dalai Lama and the Tibetan rebellion as a cover, withdraw promptly from all places within Chinese territory which it has invaded and occupied, and begin friendly negotiations with China for a peaceful settlement of the boundary question."

Canned Foods Serve Basic Human Needs

There is hardly a housewife in this land who does not regularly turn to canned goods for quick, convenient and nutritious help in preparing meals for the family, day in and day out.

Equally significant, perhaps, is the fact that that same alert, hospitable, always prepared woman has come to depend on her well stocked pantry shelves for prompt solution of almost any emergency meal-time problem.

Are unexpected guests approaching? Must a party tonight be added to what has already been prepared for the family? Do the kids beg for a picnic, all of a sudden? Is a quick change in the menu for dinner required because dad comes home feeling ill?

VARIETY IN CANS

The more than 500 different foods and combinations of foods now being made available to her by the canning industry, provide a selection for the pantry that can cope with any situation. For delicacies, as well as basics, and dietetic foods, and a wonderful assortment of soups are now available for stocking up against any need.

Even dad's sporting instincts get a helping hand here, especially if he is a man who loves field and stream. Canned foods have become the "musts" among his camping and boating supplies, with their ability to provide easily preserved, nutritious elements for better balanced meals he will cook for himself in the woods.

Canning, is a method of preserving foods by good cooking done in airtight containers. Actually, the process is said to have gotten started during the time of Napoleon whose armies were desperately in need of preserved food.

Tremendous progress made process, to the point where even the most delicate baby foods now come in cans. And on the grimmer side, in a world gravely concerned about international tensions, canned foods are recommended as best for stocking up shelters against atomic attacks, should those frightening things ever come.

Canned foods as processed by the modern industry are packed actually in steel, rather than in tin. Sheets of steel are coated with a layer of tin, thinner than a human hair, to make the container which is coated inside, not with lacquer, but with an organic substance. The quantity of steel used for canning is exceeded now only by the amount of steel used in the automobile and building industries.

Canned foods now have practically the same appearance, texture and taste as foods cooked in the family kitchen. Because they are packed at peak maturity they are rich in nutrients. Some plant and animal tissues are actually easier to digest after canning.

OLD AND NEW — R. S. McLaughlin, chairman of General Motors of Canada and pioneer of the Canadian automobile industry, spans one generation of car manufacturing in Canada. One hand rests on a 1921 McLaughlin (left)—the vehicle he first started to produce in 1907. It was fitted with a Buick engine. The other hand lies on the fender of a 1959 Buick. Mr. McLaughlin, 88, turned his father's Oshawa, Ont., carriage business into a thriving automobile, manufacturing concern which General Motors later built fit its big Oshawa operations. The 1921 car in the photo, which has only about 38,000 miles on its speedometer is owned by Wilbur Miller, a General Motors inspector. (CP Photo)

Must Work, Play Like People Says McLaughlin, Pioneer Of Canadian Car Industry

By FORBES RHODE
Canadian Press Business Editor

You have to work. You have to play. You have to like people.

This is the recipe for a successful, well-rounded life outlined by Robert Samuel McLaughlin, pioneer of the Canadian automobile industry, who recently celebrated his 88th birthday.

Mr. McLaughlin probably thinks a dash of good fortune is also helpful, for he will some times say:

"I have been a lucky guy."

ENERGETIC MAN

And, if the good fairies of his ancestral County Tyrone in Ireland presided at his birth in Enniskillen, Ont., they must have been generous with another ingredient—energy.

Energy as a boy sent him peddling hundreds of miles around the countryside on high-wheeled bicycles, as a youthful business executive helped him turn the primitively carriage business to automobiles and even today leads him to fill up his engagement book as much as three weeks in advance.

Today, as for many years, he is chairman of General Motors of Canada, a director on several other large Canadian corporations and a vice-president and director of the United States corporation of the United States.

He is at his office in Oshawa, Ont.—every working day, unless he is attending a directors' meeting of one company or another, or one part of his play life — is fishing or hunting.

He says he will hold office "only as long as I can be of value to the company."

MAN OF IDEAS

On this score, E. R. Walker, president of General Motors of Canada since 1957, said recently:

"If I hadn't had the chance to work beside him here in Oshawa I would have missed a great deal. He gets into so many things, comes up with so many ideas and provides the spark to carry them out."

"Great early names of the North American automobile industry come alive from Mr. McLaughlin's lips—William C. Durant, Charles Kettering, R. E. Olds, Walter Chrysler, Charles Nash and many others.

He combines the old with the new. He tells the story of the birth of the first McLaughlin automobile, but casts a more lively eye toward the plant which produces all Motors built recently at Oshawa for production of its new Corvair.

At his home you may glimpse a business piece in his hearth as he calls out, "Come and see my sweetheart" and shows you a painting of his wife who died in 1958.

"We were married 60 years, less two weeks," he says quietly.

THRIFT CARRIAGE FIRM

Mr. McLaughlin's father, Robert McLaughlin, was a farmer with a love for working with wood, who first made axe handles as a sideline. He then tried his hand at home-made sleighs and ultimately built the McLaughlin Carriage Company, whence sales of horse-drawn vehicles reached more than $1,000,000 a year in the early 1900s.

Mr. McLaughlin was born into this creative, pioneer atmosphere in 1871. He graduated from high school at 15, apprenticed in his father and qualified as an upholsterer. At 21, with his brother George, he was made a partner in the carriage business.

For many years he designed all McLaughlin vehicles—from buckboards to expensive carriages.

Mr. McLaughlin became interested in automobiles at the start of the century when the family line began to diminish and he decided to switch to the automobile field. Finally, with the reluctant consent of his father, the McLaughlin Motor Car Company was formed. It produced its first car in 1907, using engines of the Buick company of the United States.

Later the McLaughlins added Chevrolet to their line and this led to their abandoning the carriage business.

The automobile business was successful but, with the favorable Buick contract approaching expiration, Mr. McLaughlin saw difficulties ahead. He later wrote:

"Hundreds of newly - formed car companies in the United States were failing. Could we be inside of the cup and I know what it meant."

GENERAL MOTORS' OFFER

Accordingly, the McLaughlins accepted an offer from General Motors—but the American company—which had made Mr. McLaughlin a director in 1910—stipulated that he should stay on as president and his brother George as vice-president. He remained president until after the Second World War.

Mr. McLaughlin uses the term "lucky guy" when he tells about his start in the automobile business.

He had intended to make a complete car, including engines, and was about to go into production when his chief engineer brought him the wired William C. Durant, then head of the Buick company, asking if he would see him on engineer.

Instead, Durant came to Oshawa himself and made the arrangement to supply Buick engines.

"This was a lucky thing," Mr. McLaughlin says, "because the failure of other ventures showed it was impossible to make the large capital outlay which was required by the Canadian market at a reasonable price. And we were fortunate to associate ourselves with such a winner as Buick."

NO GLUE ON PANTS'

Of his long working life, Mr. McLaughlin says:

"I worked hard, but I didn't have glue on my pants. I got away from my own desk and visited other manufacturers and kept my mind open in the world. And, despite my long hours, I always took holidays."

Expressing some more of his business philosophy, he says:

"Any man who can run one business can run another. If he insists on a proper system — including a proper system of cost accounting and financing—I don't think there is any question that any good man can run most any business."

Beaverbrook Gallery Opened At Fredericton

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Lord Beaverbrook Art Gallery, gift of the British financier, publisher and philanthropist to his boyhood province of New Brunswick, was officially opened Wednesday.

The gallery is considered one of the finest in Canada.

An estimated 2,000 people witnessed the ceremony of which Lord Beaverbrook was chairman.

Publisher Roy Thomson one of the many distinguished guests, said a man of Lord Beaverbrook's stature and imagination would have provided a momentous and lasting gift.

Max Aitken, who controls one of the largest newspaper chains in the Commonwealth, said it is "tremendously fortunate that the New Brunswick has a son like Lord Beaverbrook."

Lord Beaverbrook's first gift was himself and made the arrangement to supply Buick engines.

"This was a lucky thing," Mr. McLaughlin says, "because the failure of other ventures showed it was impossible to make the large capital outlay which was required by the Canadian market at a reasonable price. And we were fortunate to associate ourselves with such a winner as Buick."

Food Becomes Live Political Issue in India With Reds Taking Stand in Calcutta

BOMBAY (CP)—Food has become a live political issue in India for the second time in five years.

The ruling Congress party and the Nehru administration are busy drawing up plans to meet the challenge of Communist-inspired "anti-famine" agitations.

Thousands of railway cars now are moving wheat and rice into scarcity areas like West Bengal and Bihar. Movement of food grains has been given "top priority" and there are reports from these regions is normal and meanwhile that India that prices are showing a downward trend.

India's Communist party has made Calcutta, the country's metropolis with 4,000,000 people, the focal point of their anti-government campaign.

For about seven days demonstrators virtually paralyzed life in the city. More than 7,000 persons were jailed. Twenty-two died in police firings. Scores of police men were sent to hospital following hand-to-hand fighting in narrow streets.

West Bengal state's Chief Minister Dr. Bidhan Chandra Roy, has promised "effective surgical treatment" to cure Calcutta's chronic political ills. Dr. Roy, who was the late Mahatma Gandhi's personal physician and whom the Communists have repeatedly described as their "arch foe," believes the Reds are using the food situation as a "cover for political stunt against the Congress party."

Dr. Roy does not deny, however, that swift government steps are necessary to bring down food prices.

Communist parties in a number of states also are launching "anti - price - increase" agitations. The situation in Bihar, President Dr. Rajendra Prasad's home state, is said to be causing the state's government some concern. Only Bombay and Kerala states also are having a difficult food situation.

Congress party supporters allege that the Communists have concentrated their efforts on the food issue only as a retaliatory action against the dismissal of the Communist government of Kerala state.

While strongly denouncing the Communists for making political capital out of the food shortages, spokesmen of the Congress party have been equally critical of the Nehru administration's handling of the situation.

Feroz Jehangir Jain, the food minister, has had to resign in the wake of parliamentary criticism of his policies. Members of Parliament have been especially critical of the fact that shortages have developed though food production in 1958-59 reached the all-time high of 77,000,000 tons, a 10-per-cent increase over the previous year.

Congress party MPs have also called the government's food distribution "chaotic."

Replacing his predecessor, Jain country faced a "grave" food situation. He said that his policy of increasing the grain trade failed because there was no efficient machinery or organization to enforce state trading.

India's new food minister is Gulzari Lal Kanoji Patil, 59, a go-getter who brings to his portfolio a flair for planning for food self-sufficiency by 1967. Meanwhile, he is planning for food self-sufficiency by 1967. Meanwhile, he is planning for food self-sufficiency by 1967. Meanwhile, he is

Where Shopping Starts

The overwhelming number of Canadian housewives start planning menus for meals they will serve their families, from the pages of their favorite newspapers. The reasons, verified by studies made in many different parts of the country, are not hard to understand.

To plan better meals for her family the housewife needs information on what foods are available immediately and most conveniently.

To do an efficient job of shopping and to make sure she is getting the best values for her money, she must be informed as to what stores are offering what, and at what prices.

This is the information she looks forward to in every issue of the newspaper.

As an example of surveys verifying this practise is one large city that 93.3 percent of the housewives interviewed said that newspapers helped them most in their grocery shopping.

Newspapers have added to services rendered homemakers in preparing better meals for their families by presenting recipes, menus and household hints. Another study shows that up to 85 per cent of the women generally clip recipes from the food pages.

It is in this spirit that this special section, devoted to the Better Meals Build Better Families Program, is dedicated to housewives.

Cereals Tops At Breakfast

The processing of breakfast cereals is a bigger enterprise in Canada and the United States than in any other country. They are manufactured and exported throughout the world.

The result of scientific and processing research, they have created new uses for farm products.

Surveys reveal that breakfast cereals are found in over 98 per cent of homes. On the average morning about two-thirds of the children and one-third of the adults eat cereals for breakfast.

About 90 per cent of cereals are consumed at the morning meal while the balance is used for snacks or ingredient use. The late evening cereal and milk snack is popular with all ages.

Cereal manufacturers rigidly control the high quality and freshness of their products beginning with the selection and purchase of grains through the steps of processing and the final distribution channels.

All hot and ready-to-eat cereals are sealed in modern packages to insure fresh flavor and wholesomeness.

Cereals are an excellent carrier of milk in the daily diet. More milk is used on cereals than on any other food. This accounts for about 15 per cent of the fluid milk per capita consumption.

Cereal-and-milk serving is a good source of many nutrients. It furnishes, for most persons, approximately ten per cent of the daily needs of protein, important B vitamins and essential minerals. It provides quick and lasting energy and is moderately low in fat.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

HOUSTON AP) — Socialized medicine in Britain is "here to stay" because it's giving Britons the best medical care in their history, a visiting British cancer specialist says. Dr. C. EDMONTON (CP)—The martial cap twists and twirls of Prairie baseball tournaments make exciting memories for Western diamond enthusiasts.

"They were terrific spectacles," says John Ducey, general manager of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Canada Baseball League.

Ducey began his baseball career as a battboy in the tournaments of the early 1930s. He later umpired the gatherings.

"They played on a racetrack infield in 1932 at Saskatoon," he recalls Ducey. "In 1936, they had 16 teams in the Lloydminster, Sask., tournament—all sleeping in cots at the school."

NO RESTRICTIONS

Every Prairie hamlet sponsored a tournament, with the local nine issuing and answering all challenges between the time the grain began to sprout and harvest time. Touring United States teams added a professional touch when they entered a tournament.

A typical slugfest was the Indian Head, Sask., Invitational of 1947. Twenty-three teams were entered—20 from Saskatchewan —and dust flew from their baseball records at once during the eliminations.

More than 12,000 jammed Indian Head, whose population normally was 1,400, to see Delisle (Sask.) Geers win $2,000 top money. The Delisle nine included National Hockey League stars Max and Doug Bentley.

Ducey names a strapping youth from Grande Prairie, Alta., as the best tournament player he ever saw.

The youth was Tiny Turner, a stalwart three righthander who was named "King of the Bushers" in an Edmonton tournament in 1932. Scout Eddie Herr of Detroit Tigers signed Turner, who was farmed to the East Texas League for polish.

"Turner had a 25-8 record there in 1933 and was headed for the major leagues—but he died of yellow fever before the next season."

In a brighter tale, Rollie Miles ranks as the best tournament ball player to make the jump to professional football.

Miles was a 21-year-old American hobstering Regina Caps at second base when Caps visited Edmonton for an 1931 game, which was washed out. Manager Cliff Early—mourning the bad luck—mentioned that Miles was a fair football player.

The youth reached the training camp of Edmonton's football Eskimos and coach Annis Stukus gave Miles a tryout. The fleet halfback became known as the Bargain Basement Beauty of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Tournaments are still played with the old fervor in Alberta and Western Manitoba, though the great Saskatchewan tournaments are becoming legend.

The Brandon Jovertleafs, Central Manitoba champions during 1954, have become so powerful that several towns have barred them from their local tournaments. Another homebrew Manitoba team, the Riverside nine, won $20,000 in 13 years of touring the tournament circuits.

The largest money tournament is the playoff at Lethbridge, Alta., where $4,250 was distributed among eight teams this year. Four southern Alberta towns usually participate with four teams invited from the U.S. Kansas City Monarchs won the $1,500 top money this summer.

Former Football Star Makes Excellent Presiding Judge

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—A nine - year veteran of the U. S. National Football League is back with his feet but has a trouble - shooter for the harness-racing game.

Allison Alphonso Orillo, 45, of Edison, N. J., admits it took "some convincing" before he accepted the job as presiding judge at nearby Sackville Downs. A few probably felt he'd never been convinced.

Since taking office in June Orillo has handed out 30 suspensions, ranging from three days to 25, and other drivers have been fined for various offences.

"I didn't have to crack down on anything really wrong or crooked," the former New York Giant and Cleveland Brown first-string tackle explained. "It's just been a part of education, trying to eliminate unthinking and dangerous habits. Minor rule breaches could have a habit of building up into something big."

Drivers, horse owners and the crew - going public acknowledge that Grillo and his "bible"—the rule book of the U.S. Trotting Association—makes a healthy tonic.

Fans generally seem to agree their wagers are getting the best possible protection. Drivers feel more secure on a safer track.

Orillo and owners acclaim the greater safety factor for their entries.

Track officials report this year's attendance up 18 per cent and pari-mutuel handles running four per cent ahead of 1958. Sackville Downs had a total handle of $1,600,000 last year and hopes to top $2,000,000 by Oct. 7.

The well-spoken presiding judge says tracks generally can learn a lot from the Sackville operation.

"They have a good plant and are always improving. Drivers and horsemen are co - operating and above all they have good promotion."

Maritime tracks can never hope to compete with their United States counterparts. "The money just isn't here."

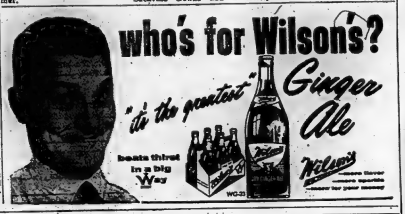
But with "education and promotion" much more can be realized than is at present available.

Grillo got his love of the game through boyhood association.

"The track at home was practically in the back yard. I was always with it."

He owned and trained horses both before and after the Second World War. In 1946 he was appointed presiding judge at Freehold, N.J. His football was sandwiched between. He was with the Giants in 1935 and 1936 and then became one of the pioneers with the Browns, interrupted by wartime years in the industrial relations departments of General Motors Corporation and Boeing Aircraft Company.

There are no gridiron carryovers to the affable Grillo's new position here.



"I'm not tough at all," he says. "I'm too old to fight and too fat to run." He tips the scales at 300 pounds.

Habs' Rookies Outscore Vets

MONTREAL (CP)—The eager young rookies in Montreal Canadiens' training camp outscored the veterans 21-13 in practice games Wednesday.

It's perfectly normal, at this stage of the season, for the youngsters to be outplaying the veterans, coach Toe Blake said.

They generally are in better condition and in any case they're working harder to show that they belong in the National Hockey League.

One oldtimer did all right for himself—Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who fired two goals in four short practice scrimmages.

One was against Canadiens' regular goaltender Jacques Plante and the other against second-string Charlie Hodge.

Rookie Lou Hoekstra collected three goals.

FIVE REARGUARDS ONLY

Blake said that barring accidents, he will go along this year with only five defencemen.

It's a good guess the five will be Doug Harvey, Tom Johnson, Bob Turner, Jean-Guy Talbot and Albert (Junior) Langlois.

Among the likely forward prospects so far at the camp are three who played last season with Rochester of the American Hockey League. They are Billy Hicke, Billy Carter and Cec Hoekstra.

Rookie Stars With Leafs

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Rookie right winger Pat Hannigan of Schumacher, scored three goals here Wednesday during an inter - team game at Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp.

Hannigan, who spent last season with New Westminster, B.C., of the Western Hockey League and Rochester American of the American Hockey League, led King Clancy's National Hockey League Leafs to a 6-4 victory over Punch Riley's Rochester team.

Larry Regan, Noel Price and Bert Olmstead scored the other goals for Leafs. Frank Mahovlich set two assists and Ron Stewart one.

Jacques Caron, former Peterborough junior, and veteran Johnny Bower shared the goaltending chores for the winners.

Bob Saunders, up from Kitchener's Ontario Hockey Association seniors, has been sidelined by a groin injury. Goalie Gerry McNamara is out of action with a bone bruise.

Six Leafs who did not see action against New York Rangers Tuesday will play here Friday against Chicago Black Hawks.

They are Caron, veteran netminder Bonny Bower, Olmstead, Stewart, Hannigan and Dick Mattiussi.

"I don't know which players I'll drop for this game," said coach Punch Imlach Wednesday, "but I want to take a good look at Hannigan and Mattiussi. I'll use Caron, Bower and Ed Chadwick a period each."

Dutchies Play Exhibition Tilts

KITCHENER (CP) — The Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen hockey club announced Wednesday it will play exhibition games against two American Hockey League clubs early next month.

The Dutchies, who play in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, will meet Buffalo Bisons Oct. 3 and Rochester Americans Oct. 6. Both exhibition contests will be played in Elmira Arena, where the K-W club opens training camp Sept. 28.

The Dutchies also announced exhibition games against Whitby Dunlops, another OHA senior club, Oct. 10 in Elmira, and Clinton Comets, Eastern U.S. Hockey League champions, Oct. 17 in Kitchener.

BRITISH EDUCATION

Slate secondary schools were established in Wales in 1889, in Scotland in 1892 and in England in 1902.

Larry Cahan Was 'Cahanned Fined, Flatted'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Larry Cahan was late for the opening of Vancouver Canuck's Western Hockey League training camp this week. He had some good reasons.

He was driving from Toronto through the United States when the tie rod in his car broke at Superior, Wis.

In an attempt to make up time, he passed a motorcycle policeman while doing 93 miles an hour. He was brought to a halt by a roadblock consisting of five police cars and six constables armed with shotguns and drawn pistols.

He was put in jail and fined $100. That was $15 more than he had in his pocket so he had to stay in jail until Canuck's coach Art Chapman wired him money.

On the road again he had three flat tires.

Western Senior Salaries Set At $300 Month

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Amateur hockey promoters, still reeling red from dwindling financial returns of the last few years, are stirring the embers of interest in the British Columbia interior these days. They hope their ires days are over.

The 1959-60 season of the Okanagan Senior and Western International hockey leagues — only two senior A circuits west of the Lakehead—open in mid-October.

League officers say there is reason to hope for improvement over last year's money - losing season.

OSHL clubs have reduced to 12 from 14 the number of players who may be dressed by each team, reduced the schedule to 48 from 54 games, and set a maximum salary figure of $300 a month, with a $500 fine for clubs which exceed this figure.

OSHL clubs have cut ticket prices and a season ticket covers away games as well as home games.

Glimmicks to add interest to games vary from auctions to painting the names of season ticket-holders on their seats and admitting children under 12 free if their parents have season tickets.

Godfrey Back in Television After Long Bout With Cancer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey, with a troupe which included a herd of cattle, a small elephant and a line of hula dancers, popped back on the television screens Wednesday night after a long and worrisome absence. He looked well, even a bit plump, after his battle against lung cancer.

Godfrey had a fine time exploiting the potential of taped recording on this CBS special show. He had the audience merrily from New York to his Leesburg, Va., farm to Hawaii and then around the route again. There was lots of music, dancing and singing at all stops.

All three major networks are doing a fine job of keeping Americans informed on the adventures of Nikita Khrushchev and party. Which channel one chooses to watch depends largely on the viewer's sense of time and his choice of analyst.

CBS is shepherding a group of 51 women through its production centres in New York and Hollywood, and picking up some firsthand opinions from feminine viewers on the current state of TV. The women are contest winners and each is filing daily reports to sponsoring newspapers back home.

The travelling ladies are absorbing large, daily doses of CBS program propaganda from the network's stars and brass. But the women have been propaganda-proof lately. They don't like the runs; they feel strongly about the amount of violence in the weather reports; and private - eye dramas; they'd like some good after - school shows for teenagers; they hope for more entertaining and informative adult programs.

They also—to CBS' embarrassment — polled themselves and found that to a woman they deplore the cancellation of the network's Sam Levenson Show this week in favor of reruns of December Bride. And they find it one of the few bright, literate spots in daytime television. They wanted to meet Sam in New York and tell him so. One way and another, the break kept Sam out of their path, although plenty of time was found for chats with others whose programs are permitted to continue.

Recommended tonight: Playhouse 90, The Days of Wine and Roses, CBS, 9:30-11 p.m. EDT—a rebroadcast of a powerful study of an alcoholic couple.

Win-Or Else

Only Flag-Winning Miracle Can Save Joe Gordon's Job

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Gordon's tenure as manager of Cleveland Indians appeared shaky today.

Cleveland general manager Frank Lane made it clear to a reporter here Wednesday night that Gordon needs a miracle to stay on. The miracle would be the Indians winning the pennant. They're second, five games behind Chicago White Sox.

Lane said he would name his 1960 manager before the end of the week, and there are several men he'd prefer over Gordon — provided they're available.

A verbal skirmish over a batting situation in Tuesday's 1-0 Cleveland loss to Boston brought a new low point in relations between Lane and Gordon. The two criticized each other through newspaper headlines here and in Boston.

With the two teams involved in a scoreless tie, Cleveland got men on first and second with none out in the eighth inning. Chuck Tanner, the Indians' next batter, bit into a double play. Boston got out of it and went on to win the game in the ninth.

"It was obvious a bunt was called for," Lane said Wednesday. "It looked like percentage to bunt."

Gordon took exception.

"I don't think any general manager should second guess a manager in public," he said. "He has the right to do that in private, but not in public. I've told him (Lane) that before.

"Lane says he should have played the percentages. Who knows what the percentages are? We were in the same situation last year when we clinched fourth place from Detroit—two runs on and none out. (Vic) Power hit away and doubled," Gordon said.

"Second guess hell," Lane snorted. "I'm supposed to be in charge of this ball club. If I don't have the right to express an opinion, I'd like to know who does."

Would Clean British Rugby

LONDON (AP) — Rugby Union chiefs in Britain and Commonwealth countries were called on Wednesday to purge the game of cheating and rough stuff.

The International Rugby Football Board wrote to the four British unions announcing amendments to the rules and urging referees to get tough with players who use shady tactics.

The board—comprising representatives from England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Australia and New Zealand—evidently was concerned about boisterous play and injuries in international games recently.

Bill Dineen Catches Eye Of Hawk Coach

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Bill Dineen, who spent last season with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, drew rave reviews from Chicago Black Hawk coach Rudy Pilous as the National Hockey League team completed its fourth day of training Wednesday.

"I haven't seen Dineen skating as well since he was with the Detroit Wings," said Pilous. "If he keeps going like he is now he'll be hard to keep off our team."

Rookie Stan Mikita centred a line with Dineen and Lorne Ferguson and there is a possibility that this combination may be left intact for at least one of the two weekend games the Hawks have scheduled with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mikita was making his first start with a squad, moving up with defencemen Rino Bordame and Wayne Hillman from the so-called "Buffalo shift."

Glen Skov, Ken Wharram and Fred Balfour were seen in the second shift as replacements but both Pilous and manager Tommy Ivan commented that all moves were strictly temporary.

Hawks will take 20 players for the game with the Leafs. The only definite forward combination will be Dineen, Ted Hampson, Ted Lindsay - Ed Litzenberger unit.

Glenn Hall will be one of the netminders. Either Claud Pronovost or Roy Edwards will work half the game with Hall.

Habs' Brass Likes Juniors From Manitoba

MONTREAL (CP) — Four youngsters from Manitoba junior hockey have been signed to contracts of upper brass at Montreal Canadiens' training camp.

The four won't necessarily make the powerful National Hockey League club but nobody is writing off their future chances.

The four are Cliff Pennington, centre from Flin Flon Bombers; Wayne Larkin, left winger from Winnipeg Braves; Ed Green, defenceman from St. Boniface, and Larry Bergman, Kenora boy who played defence with the Braves.

"That's the best crop of rookies I've seen from Manitoba in five years," said Canadiens vice-president Ken Reardon after watching Wednesday's workouts.

"The only good boys we've had from there more or less recently are the McDonald and Cec Hoekstra."

If any of the four play minor hockey they will be the property of Winnipeg Warriors of the WHL. If they move up to the NHL they become Canadiens' property.

Rossano Brazzi, John Kerr, France Nuyen and Ray Walston, in Color, CinemaScope and the wonder of Stereophonic Sound, "South Pacific", is playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre.

Deaths of Morris, Douglas Point to Health Lesson

By JAMES HAGEN

HOLLYWOOD AP) — Wayne Morris six months ago ignored a doctor's warning to shed 40 pounds or risk a heart attack.

"I'll drop dead, I drop dead."

A close friend of the actor disclosed the heretofore unknown medical warning. Morris, who died Monday of a heart attack, had no publicity known history of heart disease.

"The doctor told Wayne that he would have to cut down on eating and drinking and do more exercise, else he could expect a heart attack," the friend said. "Wayne ignored the advice completely and told no one but me. Not even his wife knew of it. He kept up his old way of life and made a soothsayer of the doctor".

Morris' death Monday and that of Paul Douglas last Friday point up an important health lesson. The lives and deaths of the two men were astonishingly similar.

BOTH FORMER ATHLETES

In youth, both were physically vigorous athletes. Morris was a star fullback with Los Angeles City College. Douglas once was a pro football player.

After the war, Morris went into a career slump and spent much of his time on an avocado ranch. "But Wayne's idea of ranching," the friend said, "was to sit on the front porch and watch the laborers pick the avocados."

As his weight increased, the demand for him as a romantic leading man decreased.

Douglas became a Broadway star overnight as the paunchy junk tycoon of Born Yesterday. Because he never was the Adonis type, weight didn't hurt his career.

But he constantly fought a losing battle on the waistline bulge. Both he and Morris lived with little, if any, exercise.

A heart specialist told me two weeks ago that the prime rule of health is to keep weight down, exercise a little each day and live — and this moderately.

The sudden deaths of the two actors on the heels of this advice accent the rule of health.

Douglas was 52, which his doctor called the danger age for heart attacks. A six - footer, he weighed 200 pounds. Morris was six-foot-two and weighed 220. He was 45.

TV Fight Director Says Boxer Did Appear Without Trunks

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The legend persists about the boxer who bounded into the ring, doffed his robe and discovered—along with thousands of others—that he had forgotten his trunks.

Did it ever really happen?

Indeed it did. And before an audience of millions, not thousands.

But let Jack Dillon, director of NBC's Friday Night Fights tell the story, even if a bit reluctantly.

"I'm not saying where and I'm not saying when, except it was in the early days of TV," began Dillon, the memory of the incident still etched in pain on his usually smiling Irish face. "I'm not even saying who the boxer was, but it happened.

"He stepped out of his robe and clasped his gloves over his head in a little victory wave of greeting. The house was in pandemonium, and the guy beaming all over the place at such an unexpected reception. There was pandemonium in our mobile unit too, but they got both cameras panning the rafters before too many viewers realized what happened."

RAZOR INCIDENT

In 10 years and some 400 fights on the Friday night cauliflower circuit, director Dillon has seen strange sights but non stranger than the gladiator sans trunks.

Only recently at the Van Clay Sonn Ray fight in Philadelphia, some miscreant made off with the razor used in the five nonmaterial, Luckily Dillon, who personally carried the prop down from New York in an attache case, had another razor—his own. And luckily, it was the sponsor's make.

The flatiron show, one of TV's oldest and most durable items, goes into some 10,000,000 homes and untold thousands of saloons which probably would answer "he just left" if any of the rating people called.

Few fans realize it takes a 10-man crew, a 16-page script, three cameras, a mobile unit full of equipment and four extra fighters, standing by for emergency bouts in case of a quick knockout, to stage the weekly event.

"Just don't expect any donation from me when they take up the collection for your cockeye dog!"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If you wander up around the Fair Grounds and into the cool recesses of its ground-level accommodations these cool autumn days you will hear the whack of leather on leather and possibly the thud of leather on flesh.

You'll see a bevy of athletic young men, some wearing headgear, others shadow-boxing, yet others trying to thump the stuffing out of a punching bag and a chosen few undergoing the keen scrutiny of coaches and trainers.

You'll be welcomed by genial Jack Fitzgerald and his cohorts and made to feel at home, for they like to see visitors at the daily and nightly workouts of the members of the Belleville Boxing Club.

"Not mentioning any names," laughed Jack, "but I know a few guys with protruding paunches and excess weight in other spots who could get rid of a lot of it by working out here."

Fitzgerald was serious. He said it was the clubs intention to throw the gym and facilities open to a limited number of men who want exercise and would like to reduce. A nominal sum would be charged for the services.

He added it might be a good idea for some of the senior hockey players to take advantage of the training facilities. "In fact," he said, "two of them are already exercising here. And one would look a lot better in the club and the membership dues, which isn't very much, and which would help us pay for some of the equipment."

In the meantime the training "camp" is a beehive of activity. For the "big night" for a lot of the padded-glove gladiators is next Monday when they tangle with some of the best amateurs of the province.

Fitzgerald, George Polmanier and Jim Totten are working hard getting their young proteges in shape for what looks like one of the best cards in years. Most of the visiting firemen next Monday have fine ring reputations and Fitzgerald and company anticipate one of the liveliest fight-filled evenings in the history of the club.

Headlining the card is a 147-pound class bout between the ace flinger of the Belleville Boxing Club, Jack (Kid) Lucas, and Jerry Lucas of the St. Mary's Boxing Club of Hamilton. And thereby hangs a tale. "Rocky" must needs be at the peak of form for this Jerry is a fighter of no mean repute.

If you read the papers the other day you saw where LeRoy won the amateur featherweight championship of Ontario on a technical knockout at Gerry McEachern of Toronto. McEachern, unbeaten in fifteen starts became incensed when referee Tony Brandino stopped the fight to save him further punishment.

McEachern charged across the ring as the referee raised LeRoy's arm as victor, threw a right that floored the victor then slugged the official. His seconds grabbed him before he could do any further damage.

So it would seem Rocky will have his hands full. However, he is training faithfully and hard and will be fit and ready for whatever faces him next Monday night.

Second billing goes young Barry Parsons, promising young 150-pounder go against classy Freddie Richardson of the Oshawa A.C. Parsons was defeated his last time out but is intends to wipe that one out on Monday. This bout, too, should be a dandy.

But what threatens to take the glamor out of the billed main bout is the tussle between Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa and Johnny Bay of St. Mary's Boxing Club, Hamilton. These scrappy 138-pounders put up a grand battle the last time they appeared here when Bay pulled out a close verdict over the Irisher. O'Reilly, however, felt he should have won and Monday's mixer between the pair looms up as one for the kill.

Making his first appearance under the Belleville club colors is Howard "Muggy" Dean, who battles classy Junior White of Oshawa in a 140-pound class scrap. White is a fine young boxer, and Dean might have his hands full. However, the club "brass" says he shows fine promise, is training hard and will give the Oshawan the fight of his life.

Four other bouts round out an attractive card for the show scheduled for Memorial Arena starting 8.30.

TWO WORLD MARKS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians claimed two more world walking records Wednesday. Mikhail Lavrov stepped 30 miles over a cinder track in four hours, two minutes, 4.8 seconds, bettering the mark of 4:12:32.4 set by T. Moc of Czechoslovakia in 1956. Lavrov also was reported to have walked 31 kilometers (21 miles, 120½ yards) in 4:11:18.6, bettering the record of 4:21:07, also credited to Moc.

Indians May Have Double Funeral; Braves Close In

White Sox Are Virtually 'In' Tribe's Manager Ditto Out; Lew Burdette Blanks Giants

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

All signs point to a gala pennant - clinching celebration this weekend by Chicago White Sox in the friendly surroundings of Comiskey Park.

Cleveland's hopes fade dully. If the White Sox don't win, the Indians oblige by losing.

The magic number now is three for the White Sox to win their first American League championship since 1919. Any combination of three Chicago victories and Cleveland defeats would eliminate all mathematical doubt.

Nothing can be done today because the league has an open date. But the White Sox could assure themselves of no worse than a tie Friday if they beat Detroit Tigers and Kansas City Athletics defeat Cleveland.

GAMBLE SHOOTOUT

The White Sox, who gained ground Wednesday while losing 3-1 to New York Yankees, lead by 5½ games with only seven to play.

The big question, with the Indians, who lost 6-5 to Boston Red Sox Wednesday, seems to be not the pennant but whether general manager Frank Lane is entitled to second guess manager Joe Gordon.

The last round went to Gordon but Lane is the boss. He points because he is the referee and judge who will pass final decision on 1960 plans. And he has indicated that there will be a new manager next year unless Indians win the pennant.

Early Wynn appeared to be rolling toward his 21st victory at Yankee Stadium with a 1-0 lead going into the ninth. The Yanks, however, kicked up their heels for three runs in the ninth to win behind rookie Jim Coates' four-hitter.

LONG OWN GRAVE

Wynn helped dig his own grave when he mishandled a bunt by Bobby Richardson opening the ninth. A walk to Mickey Mantle and singles by Yogi Berra, Hector Lopez and Hank Bauer then produced the three runs.

Cleveland blew leads of 2-0 and 5-3 as Boston came back to tie it twice with two in the seventh inning and then a three-run rally in the eighth. The Red Sox finally won it in the last of the ninth.

Gary Bell gave way to Jim Perry, 20-game winner, in the closing inning. He went into the inning with a three-run lead and a three-hitter.

Detroit recaptured fourth place from Baltimore Orioles by downing the Orioles 2-1 in a night game behind Don Mossi and Tom Morgan. The Tigers trail the Baltimore Orioles by one game.

Westminster player to catch Wootton's eye.

"Cliff Speik — he scored 82 points in the regular season, second only to Blonda—is very efficient," said Moon. "And so is Jack Barclay, Speik's linemate."

Mercurys came out of the game with only two minor injuries. Ray Wood injured his left ankle and Art Bailey aggravated an ankle injury suffered during workouts prior to the series start. Both will dress tonight.

Coach Jake Proler of New Westminster said little about his team's chances in the series.

"It's far from over", he said. "However Cyclones are expected here to win the series in six games. It would be their 14th Mann Cup victory and Dominion title, a record.

Rough Riders Maul Argos; Cats Clobber Alouettes

Clair Crew Takes Revenge With Crushing 28-1 Defeat; Hamilton Had Edge All Way

By BEN WARD

It was revenge night in Big Four football.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats jumped back into undisputed league leadership Wednesday night with a 28-13 win over Montreal Alouettes, the club that handed the cats their first defeat of the season Saturday, 37-31.

Ottawa Rough Riders wreaked vengeance on Toronto Argonauts, who had beaten them twice before this season, with a crushing 28-1 decision. A crowd of 22,000 saw fullback Dave Thelen score a record-tying four touchdowns.

The night's results gave Tiger-Cats five wins and a loss. Montreal is second with four wins and two losses, Toronto third on two wins and four defeats, and Ottawa fifth with one win in six tries.

THIRD RECORD CROWD

A record 26,128—the third record turnout this season at Hamilton's Civic Stadium — saw Tiger-cats get off to an easily lead and hold a good scoring edge all the way. Montreal didn't have a single point scoring threat in the first half of the game.

Bernie Faloney and Tom Dublinski alternated at quarter for Hamilton to keep Montreal off balance and the strategy worked fine.

Steve Oseschuk kicked a single and later converted Tommy Grant's touchdown for an 8-0 Hamilton lead in the first quarter. Grant took a 10-yard pass from Dublinski and ran 35 yards to score, neatly shaking off an Alouette tackler.

It was 15-0 at the half after Ron Howell hauled in a Faloney chuk toward the convert.

Cam Fraser kicked a single for Ticats to open third-quarter scoring. Ed Learn put Montreal on the scoreboard when he intercepted a Faloney throw and scampered 30 yards for the touchdown. The convert try was no good.

Quarterback Sam Etcheverry of Als was trapped in his own end zone and pulled down by John Barrow for a two-point safety touch one second before the third quarter ended.

The clubs traded converted touchdowns in the final 15 minutes. Dublinski handed the ball off to halfback Gerry McDougall who burst through the centre of the Montreal line and went 75 yards to score. Oseschuk converted.

Etcheverry rifled a pass into the end zone with Red O'Quinn waiting to gobble it up. Bill Bewley clicked on the convert.

Als missed several golden scoring chances in the closing minutes when they failed to fumble defensive squad knocked down seven Etcheverry passes.

At Ottawa the Riders had Argos handcuffed all the way with Thelen, unbeatable and the adept ball-handling of Canadian quarter Jimmy Jackson tearing the Toronto line to shreds.

Thelen, whose four touchdowns raised the individual scoring record for a single Big Four game, carried the ball 22 times for 171 yards. The Ottawa team posted an impressive 364 yards, a terrific Toronto managed only 69.

The rest of the Rider scoring came on three converts by Gary Schreiber and a single kicked by Ottawa halfback Ken Preston. Jackson late in the final quarter and threw an effective aerial attack at Argos.

FIRST-QUARTER ROUGE

Argos' points were scored in the first quarter when quarterback Gerry Doucette, who came up with a unbeatable offensive pattern, kicked from the Ottawa 25 and the ball ricocheted off the legs of Rider Davey West. Argos rouged West behind the goal line.

Rookie import Johnny Green was credited by Doucette with "a hell of a kick" — a 50-yard punt that failed to get anywhere against the hustling Riders who looked like anything but a club which had lost five in a row.

Saturday the Riders get another chance to show their newly-found scoring punch when they visit Montreal. Sunday afternoon Ticats are at Toronto.

Oshawa Ousts Juveniles In Second Game

Oshawa Clansmen eliminated a short-handed Belleville Bobcat Juvenile squad from the OASA Juvenile "A" playdowns in Oshawa last night by trimming the visitors 8-3 in the second game of their series.

Bobcats broke a scoreless tie with two runs in the top of the fourth in a game played in bone chilling temperatures. Oshawa won the contest with single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth, plus a pair of insurance markers in the eighth.

The only near accident on the way to Oshawa delayed four of the five regular Bobcat infielders who did not arrive until the sixth inning. Catcher Dick Clapp, second baseman Rocky Ethier and the first and third baseman, Bob and Gerry Duggan, were the late arrivals. Coach Frank Cris had nine players ready to start the game and was forced to use two pitchers in the outfield. No one was injured in the accident.

Smooth-burling Danny Peters stopped the Bobcats on four hits over the route. He fired third strikes by 14 batters and walked only two.

Sonny Holoway also threw good ball on the losers' mound, but touched for seven hits over the distance. He whiffed seven and passed six.

The Cats scored their runs when Morgan and Muirhead hit safely, the latter scored the first plate on a throwing error during a rundown play that followed.

Stu Muirhead had a double and scored on a single in the first half of the Belleville hits. Doug Morgan and Pete Weston also hit safely.

Burke smashed a home run with none on and a double to spark the Oshawa attack. Young had a double and single and Fegan a triple. Mann and Sibbick had one-baggers.

Oshawa Eliminates Juniors, Game Marred By Near-Riot

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Lloyd's Clansmen booted out of the OASA Junior "A" playdowns in Oshawa last night when they dropped the third game of their series with Oshawa Legion 12-3 in a game marred by a near-riot.

The trouble started when Belleville first baseman Billy Moore was ejected from the game by base umpire Bill McKissock in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Moore was heckled by several fans near the Oshawa bench on the way to the dressing rooms. The fans came down when the player returned their taunts and Belleville fans standing near by also got in on the action. Fists-cuffs followed with players from both teams rushing to the area. Followers of the two clubs mixed it up in several wrestling matches but no serious damage occurred. One Oshawa player received a bloody lip from the fray and threatened to use it if the Belleville players did not keep their distance. Umpire Clarke Jeffs also played his role in the fracas and gave both teams two minutes to return to the field, although it never was made clear just which team would have been awarded the decision if Barnes had called the contest.

Belleville got off to a bad start in the first frame when they gave Oshawa four gift runs after taking a 1-0 lead. They never did recover as Oshawa coached Quinte squad.

Larry Scales gave up 11 safeties on the losers' hilltop. He struck out eight and walked three, all in his last final inning. Opposite port afield hurt his cause with four errors proving costly to his mates. Oshawa errors never did cause much trouble after the initial frame.

Ted Whitely with a brace of two-run singles proved one of the Oshawa club's top stickers while Ed Westfall and Lynn Middleton also had two hits apiece. Gary Cooper and Dave Campbell had doubles while one-baggers went to Lucky Wills, Gerry Hill and Danny Grey.

Larry Mavety collected half of Belleville's four singles, Jackie Elliott and Glen Clarke bagging the other pair.

Grey walked the first two men he faced to open the game with Elliott racing all the way around to score on a pair of errors on the same play. A third error put another man on but Grey fanned two to kill the rally.

Belleville never got a hit until Mavety beat out an infield play in the seventh and took second on an error. A walk and Elliott's line single followed but one man was cut down at the plate, two walks and Mavety's hit got one for the losers in the eighth while an error, walks and Clarke's single plated their third run tally.

An error, three walks, a misplayed fielders' choice and hits by Westfall and Whitely won the game for Oshawa in the first inning. Whitely singled across two more in—the fifth while an error, single and passed ball added one in the sixth.

An error and hits by Gray, Wills and Cooper gave Oshawa's final trio in the seventh inning.

LANDES STILL OUT

NEW YORK K'(AP) — Jim Landis, centre fielder of the pennant-bound Chicago White Sox will not return to action this weekend as had been expected. The infection in his right leg did not respond to treatment as quickly as anticipated.

Rangers Thump Indians 8-2

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Showing too much fire-power and with a decided edge in the set, the Toronto Rangers of the International Hockey League handed their farmhand Springfield Indians an 8-2 exhibition game here and Tommorrow (Thursday) night before 1,000 fans in Stamford Memorial Arena.

Wilmers over Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in Peterborough Tuesday night, the Rangers showed no ill effects as they rolled to a 6-0 first-period lead and were never headed. Left winger Jim Bartlett led New York with two goals and two assists, all in the first period.

Gump Worsley, in goal for New York, was the big difference as he made many outstanding saves while Marcel Pailis for Springfield was shaky.

Other Rangers' scorers were Ken Schinkel, Red Sullivan, Earl Ingarfield, Camille Henry, Larry Cahan and Andy Hebenton.

Ed Hockstra and Parker Macdonald got the Springfield goals.

Minor Soccer

The Belleville Minor Soccer League was unable to complete the schedule last weekend with Northern, the first-place finishers, handing Westerners a 3-1 defeat.

The final standing shows Northern in first with 11 points, followed by United with 7, Cornwall 5, Stars 3 and Bata-wa with two.

This was the first time a summer league has been formed here and it proved a very successful undertaking. Seven clubs of boys took part, ranging from 11 to 15 years of age. A number of them will be playing again in the fall league which will be starting shortly.

Among those who capably handled the league affairs was chairman Bob Blair, coaches Les Digby, Dan Wilson, Joe Smits and their assistant coaches. All the referees, who gave freely of their time, and Jerry DeGroot, who looked after public relations.

Machen Wins Over Besmanoff In Dull Bout

PORTLAND Ore. (AP) — Eddie Machen, fourth - ranking contender for the world heavyweight boxing title, Wednesday night reached up his sixth straight victory by scoring a unanimous decision over Willi Besmanoff of Germany in a dull, tolerated 10-round bout.

Machen, of Portland, weighed 204 and Besmanoff 189½.

The defeat snapped German-born Besmanoff's latest victory streak at three.

The bout was fought mostly at close quarters and marred by frequent clinches. There were no knockdowns.

The victory boosted Machen's won-lost-tied record to 30-3-1. His only defeat was the one-round knockout loss to Sweden's Ingemar Johansson last September before the Swede wrested the world heavyweight title from Floyd Patterson.

Besmanoff's defeat was his 16th. He has won 41 bouts.
